

Fortune 571

Chapter 571: Refining the Profound Vagina Pearl, Nurturing the Second Golden Core

"Master, do you intend to save these mortals?"

At this moment, the voice of the Ten Thousand Transformations Pill Furnace came over, asking curiously.

"Yes, if it were just about saving these mortals, that wouldn't be too much."

"But on this land, the Demon Race rules, and the Human Race is like ants."

"Simply like this, it doesn't truly save them."

"Without providing shelter, these mortals will eventually be devoured by demons."

The Demon-Vibrating Bell said in a deep voice.

Saving mortals is not an easy task. It's not just about letting them escape and avoid the plight of being livestock.

More importantly, it's necessary to find a safe haven to avoid being hunted by the Demon Race.

Then, these mortals must quickly recover and thrive, giving birth to many powerful Cultivators.

The issue is that doing so requires a great deal of effort and energy, and is not easily achieved.

At the same time, this could potentially slow down the master's cultivation progress.

"According to the memories of those demons earlier, the Western Continent once saw human cultivators rise in resistance."

"But in the end, they failed, and the majority of human cultivators were exterminated by the Demon Race."

"Perhaps some human cultivators still survive by chance, but they can't stir up much trouble."

"For humans to truly rise on the Western Continent, they must at least produce a Divinity Transformation."

The Primordial Talisman Pen said.

It understood the essence of the matter, which is that the Western Continent lacks a powerful Divinity Transformation.

Without a Divinity Transformation Cultivator to provide protection, the Human Race cannot contend with the Demon Race.

Indeed, just one Divinity Transformation is far from sufficient.

Considering the number of Demon Race Divinity Transformations on this continent is quite significant.

It can be said that for humans to thoroughly rise on the Western Continent and establish a foothold, it is as difficult as conquering Hell.

"Elder Fu, perhaps we can rebuild the Primordial Talisman Sect on the Western Continent."

Jiang Fan said.

"Rebuild the Primordial Talisman Sect?"

Upon hearing this, the Primordial Talisman Pen trembled, honestly, rebuilding the Primordial Talisman Sect had been its obsession for so long, its greatest one, yet it had never succeeded over the years.

After all, rebuilding a sect and restoring the former glory of the Primordial Talisman Sect is not easy.

Therefore, it did not urge Jiang Fan.

Because as long as the strength is up to par, reestablishing the sect will be a matter of course.

But it did not expect Jiang Fan to consider rebuilding the Primordial Talisman Sect so soon.

This was indeed unexpected.

"According to those demon cultivators' memories, although the Western Continent is indeed dominated by the Demon Race."

"There are still many places where the Demon Race cannot control."

"Moreover, there are essentially no other human sects on this continent."

"If successful, the Primordial Talisman Sect would be the only human sect."

"By then, the Primordial Talisman Sect can rise on this continent."

Jiang Fan's eyes glimmered with a hint of brilliance.

Honestly, at first, he did not consider this, as he was just a Golden Core Cultivator without the capacity to lead humans to rise at the time.

But at this moment, his Fortune-Telling Talisman began to shake, suggesting that if he could lead the Human Race to rise on the Western Continent, he would certainly gain immense Destiny, providing great benefits.

The reason those sect elites have such grand Destinies is not only because of their own but also because of the sect's backing Destiny.

For instance, some clan members destined for early demise instead thrive under their clan's Destiny, demonstrating the importance of the backing forces.

If he can rebuild the Primordial Talisman Sect on the Western Continent, he can gain both the sect's Destiny and the Human Race's Destiny, causing his own Destiny to soar.

This would provide him numerous advantages without a single drawback.

"But the Western Continent is governed by the Demon Race, including Demon Race Divinity Transformations."

"Can humans truly rise on this continent?"

The Primordial Talisman Pen doubted this.

"Elder Fu, do you really believe the Demon Race is a perfectly united race?"

"Even among the Human Race, there are many sect powers, many countries, continuously fighting each other."

"Not to mention, within the Demon Race, there are countless species."

"They have already formed deadly rivalries in the pursuit of interests, with internal strife more intense than among humans."

"According to memories, after the human forces of the Western Continent were crushed, the Demon Race's rule here led to devastating infighting among many demon species over interests."

"Even those Demon Race Divinity Transformations have immense hatred among themselves, making unity impossible."

"Hence, finding a glimmer of hope for the Human Race is not a difficult task."

Jiang Fan smiled slightly.

He could perceive a massive tribulation cloud covering the skies of the Western Continent, signaling impending calamities.

Due to this, Destiny guided him to the Western Continent.

If he successfully leads the Western Continent's humans in evading numerous calamities, he will certainly gain countless opportunities, this would be his chance to attain the Dao.

Furthermore, he is not alone.

Because he brought fourteen Golden Core Cultivators from the Eastern Continent.

If he wishes, he can bring even more human cultivators.

Thus, having a continuous influx of fresh forces.

"I see."

The Primordial Talisman Pen felt convinced by Jiang Fan, realizing the potential good in rebuilding the Primordial Talisman Sect on the Western Continent.
