

First Love 68

Chapter 68 Deep love

It was almost nine o'clock when we got home. Xiaobao had fallen asleep on the way. Everyone was in a bad mood and thinking about their own things, so they went back to their rooms early to rest.

Lizhen's heart was still aching. The scenes of her and Hongliang playing in the school playground, at the snack stand, and in the supermarket suddenly flashed in her mind again.

Especially the scene when Lizhen learned that Hongliang's mother wanted them to separate and she was hiding from Hongliang.

Her classmates told her that Hongliang was looking for her everywhere. She asked all her classmates but could not find out the whereabouts of Lizhen. On the day she left, Hongliang waited for Lizhen in their dormitory for a whole day. When her classmates told her that Hongliang waited for Lizhen at the door without eating or drinking, he left at ten o'clock in the evening.

Hearing that Hongliang was waiting for her there, Lizhen felt extremely distressed, especially when she thought about how good Hongliang was to her. Tears slowly flowed down her cheeks.

At this time, Wang Kun just came in and saw Li Zhen with tears streaming down her face. He slowly reached out to wipe away the tears streaming down her face. At a certain moment, those dark eyes suddenly surged with a hot desire. Then, the owner of the eyes stretched out his arm and pulled the unprepared person to his chest. He was so heartbroken that he couldn't say anything. He thought that at this moment he could only use his hot heart to warm her, let her forget the painful past in his warm arms, and welcome the beginning of a new life.

Lizhen couldn't help but stretch out her hands and hug Wang Kun tightly. At this time, Lizhen could no longer control herself, like a river bursting its dam, pouring down. Lizhen hugged Wang Kun and endured it for an entire afternoon tonight. Now she could finally burst into tears.

All the grievances and humiliations were completely vented out at this moment, like an erupting volcano. Li Zhen's cry of "Wuwuwu" broke Wang Kun's heart.

Hearing Lizhen's crying, Wang Kun felt as if his heart was being cut by a knife. He hugged Lizhen's trembling body tightly. Wang Kun put his head against Lizhen's wet hair and murmured to comfort her.

"Cry, let out all the pain in your heart, and you will feel better."

"Wow, wow" An Fulizhen cried even more sadly when she heard Wang Kun's heartfelt cry.

Wang Kun hugged Lizhen and pressed his head against hers, allowing Lizhen to vent freely.

It was unknown how long she had been crying, but Li Zhen's cries gradually subsided. Wang Kun's hands were covered with sweat because he had hugged her too tightly, and the back of Li Zhen's hands were wet. Mo Hai's deep pupils were stunned for a moment, and finally he took his eyes off Wang Kun, raised his eyes and slowly looked at Wang Kun.

Wang Kun and Li Zhen looked at each other affectionately for a while. Wang Kun looked at Wang Kun whose eyes were filled with crystal tears. He said to Li Zhen affectionately, "Li, it's okay after you've cried. Don't cry again. I will never let you cry again. I will treat you well. Let the past be the past."

Li Zhen looked at Wang Kun's affectionate words, wiped away her tears and nodded affectionately.

The incandescent light poured down on the two of them, as if shrouded in mist. She stared into his eyes, carefully examining his facial features. Deep in her eyes, there was a hint of tenderness.

After organizing her thoughts, Lizhen pursed her lips and suppressed all her emotions.

The warm body temperature brings out an indescribable sweetness, which ferments silently between me and him.

He nodded, his deep eyes fixed on her, as if a suppressed storm was brewing.

Yanyi was lost in the room, two figures overlapped, entangled passionately, and heavy breathing lingered in the room for a long time.

After this incident, Wang Kun became more caring and considerate towards Lizhen, but his mother-in-law Jinlan had an indescribable feeling towards Lizhen.

In Jinlan's heart, Lizhen is a perfect good daughter-in-law. Not only in academic qualifications, character, but also in ability, she is better than Wang Kun. She is a rare good daughter-in-law. But today, in her opinion, the image of Lizhen collapsed in her mind.

She has an ex-boyfriend whose family background is so prominent, while her own family can never compare to his. Especially now that they are married, they are still in contact. If Wang Kun treats her badly, will she and Hongliang rekindle their old relationship? Will he dislike her son? What will happen to her son in the future? She tossed and turned all night and couldn't fall asleep because of this worry.

Jinlan's worries were unnecessary. Lizhen was a person who was very focused on love. Not only had she not wavered in her love for Wang Kun, on the contrary, she loved him even more. Although she loved Hongliang, she felt that she was right not to marry him. Otherwise, how would she live in the future if she had such a troublesome mother-in-law?

But when she thought of Hongliang's performance in the afternoon, she felt a little worried. She saw the scene when Hongliang left after hearing that the reason for their breakup was caused by Hongliang's mother.

When Lizhen heard what her mother had done, the scene of anger and despair remained vivid in her mind. She suddenly remembered the scene when Hongliang was waiting for her in school when they broke up. Her classmates told her that Hongliang was like a person who had lost his soul and was extremely sad.

And now that he knows that it was his mother who was behind this, how desperate he will be, and how resentful he will be towards his mother. Will the conflict between them be further intensified because of this incident?
