Chapter 180: Six-winged Poison Bee Hatches, Winter Arrives_2

Jiang Fan curiously asked.

If they build a nest inside the wooden house, it would easily get discovered by other loose cultivators.

"That's not a problem."

"Previously, I happened to buy a mid-grade magical artifact at the market—a Spirit Beast Bag."

"I can keep the Six-winged Poison Bees in the Spirit Beast Bag and let them build a nest inside."

"Although the internal space of this mid-grade magical artifact is not very large, it's enough to sustain through the Qi Cultivation Stage."

"If I can advance to Foundation Establishment, then it's enough to switch to a higher-grade Spirit Beast Bag."

Su Weiwei pointed at the Spirit Beast Bag on her body.

After all, among many loose cultivators, there are also some who are beast cultivators, contracted to spirit beasts.

So finding a Spirit Beast Bag is quite easy.

As long as you carry the Spirit Beast Bag, you can carry the nest of Six-winged Poison Bees with you.

This way, if she encounters an enemy, she can summon a large number of Six-winged Poison Bees at any time.

"It seems you've become a qualified beast cultivator."

Jiang Fan smiled.

Undoubtedly, even if Su Weiwei were on her own, she could still live safely.

Compared to before, it's hard to tell how much her self-defense capability has increased.

"Still far from my husband."

"However, husband, I just heard some news that Cyan Forest Market seems to be planning to rebuild."

"Are we going back to Cyan Forest Market?"

Su Weiwei looked at Jiang Fan.

"No rush, there's still a long way to go."

"They say it's rebuilding, but it's not certain when it will be completed."

"Let's wait until Cyan Forest Market is rebuilt before discussing it."

Jiang Fan naturally wants to return to Cyan Forest Market. After all, having such a market means you can buy various treasures.

But he prefers to play it safe.

Wait until the situation is completely stable.

Seven or eight days later.

The experience of veteran loose cultivators was indeed incredibly abundant.

A cold wave struck.

The entire Ten Thousand Beasts Mountain Range quickly entered winter.

The sky began to fall into an expanse of white snow, gray and misty.

The temperature dropped to at least minus ten degrees, and if you were deep in the Ten Thousand Beasts Mountain Range, it might reach minus twenty or thirty degrees.

The ground was covered with thick white snow.

The original rivers were even frozen.

Fortunately, those living in the Ten Thousand Beasts Mountain Range are loose cultivators, not ordinary people.

Otherwise, just this big snow would freeze unknown numbers of people to death.

Of course, for Jiang Fan, it had no impact.

Because he drew a Temperature Stabilization Talisman.

Just one Temperature Stabilization Talisman is enough to make the wooden house warm, keeping indoor temperatures steady.

This way, no matter how cold the outside is, it cannot affect the temperature inside the wooden house.

Life naturally becomes very comfortable.

And this is the greatness of a Talisman Master.

Not something that other professions can compare to.

However, even so, the lives of loose cultivators began to become difficult.

After all, with the snow falling in the Ten Thousand Beasts Mountain Range, many demon beasts hid away.

Trying to locate the demon beasts became increasingly difficult.

Moreover, due to the heavy snow, traveling became extremely challenging.

So, in recent days, loose cultivators' harvests were very little.

Even the demon beasts in winter became increasingly ferocious.

After all, many low-grade demon beasts were in hibernation, hiding deep within caves.

For those upper-rank demon beasts, hunting prey became a bit difficult.

Hence, some demon beasts began targeting human cultivators.

Because every piece of human cultivator's flesh contains enormous energy, with tender meat.

Naturally, they are one of the premium prey.

"Damn it, more and more demon beasts are coming out of the depths of the mountain."

"Indeed, initially, this was the outskirts of the Ten Thousand Beasts Mountain Range where demon beasts were few, but because winter has arrived, instead, many demon beasts have come out."

"Although the increased number of demon beasts is indeed a good thing, as we no longer need to arduously search for them like before, the problem is, the number of demon beasts is too overwhelming, and we're completely no match."

"Last night, several demon beasts suddenly appeared in the outskirts of our valley, attacking a few loose cultivators' wooden houses, leading to several families being eaten by demon cultivators, leaving no trace behind."

"Indeed, I can sense more and more demon beasts are targeting this valley. If this continues, there's a chance demon beasts could launch a large-scale attack on us."

"Alas, if only Cyan Forest Market were still here, even if many loose cultivators gather, with the array of Cyan Forest Market, no matter how many demon beasts come, we could kill them all without fear."

"The problem is, Cyan Forest Market is no longer here, we don't need to consider such matters."

"Previously, wasn't it said that Cyan Forest Market is about to be rebuilt? When will the reconstruction be completed?"

"Haha, you should all know the way those sects do things, as slow as possible, especially after the war just ended, they still need to recuperate, how could they rebuild so quickly."

Many loose cultivators discussed it, faces looking quite grim.

They could sense from the depths of the forest that those demon beasts, posing extreme threats, were lurking.

At any moment, they might launch an attack.

However, these demon beasts also have some degree of intelligence.

They know that the threat from these human cultivators is also considerable, so they don't dare to launch a reckless attack.

Instead, in the dead of night, these demon beasts secretly ambushed human cultivators.

And they succeeded repeatedly.

"In this case, rather than waiting for cultivators from the Great Sun Sword Sect to return, we'd better save ourselves."

"Otherwise, Cyan Forest Market isn't rebuilt yet, and we die at the hands of the demon beasts."

"Oh, what are your thoughts?"

"We can build walls around the valley to block those demon beasts' attacks."

"It's useless; those demon beasts are powerful, ordinary walls can't possibly stop them."

"It's better than doing nothing at all; at least it can cause some obstruction to those demon beasts."

With a few words, many loose cultivators made a decision.

They started building walls around the valley.

For cultivators, building walls is quite simple.

Some loose cultivators use Earth and Stone Technique, quickly condensing heavy stone walls.

Then, they pour water over the stone walls.

After a night, it can form ice walls.

In no time, a wall surrounded the entire valley, leaving only two or three entrances.

Making it convenient for cultivators to enter and exit.

This also made loose cultivators feel more at ease.

At least ordinary demon beasts can no longer easily cross the walls.

At this moment, in Jiang Fan's house.

"Husband, it seems trouble is really coming."

Su Weiwei's face was very grave as she spoke to Jiang Fan.

"What do you mean? Did you notice something?"

Jiang Fan asked.

"That's right."

"Earlier, the Soldier Bees were hunting outside, searching for food."

"They sensed a large gathering of demon beasts deep in the forest."

"Undoubtedly, these demon beasts have set their sights on this Nameless Valley."

"They could launch an attack at any moment."

"Such an ice wall might not be able to stop those demon beasts' attacks."

Su Weiwei said in a heavy tone.

As a beast cultivator, she can keenly sense the aura of various demon beasts and spirit beasts.

Especially the Six-winged Poison Bees, which act as her eyes.

Allowing her to detect scenes tens of miles away.

Like monitoring drones.

That's why she felt this matter wouldn't end so simply.

If they don't withstand this demon beast attack, those demon beasts might consider this place as easy prey, turning it into their hunting grounds, launching repeated attacks.

In the forest world, the weak are synonymous with sin.

"If that's the case, then we need to make preparations in advance."

Jiang Fan took a deep breath.

But he had no plans to leave this Nameless Valley.

After all, even if he leaves here, there's nowhere to go.

More importantly, if they leave this place, the outside becomes even more dangerous.

There's a chance of encountering more demon beasts.

At that time, it might not only be Tier One Demon Beasts but also Tier Two and Tier Three Demon Beasts.

Countless loose cultivators have died in the treacherous Ten Thousand Beasts Mountain Range.

Why do so many loose cultivators prefer to gather here and not go to other markets?

It's because the journey to other markets is too long.

Moreover, the journey is fraught with countless dangers, not unlike the legendary eighty-one trials.

The death rate exceeds ninety percent.

So it's better to stay here and continue living.

There's no need to risk death.

However, he wasn't overly worried.

After months of arduous cultivation, his strength had significantly increased.

Even when facing late-stage Qi cultivators, he wouldn't fear much.

If worse comes to worst, he could easily flee with Su Weiwei.
