

First Love 62

Chapter 62 Lovers Become Friends

"Why, what's wrong with her?" The mother immediately asked her son if something had happened.

"She's already married, she's someone else's wife, and she's about to become a mother."

Wang Kun shook his head. His coldness and indifference were like an extremely sharp dagger, piercing straight into my heart and completely killing the love that had just sprouted in my heart, leaving no hope for life.

When the mother saw Hongliang's expression, she was very surprised and looked at him straight.

"Oh, it's all mom's fault. My son's sweetheart left me." The mom felt very guilty and uneasy.

"She's there now, how do you know she's married?" Mom wondered.

"I met her at the train station, and she was pregnant." After Hongliang finished speaking, his collarbone moved in his throat as if he was about to choke.

"How is she doing now?" In order to please Hongliang, the mother actually started to care about Lizhen's current situation.

"She seems to be quite happy, but I have inquired and found out that she is currently in the difficult stage of starting a business."

"What is she doing now?" Mom was eager to know Lizhen's living situation, and if possible she wanted to provide some financial support to Lizhen.

"I don't think she will accept it." Wang Kun understood Lizhen's character. She would not easily accept help from others because she was a very independent person.

"I believe her, she is not an ordinary girl." The mother suddenly remembered that she wanted to give Lizhen a breakup fee at that time, but she did not accept it.

"She is an ambitious, independent person who is not afraid of hardship. She is now pregnant but is still busy in her factory every day." When talking about Lizhen, Hongliang's eyes lit up and he was very excited. He admired her as a person and personality and it seemed a pity that he had lost her.

"What kind of factory does she run?"

"I forgot to tell you that her factory seems to be connected with our industry." Hongliang looked at his mother and seemed to have discovered something. He became a little excited when he said this.

"Really? What did you say to tell mom?" The mother noticed that her son seemed to have found something exciting, and she was particularly willing to share her son's worries. As long as her son could be happy, she would do anything, because her son had been depressed since he came back, and she thought her son was unhappy because of this matter.

"Her factory is currently producing parts for mobile phones exported by our company. If we have our parts produced by her, we can solve her practical problem and she won't have to work so hard to find sources of goods."

"But their quality doesn't meet our standards, son. We are in the export business and we can't be careless at all." Mom was worried that Lizhen and the others might not be competent and the quality of their work might not meet their company's standards.

"Mom, you just need to think about this. Do you know where she came from? She used to be the technical director of Chen Company. Forced by life, they started their own business. What she lacks now is capital, not technology. If we solve the capital problem for them, everything else will not be a problem." Hongliang spoke all in one breath and really convinced his mother.

"Well, as long as you are happy, mom can do anything for you. Since you say it is so good, we will give it a try. But on the other hand, if their quality is not up to standard, we will withdraw the funds and the project."

"Yes, sir. I will do my best. If they don't do a good job and the quality doesn't meet our standards, I will hesitate to withdraw the project and the funds." Hongliang was very happy to see his mother agreed, and he believed that Lizhen would be able to meet the standards and pass the quality test.

"Thank you, Auntie, she trusts me so much. If we can reach an agreement, we will never let you down. We will complete the tasks you assign to us with quality and quantity, and will never let you down." Lizhen turned worry into joy and breathed a long sigh of relief.

Hongliang looked at Lizhen. She was like an angel. Her face as white as jade made people feel like they were basking in the spring breeze. Her whole body seemed to be bathed in burning desire. She was like a fairy who had fallen into the devil's way. It was very memorable. In the eyes of a lover, every woman is a beauty. This was vividly shown here. Hongliang thought that just looking at her was happy, and he felt indescribably happy in his heart.

Seeing Hongliang looking at Lizhen like that, Wang Kun felt a little jealous.

"Wang Kun, we don't need to go outside to find sources of goods anymore. We just need to recruit people and expand reproduction." Li Zhen couldn't help but share her joy with Wang Kun.

"You make it sound so easy. If we want to expand production, we need to increase funding. We haven't paid off our current loan yet." Wang Kun's eyes were deep and his face was filled with worry.

"We will advance some funds for you to work around," Hongliang told Wang Kun happily.

"Is this true?" Li Zhen jumped up happily, ran to Wang Kun like a child, took Wang Kun's hand and shook it hard.

"Look how happy you are." Hongliang felt sweet in his heart when he saw Lizhen so happy.

"Come to our company tomorrow to sign the contract. After signing the contract, we will transfer the funds to your account and you can buy machines to expand production. Okay, I'm going back now." Hongliang felt that the purpose of the funds had been achieved and went back happily.

"Hongliang, thank you." Wang Kun and Li Zhen immediately got up and saw Hongliang out.

There was a limited edition Passat parked at the door. Hongliang opened the door, looked at Lizhen affectionately, and got in very elegantly.

Seeing Hongliang looking at Lizhen with affectionate eyes, Wang Kun felt a bitter feeling in his heart.
