Chapter 301: The Great Calamity of Seven Stars Peak, Another Destiny Choice

In a blink, another week had passed.

Jiang Fan stayed in the cave dwelling for cultivation and became thoroughly acquainted with the surging power and speed within him.

After all, after advancing to the Tier Two Middle Stage, his physical strength compared to before was immensely enhanced.

Even the physique of a normal Tier Two Demon Beast couldn't compare to him.

If anyone dared to underestimate him or dared to engage in close combat with him, it would be pure suicide.

Even a light punch could shatter the opponent's magic robe, causing their body to explode into pieces.

He was simply like a human-shaped demon beast now.

Of course, Jiang Fan possessed a Perfection Level Conceal Breath Talisman, enabling him to restrain his aura.

So even cultivators of the same realm couldn't discern his true capabilities.

"A strong physique carries immense benefits for a cultivator."

"The speed of reaction has increased significantly, and spellcasting speed has also improved greatly."

"It could be considered an all-around enhancement."

Jiang Fan squeezed his fist.

He felt that after advancing to the Tier Two Middle Stage, the evolution of his physique brought him enormous benefits.

It's said that some True Disciples of Nascent Soul Sect also like to dual cultivate with Body Tempering Techniques.

But this is not something that every cultivator can do.

After all, the cultivation of Body Tempering Techniques is extremely challenging.

Without a Body Cultivation talent, progress would likely be very slow.

More importantly, Body Cultivation also requires a large consumption of resources, even more than Qi Cultivation.

Ordinary cultivators struggle to meet the resources needed for daily cultivation.

How could they possibly afford extra resources to temper their physique?

Additionally, cultivating both techniques would slow down one's cultivation progress.

Thus, cultivators who practice dual cultivation are indeed rare.

Swoosh!

After training for a period of time, Jiang Fan emerged from the quiet room.

At that moment, Su Weiwei was leisurely cooking food.

She wore a sky-blue silk dress that outlined perfect curves, revealing a sizzling figure.

Her every movement was naturally graceful, hooking souls and stealing hearts, exuding boundless charm.

"Weiwei, how has your cultivation been lately?"

Jiang Fan inquired.

He was quite concerned about Su Weiwei's cultivation progress, as she was his Dao Companion.

On the long path of cultivation, if he were to walk alone, it would indeed be too lonely.

Luckily, Su Weiwei's talent wasn't lacking, and could even be said to be extraordinary.

If properly nurtured, her future would certainly be limitless.

"Fairly smooth."

"The cultivation of the Six-winged Poison Bee is going well."

"Now eighty-one have been nurtured."

Seeing her husband come out, Su Weiwei smiled and paused her actions.

She was quite satisfied with her cultivation progress.

Although she couldn't compare with her husband, other cultivators couldn't match her.

At present, her cultivation was already at the Eighth-Layer Qi Cultivation Realm.

She wasn't far from the Ninth-Layer Qi Cultivation either.

Such cultivation place her among top strong cultivators within loose cultivators.

Not to mention she mastered the Six-winged Poison Bee, an Ancient Strange Insect.

Regarding combat strength, she was unmatched among Qi Cultivation Stage cultivators.

With eight-one Six-winged Poison Bees in action, they could surely slay any Qi Cultivation Stage cultivator.

No Ninth-Layer Qi Cultivation cultivator could stand against her.

But combat power has never been her main pursuit.

For cultivators, the realm is the most crucial.

If advancement to Foundation Establishment cannot be achieved, what meaning is there in being the strongest Qi Cultivation Stage cultivator?

A hundred years later, there's still just a cup of yellow earth.

"It seems you're truly talented in Beast Taming."

Jiang Fan nodded.

He could also sense the strength of each Six-winged Poison Bee.

Even during his own Qi Cultivation Stage, facing so many Six-winged Poison Bees would have been daunting.

They are incredibly fast and possess fierce toxicity.

If attacked by them, the enemy would almost certainly die.

The only downside is their defense isn't that great.

But they are more than enough, as offense is the best defense.

As long as Su Weiwei doesn't encounter enemies in the Foundation Establishment Realm, she'll be safe.

"Talent indeed matters."

"But resources are even more significant."

"If not for your husband providing so many resources, how could the Six-winged Poison Bee be cultivated so well?"

Su Weiwei remarked with emotion.

As a Beast Cultivator, she understood the vital importance of cultivation resources.

After all, raising Spirit Beasts isn't an easy task.

Their daily needs can burden Beast Cultivators.

Not to mention, if one desires improvement in Spirit Beast cultivation, even more resources are required.

Honestly, the Six-winged Poison Bee's resource requirements are considered low.

If it were other Spirit Beasts, even more Spirit Stones would be needed.

Many Beast Cultivators struggle financially, ranking among the poorest cultivators.

Hardly ever seen wealthy Beast Cultivators.

"It's merely an early investment."

"If the Six-winged Poison Bee advances to Tier Two, it can produce honey."

"Their honey is said to be a special Spirit Medicine."

"Even Foundation Establishment cultivators would find it greatly beneficial."

"Then, the hive created by the Six-winged Poison Bees will be like a perpetual Spirit Stone Ore Vein."

"So you shouldn't lack resources in the future."
