Chapter 197: Selling Detoxification Talismans, Making a Fortune

A few days later.

Jiang Fan spent a thousand Luck Points to completely master the refining technique of the High-grade Detoxification Talisman.

He even elevated his skill level in refining the Detoxification Talisman to the Perfection Level.

The success rate reached one hundred percent.

The refining of the High-grade Detoxification Talisman is extremely difficult.

There are as many as eighteen talisman patterns in it, formed by drawing upon the wood element spiritual power between heaven and earth to create the power of detoxification. If even one pattern is drawn incorrectly, it would all be for naught.

Therefore, the success rate of refining the Detoxification Talisman is very low.

Even for a Top-grade Talisman Master, refining the Detoxification Talisman is not that simple.

However, with the assistance of Luck Points, Jiang Fan still skillfully grasped the techniques for refining the Detoxification Talisman.

During this time, he also managed to refine two to three hundred Detoxification Talismans.

If they were all sold, he could at least earn over twenty thousand Spirit Stones.

"Market-wise, a High-grade Detoxification Talisman can sell for a hundred Spirit Stones, with better ones even reaching a hundred and twenty Spirit Stones."

"However, I have refined too many Detoxification Talismans, so I can afford to sell them at a lower profit with high volume."

"This way, they can be sold quickly."

"After all, I can't afford to waste too much time, or it might invite considerable trouble."

"So, selling them at a lower price, like ninety Spirit Stones each, even if earning less, doesn't really matter."

Jiang Fan rubbed his chin, contemplating how to sell off the High-grade Detoxification Talismans.

In fact, in the past few days, he also went to Cyan Forest Market to inquire about the sales situation of Detoxification Talismans.

He then discovered that Detoxification Talismans were indeed in a state of shortage.

Because in the spring, the Ten Thousand Beasts Mountain Range had too many poisonous insects and miasmas.

Loose Cultivators were easily poisoned in the Ten Thousand Beasts Mountain Range.

Furthermore, with a sudden influx of numerous Loose Cultivators into Cyan Forest Market, it caused a severe shortage of supplies.

However, the situation of being poisoned is truly urgent.

This has also caused the prices of Detoxification Pills and Detoxification Talismans to continually rise, becoming hard currency.

Once taken out, they immediately become hot-selling products, with no worry about them not selling.

...

In the afternoon.

Jiang Fan disguised himself as a middle-aged man, altered his aura, and returned to the black market in the shantytown; he didn't plan on entering Cyan Forest Market.

After all, inside Cyan Forest Market was too dangerous.

If any problem occurred, even trying to escape would be too late.

Thus, selling talismans in the black market of the shantytown was much safer.

Don't think Loose Cultivators are impoverished; if the treasure is right, their purchasing power is astonishing.

The previous sale of the Exorcism Talisman had already proved this point.

"It seems the power of Loose Cultivators has increased significantly."

Upon arriving at the black market in the shantytown again, Jiang Fan immediately noticed that the strength of the Loose Cultivators present in the black market had dramatically risen compared to before.

Previously, one couldn't find a single late-stage Qi Cultivation cultivator in the black market.

But now, late-stage Qi Cultivation cultivators were everywhere.

This might be because the Great Sun Sword Sect and Five Elements Pill Sect migrated many Loose Cultivators from other places, causing a large influx of late-stage Qi Cultivation cultivators into Cyan Forest Market.

However, these Loose Cultivators had no right to live in the houses within the Market, ultimately having to reside in the shantytown.

As a result, the average level of the Loose Cultivators in the shantytown increased significantly.

Of course, this is also good news, as it means the purchasing power of Loose Cultivators has risen.

It also facilitates selling all the Detoxification Talismans he had.

Thinking of this, Jiang Fan arrived at a street in the black market, found a conspicuous stall, and set up his booth, taking out the High-grade Detoxification Talismans from his person.

As soon as he laid out the Detoxification Talismans, passing Loose Cultivators immediately noticed them.

"What? Are these High-grade Detoxification Talismans? How much for one?"

Immediately, a Loose Cultivator excitedly inquired, nearly overjoyed.

Because he had been searching for Detoxification Talismans for a long time, but Cyan Forest Market was always out of stock.

Even with Spirit Stones on him, he simply couldn't buy one.

Yet he was poisoned, akin to a festering bone.

If it continued like this, he would be poisoned to death sooner or later.

Even if he didn't die, it would damage his foundation and end his path to cultivation.

This was a matter of life and death for him.

So, no matter what, he must buy a Detoxification Talisman to rid himself of the poison.

"Ninety Spirit Stones each."

Jiang Fan said straightforwardly.

He felt his luck was good; having just set up a stall, a customer came over immediately.

But this also proved that Detoxification Talismans were indeed a must-have for Loose Cultivators.

"Only ninety Spirit Stones each? I'll take them, give me two."

The Loose Cultivator went crazy with joy, buying them immediately without hesitation.

Due to the scarcity of Detoxification Talismans, even with money, they couldn't be bought, which caused their prices to keep rising.

From a hundred Spirit Stones, they went up to a hundred and twenty Spirit Stones.

Even as time went on, the price of Detoxification Talismans would rise further.

This means that even if one doesn't use the Detoxification Talisman, they can resell it to make a big profit.

"What? This stall actually has High-grade Detoxification Talismans?"

"Even the talisman shops in Cyan Forest Market don't have them, yet this guy does?"

"He must be a Top-grade Talisman Master; otherwise, there's no way he could refine High-grade Detoxification Talismans."

"With the Ten Thousand Beasts Mountain Range having so many poisonous insects and miasmas now, a high-grade Detoxification Talisman is a must-have for us Loose Cultivators. It's crucial as a lifesaver in dangerous moments."
