Chapter 113: Cultivating Earth Spirit Root Talent

Thinking of this, Jiang Fan didn't hesitate and immediately opened the virtual panel on his body.

[Name: Jiang Fan]

[Realm: First-Layer Qi Cultivation (1%)]

What?!

Seeing the series of information, Jiang Fan's pupils contracted, he was simply incredulous.

His spiritual root talent had actually reached the level of Earth Spirit Root, it was utterly unimaginable.

According to the cultivation information he obtained earlier, the spiritual roots of many cultivators in the cultivation realm were divided into low-grade spirit root, middle-grade spirit root, high-grade spirit root, earth spirit root, and celestial spirit root.

The vast majority of cultivators actually only possessed the talent of a low-grade spirit root.

These figures are also the bottom-tier cultivators in the cultivation realm, they can only do some menial work all their lives.

Wanting to advance further is basically impossible.

As for those with middle-grade spiritual root talent, they barely catch the attention of some cultivation sects. If their will and comprehension are good, they can become outer sect disciples.

With some effort and the aid of opportunities, they might become foundation establishment cultivators.

If one possesses top-grade spiritual root talent, then no sect assessment is needed; they can become sect disciples directly, even an inner sect disciple with ease, such people can be called geniuses.

But such people are really too few, not scarce to the point of being able to count on one's fingers, but quite rare indeed.

One in every hundred can be considered.

As for the earth spirit root, it is the genius among geniuses, who will completely be cultivated as true disciples.

To say they appear once in a hundred years is not an exaggeration.

And the celestial spirit root is purely an encounter one can't seek, said to appear once in a millennium.

Many sects are eager for them.

He never expected that his postnatal returning to innate, breaking through the quality, unexpectedly resulted in nurturing earth spirit root talent.

If someone with his talent appeared in the cultivation realm, it would certainly become highly sought after by many sects.

"No wonder I could pass the Immortal Cave Mansion's test."

"If one possesses earth spirit root talent, no sect would ignore it."

"But why I nurtured earth spirit root is also quite unbelievable."

Jiang Fan marveled endlessly.

He initially thought nurturing middle-grade spirit root or even high-grade spirit root would be pretty good.

This actually puts one above a significant number of cultivators.

As for achieving earth spirit root, it's purely beyond his imagination.

But upon careful reflection, aside from the relations with the Soaring Snake Technique, the main reason is his life chart.

After expending a large amount of luck points, this mysterious energy can also help improve one's spiritual root talent.

That's why his original top-grade spirit root talent was forcibly enhanced to earth spirit root talent.

"This is also a good thing."

"Since becoming a cultivator, naturally having higher spiritual root talent is better."

"No wonder I can sense the spiritual qi between heaven and earth so clearly."

"Turns out it is because of my earth spirit root?"

Jiang Fan blinked his eyes.

Actually, just now he also noticed that his experience seemed a bit different from what Daoist Liu and the ancestor of the Li Family described earlier.

After all, when these two bottom-tier cultivators described their cultivation experience, they mentioned their efficiency in devouring spiritual qi was extremely low, and for a long time, they couldn't devour much spiritual qi or convert much spiritual power.

But he, even while in the mortal world, seemed able to absorb spiritual qi.

His cultivation efficiency was far beyond their imagination.

This is precisely the gap in talent.

"Lifespan has increased to one hundred twenty years, too?"

Jiang Fan found himself quite satisfied.

After all, who would complain about their lifespan being too long?

It is said that the lifespan limit for Qi Cultivation Stage cultivators is just one hundred twenty years.

Unless one becomes a foundation establishment cultivator, lifespan may further skyrocket.

But now it seems, the difference in lifespan between mortals and Qi Cultivation Stage cultivators is not too vast.

Even if mortals take the martial path and nurture a spirit root, they're simply on the same starting line as ordinary cultivators.

Moreover, for mortals to become innate martial artists, without special opportunities, it takes at least forty to fifty years.

In this way, there's even less hope for advancing further.

So, since ancient times, there have been very few mortals who can achieve immortality.

Of course, it's not completely impossible, it's just that the chances are really low.

Whew!

Another hour passed, and after Jiang Fan thoroughly stabilized his cultivation, he walked out of the practice chamber.

At this moment, Su Weiwei had already prepared the meals, and the room was filled with the enticing aroma of delicious dishes.

She was dressed in a red silk nightgown, wrapping her graceful figure tightly, showing an alluring curve, truly irresistibly seductive.

Every move contained infinite charm.

It seemed her physique was also continuously developing and evolving, the enchantment on her was growing stronger and stronger.

Often a smile could fascinate people so much they lose themselves.

"Husband."

Su Weiwei joyfully exclaimed upon seeing Jiang Fan come out, but she blinked her beautiful eyes, feeling her husband seemed somewhat different: "Why do you seem different from before? Perhaps your cultivation has broken through?"
