

First Strong 268

Chapter 268 - wake

After Shen Lang was rescued, the Flying Magic took him and quickly left Yuncheng. That speed can't be caught up in the bleak, and it is also impossible for the Chu family to follow.

Unlike the flying props that Chu Yunfei used before, this is the real magic weapon, and has been flying with them far away.

Shen Lang was completely in a state of coma, and what happened behind him was completely unknown.

When his consciousness is restored, he feels that the body is empty, and there is a feeling that he is completely hollowed out. He wants to gather strength, but he finds helplessness, wants to get up, even open his eyes, it is even more Can't do it.

After several attempts, his consciousness disappeared.

When he was really awake, he first tried to open his eyes and found that the person was in a strange place.

Strange is just different from what I saw before, but in fact he is not strange, because this place... is a cave!

In the one and a half years of the death forest, in addition to living in the wooden house of Count Dracula, the rest are basically living in the wild, and it is a good environment to find the cave to shelter from the wind and rain.

Trying to sit up, he found that there is no problem!

Probably because I have been lying for a long time, my body is a bit stiff and I feel numb when I get up.

After sitting up, he didn't get up immediately. In addition to giving the body some time to relax, it was better to observe the surroundings, including himself.

The space of this cave is still large, and it is so large in the general living room space that it is obviously not natural, or it has been artificially altered on a natural basis.

The place where he is lying now is a large stone that looks like a flat bed, and there are also stone piers that can be used as tables and chairs.

But apart from these, there are no more things here, very simple. On his body, he still wore the original clothes.

The cave should be in a deeper place, and no light shines in. The light inside is a glowing bead placed above the cave.

Shen Lang wants to try to use the gods to look around, and the result is a headache, but it is only for the time being.

After a break, he got up and walked over to the exit of the cave.

This is a flat passage, but it is gradually narrow from the inside to the outside. When it comes to the front, it is dim. The light of the night pearl is not here, and the outside light is not transmitted.

I quickly understood what it was because of the fact that in the cave passages that were smaller than a person, there was a stone gate.

The stone gate is very simple, just move it to the side of the hole.

This stone door is not thick. It can be easily removed with the power of Shen Lang, but now it is a little hard to move a part.

As soon as the door opened, there was a cold air coming in.

Shen Lang walked over and closed the door again.

The front was a little darker. I didn't walk for a long time and saw a similar stone door.

The stone door was opened in the same way, this time a large amount of cold wind poured directly!

The outside of the stone gate was also bright. After the swells came out, the cave was suddenly widened. Going forward no further, I understand where I am...

I can't see the whole angle of the view, just use the eye to see, you can also see that this is halfway up the mountain in a snowy mountain!

There are snow and ice around the cave outside, and there is no way to see the road. Seeing the opposite side and the nearby snow-capped mountains, the snow reflected by the snow is also a bit glaring

This picture is quite a bit like "the thousand mountains and birds are flying, the million trails are gone", and the altitude should not be low, and the air is obviously thin.

After seeing it, Shen Lang felt that his body was awkward.

This made him secretly smile, with his strength, it should have been invaded by the heat and cold, and can endure and regulate the external temperature. It will feel cold now, naturally because of serious injuries.

Nothing can be seen, no one, no one can shout anything, it can only trigger an avalanche.

So after watching it for a while, Shen Lang went back to the cave and closed the two layers of cold stone gates. After returning to the inside, I felt the temperature was comfortable.

He didn't know what happened after he lost his consciousness, but looking at it, someone should have saved him and hid him here.

He has few friends, and he can save him when he and the Chu family fight him.

The most likely is the bleak!

Her past life is still very mysterious. It may be possible to take him away and find a place to recover from injury.

Another possibility is that it is raining!

Although it is less likely to appear in time when the rain falls, she is a disciple of the Tianshan Ice Palace. This environment is like the Tianshan Mountains.

Whether it is bleak or falling rain, you can save him, certainly not an enemy.

Shen Lang didn't waste too much time, and when they came back, they naturally knew it.

Now what he needs is to understand his physical condition and treat the injury well. This is the most critical thing, or else you can't even go down the mountain!

After self-examination, Shen Lang was relieved.

His current situation is very bad, but in addition to the injury, it is because of the sequelae of "blood madness"!

There is no way for the huge overdraft of "blood madness". It can only take time to heal, or else a large amount of supplements can be piled up to speed up recovery.

He was able to explode Chu Xiangxiong and was attacked by Chu Xiangxiong. Both heads were not dead, and even the injury was not serious. Of course, it was not luck.

On the one hand, because of the "blood-induced madness", the defense of "King Kong is not bad spirits", the effect is also several times stronger, so that he can withstand greater attacks.

On the other hand, when wrapped in the lake, considering the close-knit attack of Chu Yuxiong, he took the holy armor of the blue sea and took it out from the storage ring and equipped it!

The color of the external display is changeable and he was wearing black clothes at the time, plus the light problem at night, and under such a fast-paced combat state, Chu Shixiong did not pay attention to him and become a tight.

After the equipment of the armor, he directly added defense to himself. It is also prepared to fly away if you can't beat it and want to escape.

The result is that after the icicle is broken, he will not be injured at all. The defense of the sacred armor is automatic. After sensing the place to be attacked, the defensive energy is naturally gathered.

The two palms of Chu Yuxiong are first under the intelligent defense of the Holy Grail, which offsets a considerable part of the power, and then he strengthens the self-defense of the "King Kong is not bad spirit".

If there are two layers of defense, if they are so strong, they will shoot directly in the head, and they will shoot directly without blasting!

However, Chu Yuxiong is too strong. Even with double protection, Shen Lang is still stunned for the second time, and it is too late to use the flight function to escape.

After that, the effect of "blood madness" was over, and the sequelae began to appear...
