FORGOTTEN WIFE: BLOOD TIES

CHAPTER 1: PROMISE

April was lulling her baby to sleep when one of the maids came in.

“Your majesty, I have a letter for you.”

Seeing the seal on the letter, April put her daughter in the crib, took the letter and read it immediately.

The letter was short, it only said. “{Come to the kingdom of Laios and keep your word. Enzo Venobich.}”

April had promised her brother that she would go to the kingdom of Laios to close the rift that connected to Hades, but since she was pregnant, she couldn’t use her power and had turned it off.

Lissana, her daughter had just turned six months old, even though it hurt her to be separated from her, she had to go to the kingdom of Laios.

Seeing the queen’s worried face, the maid asked.

“Your majesty, is there something that worries you?”

April shook her head and answered in a low voice so as not to wake the baby.

“It’s nothing, don’t worry, I need to go out, I leave Lissana in your care.”

“Don’t worry, I’ll take good care of the princess.”

Abril went to Alessandro’s office, the two guards who were stationed at the door bowed and greeted her.

“Blessing to the moon of the kingdom.”

Abril found those greetings somewhat exaggerated, but ever since Alessandro had told everyone that they were a match made in heaven, everyone had begun to call them the sun and moon of the kingdom.

Abril opened the door, Alessandro upon seeing her got up from his seat and went to meet her, he put his arms around her, gave her a soft and sweet kiss on the lips and said:

“What a surprise you’ve given me, I didn’t expect to see you until dinner, where is Lissana?”

“She’s sleeping.”

Alessandro held her by the waist and with a seductive voice said to her.

“Then we should take advantage of the fact that we’re alone to make love.”

April was tempted for a moment, but then remembered why she had come, and said.

“This is not the time for that, I came because

I have something important to tell you.”

“What is it?”

“I must go to the kingdom of Laios.”

“What? Why must you go to that place?”

"I promised my brother that I would go to help him close the Hades rift, do you remember? I have been postponing my trip, but I can no longer do so."

"Then I will go with you, I do not intend to let you go to that place alone."

"No, Lissana is still very little, I will not be calm, if we both go"

"But I do not want you to go alone."

"I did not say that I would go alone, do not worry, I will be fine, I will ask Sirius to accompany me."

Alessandro knew that Sirius was a great magician and that April was not far behind, she was very powerful, but still, he was still nervous.

"Okay, but you have to take some knights."

April shook her head.

"No, I want my visit to the kingdom of Laios to be secret, if I take many guards with me that would be impossible."

"I understand."

"But I will not let you go alone with Sirius, I will ask Cassian to come and accompany you, otherwise I will not be able to rest easy."

"Sounds good to me and you could ask Sirius to come, I would like to talk to him and ask him to accompany me."

"You know I can force him, right?"

"Yes, but I prefer that he goes of his own free will."

"If that is what you want, I will not object."

"Thank you."

That same afternoon, Alessandro sent a message to the wizards' tower requesting Sirius' presence and sent a letter to Cassian asking him to go to the palace, he did not want to specify the reason in any of his letters, since it was a very delicate subject.

Sirius arrived early the next day in the morning. He was heading to Alessandro's office when he ran into April in the hallway.

"Hello Sirius, it's been a while since we last saw each other."

"Greetings, Your Majesty the Queen."

"Don't be so rigid, you can just call me Aby, you're my teacher."

"It's fine, even though I'm not her teacher anymore, I have nothing more to teach her."

"I don't think that's the case, I have a lot of questions that need answers, and you're the only one who can answer them, or at least the only one I can ask."

"And, I suppose the king can't know?"

"I'd appreciate it if you kept this conversation a secret."

"But, why did he come to ambush me?"

"You haven't seen my daughter yet, have you?"

"No, I haven't had the honor of meeting Princess Lissana yet."

"Alessandro will take you to meet her, I'm sure of that, when you see her don't say anything unnecessary."

"Is there something wrong with the princess?"

"It's not that it's anything bad, but I don't want Alessandro to know yet."

"Okay."

"Thank you very much, I just wanted to say that, see you later and thank you."

April began to relax, Sirius wondered what the queen wanted to hide from the king. Sirius headed towards the king's office, as Alessandro entered he said.

“What took you so long?”

“I came as soon as I could, even if it doesn’t seem like it, I have a tower to run.”

Alessandro gave him an indifferent look, as if to say, ‘And what does that matter to me?’

“Why did his majesty call me?”

“I want you to protect Aby.”

“What? Don’t you have knights to take care of that?”

“She must go to the kingdom of Laios, her visit will be in secret, so she will only bring two companions, she wants one of those companions to be you.”

“And I suppose that this is not a question, of if I want to accept being her guard, but rather an order.”

“I would prefer that you agree to go voluntarily, since that is what Aby wants, but if you refuse I can force you, she chose you, that means that she trusts you, I hope you do not throw away her trust.”

“Okay, I will be the guard of her majesty the Queen.”

“Take good care of her.”

“I will.”

“You still do not know my daughter, come on, I want you to meet her.”

Sirius laughed, realizing that the queen had been right. The king was doing as she had said.

“The king has really become a fool who adores his daughter.” Sirius muttered to himself.

“Did you say something?”

“No, I have not said anything.”

“Then let’s go, April must be waiting for us, I told her we would go when you came.”

“Then let’s go, let’s not keep the queen waiting.”

CHAPTER 2: THE PRINCESS'S SECRET

As they walked through the halls Sirius couldn't stop wondering what was going on with the princess, what was the secret she wanted to keep from the king.

Upon reaching the room where the queen and the baby princess were, Alessandro opened the door very slowly, as he didn't want to wake his daughter if she was sleeping, but upon hearing the baby's laughter, he ended up opening the door out of greed and entered saying.

"My beautiful princess is awake."

Alessandro went to where she was, took her in his arms and began to kiss her chubby cheeks. Sirius entered shortly after, and upon seeing the princess he knew the reason why the queen had intercepted him in the hallway, he knew what the princess's secret was.

"Isn't she beautiful?"

Alessandro asked as he showed him the baby in his arms. Sirius nodded silently, which didn't please Alessandro.

"Are you not going to say anything?"

Sirius realized that the king wanted him to praise the princess, and he wouldn't be satisfied until he praised her properly.

"Forgive me, your majesty, it's just that the princess's beauty took my breath away, it left me speechless."

"I understand you, she is the most beautiful thing that exists in this world."

April arched one of her eyebrows as she looked at Alessandro, he cleared his throat and corrected himself.

"You are also beautiful my love, you are the most beautiful woman in the world."

April ignored Alessandro's words as he tried to fix what he had said and greeted Sirius.

"Long time no see Sirius, how have you been?"

"Very well, your majesty, thank you for asking."

"Thank you very much for coming, please have a seat."

Sirius took a seat in front of the queen, both of them exchanged glances as Alessandro tickled the baby.

"I suppose Alessandro has already said everything."

"I don't know everything, but she asked me to accompany her as her guard on her visit to the kingdom of Laios."

"That's right, I must go close the rift of Hades that is there, it was a promise I made to my brother and now I must fulfill it."

"What if it's a trap? I mean even if he's her brother, he's the enemy."

April showed him the mark of the alliance between them and answered.

"I'm aware of that, but if he betrays me he will also die, our alliance is not just word, it's by blood ties, if he betrays me, he will also die."

"I understand."

Gabriel entered the room and said.

"Your majesty, there are some documents that need to be approved immediately, please return to your office."

Alessandro hated the idea of having to go back to work, but he knew that Gabriel's words weren't a lie, there were still many documents that required his signature, so with great regret he handed the baby to April, gave her a kiss on the forehead and said goodbye.

"I have to go, I'll see you later."

Once alone, Sirius approached the little princess again and with a voice full of concern said.

"Now I understand why she came to intercept me this morning, even though she's only six months old, her power has already awakened."

April caressed her baby's chubby cheeks as she said.

"That's why I'm so worried about Lissana."

"I understand your concern, the power she possesses is too great for such a small body, you know that could be dangerous, right?"

Yes, I'm aware that she could suffer from an overload of magic, I've been using my magic to stabilize hers, but it's not always effective, sometimes she uses nullification magic without meaning to."

Sirius stared at the baby, the little girl was overflowing with power, April was someone very powerful and possessed an almost unlimited amount of magic, but that girl seemed to have inherited not only April's power, but also Alessandro's.

"What powers has she manifested?"

"So far, fire, air and sometimes light magic."

"What?"

"Yes, I was also surprised the first time I discovered it."

"Normally, a person can only manipulate one element, although in your case it is different, you possess two elements, although your flames do not burn."

"Now they do, since I broke the last seal, I have begun to handle my magic even better and do things I couldn't before."

"What I mean is that manipulating so many elements can be very dangerous for her."

"I know."

"The princess could die."

April remained silent, she seemed surprised, but not at the same time.

"I think she already feared it and for that reason she has kept her power a secret."

April stroked her baby's head and replied.

"I'm aware of Lissana's power and to be honest, it terrifies me in more ways than one, but that's not the only reason I've kept her power a secret."

"I suppose the questions you wanted to ask are related to that." "

Yes, my mother gave her life to hide my power, but now I believe that she didn't do it just for my father but for his family as well."

"For the elves?"

"Maya once mentioned that children born between a human and a possessor of light were considered an aversion, if that union were to happen and a baby was born, the elves would take those children to their kingdom, removing them from the human world, since they were undefined creatures, creatures that did not belong to the Light, but neither to the darkness, therefore their power was greater than that of a normal elf and a human, if I am considered an aversion for being a half-breed, what do you think they will think of Lissana if they discover her existence?"

"I think nothing good."

"Exactly, that is why I fear so much for the fate of my daughter, I fear that in the future they will try to separate me from Her."

"I respect your decision to hide your daughter's power, but if you ask for my opinion, I think Alessandro deserves to know what is happening with his daughter."

"I will tell him, but this is not the best time to do it, so, could you keep this secret?" "I already told you I would, I won't break my word."

"Thank you very much Sirius."

"Back to the main topic, when do you plan to leave for the kingdom of Laios?"

"I would like to leave tomorrow if possible, but I still have to wait for Cassian. There are some things I need to take care of before we go, so I don't think leaving tomorrow will be possible either."

"I understand, then I'll be waiting for you here, come back when you've put your affairs in order."

"I'll come as soon as possible, I don't think it will take more than two days."

"Okay."

Sirius stood up and said to her.

"I'll leave immediately, so I can leave as soon as I can."

"Thank you very much, Sirius."

"You're welcome April, see you soon."

After Sirius left, Lissana used her wind magic raising the curtains with a strong gust of wind, immediately April used her magic to cancel her daughter's magic.

What worried April the most about having to leave was being separated from her daughter. She feared that her power could get out of control in her absence.

She caressed her baby's cheeks and said to her.

"My little one, you must behave while I'm gone."

April had so many questions about her daughter's power, about what she should do to protect her, but there was no one who could answer them.

She gave a big sigh.

“How I wish you were here, mom.”

CHAPTER 3: YOU ARE A FOOL

Cassian was in his office looking at the letter he had received from Alessandro, when Maya came in, approached him, sat at his desk and asked.

“What’s wrong? You seem very worried since yesterday.”

“My brother sent me a letter requesting my help in the palace.”

“Are you worried that I’ll load you with work like I always do?”

“Yes, I don’t want to be away from you.”

“I’m fine, Cassian.”

“You say that, but I know it’s not true.”

“It’s true, I’m not feeling very well, but I’ll get better.”

Maya started to cough, the handkerchief she covered her mouth with, stained with blood, she tried to hide it, but Cassian saw it.

He took her face in his hands and said.

“We should go see April, you’re not well.”

Maya could see the anxiety on Cassian’s face, she hugged him and said.

“I think you’re right, I’ll go with you.”

“We’ll leave when you’re feeling better.”

“I’m fine, we can go now.”

“Then I’ll ask them to prepare the carriage.”

“If we use a teleportation scroll, we’ll get there faster.”

“No, we’ll use scrolls.”

“Why not?”

“Because you’re not well Maya, even if the carriage ride is longer, it will be better for you, scrolls put too much strain on the body.”

Maya knew that no matter what she said, she wouldn’t change his mind.

“Okay, then it will be by carriage.”

“I’ll have it prepared immediately.”

Cassian gave her a soft kiss on the lips and said. “I won’t be long.”

“Okay, I’ll wait for you here.”

After Cassian left the office, Maya lay down on the nearest sofa and a little fairy suddenly appeared.

“Why are you lying to the human?”

"I'm not lying to him."

"Yes you are, you know you're not okay and you won't be okay unless you go back to the fairy land."

"I'm not going to go back to the fairy land."

"Then you'll die."

Maya clenched her fists tightly and said.

"You should go back to the fairy land and tell the fairy queen that I'm not going back."

"You're a fool, you should accept your fate and.."

"I already told you I'm not going to do it."

The little fairy was about to retort when she heard the sound of the door opening, she immediately disappeared.

Maya quickly sat up, not wanting Cassian to see her tired and downcast, as that would only cause her suffering.

"They're already preparing our things, we'll be leaving in a while, do you want to do something before we go?"

Maya felt her body heavy, she didn't want to do anything, just close her eyes and sleep, but if she said that, Cassian would exaggerate everything and cancel the trip, so she forced herself to put a smile on her lips and say,

"I'd like to take a walk in the garden."

Cassian offered her his hand to help her up, Maya took his hand and said,

"You know you don't need to treat me like an old woman, right?"

"I don't do that."

"I think you do."

"I just want to take care of you, pamper you and protect you."

"I like pampering myself, I don't think the rest is necessary, there's nothing you have to protect me from."

"Yes, there is and you know it."

Maya didn't want to continue with that conversation so she changed the subject. "Follow me."

"Of course, I will accompany you wherever you wish my lady."

Maya laughed, the formal language Cassian used on some occasions seemed funny to her.

"My dear prince! Don't waste any more time and take me for my long-awaited walk."

"I'm no longer a prince, now I'm a duke."

"For me you will always be my prince in shining armor."

"Are you making fun of me?"

"Of course not, I would never do such a thing."

Seeing that Maya was once again joking around, Cassian felt calmer, and wanted to believe that she was really better.

They took a short walk through the garden, while looking at the white flowers, Cassian suddenly asked.

"When will you agree to be my wife?"

"I don't need marriage to prove that I love you, why do you keep insisting on that?"

"Marriage is a bond that unites two strangers and makes them family."

"Cassian, we're fine this way and I already consider you my family."

"Maya, I want you to be my wife."

"I'm already your woman, isn't that the same?"

“Maya..”

“Cassian, you already know that I’ve never been interested in marriage. Cassian, I love you very much and I think I show it to you every day, don’t you believe me?” “Of course I believe you, but I want to have a wedding and introduce you to everyone as my wife, why do you refuse to marry me?”

“Are we really going to have this conversation again?”

“If you agree to marry me this will be the last time we have this conversation.”

“Cassian, I don’t want to continue with this conversation.”

Maya began to walk away, Cassian took her hand and said.

“This time I will stop, but don’t think that I will forget about the subject.”

“You won’t change my mind.”

“We’ll see about that.”

One of the servants came up to them and said. “The carriage is ready.”

“We’d better get going, your brother must be waiting for you.”

“Okay, let’s go.”

Maya remembered that she had a gift for April’s daughter.

“Wait, I’ll go get something from my room.”

“I’ll wait for you at the entrance.”

When Maya entered her room, the little fairy appeared before her again and said.

“Why don’t you want to marry the human? You say you love him, I don’t understand why you won’t agree to marry him.”

Maya took a small box out of one of the dresser drawers, put it in her pocket and answered.

“I know I will die before him, that is why I refuse to be his wife, if I agree to marry him, I would be condemning him to live alone for the rest of his life as a widower, I do not want that.”

“Then go back to the land of the fairies, that way you will not die.”

“If I go back, the queen will not let me see him again, it would be the same as dying, so I will not do it, I prefer a short time at his side, than a long life without him.”

Maya went to the door, the little fairy told her.

“You are a fool.”

“Yes, I am, I will not do what you ask me, so you should go back home.”

CHAPTER 4: A BOND THAT CANNOT BE BROKEN

Alessandro waited for his brother all day, but he never arrived, he wondered if something had happened to him or if he had not received his letter.

When he entered his room, he saw April on the balcony. He approached her, hugged her from behind and asked.

“What are you doing up at this hour?”

"I was waiting for you, I didn't want to go to sleep without seeing you."

"I'm sorry, I couldn't have dinner with you in the end, Gabriel filled me with work and didn't let me go until now."

April turned around, she wanted to see his face, she really needed it.

"You don't have to apologize for that, you're the king, you have a kingdom to run, I know that's not easy."

"Thank you for your understanding."

"You don't have to thank me."

Alessandro caressed her cheek gently and gave her a soft kiss on the lips.

"I wish I had more time to be with you, don't you feel the same way?"

"Yes, I feel exactly the same, I wish I could be with you every minute and every moment of my life, but we have obligations and duties to fulfill, so I'll be reasonable and not ask for what you can't give me."

"I hate that."

"What thing?"

"I hate not being able to give you everything you ask me for."

"Every day you give me more than I ever dreamed of, more than I ever imagined."

"Still, sometimes I feel like it's not enough." "Get those thoughts out of your mind, because it is."

Alessandro hugged her, buried his head in her collarbone breathing in her body odor and said. "I'll miss you so much."

"I'm going to miss you too."

"Do you know how long you'll be gone?"

"Maybe two days or three, I don't know."

“Come back soon, otherwise I’ll come looking for you.”

“You won’t have to, I’ll be eager to get back, besides you must take care of our daughter in my absence, protect her.”

“You don’t even have to ask for that, I’ll take good care of her.”

“Cassian hasn’t arrived yet?”

“No and that has me worried.”

“I hope she’s okay and arrives soon.”

The clock chimed, announcing that it was already past midnight, Alessandro said.

“It’s late, today has been a long day, we better rest.”

“Yes, that will be the best.”

They both went to bed, Alessandro put his arms around Abril, she could hear his heartbeat, his breathing, that made her calmer, because although she didn’t show it, having to leave her family made her very nervous and anxious, she was afraid of what would happen to them in her absence.

“Lessan.”

“What’s wrong?”

“Take care of Lissana.”

“Aby, I will take good care of our daughter, besides, you will be gone for a short time, we will be here waiting for you.”

“Yes, you are right.”

Abril buried her face in his chest and said. “I hate to be separated from you.”

“I feel the same way and if it weren’t for Lissana, I would go with you. Aby, is something wrong?”

“No, it’s just that my sister is still out there and we don’t know when she will come to attack us.”

Alessandro sighed deeply and said.

“That’s true, but if she hasn’t made any movement during all this time, I doubt she will now, so don’t worry.”

“I hope so.”

Cassian had to stop to rest at an inn since Maya had started to feel nauseous from the rattling of the carriage.

He put a cold cloth on her forehead to try to relieve her discomfort a little.

“Are you better?”

” “Yes, and I’m sorry, I’m just delaying you.”

“Don’t worry about it, the important thing is that you’re okay.”

“That’s why I prefer the teleportation scrolls.”

“I know, but I thought the scrolls would be very tiring in your condition, apparently I was also wrong about the carriage, now because of me you’ve become even sicker.”

Maya took Cassian’s hand and said.

“This is not your fault.”

“You’ll be better soon, April will make you better.”

“Yes, I hope so.”

Cassian gave her a soft kiss on the forehead and said. “That will be it, hold on a little longer, you’ll be fine soon.”

That night Cassian stayed up taking care of Maya, the next day she was a little better, so they resumed their journey. When they arrived at the palace, Cassian asked where April was, he wanted her to help Maya since she didn’t look well.

One of the maids guided them to the greenhouse where she was. Cassian arrived with Maya collapsed in his arms, April was very surprised when she saw them, especially because Maya didn't seem to be very well. She handed the baby to one of the maids and hurried towards them. "What's wrong with Maya?"

"I don't know, she hasn't been feeling very well for a while, the trip here only worsened her health, can you help her?"

"Of course."

April took Maya's hand and infused her magic into it. Maya regained consciousness and upon seeing April said to her.

"Hello Aby."

"How are you?"

"Much better."

"I think it would be best to take her to a room to rest."

"Maya, are you really okay?"

Cassian asked, very worried and with some anxiety in his voice.

Maya touched his cheek with her still cold hand and said.

"Yes Cassian, I'm fine now, don't worry."

Cassian held her against his chest and said.

"Thank God."

Cassian hugged Maya for a while as if he was afraid of losing her.

April put her hand on his shoulder and said.

"Cassian, Maya needs to rest."

"Yes."

Cassian took Maya to her room, although she was always given that room. He gently placed her on the bed and said. "Do you want something?"

"Some water, I'm thirsty."

Cassian poured a glass of water, helped her up and gave her the water to drink, when Maya finished she laughed.

"Sometimes you exaggerate a little, I can drink a glass of water on my own."

"I know, but when I see you like this, I just want to take care of you."

"Cassian, I'm fine."

"Then why do you still look weak?"

"I'm just still a little dizzy from the carriage, if I rest a little I'll be as good as new, so why don't you go see your brother while I sleep, he must be waiting for you."

"I don't want to leave you alone."

"Maybe I'll sleep all morning, it doesn't matter if you stay, so don't worry about me and go see why I'll call your brother for you."

"Okay, I won't be long."

Maya yawned and replied. "Take your time, I'll sleep for a while."

Cassian kissed her on the forehead and said.

"I won't be long, if you feel bad don't hesitate to call a maid."

"Okay, now go."

As Cassian left the room, the little fairy who had been following her suddenly appeared, flew around her and said.

"You look very bad and it's not because of the carriage ride, if you don't go back to fairyland you will die."

"Could you please stop reminding me that I will die?"

” “I do this so you won’t forget.”

“Well, I don’t need you to remind me.”

“I will keep reminding you until you decide to go back or die.”

“So I will have a little death fairy speaking in my ear every day.”

“My mission is not to announce your death, it is to make you understand that you must return home.”

“That is not my home, it never has been.”

“It is from the moment you swore loyalty to the fairy queen, you are tied to the land of the fairies just like the queen and you know it, the bond that unites you cannot be broken, your whole being is telling you so, it is screaming at you and it will continue to be that way until you decide to return.”

CHAPTER 5: I DON'T WANT TO LOSE HER

Maya was about to fall asleep when she heard a knock on the door, it was Abri, she poked her head through the door and asked. “Can I come in?”

“Of course, come in.”

April approached, sat in the chair next to the bed and asked.

“How are you feeling?”

“Better.”

April stared at her as if she knew she was lying, Maya sighed heavily and answered.

“Okay, I feel awful, but I’m better than when I arrived.”

April took Maya’s hand and infused a large amount of magic into it, Maya felt a little better, but not enough to say that she was okay.

“My magic doesn’t work on you.”

“I know.”

“Why?”

“I’ll tell you, but don’t tell Cassian, I don’t want to worry him.”

“I’ll keep whatever you tell me a secret.”

This was the first time Maya was going to talk about what was happening to her with anyone other than the little fairy that appeared like a ghost every time she was alone.

“My life itself is being drained by the fairy land or so I was told.”

“What?”

“When I made the oath to the queen, my life and soul became bound to her, as well as to the fairy land.”

“But the queen freed you.”

“Once you make that oath, you can’t get rid of it, the queen freed me from my chains, but not from the bond that binds me to her.”

“I’ll go talk to the fairy queen, I’ll make her...”

"That won't do any good, not even the queen can undo the bond that binds us."

"Then what will happen to you?"

"I will die."

The little fairy that followed Maya everywhere appeared before April and said.

"If she goes back to the land of fairies that won't happen, when she returns her energy and vitality will be restored."

"Shut up pixie."

Maya shouted a bit annoyed.

April was interested in what the little fairy had said and asked.

"So she should just go back?"

"Yes, she should just go back and she will recover, she will have a long life, she will live for centuries."

"I'm not going back!"

Maya shouted as she gave the little fairy a murderous look.

"Why do you refuse to go back Maya?"

April asked, as she didn't understand why she refused to go back to the land of fairies so much.

"The fairy queen will let me go back, but what this pixie hasn't told you is that she will never let me go out again, that I will have a long life, but without Cassian; I don't want that, I want to be with the man I love, even if that won't last long."

April hugged Maya, when his warm arms surrounded her. Maya couldn't help crying, until that moment she had been strong, but she couldn't take it anymore, she was scared, she was afraid of death, but she was even more afraid of living a whole life without her love. Cassian had gotten so deep into her heart, that separating from him would be like death itself.

Abril kept hugging her until Maya let out everything she had been keeping to herself in her heart and in part she felt identified with her, because she had also been hiding something from Alessandro.

When she finally calmed down, Abril told her:

“We will find a way to solve this Maya, you are not going to die and you are not going to give up on Cassian either.”

“I really wish I could believe that, but no matter how hard I try, my reasoning betrays me and tells me that there is no way out, that no matter what path I take, the end will be the same.”

“I wish I could do something to help you...”

“You’re helping me now, to be honest, this is the first time I’ve cried since I found out what was happening to me, since I found out I would never be truly free, I’d been acting strong and I think that was consuming me, thank you for listening to me and staying by my side, now I feel a little better.”

“I’ll always be there for you, so if you need someone to vent to or a man to cry on, just say the word.”

Maya wiped the tears from her cheeks and said to him.

“Thank you Aby, and if one day you’re going through something difficult, I’ll be there for you too, I’m good at listening and keeping secrets.”

In reality, Abril wanted to tell him that she was also hiding secrets, but Maya already had enough with her problems, she didn’t want to burden her with hers.

“Thank you very much for your offer, one day I will take that word.”

When Cassian was announced, Alessandro immediately ushered him in. After crossing the door, Cassian found himself in his brother’s arms, with a voice full of relief he said to him.

“I’m glad you’re here, I was very worried when you didn’t show up, I thought something had happened to you.”

Cassian hugged his brother back, although a great distance separated them, their relationship had not changed, Alessandro was still the overprotective brother he knew. "I'm glad to see you too, brother."

As they parted, Alessandro could see the dark shadows in his brother's eyes and he was slightly scared to think that perhaps his brother was sick.

"Cass, you don't look well at all, I'll call the doctor to check you out... No wait! I'll call April instead."

Cassian stopped his brother and said.

"No need, I'm fine."

"You look terrible, how can you even say you're fine?"

"It's just tiredness, the way here was long and I couldn't sleep all night."

"Didn't you use teleportation scrolls to come here?"

Cassian shook his head.

"Maya isn't well, I decided to travel by carriage now to prevent her from getting worse, but in the end I only ended up making her worse, she fainted when we were about to arrive, April has already treated her but..."

Cassian ruffled his hair, something he always did when he was frustrated.

Alessandro told him.

"Sit down, you look like you're going to faint at any moment."

Alessandro poured him a cup of tea and asked.

"What's wrong brother?"

"I don't know what's wrong with Maya, she's not okay but she keeps trying to hide it from me, I asked her several times to come see Abril, but she refused saying it wasn't necessary, I think Abril's magic hasn't done much for her."

“It must be your imagination, Abril’s magic is capable of reviving a dying person, you’ve already seen it.”

“Yes, and that’s what scares me, that what Maya has is something that not even Abril can cure, I don’t want to lose her, Lessan.”

Alessandro put his hand on his brother’s shoulder to show his support and said.

“That’s not going to happen, you’re not going to lose her, Abril will be able to cure her, just be a little patient, I’m sure she’ll be as good as new tomorrow.”

“And if not? What will I do?”

“Stop thinking negatively, think that she’ll be okay.”

“I hope so, because I can’t imagine a life without her anymore.”

CHAPTER 6: I’M SORRY

Alessandro had thought about asking his brother to accompany April to the kingdom of Laios, but seeing the state of anxiety she was in, he doubted he would leave Maya’s side for a few days unless she was completely fine.

When Cassian calmed down, he asked.

"Why did you call me?"

Alessandro hesitated for a moment whether to tell him or not why he had been called.

"What's wrong Lessan? Why aren't you saying anything?"

"April is going to the kingdom of Laios to close the Hades rift, I made you come because I wanted you to accompany her.."

"I'm sorry Lessan, I would like to accompany her, but I don't want to leave Maya alone."

"Don't worry, I understand you perfectly, if I were you I would have refused too."

"But I can stay to take care of the palace and do your job, so you could accompany her."

"I don't know if April would agree to let me go with her."

"Why not?"

"She doesn't want us to leave Lissana alone, and the truth is that I wouldn't feel comfortable knowing that she won't see either of her parents."

"I'm sorry Lessan, I really want to help you, but if I go with her right now, I'd be distracted, I'd just be a nuisance."

"Don't worry, Sirius will also go with her, I would have liked it if you could go, to be more at ease, but if that's not possible, then no way."

"Even if I don't go, I'll take care of finding the best knights to accompany her."

"No, April wants her trip to be secret, with a large group that would be impossible."

"It's true, then why don't you tell Taren to go with her?"

"Yes, I'll tell him."

Cassian stood up and said.

"I'll go see how Maya is doing."

“Try to rest, if Maya sees you in that state, it will only make her worry about you.”

Before crossing the door, Cassian stopped and said to him.

“Lessan, I might stay in the palace for a while.”

“You can stay as long as you want, this is your home too.”

“Thank you.”

Cassian was heading to his room when he ran into April in one of the palace hallways.

“Hello Cassian.”

“Aby, were you with Maya?”

“Yes.”

“How is she?”

“Better, she just needs rest, but you don’t look well at all.”

April approached, took his hand and infused her magic into it, all the tiredness and fatigue he had disappeared in an instant, he asked her.

“Why is Maya still feeling bad if you did the same to her?”

“What?”

“She should be fine after you used your magic on her, but she still looks pale and weak.”

“Maya is half fairy so maybe my magic acts differently on her.”

“Maybe you’re right.”

“Aby, Lessan told me that you are going to the kingdom of Laios to close the Hades rift.”

“Yes, I had been putting it off but, but it is dangerous to leave it like that.”

“You still don’t know anything about your sister?”

“No, I have asked Enzo, but he says he doesn’t know anything about Cira either.”

“And you believe him?”

“I don’t think he’s lying, knowing Cira, she will want to kill him when she sees him.”

“It’s been over a year since she disappeared, she was badly injured, do you think she’s dead?”

April remembered the creature that had tried to attack Lissana a month ago, it was a creature born of darkness and it had undoubtedly been sent by Cira, she replied.

“I don’t think so, Cira must be waiting for the best moment to attack, that’s why I want to close the rift that leads to Hades, I won’t let her have more power.”

“Lessan asked me to accompany you but..”

“You can’t go, right?”

“I don’t want to be separated from Maya.”

“Don’t worry, I understand.”

“I really would have liked to accompany you.”

“Actually, I’d rather you stay in the palace, take care of Lissana while I’m gone.”

“Don’t worry, I will.”

“See you later Cassian.”

April headed to Alessandro’s office, when she reached the door, the guards bowed.

She greeted them and asked.

“Is Alessandro inside? Thank you.”

“Yes,? Your majesty.”

April poked her head through the door and seeing that Alessandro was not alone, she asked him.

“Can I come in?”

“Yes, you’ve arrived at a good time.”

April entered, the person who was with Alessandro bowed and introduced herself.

“Greetings, I present to you Her Majesty the Queen, Taren Lacross, captain of the shadows in the service of the king.”

“Nice to meet you Taren.”

Alessandro walked around his desk, stood next to April and said to her.

“Cassian will not be able to accompany you on your trip, so I asked Taren to do so, his skills are similar to Cassian’s.”

“Then I am counting on you to undertake this journey.”

April said as she turned to Taren.

“We can leave whenever Her Majesty wants.”

“Then we will leave tomorrow.”

“As Her Majesty wishes, I will prepare to leave so I will leave.”

When Taren left, April told him.

“Could you send a message to Sirius, I do not want to delay my departure any longer.”

“Of course.”

“Have you treated Maya?”

“Yes, I have.”

“And how is she?”

April didn't want to talk about Maya's condition like that, that was something she had told him in secret and she didn't want to betray his trust. "Better."

"Cassian was very worried about her, I hope she recovers soon."

"Me too."

Alessandre hugged her, leaned down and kissed her, April actively returned the kiss. As they parted their lips, Alessandro pushed aside a reddish lock of April's hair, placed it behind her ear as he looked at her sweetly and said.

"Take care of yourself on your trip, don't do anything reckless."

"Don't worry, I won't."

April stood on her tiptoes, gave him a soft kiss on the lips and said.

"I won't risk my life knowing that my family is waiting for me, I will return to you as soon as I can."

CHAPTER 7: WHAT THE BODIES SCREAM

April stayed talking with Alessandro for a while, about her trip to the kingdom of Laios. Then April went to see Lissana, when she entered the room she felt a strong wind, the maid who was taking care of Lissana, was desperately trying to close the balcony. That wind was not natural, it was Lissana who had created it with her magic. April used her cancellation magic to calm the winds. She approached the crib, the baby smiled when she saw her mother, April took Lissana in her arms and gave her a kiss on the cheeks and with a long sigh she said to her.

"What will I do with you my little rascal?"

The maid closed the balcony and when she saw that the queen was there she tried to excuse herself.

"Your majesty, a strong wind suddenly started blowing. Is the princess okay?"

"Yes, she is fine, do not worry, you can leave, I will stay with Lissana."

"As your majesty orders."

When the maid left, April used her magic to suppress Lissana's powers, she didn't like doing it because when she did, Lissana spent most of her time sleeping, she knew she had to find another solution since she wouldn't be there to stabilize her magic.

April remembered the earrings her mother had given her and wished she had them at that moment. But unfortunately they had been destroyed when she had released all her power. She wished she knew how her mother had created those earrings, but she didn't know and she had no way of knowing either.

She caressed one of Lissana's ears while thinking about the earrings her mother had given her to limit her power, suddenly an earring appeared in Lissana's ear, she did the same with the other ear and the same thing happened, a small earring appeared in her ear. April was very surprised, she never imagined it would be so easy to create the earrings, although she still didn't know if they worked or not, but she also had no way of checking it, she had to trust that they worked.

That day, April stayed the rest of the day taking care of Lissana. When night came, April returned to her room. When she entered, she saw Alessandro. He had just come out of the bathroom. He was wrapped in a robe and was walking slowly towards her. Her husband was a very attractive and seductive man. She couldn't help but feel her heart racing every time she saw him.

"You're back early today."

She said without taking her eyes off him.

"I've escaped work to be with you." Alessandro poured two glasses of wine, handed one to April and said.

"A glass?"

April took the glass that Alessandro was offering her, took a sip. The wine was sour, it tasted bad. She wrinkled her face and wanted to spit it out, but she didn't, she forced herself to swallow it.

"I still don't understand why you like this, it tastes horrible."

"You still can't get used to the taste of it."

"I don't think I'll ever get used to this, it tastes horrible."

Alessandro closed the distance between them, leaned towards her, kissed her softly and said.

"I've already contacted Sirius, he'll be here tomorrow morning."

"Then I'll leave for Laios tomorrow."

"Be careful on your journey."

"Don't worry, I will."

Alessandro leaned down to kiss her neck and whispered in her ear.

"We should make the most of our time together. Don't you think?"

April took his face in her hands, searched for his mouth and took his lips, she could taste the sour taste of the wine, although she had hated its taste before, on Alessandro's lips she found it sweet and pleasant.

"Yes, let's do that."

Alessandro returned the kiss, his hands surrounding her waist and moving up her back. She wrapped her arms around his neck and pressed her body against his. Alessandro took her in his arms, carried her to the bed and laid her down gently.

Abril half-closed her eyes; she could feel her own eyelashes tickling her cheeks. She felt the shift of Alessandro's weight on her, his wet hair touching her forehead and a pine scent that must have been from the essential oils the maids used to put in the bathtub.

That scent reminded her of the small forest that was in the farthest part of the palace, which she walked through countless times when she lived alone and forgotten. It reminded her of the day she had found Alessandro unconscious in the forest and she thanked God for that day, as it had been the beginning of their love story.

She sank her fingers into Alessandro's hair, curled the tips, and heard Alessandro exhale against her mouth. He pressed his entire body tighter against Abril's, as if he wanted to become one with her. April slid her fingers to the nape of his neck and went down until they settled on the muscles of his back, firm and strong.

Alessandro's lips were like the touch of a feather on April's skin, moving along her neck, her chin until reaching her mouth again; his hands ran over her body, in a soft caress, appreciating every part of her, her breathing and her heartbeats joined into one. April felt as if everything in the world had disappeared and only the two of them were left, as if the stars had exploded around them.

The love they felt for each other was like an overflowing river, which flooded and filled everything in its path.

Alessandro continued to run his lips over her body, soft and warm.

That night he made love to her as if in each caress and in each kiss, he wanted to tell her how much he loved her and how precious she was to him.

Words hadn't been necessary at all, because their bodies screamed over and over again how much they loved each other. They both slept embraced for the rest of the night, their bodies pressed together, sharing their warmth; because even though the sexual act had ended, they wanted to keep making love, they wanted to continue being one being.

CHAPTER 8: MY FIRST AND ONLY FRIEND

The next day, Abril woke up first; seeing Alessandro's sleeping face, she settled on his chest, she wanted to stay like that a little longer before leaving, she wished she wouldn't have to separate from her lover, nor from her daughter. But she couldn't do it, she couldn't ignore the whole world when perhaps she was the only one who could save him.

When Alessandro woke up, she caressed his head and said,

"Good morning, my love."

Abril sat up and responded with a smile to hide the sadness of his departure that she kept in her heart.

"Good morning."

Alessandro, seeing that the sun had not yet fully risen, said to her.

"It's still early, you should sleep a little more."

Abril shook her head and replied.

“I want to leave as soon as possible.”

Alessandro’s lips rested on her forehead, as he put his arms around her.

“Please take care of yourself and don’t do anything reckless, think of me and Lissana. Okay?”

“They will always be in my thoughts at all times.”

Abril stood up, took a blue tunic from her closet, black pants and matching boots.

While she was changing, Alessandro watched her and asked. “And those clothes?”

“I want to be able to move easily if necessary, dresses are uncomfortable and impractical.”

“You’re right about that.”

Abril tied her hair in a bun, small unruly strands came out on the sides, although she dressed simply, she still looked beautiful.

“I’ll go say goodbye to Lissana. Are you coming?”

“Of course, give me a minute.”

Alessandro got up and put on the first thing he found in the closet. After washing their faces, they both went to Lissana’s room.

Abril opened the door very slowly, trying not to make any noise so as not to wake the baby, but she was already awake. The nanny was carrying her and walking around the room trying to get her to sleep. When she saw that the queen and the king had just entered, she turned to her and bowed.

“Good morning, your majesties.”

Lissana, seeing her mother, stretched out her arms towards her so that she could take her in her arms. Abril took her daughter and told the maid to wait outside the room.

Once alone, Abril turned to Alessandro.

"Take good care of Lissana in my absence."

"I will, I will take good care of our daughter."

Lissana stared at her mother with her beautiful golden eyes, while she clung to her mother's clothes as if she knew she was leaving.

April looked at her tenderly, gave her a kiss on the cheeks and said.

"My little one, mommy will be back soon."

The little girl began to cry as if with her crying she wanted to tell her to stay, that broke April's heart, she used her magic to put her to sleep, because she couldn't bear to be separated from her if she heard her cry. She placed her in the crib and said to Alessandro.

"I know you're always very busy but, try to spend more time with Lissana."

"Don't worry, I will, I'll take advantage of the fact that Cassian is here."

"We should go and let her sleep."

April said as she covered her daughter with a blanket.

"Yes."

Then they went to Maya's room, she knocked on the door and waited for them to open the door or invite her in.

Maya opened the door and motioned for them to be quiet since Cassian was still sleeping, she left the room and closed it very quietly so as not to make any noise.

"I came to check on you, I'm glad to see you're okay."

Maya still didn't feel completely well, but she felt well enough to get up, she wanted to be honest with Abril, but Alessandro was standing next to her, in the end Maya had to lie even though she didn't want to. "Yes, I'm very well."

Even though Maya said she was fine, Abril could see the shadows under her eyes and the lack of color in her skin, she took her hand and infused her magic into Maya without Alessandro noticing. Which Maya thanked her for.

"Thank you very much Aby."

"I came to say goodbye, I'll be away for a few days."

"Good luck on your trip."

"Thank you very much, I'll need it."

Alessandro saw one of the maids go by, he excused himself for a moment to go ask the maid to prepare a bag with food. April took the opportunity to talk to Maya.

"Yesterday I remembered that in the kingdom of Laios, there is a book that talks about fairies, I thought it was just fiction but, I don't know, maybe it can be of some use to you, so I will bring it for you."

Maya gave him a hug and said. "Thank you very much Aby."

"I promised to help you and that's what I will do."

"I have no way to thank you for your help, you always save me."

"You are my first friend, I do it with pleasure, so don't think that you have to thank me, because you don't."

When Alessandro returned, they both went to their office, Sirius and Taren were already there waiting for them, ready to leave. April thanked them for their availability.

"Thank you both very much for coming so quickly, I'm counting on you on this trip."

They both nodded at once; Alessandro took out several bags with gold coins, one he gave to Sirius, another to Taren and the last bag he gave to April, it was bigger and heavier than the others, when she received it she said.

"Don't you think this is too much, I'm only leaving for three days."

"I know, but even if it's only three days, I hope you have enough and that you don't need anything." Someone knocked on the door, interrupting their conversation, Alessandro let her in immediately, it was the maid he had found in the hallway, she was carrying a satchel in one hand and some brown cloaks in the other, Alessandro took April's cloak and helped her put it on, April said to him.

"I see you've thought of everything, thank you very much."

"I wish you a good trip and a quick return."

April kissed him and said.

"See you soon my love."

CHAPTER 9: BARREN LAND

Before leaving, Alessandro asked Sirius to take care of April, to protect her and bring her back safe and sound, he told Taren the same; he left his most precious treasure in her hands.

Alessandro gave his wife a long kiss, he would have liked to accompany her to the door, to say goodbye until the last moment, but with that he would only attract attention, something they did not want, since April's trip was secret.

The last words before April, before leaving Alessandro's office, were:

"Take care of Lissana and keep her close, we do not know what may lurk in the shadows."

Upon leaving, they headed to the entrance, April was wearing the hood of her cloak even though it was hot, she did not want anyone to see her leave, to realize that she would not be in the palace.

At the entrance was the carriage in which she had arrived, which took them to the outskirts of the city. Sirius asked him to leave them on the road and return to the wizard tower. Once alone, Taren asked.

“How will we continue our journey without a transport?”

Sirius took out some bracelets from his bag, handing one to April and one to Taren. “We will use this.”

“We will use a bracelet? Tell me this is a joke!”

“This is not a joke.”

Taren examined the bracelet skeptically and said.

“You should have taken out a teleportation scroll at the very least.”

“This is better than any scroll, these bracelets will allow us to teleport more easily, although it is used personally, each one will have to use their teleportation artifact, which is an advantage in case there are problems.

April put on the bracelet and asked.

“What do you mean by that?”

“We are going to the enemy kingdom, they could attack us, if that happens escaping will be our top priority, the scrolls can only be used by the one who carries them, it would be dangerous if we separate, with the bracelets even if we separate we can escape.”

Taren stared at the bracelet he wore on his wrist and asked.

“And how do they work?”

“You just have to press the jewel in the center twice.”

“What if we press it by mistake?”

“Hmm... Try not to.”

Taren was a little suspicious of the artifact he had given them.

“One question. How long ago did you create these artifacts?”

“Recently.”

“But you have already tried them. Right?”

“Of course, a couple of times and there have been no problems. Sirius approached April and said.

“In the kingdom of Laios there is a barrier that protects it, we can only transport ourselves to the outskirts of the kingdom, there try not to separate from us at any time.”

Sirius pointed to the magic ring that April wore on her hand and said to her while pointing at it.

“Your hair color stands out a lot so change it and try to cover your face with the hood, we don’t want anyone to recognize you.”

April changed the vibrant red color of her hair to a honey blonde and answered.

“I don’t think anyone can recognize my face, I was only a princess in name, I was always locked in the farthest part of the main palace, the only ones who could recognize my face are my brothers and the maid who brought me food from time to time and the guards who brought me here on my wedding day.”

“That’s good, we won’t have to be so cautious then, we should be close to appear in the same place.”

Taren approached and said.

“I just hope we arrive at our destination in one piece.”

“Stop complaining, everything will be fine, on the count of three.”

They all brought their hands to the magic artifact and pressed it twice, in the blink of an eye, they arrived at the outskirts of the kingdom of Laios.

The golden towers of the immense palace shone in the distance. Taren walked away and started to vomit, feeling like his stomach had turned inside out.

April and Sirius were fine. Taren glared at him as if he wanted to kill him with his eyes. April walked over, took his hand, infused her magic into it and asked.

“Are you okay?”

“I’m fine now.”

She glared at Sirius and said.

“We better use a teleportation scroll, I’m not using that damn thing again.”

“You’re just complaining for nothing.”

April asked Sirius. “Are you okay?”

” “Yes, perfectly.”

April stared at the kingdom of Laios from a distance and said.

“I never thought I would return to Laios.”

Sirius asked her.

“Do you hate this place?”

“I don’t have any good memories of this place, but I know if I hate it or if it makes me uneasy, so let’s hurry up and complete our mission so we can return home.”

Tarren seeing that they were still quite far away said.

“Your majesty is right, we have a long way to go, so let’s walk.”

Sirius started walking and said to them.

"We will stop at the first village and get a carriage to continue, it is not too far so we won't have to walk too much." They walked for half a day, when they reached the first village, April was surprised to see that all the land was contaminated and what previously seemed to have been a rice field, had become an arid field where not even weeds grew.

Tarren said.

"I thought the kingdom of Laios was very prosperous."

Sirius answered.

"And until a few months ago it was, one of the wizards from my tower has family in Laios, when he came, he passed by these fields and it wasn't like this, I remember clearly why he was saying that the rice from these fields was the best."

April approached the field, took a handful of soil, felt a darkness coming from that land.

Some sickly-looking villagers approached them and asked if they came from the city, if things were better there.

April answered.

"We don't come from the city, but. Could you tell us what happened here?"

An old man, who was barely supporting himself with a cane, answered.

"A few months ago there was a great earthquake, a black miasma covered the rice fields, withered everything and contaminated the water; if you are passing by it would be better for you to leave immediately, many of us are sick.

April couldn't leave that place without helping those people, although she didn't live in Laios, she was still a Venobich, she took his hand and infused a small amount of magic into him, so that he wouldn't notice that she had done it and said to him.

"Don't worry about us, we are healers, let us help you in whatever we can."

That old man felt great relief and said to him.

"Thank you very much, we will be immensely grateful if you help us."

CHAPTER 10: THE MONSTER OF THE WELL

Sirius approached April when she was alone and asked her.

What do you think you're doing?

Helping.

I see that, but we don't have time for that, we're in a hurry.

Yes, but I can't leave without helping these people, I can't abandon them to their fate.

Sirius gave a long sigh and said.

I understand that you want to help, but you shouldn't show your power, it can be dangerous.

And I don't plan to do it, that's why I said we're healers.

I don't know anything about plants and Taren even less.

That doesn't matter, we just have to act as healers.

April approached the old man she had spoken to before and asked him where the well was. He told her it was contaminated, but she still insisted that he show it to her; when she got to the well, April looked in, the water looked black.

The water in this well, like the water in the rivers, has turned black, it's contaminated.

And where do they get the water from?

We've been getting it from vendors who come from other kingdoms, but we're running out of money, so our destiny is already written.

I don't think the same, destiny isn't something that's going to happen to you but what you want to happen to you, so you have to think that everything will turn out well, don't you think?

I hope it's like you say, I've been in this village all my life, we're all like a big family here, I wouldn't want to lose them.

And it won't.

April motioned for Taren to take the old man away, she needed to be alone to purify the water.

Sir, could you show me where the sick are?

Of course, follow me.

We will go now.

Sirius said. Once they were far enough away so that they couldn't see what they were doing, April put her hand in the water, she could feel something evil and dark coming from the depths. She let out her magic like a torrent, little by little the water became clearer, suddenly a monster came out of the water, it was cross-eyed and gave off a black liquid.

Before Sirius did anything, April released her silver flames and turned it into ashes.

_ I think it was that monster that was contaminating the water.

April put her hand in the water again as if nothing had happened, she finished purifying the water and said.

I thought she had finished off all the monsters, apparently I was wrong, there are still some out there causing havoc.

You have changed a lot.

_After everything I've been through, it would be strange if I were still the same, don't you think?

April glanced at the well, the water looked clean and crystal clear.

That's it, now let's go see the sick.

How are you going to explain that you've purified the water?

_I'm not going to do it, you take care of that, I'll go see the sick, so make up a good story and try to help in some way.

April began to walk away, Sirius sighed and said to himself.

He had forgotten that she can be very annoying when she wants to.

April went in the direction that Taren and that old man had taken, halfway along the road a girl met a girl, she looked thin and had dark circles under her eyes, she approached her and with a hoarse and barely audible voice she asked her.

Do you have anything to eat?

April felt her heart break when she saw that girl, she took an apple out of the bag she still carried on her shoulder and asked her.

Do you like apples?

The girl nodded vigorously, April handed her the apple; the girl devoured the apple with a fierce hunger. April stroked her head, used her healing magic and immediately the girl's face changed.

Is it a magic apple? The girl asked with her mouth full.

I feel better after eating it.

April gave her a soft smile full of tenderness and answered.

That's right, so keep it a secret.

The girl finished eating what she had in her mouth and said.

My entire family is sick, if I give them some, will they get better?

You don't have to do that, I'll go see them and they'll be fine soon.

Do you have any more magic apples?

No, but I'm a healer, I make sick people get well.

The girl jumped for joy, took April's hand and dragged her to her house, a small cabin, when she entered April saw a man, a woman and two young girls lying on the ground, the girl said to her.

They can't move, they're very bad, everyone says they'll die, but they won't, right? You're going to cure them, right?

April could see the terror of losing her family in the eyes of that girl, she caressed her head and said.

No, they won't die, they'll be fine soon, I promise you, I'll need some water, could you go get it?

Sadly the girl said.

The little water we had is gone and the water in the well is contaminated.

Don't worry about it, the water is no longer contaminated, why don't you go and check it out? The girl took a clay pot and ran to the well to get water.

Once alone, April approached the girl's family, they looked very bad, they were half dead. She infused her magic into them and immediately restored the color to their faces.

After making sure they would be okay, she left before the girl returned. Taren had gone to find her and said to her.

Your majesty, where were you? I was helping a girl, do you know where the other sick people are? Yes, they all seem to be very bad.

Take me to them.

Taren led April to a barn, there they had all the sick people lying on the ground covered with thin blankets, those who were a little better were tending to those who could not even get up. Taren said.

Everyone in the village has become ill.

April approached a young woman with dark skin, black hair and green eyes. And she asked her.

Is there any medicine you are using to treat them?

We have prepared an herbal tea, but it is not working, they have all gotten worse.

Show me what herbs you have used, I will help you treat them.

That young woman thanked her for her help, shortly after she began to stagger, Taren held her in his arms before she fainted.

- What do I do with her? She must be exhausted, find a place to lay her down and then go to the well for water, we need to hydrate them.

Okay.

April asked another of the villagers who were helping and asked him the same thing she had asked the young woman who had fainted.

After seeing the herbs they had, when Taren returned with the water, she prepared a chamomile tea, she began to distribute it among the sick, although that was only an excuse to put her hand on them and be able to use her magic without them noticing.
