

First Love 61

Chapter 61 We are not lovers but friends

Today he changed his outfit. Yesterday he wore a suit and tie, and looked like a young man who had just returned from abroad, but today he was wearing jeans, which made him look young, handsome and full of energy.

Seeing Liu Hongliang, Li Zhen's heart sank. "What are you doing here? You think you haven't hurt me enough, now you want my husband to misunderstand me and let me get hurt again?"

"Is that how you look at me? Am I that kind of person? I'm here to do business with you. I have a project that I'm ready to cooperate with you on," Liu Hongliang told Lizhen very sincerely.

Hearing Hongliang say this, Lizhen looked at him with a very puzzled look, as if she didn't believe it was true.

"Why are you looking at me like that? Don't we even have trust in each other as friends? But I can't blame you. It's my mother who disappointed you." Hongliang's eyes were affectionate and he looked in pain.

"Isn't it? Will your mother let you see me? Will she let you give me the business?" Li Zhen's mind immediately flashed the scene where Hongliang's mother came to the school to persuade her to leave Hongliang.

"Girl, I know you are a good girl. Now my son is going abroad. I beg you to leave him and let him study abroad with peace of mind. I know my son likes you and he doesn't want to leave for you. But we have borrowed a lot of money everywhere for him to go abroad. I also know that you like my son very much. Please, for your aunt's sake, let my son go. Auntie, I beg you, do you want him to give up going abroad for you and delay his future? Only if you are willing, I will give you some money." Hongliang's mother begged Lizhen very sincerely, and even shed tears.

In the past few years of reform and opening up, in order to allow a child to go abroad, not only does one have to spend money, but one also has to have certain connections. Without certain connections, even if you have money, you cannot go abroad. Parents who want their son to have a bright future not only spend a lot of money, but also have very strong connections.

When Lizhen saw Hongliang's mother begging her like this, she held back her tears and answered helplessly, "Auntie, don't worry, I don't want your money. I will just leave your son." After saying that, Lizhen ran away quickly and returned to the dormitory and burst into tears.

"I won't blame your mother. She did nothing wrong. She just loves her son so much." Li Zhen couldn't help but burst into tears after she said this.

"I came here with my mother's consent. My mother said you are a good girl and you keep your word. For my future, you left even though it was so painful. When she heard that you were married, she felt very sorry. If you were not married, we could still be together." Hongliang said and shook his head with regret.

When Lizhen heard Hongliang say this, she let out a deep breath, as if she had let out all the thoughts that had been buried in her heart for years, and a long-lost smile immediately appeared on her face.

At this time, Wang Kun had just dealt with something and came out. When he heard what Hong Liang had just said to Li Zhen, he was deeply moved. He now truly felt that he had picked up a great bargain and married a good wife who was so kind from the bottom of her heart.

"Hello." Wang Kun saw Hongliang and walked up to him and shook hands with him in a very gentlemanly manner.

Hongliang looked at Wang Kun and said humorously in front of Lizhen, "Hello, it seems that Lizhen has good vision and made a good choice. I am relieved. But you have to treat her well. If Lizhen is not doing well, I still have a chance. Hahaha, just kidding."

Hearing what Hongliang said, Lizhen felt sweet in her heart.

Lizhen told Wang Kun that she was here to discuss a project with them and told him the purpose of her visit.

"Okay, welcome!" Wang Kun immediately became happy.

"What is the name of your company?"

"Take-off Trade"

"Tengfei Trading" Wang Kun kept repeating the name of this company. It turned out that Tengfei was the leading company in the local area. Generally speaking, companies without a reputation or decades of history could not set foot in their market. Ordinary small enterprises could not even think about it.

Wang Kun's brain was like a thunderclap, and all the joints in his body seemed to be stuck by strong glue and unable to move. He suddenly stared at Hong Liang with wide eyes. Although he was extremely excited and happy in his heart, his handsome face remained unusually calm and no one could notice it.

"Tengfei Trading is so big, can a small factory like ours step into your door?" Wang Kun tested Hongliang.

"Don't worry about that. I have already found out that Lizhen came from Chenguang. Lizhen is their designer and she has already mastered a full set of techniques. My trading company also cooperates with them. I will give you a part of their orders. If you have such courage and your skills are up to standard, I will give you all their orders." Hongliang told him all his plans carefully and without reservation.

"Does your mother agree with this?" Lizhen thought that Hongliang's mother originally did not agree with her marriage to Hongliang, and she was worried that she would object to giving the order to her.

"Haha, don't worry. I came to negotiate with you only with my mother's consent." Hongliang suddenly laughed and told Lizhen, which gave her peace of mind.

When Hongliang came back, he went to check what Lizhen had been doing over the years. When he found out that Lizhen had started her own business making mobile phone parts, he was very excited. It turned out that Hongliang's family was in the mobile phone business, and as the past few years passed, their family business grew bigger and bigger, and they have already exported to several countries.

That day, Hongliang was chatting with his mother, "Liangzi, do you have a girlfriend now?" Hongliang smiled and shook his head.

"Why are you still thinking about that girl from school?"

Hongliang nodded, didn't say anything, just smiled, he suddenly remembered Lizhen asked him to ask his mother, he thought about it and asked his mother;

"Mom, I want to ask you something, but you have to tell me truthfully what you did to her when I was abroad." After saying this, Hongliang looked at his mother with expectant eyes, wanting to see whether what his mother said to him was true or false.

At first, the mother lowered her head and did not dare to look into Hongliang's eyes because she felt guilty towards her son. After she thought about it, she raised her head leisurely. She thought that sooner or later she would have to tell her son the truth. But now she has figured it out. If her son insisted on marrying her, she would not object. Now her son has graduated and returned home.

"Son, I'm sorry. When you went abroad, I was afraid that you would be immersed in love and refuse to study abroad. I took the initiative to persuade her to leave you. But my starting point was not wrong. I was afraid of delaying your studies. Now I regret it when I think about it." After the mother finished speaking, she felt relieved, because she had kept the truth in her heart for several years and dared not tell her son. Today she finally said it, and she let out a long, deep breath.

Mom suddenly remembered something, "How is she now? Does she have a boyfriend?" Mom wanted to make up to Hongliang. She suddenly thought of Lizhen and wanted to fulfill her son's wish.

"It's too late." Hongliang looked confused and painful.

Wang Kun scared his mother. She thought it was her fault that something unfortunate happened to Lizhen.
