

First Love 191

Chapter 191 The Inescapable Curse

The sudden change scared Qiuyan and the others. The car body was deformed and Qiuyan and others were injured. The one sitting at the driver's seat was the most seriously injured. Since her side was closest to the large container, the car was most severely deformed. She was trapped in the narrow gap between the two cars and could not move.

When rescuers arrived at the scene, they found the situation was very critical because her body was stuck tightly.

The firefighters took action quickly, but due to the small space, conventional rescue methods were not feasible at all. They had to call on advanced mechanized equipment to rescue her.

After a lot of hard work, they finally pulled her out of the seam of the car. However, due to the long-term squeezing and tension, she passed out on the spot.

One of them hit her head and blood was flowing down her forehead, staining her cheeks and clothes red, but she was the one with the least injuries; the other one injured a leg and broke the bone, and the pain made her face pale, sweat rolled down, and she was unable to stand.

However, at this moment, an accident happened. An out-of-control car suddenly rushed over and collided violently with their car. It all happened so suddenly that Qiuyan had no time to react. The huge impact made her eyes go black and she lost consciousness.

When Qiuyan woke up again, she was already in the hospital. She felt severe pain all over her body, as if her bones were falling apart. She tried to open her eyes and found herself lying on a hospital bed, wrapped in bandages and with tubes inserted.

After the hospital examination, Qiuyan's cervical vertebrae were dislocated, the lumbar vertebrae and femoral head were broken, and the right leg was broken. She realized that she had been in a car accident, but she knew nothing about the specific circumstances.

She didn't know why she had a car accident, nor did she know what happened at the time. She only remembered that she was hit by a car and then lost consciousness. Now, she can only lie in bed, waiting for the doctor's treatment and rehabilitation plan.

Qiuyan tried to recall the moments before the accident, but her mind came up blank.

She only remembered that she was in the car when she suddenly heard a loud noise and the car shook violently. The sound was as deafening as thunder and stunned her instantly. Her heart was beating violently, as if it was about to jump out of her throat.

At this moment, there was a loud bang, followed by a powerful impact from behind. This force was like a ferocious beast, hitting their car mercilessly and knocking it forward.

Her body swayed from side to side as the car shook violently, as if she had lost control.

His head hit the car window hard, making a dull "bang" sound, and he felt a sharp pain immediately.

Her vision was blurry and her ears were buzzing. She tried to stay awake, but soon lost consciousness...

When Wang Kun rushed to the hospital where Qiuyan was staying, Qiuyan slowly opened her eyes, her eyes were a little blurry. When her vision gradually became clear and she saw that the person standing beside the bed was Wang Kun, tears instantly welled up in her eyes. She couldn't control her emotions, and tears flowed down like a flood.

Seeing this, Wang Kun hurriedly picked up a pack of tissues from the table, took out a piece, and gently wiped the tears from Qiuyan's eyes. His movements were gentle and careful, for fear of hurting Qiuyan.

"Why are you crying like this?" Wang Kun asked softly, his tone full of concern and heartache. He gently stroked Qiuyan's cheek, trying to comfort her with his warm touch.

Qiuyan choked up and replied, "I'm afraid... afraid that I'll never see you again." Her voice trembled a little, as if she had used up all her strength to say every word.

Wang Kun quickly comforted her: "Don't think too much. The doctor said that as long as you cooperate with the treatment, you will recover and be discharged from the hospital soon." He held Qiuyan's hand, giving her strength and confidence.

Qiuyan nodded slightly, indicating that she believed Wang Kun's words, but tears still flashed in her eyes. Wang Kun wiped her tears with a tissue again and encouraged her, saying, "Be strong, we will get through this difficult time together."

"I'll go out for a while and buy some daily necessities." Qiuyan had no choice but to nod.

Wang Kun walked out of the ward, looking forward with a serious expression, as if thinking about something important. He did not stay for too long and walked straight towards the corridor of the hospital.

Arriving at the door of an office, he knocked gently, and after hearing a voice from inside asking for someone to come in, he pushed the door open and walked in. Sitting in the office was a middle-aged man in a white coat, who was the attending physician here.

Seeing Wang Kun come in, he smiled and nodded.

"Doctor, I am Qiuyan's family member. How is she now?" Wang Kun asked anxiously.

The attending doctor was silent for a moment, then slowly said: "The patient's condition is not optimistic. Her cervical vertebrae are dislocated, her lumbar vertebrae are broken, and the main bone of her right lower leg is cracked. Depending on the treatment, she may be left with serious sequelae."

Hearing this news, Wang Kun's heart sank to the bottom. He couldn't accept this fact, especially the situation of the company during this period. Thinking of Qiuyan's situation, Wang Kun felt that the world suddenly became dark and gloomy.

He walked to the bench in the hospital corridor and sat down. With trembling hands, he took out a cigarette and a lighter from his pocket. After lighting the cigarette, he took a deep breath and then slowly exhaled the smoke, as if he wanted to exhale all the worries in his heart.

He looked into the distance at the sky. The endless blue made him feel a sense of peace, but at the same time it also made him realize how small and powerless he was.

He took a long breath, trying to relax his tense nerves.

However, he knew that this was only a temporary escape. As a man, he couldn't stay immersed in pain. He needed to be strong and face the reality.

Life has to go on, and there are still many things waiting for him to deal with.

Despite the pain and helplessness in his heart, he still told himself to stay calm. He clenched his fists tightly, digging his nails deep into his palms to remind himself not to give up easily.

He knew that he had a responsibility, and that he had an obligation to cheer up, both to his family and to his friends.

He took a deep breath and looked up at the sky again, with a determined light in his eyes.

He is determined to let go of the sadness of the past and bravely meet the challenges of the future. No matter how difficult the road ahead is, he will go on firmly and become the person who is worthy of reliance.

He took a deep breath, thanked the attending doctor, and turned to leave. When he returned to the door of the ward, he stopped and looked at Qiuyan on the bed through the glass on the door.

She lay there quietly, her face as pale as paper, her body full of various tubes and instruments, and she looked extremely weak.

Wang Kun stood quietly outside the door, silently praying that Qiuyan would recover soon. He knew it was just a luxury, but he still hoped that a miracle would happen.

At this moment, he could only wait for time to pass and look forward to the arrangement of fate...

At this time he thought of Lizhen. He felt very lucky to have met Lizhen. At that time, everything they did went so smoothly. He began to believe in fate...
