

First Love 192

Chapter 192 The Power of Love

When Wang Kun heard the doctor's explanation of Qiuyan's injury history, he was struck by such a change in his family as if it were a bolt from the blue. The company had been on the verge of bankruptcy for the past year, and now he had encountered such a misfortune, which was like a heavy hammer that almost knocked him down.

Wang Kun felt that his world collapsed in an instant. He leaned weakly against the wall, his heart filled with despair and helplessness.

However, at this most difficult moment, Wang Kun realized that he could not fall down, he had to be strong and fight for Qiuyan and their family.

He took a deep breath, straightened his back, and decided to re-examine the company's situation and find solutions to the problems.

In the following days, Wang Kun devoted all his energy and time to trying to save the company while taking care of the injured Qiuyan.

Although the road is bumpy, he firmly believes that as long as he persists, he will be able to overcome the difficulties.

At this time, his cell phone rang. It was his mother calling. Only then did he realize that he was only concerned about Qiuyan's injury and didn't think of calling his mother. "Kunkun, is your wife injured? How is she now?"

"Mom," Wang Kun called out, his throat choked with sobs and he couldn't speak.

"What's wrong? Is my son's condition serious?" When Jin Lan heard Wang Kun's crying voice, she immediately felt the seriousness of the matter. Her heart throbbed and she secretly groaned in her heart.

"Qiuyan is injured." He originally wanted to tell his mother how serious Qiuyan's injury was, but Wang Kun still held back and did not tell his mother the truth.

"Is it serious? Where are you injured?"

"My waist and legs are injured, but it's okay." He wanted to tell his mother all the details of his injuries, but he was afraid that she would worry.

"Oh" Jinlan sighed deeply. She was afraid to ask further, but she still thought her son must be very sad.

After careful consideration, Wang Kun finally realized that it was now a matter of life and death, and only a desperate battle could save this company that was on the verge of bankruptcy.

He knew it would be an arduous battle, but he also knew that if he didn't do this, the company would be doomed to failure. So he decided to go all out and fight at all costs!

He sold his stocks and real estate without hesitation and invested all his funds into the company, determined to carry out a thorough and bold reform.

This move undoubtedly demonstrated his firm confidence in the company's development and his determination to go all out. He knew that this reform was a vital step for the company, but he did not back down and moved forward resolutely.

At the same time, he made full use of his personal connections, traveling around and working tirelessly to find the best medical team.

Through unremitting efforts and coordination with multiple parties, he finally succeeded in obtaining the most professional and advanced medical services for Qiuyan. This team brings together the elites in the industry, who are experienced and skilled, and can provide Qiuyan with a full range of accurate diagnosis and personalized treatment plans.

Thinking of this, he thought of Qiuyan who was lying on the hospital bed. Although she was a little too much, if she hadn't come out this time, such a thing would never have happened.

Wang Kun couldn't help but think of Lizhen at this time. Now he thought that he was so sorry for her. There was a world of difference between Qiuyan and Lizhen. In the past, she was the one who proposed every major decision. Every time when Wang Kun wanted to retreat, Lizhen was always the first to stand up and encourage him.

It was because of Lizhen's support and trust that Wang Kun was able to move forward with confidence. He was filled with emotion, thinking that if Lizhen had not been by his side, he might have given up long ago.

But now, their progress is so slow. Not only can Qiuyan not help, but she also had a car accident. No wonder the mother looked at her son with anxiety, so she reminded him again: "Son, you have to know that Qiuyan will not help you at all, and may even hold you back!"

These words were like a heavy hammer, hitting Wang Kun's heart hard.

He stared at his mother with eyes wide open in disbelief, and the words kept echoing in his mind. He couldn't help but think of every bit of his time with Qiuyan, and his heart was full of contradictions and confusion.

On the one hand, he had deep feelings for Qiuyan; on the other hand, his mother's words made him fall into deep thought.

He began to doubt whether he really understood Qiuyan and whether he could trust her. This uncertainty made him feel extremely anxious, as if an invisible hand was tightly grasping his heart, making it difficult for him to breathe.

Wang Kun sat there silently, his brows furrowed and his eyes confused. He didn't know how to face this sudden situation, nor how to deal with the relationship with Qiuyan.

His mother's words were like a warning bell, echoing in his ears and making him more and more confused.

But now, the most important thing for Qiuyan is to heal her injuries first. This is the most important thing. After all, people still have to pay attention to conscience and morality when living in the world, and they can't do those ungrateful things!

Thinking of this, Wang Kun immediately went to the supermarket to buy some daily necessities and rushed to the ward.

Qiuyan was lying on the hospital bed, enduring the pain all over her body, waiting for Wang Kun to come back soon to accompany her, but no matter how she looked around, Wang Kun had not come back yet.

When people are at their most vulnerable, they always hope to get comfort and care from others, especially the company and encouragement from their loved ones. However, at this moment, she felt extremely lonely and lost, because Wang Kun had been away for a long time and still hadn't come back.

She couldn't help but begin to doubt whether he really loved her and whether he would abandon her.

These questions spread in her heart like poisonous weeds, causing her immense pain.

Whenever she thought of him, she would feel a strong sense of uneasiness and fear, as if the whole world was about to collapse. She tried to prove in various ways that his love for her was real, but no matter what she did, she could not eliminate the doubts deep in her heart.

She began to become more and more sensitive, and began to doubt his every move. She began to fear losing him, and even dared not imagine what she would do if he left her one day. This anxiety and fear gradually eroded her heart and plunged her into deep pain.

She felt like a lonely traveler, lost in the darkness, unable to find a way out. However, she did not give up hope. She believed that Wang Kun would not give up on her, and she believed that Wang Kun cherished her.

Although she was filled with pain and doubt, she still believed that the power of love could overcome all difficulties. She decided to face her heart bravely and try to understand his thoughts and feelings.

"Honey, I'm back. Look what delicious food I bought for you." Just as Qiuyan was daydreaming, Wang Kun's call of "wife" dispelled all her thoughts and concerns.

"Where have you been, husband? I thought you wouldn't come back and you didn't want me anymore." Qiuyan was already in tears when she said this.

"What are you thinking, dear? Is your husband such an ungrateful person?" Wang Kun immediately picked up the paper on the table and wiped the tears from Qiuyan's face.

"I just went to see the attending doctor to ask about your condition and where you were injured."

"What did the doctor say? Did he say that I can't be cured?" Qiuyan thought about the pain all over her body and wondered if she could not be cured.

"What are you thinking? The doctor said you will recover soon. Don't worry and cooperate with the doctor's treatment."

"Yeah" Qiuyan stopped crying.

"Don't worry, honey. I will cure you no matter how much it costs!" After Wang Kun said this, he held Qiuyan's hand tightly, as if he wanted to pass all his strength and determination to her.

His eyes were firm and gentle, revealing endless love and care.

Qiuyan felt the warmth and comfort from her husband, and tears of emotion flashed in her eyes. She nodded gently, expressing her trust and reliance on her husband. Although the illness made her physically weak, her heart was full of hope and courage at this moment.

Wang Kun looked at Qiuyan deeply, his eyes full of pity and heartache. He knew his wife was going through pain and torture, but he was willing to accompany her through every difficult moment. He would do his best to find the best medical resources and treat Qiuyan's illness at all costs.

Their hands held tighter, and their affection for each other grew stronger. In this difficult time, they supported each other and faced it together, believing that the power of love could overcome everything. No matter how rough the road ahead was, they would move forward hand in hand and never give up.

"Well, I believe in your husband. I will cooperate with the doctor." Qiuyan felt Wang Kun's love at this time. She felt as if the injuries on her body were no longer so painful...