

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 318

"Well, don't mention it again."

Alston's voice changed at this moment, with a faint touch of anger, and then he hung up before Queena spoke.

No matter how hostile Queena was, in his opinion, she was just making trouble out of nothing.

The secretary by his side carefully spied on his face, and began to be trembling. Queena, who had been hung up, was also in a rage, but finally suppressed in front of Melinda.

She promised to Melinda, "Don't worry. I will drive all the people who are against you and Jonas out of the Gu family."

Melinda just nodded, instead she felt sorry for Queena. She seemed powerful, but in fact, she was warm sometimes.

However, her temperament also caused her experience, which was hard to get rid of. Queena finally had today, but she couldn't get along well with her husband, which was inevitable a sad thing.

When the two returned home, Jerry was still there. As long as he was in the crowd, he would always maintain a gentle expression and a proper manner, making people feel comfortable.

However, this kind of comfort, for Melinda, was an embarrassed torture.

With the help of a psychologist, Melinda gradually became less interested in those pessimistic things and didn't want herself to think too much.

In spare time, Melinda dared to go out alone even without the company of Queena. Sometimes she went for a walk, sometimes she went to a psychologist to relax herself.

Melinda found that every time she talked with the psychologist, she would always be in an extreme relaxed state.

"You look much better these days." Isla was very happy that Melinda had become better. At the beginning, she had resisted, but now she actively cooperated, which was really shocking.

Melinda felt a little embarrassed by her words. She thanked Isla and then left the consulting room. The consulting room was not in the hospital, but in a building. Thinking that it was not far from Jonas's company, Melinda wanted to give him a surprise.

A City was a commercial city, which not only showed by high buildings, but also showed by the tourism. Most of the time, the environment here was romantic.

She would pass a park on the way to the Soaring Group. Although it was a working day, there were still many lovers in the park.

Melinda even saw a somewhat familiar figure.

the smile on Yulia's face. It was the first time that Melinda had seen Yulia smile a man's arm. The man, who was about 1.8 meters tall, wore a white shirt and a black suit pants, looked like the at Yulia with full of love that this man lit up her mood. She suddenly realized that it was all her life again with the man around her. It was him who made her life bright and colorful. It was also him who helped her was no longer so confused, like a walking dead.

was grateful that she had to match the sun. Although it was just Yulia thought that all this was for her own good, she stomach and intestines. I don't want to eat," Yulia said shyly, looking at the man and seeming to the man, and then gave a light kiss on the corner of Yulia's mouth as path of the park, laughing and playing all the time, but saw Melinda. Although it was not cold, her clothes were thin. She if a wind would blow her away at any time. But Yulia knew clearly how strong her heart was was not so, her proud brother would not fall in love with her.

"Hello, my sister-in-law."

a bit of respect for the way she called Melinda. Girls always wanted to leave the best side in front of the the two people, Melinda nodded her head. She then looked at the man in confusion. Yulia deliberately took the man's arm, introducing him in an intimate way, "This is felt very proud and happy when she said the word "boyfriend". Hearing this, a smile appeared on the corners of Melinda's mouth. She then greeted the man calmly.

meet you.

meet you, too." The man was polite and respectful to Melinda, making people feel good about happy with

Yulia knew nothing about the business of there much longer. After greeting each other, she left. After leaving the park, Melinda received a call from Queena, asking her special situation. Queena was still worried about her. After thinking for a while, Melinda took a would cook soup in person. Therefore, Melinda had the same habit, so she would go was sent drink it when it gets cold. Go upstairs and freshen up," Queena said happily when she saw Melinda. In fact, she still had contact with a little fatigued by the long journey. After cleaning herself up, she drank the soup up obediently.

was medicine soup, and the taste was always a little strange, so she would talk with Melinda to distract her attention.

boyfriend today." It suddenly occurred to Melinda. Thinking of this, she said with