

First Love 50

Chapter 50 Marriage

"Mother-in-law, I want us to arrange their marriage before Lizhen's belly becomes apparent." When Lizhen's mother and she went to the supermarket together that day, she suddenly remembered to propose to Jinlan.

"Yes, I think so too. Now we all feel sorry for Lizhen, but I don't know what the children think," Jinlan said very humbly.

"We are a well-known and respected family in the local area. We have many relatives and friends at home. They don't say anything about us, but we can't let our children be criticized in the back," said Lizhen's mother, with an embarrassed look on her face.

"Mother-in-law, don't be sad. I will discuss it with Wang Kun. We don't want Lizhen to make things difficult for you." Jin Lan also understood Lizhen's mother's feelings.

"Okay, I'll leave this matter to my mother-in-law. I also know that Wang Kun is a filial child and he listens to you the most." After saying these words, Li Zhen's mother felt much better, because this matter had been like a huge stone pressing on her heart for a long time. She thought Wang Kun's family should bring it up, but they didn't say a word.

"Dear relative, please don't say that. We were the ones who brought up this matter first. It's our fault." Jin Lan spoke very sincerely.

No matter if it's family or relatives, everyone should speak out openly about anything. Don't keep things in your heart and let them rot in your stomach. If you don't say it out loud, how can others know what you are thinking? Everyone should speak out, communicate with each other, and trust each other. When things are talked out, you will feel better and be happier.

"Wow, mom, the food you guys cooked smells so good." As soon as they entered the door, the aroma of the food hit their noses, making Lizhen and Wang Kun drool.

"You're back. Go wash your hands and have dinner. Are you hungry?" When Lizhen's mother saw her daughter and her friends coming back, she immediately came out to greet them in the kitchen. She and Wang Kun's mother were in a particularly good mood today because they had expressed their feelings to each other. They talked and laughed, discussed things, and made a lot of delicious food for them when they came back.

When Lizhen saw the dishes on the table, the aroma of the dishes wafted into her nose, arousing her taste buds. She was so greedy that her saliva was flowing. She did not even bother to wash her hands and hurriedly picked up the chopsticks on the table and started eating.

"Child, you haven't washed your hands yet. Now you're married, but you're still as greedy as a child." Seeing Lizhen's greedy and hungry look, her mother was happy and angry. She couldn't help but raise her hand and pretend to hit her.

"Mom, mom, you know I'm married now. I have a husband to protect me now. You can't hit me like before. My husband will be heartbroken if you hurt me, hahaha." Lizhen ate the food on the table while giggling, pretending to hide her mother's raised hand.

"Look how happy you are. Even the baby in your belly is laughing at you. You are a mom who hasn't grown up yet. How are you going to educate me in the future?" Seeing Lizhen so happy, Wang Kun was infected and started to laugh too. The whole family started to laugh too. Wang Kun watched everyone having fun. He thought to himself, how nice it would be if such a happy family could be happy like this every day. He wouldn't be caught between them and suffer.

"The dishes are ready. Let's take them out and eat." Jin Lan was infected by their laughter when she heard it in the kitchen. She shouted happily.

"What a feast! Is it Chinese New Year today?" Soon, the table was filled with all kinds of delicious food. Wang Kun was surprised to see the table full of food.

"Thank you both moms for your hard work," Lizhen said excitedly while eating.

"If it tastes good, eat more. When you're full, our baby will be full too." Jinlan felt particularly happy seeing Lizhen eating so happily.

"Hahaha" the two mothers and Wang Kun all laughed, and the dining table and the dining room were filled with laughter.

Jin Lan was very happy to see everyone enjoying the meal. She thought that while everyone was here and everyone was so happy, she wanted to talk about the wedding.

"Wang Kun, you see Lizhen has been pregnant for such a long time. Her belly is getting bigger day by day. I think we should find an auspicious day to get the wedding done. This way we can give her an explanation and save Lizhen and her family from having to suffer." After Jin Lan finished speaking, she glanced at Wang Kun and Lizhen to see how they reacted.

Lizhen was stunned when she heard Jinlan's words, with a silly look on her face. She looked at Wang Kun, and Wang Kun immediately blinked in understanding.

People say that when people get along for a long time, especially couples, they will understand each other's meaning even with just a gesture or a look.

"Mom, our factory has received a lot of orders now. Let's talk about it after we are done with this busy period." Wang Kun made a face at Lizhen.

"But Lizhen's belly will get bigger and bigger, and she won't be able to wear a wedding dress in the future."

"It doesn't matter. Since we can't wear a wedding dress, we can just wait until the baby is born and then we can take pictures," Lizhen immediately changed the subject.

"Silly daughter, how will others see you if you behave like this? What will our relatives and friends say about you?" Lizhen's mother said to Lizhen anxiously.

"Mom, what era is this? It's the late 1980s."

"What's wrong with the 1980s? People in the 1980s didn't care about morality and ethics anymore." Lizhen and her mother were arguing with each other.

"Mom, as long as we feel happy, we live our own lives. We don't steal or rob. We live on our own and don't need anyone else's help."

"Lizhen, it's not right for you to say that. Mom is doing this for our own good and for your own good." Wang Kun saw that the mother and daughter were about to quarrel.

"Daughter, a woman gets married only once in her life, and this is the most glorious time for a woman. If you miss it, it will be gone forever." Lizhen's mother seemed particularly angry that her daughter did not listen to her.

"I don't want any glory, I just want Wang Kun to love me. I would rather not have those unrealistic things." Lizhen's words deeply touched Wang Kun. Wang Kun was deeply moved. Lizhen, I will never let you down in this life and will love you well. I will definitely let you live a happy life.

Seeing that Lizhen was so determined, Lizhen's mother had no choice but to go with her. She just sighed deeply.

After Jinlan heard what Lizhen said, she seemed to have just met Lizhen. It turned out that she was the real daughter-in-law of my Wang family. She always considered my Wang family. She thought that I must love her well and treat her like my own daughter.

"Mother-in-law, don't worry. Lizhen cares so much about our Wang family. Although she hasn't gotten married yet, as a mother, I won't make things difficult for her. We will love her like our own daughter.

"I have a good idea for holding a wedding that will satisfy both parties. I wonder if you agree." Lizhen just heard that her mother wanted to hold a wedding for them, and Lizhen suddenly thought of a good idea.

"What solution?" When the whole family heard that Lizhen had a good idea for marriage, they all looked at Lizhen at the same time.
