Chapter 112: Advancement to Innate, Nurturing the Spirit Root_2

Once the Qi Force within the body is completely exhausted, then the attempt to break through the bottleneck will utterly fail.

In that case, the Mud Palace Pill's door will be completely shut, and there will be no more opportunities for a breakthrough in the future.

However, Jiang Fan, who has cultivated the Soaring Snake Technique, is different. This is a top-tier Martial Arts Technique. Once successfully cultivated, the Qi Force contained within the body is several times, even more than ten times, that of other Grandmasters.

Moreover, the quality is also superior.

If combined with powerful Soul Power, breaking through the Mud Palace Pill is a sure thing.

Of course, if Jiang Fan singularly crashes through and opens the Mud Palace Pill's door in one go, it would be unprecedented.

Boom~~

In the next second, the Soaring Snake Qi Force instantly surged in, akin to a fish leaping the dragon gate, causing the Mud Palace Pill to undergo a dramatic change.

As if at this moment, natural forces of heaven and earth resonated with the Mud Palace Pill.

A mysterious natural power came from all directions, penetrating deep into his Sea of Consciousness.

"This!"

Jiang Fan sat cross-legged on the ground, suddenly discovering that his way of perceiving the world had completely changed, and his Soul Power had undergone an unprecedented transformation.

Deep within the Mud Palace Pill, a mysterious seed seemed to appear, deeply rooting itself within, beginning to sprout, as if resonating with the world.

Like a conduit, it connected this world.

In that instant, his Soul Power also transformed, seemingly giving birth to Spiritual Sense.

"Unbelievable; is this the power of an Innate Martial Artist?"

Jiang Fan's eyes revealed a shocking gleam.

He understood that an Innate Martial Artist is actually equivalent to a cultivator at the Qi Cultivation Stage.

People born with Spirit Roots are naturally Innate Martial Artists.

Ordinary people must painstakingly train in the Martial Dao to step into the Innate Realm.

Yet those born with Spirit Roots become Innate Martial Artists from their very first cultivation.

Though it seems unfair, there's no other choice.

There are many unfair things in this world.

Like the son of a billionaire, born with wealth that an average person could not attain in ten lifetimes; even all the money earned through immense effort would be merely a day's interest for them.

This is the unreasonable nature of talent.

"After stepping into the Innate Realm, the Qi Force within the body undergoes dramatic changes."

"It will transform into Primordial Qi Force."

"But according to a cultivator's explanation, the so-called Primordial Qi Force is actually the Spiritual Power of a cultivator."

"It's a unique energy condensed from the fusion of Qi Force within the body and Soul Power."

"A wisp of Spiritual Power can easily crush dozens of wisps of a Grandmaster's Qi Force."

"Moreover, Spiritual Power contains many wonderful uses."

Jiang Fan's eyes flickered.

He sensed that the Qi Force deep within his Dantian and Sea of Qi instantly disappeared, transformed into wisps of Spiritual Power, hovering like clouds deep within the Dantian and Sea of Qi.

Yet each wisp of Spiritual Power was incredibly potent in energy and destructive power.

Far beyond what the previous Grandmaster's Qi Force could compare.

Thunk!

Thinking of this, Jiang Fan's mind moved, slightly stirring, instantly activating the Spiritual Power within his body, and then a finger shot out; a terrifying Spiritual Power burst forth.

Like an arrow, it instantly pierced through the wall ahead, leaving a small pit, with a large amount of rubble falling from the wall.

This power is incredibly terrifying.

If it struck a mortal, or even a Grandmaster, it would rend the Grandmaster's body into pieces.

"Too monstrous."

Jiang Fan was speechless, realizing the gap between a cultivator and a martial artist—it was simply not even on the same level.

Just a wisp of Spiritual Power within the body could instantly obliterate a Martial Arts Grandmaster.

What's more terrifying is that a cultivator also nurtures Spiritual Sense.

The power of Spiritual Sense can easily lock onto a mortal's vital points.

Wherever it is aimed, it strikes.

It means, if noted by a cultivator, then one would be annihilated instantly, unable to resist.

Even if a Martial Arts Grandmaster excels in movement techniques, it would be futile.

It's like being targeted by a missile.

The two are not of the same dimension.

He felt that compared to before, he had become at least ten times stronger.

One could say, now with just a thought, he could instantly kill his former self, completely unstoppable.

In some ways, he now counts as a cultivator at the First-Layer Qi Cultivation Stage.

"Moreover, now in my Dantian and Sea of Qi, at least dozens of wisps of Spiritual Power have been born."

Through introspection, Jiang Fan sensed the condition within his Dantian and Sea of Qi.

Generally, when a Martial Arts Grandmaster advances to the Innate, they may produce at most two or three wisps of Spiritual Power, which is already quite exceptional.

After all, the amount of Spiritual Power is related to the original amount of Qi Force of the Grandmaster.

The more Qi Force, the more Spiritual Power can be converted.

As Jiang Fan, who cultivates the Soaring Snake Technique, has a considerable amount of Grandmaster's Qi Force within him.

After advancing to the Innate Realm, such vast Qi Force rapidly converted into Spiritual Power, yielding at least dozens of wisps.

It can be said that from the start, he was above other Innate Martial Artists.

Undoubtedly, Spiritual Sense and Spiritual Power are standard for cultivators.

Previously, the Storage Bag and the Space Ring he obtained; mortals can't open them because they lack Spiritual Sense and Spiritual Power.

So even if mortals obtain Immortal Treasures, it is futile.

They can only stare blankly.

"Wait, is this the Spiritual Qi scattered in the world?"

At this moment, Jiang Fan's heart stirred.

He activated the power of Spiritual Sense, starting to perceive the natural world around him.

Suddenly, he discovered the world was nurturing strands of Heaven and Earth Spiritual Qi.

If he hadn't nurtured Spirit Roots, he wouldn't have been able to perceive the existence of Spiritual Qi.

Even if he could perceive the existence of Spiritual Qi, he wouldn't be able to absorb it for his use.

At this moment, he sensed that with a thought, he seemed to catch a wisp of Spiritual Qi between heaven and earth.

This wisp of Spiritual Qi was then devoured by the Spirit Root, entering his body, quickly refined into Spiritual Power.

But because the devoured Spiritual Qi was too little, the converted Spiritual Power was practically insignificant.

"No wonder this is the Mortal World, with practically no trace of cultivators."

"The Spiritual Qi here is so sparse."

"Even if a prodigiously talented cultivator came here, they'd likely be unable to improve their cultivation."

"No wonder Weiwei has been unable to begin cultivation and introduce Qi into her body for so long."

Jiang Fan sensed the difficulty of cultivation in this world.

If one cannot devour a large amount of Spiritual Qi, then the Spiritual Power within cannot grow.

Thus, his cultivation would naturally be unable to improve swiftly, eventually remaining stuck at this Realm, unable to achieve a breakthrough.

If he wants to progress further, he still needs to enter the Cultivation Realm.

"The Soaring Snake Technique is already cultivated to its peak."

"To continue cultivation, I must switch to Cultivation Techniques."

"Although now I have obtained two Cultivation Techniques, they seem quite ordinary."

"It's better to wait and first obtain the Immortal Cave Mansion's inheritance."

Jiang Fan fell into contemplation.

If he hadn't obtained the Fifth-Grade Opportunity, then naturally he would want to cultivate those two Cultivation Techniques now.

But since he got the Fifth-Grade Opportunity and has a chance to acquire better techniques, he can afford to wait.

After all, it's just six or seven days; he's not in a hurry.

For cultivators, a solid foundation is of paramount importance.

Start early, always lead.

High-grade techniques certainly surpass low-grade ones without question.

"But what grade is my Spirit Root?"

"Is it a Low-grade Spirit Root, Middle-grade Spirit Root, or High-grade Spirit Root?"

Jiang Fan was quite curious.

After all, the grade of his Spirit Root relates to his future cultivation path.

The higher the grade of the Spirit Root, the better.

Who would dislike having excellent talent?

But he felt, having cultivated the Soaring Snake Technique to the Perfection Level and gained the assistance of Luck Points, that his nurtured Spirit Root Talent wouldn't be too poor.

"Right, the virtual panel should record the information about me."

Suddenly, Jiang Fan couldn't help but think of this, given that his virtual panel can display various information about him, and perhaps could also show his Spirit Root Talent.
