

First Love 179

Chapter 179 Chairman's Wife

At this time, Qiuyan thought that her goal was about to be achieved. She was full of confidence in the future. She could legitimately become the wife of a chairman. Qiuyan began to fantasize about her life after becoming the wife of the chairman.

She closed her eyes and began to imagine herself wearing those gorgeous and exquisite clothes, walking on the bustling streets, and attending various high-end social events.

She saw herself dancing gracefully at a luxurious banquet and chatting happily with celebrities from all walks of life; she saw herself showing off her unique taste at a fashion party and becoming the focus of the audience; she saw herself donating generously at a charity dinner and winning everyone's admiration and praise.

At this time, Qiuyan's eyes began to shine, and she scanned the various brand-name bags and clothes around her, her eyes flashing with excitement and greed. She couldn't wait to wear these expensive items to make herself more fashionable and eye-catching.

She carefully selected each piece of clothing, trying to find the style and size that best suited her. She tried on different styles of dresses, shirts and coats, looking at herself in the mirror and imagining how she would look in them. She also selected several exquisite handbags and high heels, hoping to match the perfect overall look.

While choosing, Qiuyan secretly felt lucky that she had the opportunity to come to such a high-end place to shop. She felt that this was the moment to change her destiny. As long as she could own these brand-name clothes, she could become the focus of everyone's attention and get rid of her past poor life.

Seeing Qiuyan's constant changes, Jinlan reminded Wang Kun several times, "Son, we are not very rich yet. When you have money, you must remember that when you are in trouble, Qiuyan seems to have changed now."

"Ma Qiuyan's change is indeed a good thing and a matter of course. After all, she has become my chairman's wife, and her identity and status have changed dramatically. She is no longer the poor teacher from the countryside, but a person with noble status and wealth. Such a transformation is both a challenge and an opportunity for her."

However, Qiuyan did not realize that deep in her heart she was still full of vanity and inferiority.

During this period, Wang Kun also felt that although Lizhen had left him and his career was not as smooth as before, his emotions had developed rapidly.

It turned out that Wang Kun always felt that Lizhen was a student from a prestigious university, while he himself was not even from a regular university. He always felt that he could not hold his head up in front of Lizhen and always felt that he was inferior to her.

Although Qiuyan can't help him with his career now, emotionally, she listens to him and they are in love with each other, affectionate, gentle and considerate. He also feels that in front of Qiuyan, he can stand up straighter, speak louder, and hold his head high, full of energy.

"What's wrong with my wife? Did something happen to you?" After they were intimate that day, Wang Kun noticed that Qiuyan was in a bad mood and looked sad.

"Honey, I'm sorry. When I wanted to divorce him, he refused to do so. He asked me for 100 million yuan in alimony. I agreed to that in order to get a divorce as soon as possible. Now the deadline for paying alimony has arrived, but you know I haven't had a job for more than a year. Where would I get the money?" She spoke with a shy look on her face and pretended to wipe away her tears. She looked pitiful and distressing.

"Hey, I thought it was not a big deal. A problem that a wife can solve with money is not a problem. Don't say that your husband is rich now, so the alimony should be given. 100 million is a small problem. Just ask your husband for it." Wang Kun hugged Qiuyan tightly into his warm arms.

He comforted her gently: "Don't be afraid, I'm here!" He gently stroked Qiuyan's soft and smooth hair, as if telling her that everything would be fine.

Qiuyan felt Wang Kun's care and love, and her mood gradually calmed down. She raised her head slightly, looked at Wang Kun's handsome and charming face, and a warm feeling surged in her heart.

"Thank you..." Qiuyan said softly, tears of gratitude flashing in her eyes.

Wang Kun smiled and shook his head, "Silly girl, why are you saying thank you to me? As long as you are happy." He patted Qiuyan's back gently, making her feel extremely relieved.

It turned out that Qiuyan had never dared to tell Wang Kun about the child support. She wanted to save the money secretly and give it to her ex-husband when she had enough. She didn't expect that Wang Kun not only didn't tell her, but also gave her the money so generously. She was ecstatic.

Qiuyan now feels that she is the happiest woman in the world. Wang Kun is not only rich, but also loves her very much.

They just hugged each other quietly, enjoying the rare tranquility and warmth of this moment. Time seemed to freeze at this moment, and the whole world was left with only the two of them, relying on and supporting each other.

She longs to fill her inner emptiness with external material things, but this pursuit will only make her lose herself more and more. Only by truly realizing her own value and meaning can she find her true happiness and satisfaction.

These scenes made her feel extremely excited and proud, as if she was already in that world full of charm and luxury.

However, she also realized that to truly become the chairman's wife, she still had to face many challenges and difficulties.

Especially Wang Kun's mother Jin Lan, she has never recognized him. Although her attitude towards him has softened a little recently, she still cannot completely trust him.

This made Wang Jing feel very helpless and troubled. She didn't know how to really win Jinlan's trust and acceptance. Every time she got along with Jinlan, she could feel the other party's suspicion and indifference, as if everything she did was wrong.

This feeling made her very depressed, as if she was a superfluous person and unable to have a real connection and resonance with this family.

She began to doubt whether she could really fit in and become a member of this family. Every time she tried to get closer to them, she was always blocked by an invisible barrier, which made her feel extremely lost and lonely.

But sometimes Qiuyan also thought about how good Wang Kun was to her, how he would take good care of her when she was sick, how he would always listen to her troubles and confusions patiently, and would give her the most gentle comfort and encouragement...

Every time this happened, she felt much more excited and very happy.

Qiuyan began to become arrogant slowly, thinking that she was about to become the chairman's wife. However, after Wang Kun took her to a banquet attended by various chairmen and their wives, her arrogance was dampened.