Chapter 198: Selling Detoxification Talismans, Making a Fortune_2

"Isn't that right? My brother got poisoned and is bedridden, waiting for a Detoxification Talisman to save his life. But now there's no way to buy one at the Cyan Forest Market, even with Spirit Stones. I've been searching everywhere these days, and heaven helps those who persist—I finally found someone selling High-grade Detoxification Talismans."

"Boss, give me three, I want three High-grade Detoxification Talismans."

"All of you, get lost. Five, I want five High-grade Detoxification Talismans."

"Are you guys crazy? What do you need so many Detoxification Talismans for, don't buy them all."

"Heh, Detoxification Talismans are so cheap, even if you don't use them yourself, you can store them. After all, they don't expire."

Many loose cultivators were discussing with each other.

Almost instantly, Jiang Fan's stall became incredibly popular.

A large number of loose cultivators flocked to snatch up High-grade Detoxification Talismans.

There's really no other choice.

Lately, there have been too many poisoned loose cultivators, all looking like they're about to die from the poison.

This is practically a lifesaving Talisman.

Even some loose cultivators who are not poisoned choose to buy one or two to keep as a backup.

Moreover, Jiang Fan sells them for a fair price, only ninety Spirit Stones each.

Which is equivalent to a ten percent discount.

So it immediately ignited the market, already reaching a point where supply can't meet demand.

A lot of loose cultivators rush over to buy as if Spirit Stones are worthless.

"Damn it, we're all Talisman Masters, so why is this guy's business booming while ours can't sell at all? It's totally unfair."

A Low Grade Talisman Master watched this scene, feeling a surge of jealousy inside.

He's been at his stall for two or three hours but still had no customers.

Even if there really are customers, they will haggle, practically down to his cost price.

Causing him immense pain.

If anyone ever says being a Talisman Master is profitable, he'll definitely take them down.

"There's nothing we can do about it. These are Upper Grade Talismans, and they're Detoxification Talismans—they're naturally in demand."

"Isn't that right? We're just selling Lower-grade Talismans, which are practically worthless; ordinary cultivators don't lack Lower-grade Talismans."

"There are just too many of us Low Grade Talisman Masters. Many loose cultivators can create Talismans, so Lower-grade Talismans can't fetch high prices."

"If you want to make money, you should at least become a Middle Grade Talisman Master or even a Top-grade Talisman Master."

"Exactly, especially Top-grade Talisman Masters—if you can refine an Upper Grade Talisman, you can instantly earn dozens of Spirit Stones, and the cost isn't much higher than ours. That's the power of knowledge."

"Indeed, and the refining of High-grade Detoxification Talismans is incredibly difficult; even Top-grade Talisman Masters have a low success rate, which is why High-grade Detoxification Talismans are consistently expensive. Honestly, I want to buy some to store too."

"Does that mean this bearded man is a Top-grade Talisman Master?"

"Not necessarily a Top-grade Talisman Master; perhaps he's just a representative selling on behalf of a Top-grade Talisman Master."

Many Talisman Masters were chattily discussing.

They watched Jiang Fan's booming business, each feeling envy, jealousy, and hatred.

But they also felt helpless.

After all, the difficulty in refining High-grade Detoxification Talismans is too high, and even if they wanted to refine them, they couldn't succeed.

It's the threshold of knowledge, blocking many Talisman Masters.

In just half an hour.

Three hundred High-grade Detoxification Talismans were sold out.

And Jiang Fan took the opportunity to earn 27,000 Spirit Stones.

If he could refine more High-grade Detoxification Talismans, perhaps he could earn even more Spirit Stones.

Unfortunately, he underestimated the demand for Detoxification Talismans in the market.

A mere three hundred Detoxification Talismans are insignificant.

Just as they were put up for sale, the market instantly consumed them.

Not even causing a ripple.

There's no doubt that loose cultivators aren't short on money; they just lack suitable treasures.

Once you hit the pain points of loose cultivators, they're willing to spend any amount of Spirit Stones.

"Alright, all Detoxification Talismans are sold out."

When Jiang Fan saw his Detoxification Talismans had sold out, he immediately packed up.

For him, this action is already considered perfect.

It's best to leave quickly before the loose cultivators react.

"Boss."

Initially, some loose cultivators wanted to inquire about when he would be back at the marketplace to sell Detoxification Talismans, but in the blink of an eye, Jiang Fan's figure disappeared into the black market, ignoring the pleas of other loose cultivators.

"Why run so fast?"

A loose cultivator complained.

He originally wanted to know when the other would return to the market.

"Heh, why wouldn't he run quickly?"

"Do you know how many Detoxification Talismans this guy just sold?"

"Three hundred, a full three hundred High-grade Detoxification Talismans."

"That means this guy has 27,000 Spirit Stones on him."

"Such a huge amount of Spirit Stones is enough to tempt anyone into taking a risk."

Another loose cultivator said softly.

To be honest, when he saw Jiang Fan continually collecting Spirit Stones, even he was tempted.

With a full 27,000 Spirit Stones in front of him, who could resist?

If it weren't for being in full view of the public, he wouldn't mind killing to steal the treasures.

So, sensing danger and deciding to leave quickly is entirely normal on his part.

"Since he dared to sell Upper Grade Talismans in the black market, he must have some skills."

"Is there anyone who really dares to rob him?"

Some loose cultivators could sense the purposefully leaked aura from Jiang Fan—definitely that of a late-stage Qi Cultivation cultivator.

So initially, few people dared to target Jiang Fan.

Sometimes, strong power can extinguish much malice and hostility.

"Heh, no matter how strong this boy is, he's just one person."

"Two fists can't fight against four hands."

"Moreover, money is such a motivator—27,000 Spirit Stones can tempt any cultivator."

"Wonder if this guy can survive."

"Making money in the black market isn't so easy."

An elderly loose cultivator sighed.

This is the hardship of loose cultivators' cultivation.

Not only do they face resource scarcity and poverty, even if they get rich overnight, they dare not show it, as they're easily targeted as prey by other cultivators.

One slip, and they might die an unnatural death.

But this is also the fate of loose cultivators, unavoidable by anyone.

Swish!

At this moment, Jiang Fan used the power of the Light Body Talisman, quickly leaving the slum area of Cyan Forest Market.

But just after leaving the black market, a few kilometers away from the slum area, he discovered he was being targeted by enemies.

In fact, he was already under surveillance when he was selling Detoxification Talismans.

But not until he left the black market did the pursuers silently catch up.

Boom~~

Suddenly, streams of Sword Qi arrived in an instant, and then four or five figures intercepted Jiang Fan.

Each carried a long sword, their bodies emanating intense Sword Qi.

They were even wearing the uniforms of the Great Sun Sword Sect.

Without a doubt, these people are sword cultivators from the Great Sun Sword Sect.

And the cultivators were quite exceptional, with three at Seventh-layer Qi Cultivation and two at Eighth-layer Qi Cultivation.

Their strength was already capable of overwhelming any loose cultivators.

After all, they are sword cultivators, unrivaled in killing, and their combat power is absolutely superior to loose cultivators.

"Please stay, friend."

"I am Wei Tongheng, an Inner Sect disciple of the Great Sun Sword Sect."

"I believe we have something to discuss with you."

At this point, an Eighth-layer Qi Cultivation cultivator looked at Jiang Fan with a smile.

He claimed to be Wei Tongheng, an Inner Sect disciple of the Great Sun Sword Sect.

"Are you cultivators from the Great Sun Sword Sect?"

"Wonder what you wish to discuss with me?"

Jiang Fan squinted his eyes.

He initially thought his dealings would only provoke the loose cultivators in the black market.

Who could have imagined that he'd attract even sect disciples?

It seems the temptation of 27,000 Spirit Stones is too great; even sect cultivators couldn't resist.

"Friend, I wonder if the High-grade Detoxification Talismans you just sold were personally refined or you're selling on behalf of someone?" Wei Tongheng looked at Jiang Fan, continuing to ask.

"Personally refined."

Jiang Fan replied in a deep voice.

"That's excellent news."

"If that's the case, then you're a Top-grade Talisman Master."

"Would you be interested in joining our Great Sun Sword Sect?"

"Our Great Sun Sword Sect is in deep quest for talents; we welcome anyone with talent without exception."

Wei Tongheng looked at Jiang Fan and extended an invitation.

But his tone was imposing, leaving no room for argument.

It was clear he was accustomed to a position of superiority.
