Chapter 186: Breaking Through the Lifespan Limit, Loose Cultivator Returns to Cyan Forest Market_2

"So they naturally aren't in a hurry to rebuild Cyan Forest Market."

"Now that it's all settled, the efficiency has increased several times."

Someone spoke mysteriously, revealing the details and tricks involved.

"If that's the case, do we have a chance to live in Cyan Forest Market?"

Many people asked eagerly.

After all, who would want to live in the slum area if they could live inside the market?

Not only are resources abundant within the market, but the spiritual qi is also dense.

More importantly, there is a guarantee of safety.

For loose cultivators, it's practically a paradise.

"Alas, they said before that Cyan Wood Market would expand by double, giving us loose cultivators a chance to live there."

"Now it seems like wishful thinking."

"Because the double expansion area is given to the Five Elements Pill Sect."

"Those shops and residences have long been occupied by sect cultivators from the Five Elements Pill Sect."

"There's no place for us loose cultivators."

"Even if we had spirit stones, it's likely impossible to live there."

One loose cultivator said helplessly.

He felt that his hopes were completely dashed and they still had no hope of living inside the market.

They would still have to live in the slum area.

"No way, can't they make Cyan Forest Market bigger?"

"That way, it could accommodate more cultivators, right?"

"Right, and it's not like we wouldn't pay rent; even if they don't want to give us a price break, they still want to make money, don't they?"

Many loose cultivators were rather confused.

"Haha, you don't understand, this isn't about money."

"The spiritual qi contained in a Tier Two Spirit Vein is limited."

"If Foundation Establishment cultivators use a bit more, then Qi Cultivation Stage cultivators will have less."

"So the number of cultivators a spirit vein can accommodate is limited."

"If too many cultivators move in, it will dilute the daily spiritual qi consumption of those sect cultivators."

"Naturally, they don't want us loose cultivators to devour the spiritual qi of the spirit vein."

"So the number of cultivators who can live in the market is limited."

"Now, a large number of sect cultivators have come to mine these two veins."

"They've already filled up every house in the market, so there won't be any room for us loose cultivators."

A loose cultivator explained.

He indicated that this wasn't about money, but purely about the limited number of cultivators a Tier Two Spirit Vein could support.

To ensure the cultivation efficiency of sect cultivators, they definitely wouldn't allow loose cultivators to live there.

No matter how much money one has, it's not possible.

"So even if Cyan Forest Market is rebuilt, we'd still have to live in the slum area."

"Damn it, if that's the case, how is it any different from our current life?"

"Quite right, with our strength, we can still survive in the Ten Thousand Beasts Mountain Range. Why go back to be bullied by sect cultivators and pay them rent every year?"

"You can't say that; there are advantages to living in Cyan Forest Market. At least the demon beasts and demons dare not approach casually. Although the valley is much safer now, who knows if those demon beasts won't return?"

"Yes, even if we don't have to worry about safety issues, if we want to further our progress, we'll still need the magical artifacts, talismans, and elixirs refined by the sect."

"Indeed, we loose cultivators can only provide some raw materials, but the final products still have to be refined by sect cultivators. There's no way around it; no matter how we wish, we can't do it ourselves."

Many loose cultivators discussed fervently.

They were also helpless.

But if they wanted to advance further, they would have to return to Cyan Forest Market and endure the exploitation of sect cultivators.

Of course, some loose cultivators felt that staying in the Nameless Valley wasn't all bad.

They didn't want to return to Cyan Forest Market and be charged rent by others.

However, no matter what, the rebuilding of Cyan Forest Market was indeed beneficial to loose cultivators.

At least they had one more place to go.

At this moment, in Jiang Fan's home.

Jiang Fan and Su Weiwei also knew about the rapid reconstruction of Cyan Forest Market.

It's said that in a few more days, Cyan Forest Market could be completed.

After all, with a dozen Foundation Establishment cultivators personally taking charge and using magic, it's naturally not something that Qi Cultivation Stage cultivators can match in efficiency.

This was an unprecedented event for many loose cultivators.

"Husband, are we going back to Cyan Forest Market?"

Su Weiwei asked.

"No, living here is much better."

"No rent to pay either."

"Nor does anyone control us."

"If we need resources, we can just go to the market to buy them."

"Why go back to the slum area and live under others' roofs?"

Jiang Fan said calmly.

Initially, he lived in the slum area and endured Great Sun Sword Sect's exploitation because there was no other choice.

Because at that time, he was weak, only at the First-Layer Qi Cultivation.

Staying long-term in the wilderness would have been a death sentence.

But now, things were completely different.

During this time, his cultivation had skyrocketed, breaking through all the way to the Sixth-Layer Qi Cultivation Stage.

In terms of strength, even late-stage Qi Cultivation cultivators were no match for him.

So, he had the ability and capability to survive in the wild.

Therefore, he had no intention of returning to Cyan Forest Market's slum area.

Of course, if he could live inside Cyan Forest Market and enjoy the abundance of spiritual qi there, going back was feasible.

But if he could only live in the slum area, he was not interested.

"You're right."

"Moreover, the cultivation of six-winged poison bees is more suited to living in the wilderness."

"Otherwise, if many six-winged poison bees return from hunting outside and are discovered by sect cultivators, it might cause trouble."

"It's better to continue cultivating in this Nameless Valley."

Su Weiwei also strongly agreed with her husband's decision.

Six-winged poison bees needed time to grow fully.

Even an ancient strange insect requires time to grow and won't become powerful overnight.

Furthermore, this Nameless Valley was blessed with clear mountains and waters, beautiful scenery.

It was practically like an outer world paradise.

She'd even grown a bit attached, and wasn't keen to leave for now.

"By the way, husband, how's your progress with the Soaring Snake Technique?"

Su Weiwei asked curiously.

She knew that a few days ago, her husband had obtained a fragment of the Soaring Snake Technique, acquiring the Qi Cultivation Chapter and Foundation Establishment Chapter, a phenomenal windfall.

After all, it's an ancient incredible technique full of mysteries.

Even cultivators of the Primordial Talisman Sect wanted it, but they only managed to get the Introduction.

"The progress is quite good, you could say I've started to grasp the basics."

"It's a pity you can't comprehend this technique."

"Otherwise, you could practice it as well."

Jiang Fan said with a bit of regret.

Because this technique could break through the limits of human lifespan, if Su Weiwei could also practice it, her future cultivation path would be much smoother.

After these days of cultivating, he had engraved a dozen Soaring Serpent Runes into his muscles, significantly enhancing his physical strength, but not yet to the extent of a qualitative change.

"It can't be helped; this technique is still too difficult."

"I don't have the corresponding talent to get started."

"Besides, learning beast taming is already enough for me."

"Once the six-winged poison bees fully grow, they won't lose out to any cultivator."

Su Weiwei said confidently.

She had gradually shed her past rural woman demeanor, transforming into the aura of a cultivator.

Like a celestial being from a sect.

Confidence doesn't come from nowhere but stems from strength.

If one's strength is indeed strong enough, they can't feel inferior no matter how hard they try.

Just like those handsome guys or those with good grades and intelligent people, which one doesn't have their corresponding pride and confidence?

Those who say they feel inferior are basically just being humble, or even lying.

"In that case, I shall urge your cultivation more."

Jiang Fan hugged Su Weiwei's slender waist.

"Oh, really? It seems someone recently isn't quite up to the task."

Su Weiwei laughed softly, her alluring eyes bewitching.

"Nonsense, your husband is very vigorous."

Hearing those words angered Jiang Fan, and he was determined to thoroughly teach this woman a lesson, to reclaim the dignity of a husband.

That night, he went at it seven times.

But the next day he still felt weak in the knees.

There was no helping it; as Su Weiwei's cultivation improved, her Taiyin Virgin Body became stronger and stronger.

Not something an ordinary man could withstand.
