

First Love 77

Chapter 77 I Accepted It for My Mom

Just that day, her current husband came to her and said, "Qiuyan, someone is looking for you." The aunt in charge of the dormitory came to the dormitory to tell her that someone was looking for her outside.

Qiuyan quickly wiped her tears, washed her face and went out. Seeing her red eyes, she said, "Yan, what's wrong with you? Who bullied you? I'll go find him."

Seeing Qiuyan crying, he thought someone else bullied Qiuyan. "It's not my family's business."

"What happened at home? Can you tell me?" He was very anxious seeing his beloved crying like this.

Hearing him ask her, Qiuyan cried even more sadly, "Tell me, maybe I can help you solve it."

"My mother is sick." Qiuyan stopped crying, and he immediately took out a tissue to wipe her tears.

"If you are sick, go to the hospital," he hurriedly comforted Qiuyan.

"But my mother doesn't have an ordinary disease, but a tumor. She needs surgery. If she doesn't, she will die. And the surgery will cost more than 30 yuan." More than 30 yuan is an astronomical figure for a small rural family.

"If you are sick, you must get treatment. If you don't have money, find a way." He hurried to comfort Qiuyan.

"It's easy to say, where can I get the money? I have sold everything my family can, even the only cow. Now I still need more than 20 yuan, especially now my father wants me to drop out of school." When Qiuyan said this, she couldn't help but shed tears again.

"Don't worry about the money, I will find a way. You must not drop out of your studies. Dropping out now will not ruin your life." Qiuyan's boyfriend looked at Qiuyan, who was in tears, and said firmly.

These are the most beautiful words a person can hear when they are most desperate, especially young men and women in love. Qiuyan could not believe her ears. If she had not been concerned about the presence of many classmates nearby, Qiuyan would have jumped forward and kissed him. Qiuyan was like a dry tree encountering nectar, which nourished her and allowed her to find hope from despair.

"Thank you, thank you for your kindness. Your kindness is enough for me, but the money my mother wants is not one or two thousand, ten or twenty thousand, but more than two hundred thousand." Qiuyan thought that the average family that relies on subsidies can only receive a maximum of 50 yuan per month, and it would take more than 20 yuan to raise this amount. This is not just talk, so she could only shake her head gently. It's not that she doesn't believe that he doesn't have this intention, but she thinks he can't borrow so much money.

He came to Qiuyan and looked at her affectionately. "Yan, don't you really believe that your boyfriend is so incapable of courage and ability? For the sake of my beloved woman and my future mother-in-law, I will raise the money even if it costs my life."

His voice was crisp, like pearls falling on a jade plate, illuminating Qiuyan's desperate heart with sunlight, and nourishing Qiuyan's heart like a clear spring, making her feel much taller for this short man, with a masculine demeanor. She thought, I'm looking for such a courageous and spirited man.

That day Qiuyan's father called again and said her mother's condition had become more serious, and urged her to go home quickly.

"Dad has good news for you. I have raised the money. You can transfer mom to a big hospital for surgery," Qiuyan told her father happily.

"You have already embarrassed your father with Wang Kun. We are sorry for him. We can never do anything embarrassing again." Qiuyan's father thought of what happened between her and Wang Kun and felt sorry for Wang Kun's family.

"Really?" Dad jumped up happily, but then he changed his mind. Qiuyan is still studying, where did she get the money? Did she do something shady? She must have done something shameful, so what? If not, wouldn't this ruin her life?

"Yanzi, tell daddy where your money comes from. If it's dirty money, daddy would rather not have it. Your mother wouldn't want to use such money for medical treatment," Dad sternly warned Qiuyan.

"Dad, what are you thinking? Your daughter is not that kind of person." Qiuyan was so anxious that tears came out.

"Then tell me where your money comes from."

"It's a friend I know."

"Is the friend a man or a woman?"

"This..." Qiuyan was speechless after being asked by her father.

"My guess is correct, is he married?"

"Not yet" "What does he do?"

"He is from the company and is working."

"Oh, he has a company and is working. People like him shouldn't be that bad." Only then did Qiuyan's father feel a little relieved.

"Dad, please transfer Mom to a big hospital. I'll come with my friend. Do you think this will work?"

"Okay." Only then did Qiuyan feel relieved.

After Qiuyan's father and mother completed the hospital admission procedures, Qiuyan went there with her friend.

"Hello, uncle." That day, Qiuyan and her current husband came to the hospital and met Qiuyan's father and mother.

When seeing Qiuyan and her current husband appearing in front of her mother's bed in the hospital, Qiuyan's father looked carefully at this short, fair-skinned, big-eyed, and softly-spoken young man.

When Qiuyan's father heard that he was a university teacher and had a wealthy family, he looked at him with admiration, especially when he was willing to help Qiuyan's mother pay for all the medical expenses, Qiuyan's father was moved.

"How can we use your money? Besides, your problem is not something that can be solved with one or two thousand yuan, but more than 50 yuan. Your salary is only more than yuan a month, which is an astronomical figure, child. Besides, you are not a member of our family, so how can our family affairs drag you down?" Qiuyan's father shook his head with a worry on his face, but he was somewhat happy in his heart that his daughter did not let him down and finally found someone who was paid by the state.

"Uncle, you are being too polite. I am Qiuyan's friend, and it is my duty to help my friend." After saying that, he looked at Qiuyan's expression, and Qiuyan immediately nodded to her father.

"Uncle, don't worry. More than 200,000 is not a small amount now, but for aunt, I will find a way to raise it. Saving lives is the most important thing," he told Qiuyan's father very firmly and affirmatively.

"Dad, please listen to him. Mom's illness is more important." Qiuyan was very anxious when she saw that her father didn't understand her friend.

"Okay, thank you, then I'll listen to you." Qiuyan's father's eyes suddenly filled with tears, and his throat seemed to be blocked by something and he slowly began to sob.

"Take Auntie to the hospital for a check-up quickly. The illness cannot be delayed. I will go back and raise money right away." Seeing Qiuyan's father so excited, he hurried to comfort him.

"So I felt that he had done me a favor and saved my mother, so I should thank him. Later, I started dating him. One time when I was drunk, he took advantage of me and did something that shouldn't have happened to me. When you came to find me, we were already together." Qiuyan started crying again when she said this.