

Chapter 375

He refused, "This is impossible."

"You are unreasonable!"

"If I were to be reasonable, you wouldn't be here."

Krista was speechless.

She thought, 'Yes. If Kingston was reasonable, he wouldn't tie me back at the airport.'

If Kingston is reasonable, he won't appear quietly in my dressing room. He enjoys causing trouble.

Yes, he is honest. He is really respectful to me.

At the same time, he is also dishonest. He did a lot of infuriating things.'

"It's your fault this time. What do you think we should do?"

"With kissing as punishment?"

"Well..."

Krista glared at Kingston, wanting to scold a shameless bastard!

She thought, 'Do I want your kiss?'

"Forget it, this matter ends here. You are not allowed to come in again. Otherwise, I'll kill myself. I will not betray Mr. Hamm. We have an agreement for half a year. I need time. Don't force me!"

"He has betrayed you."

"That's his business. I only keep my promise."

Krista said stubbornly.

Kingston narrowed his eyes, wanting to say something, but in the end, he didn't speak.

"Okay, I promise you."

After a long time, Kingston replied.

Krista threatened, "If you come again, I will jump down from upstairs!"

Krista knew that Kingston was reluctant to let her have an accident.

Kingston frowned and looked deeply at her.

His dark eyes hid an unknown radiance as if they wanted to devour her.

Without a word, Kingston took his clothes and left without looking back.

As soon as Kingston left, Krista fell onto the bed, exhausted. She had to admit that the look in his eyes just now was so terrifying as if he was a beast that was about to rush out of the iron prison and would swallow her whole in the next second.

Was he angry that she used herself to threaten him?

As the night deepened, Kingston returned to his bedroom and felt that something was missing.

He closed his eyes and could not sleep at all. His arms were empty and there was no familiar scent in the air.

Kingston thought, 'I'm not used to sleeping alone.'

Kingston only slept with Krista for more than ten days, which has overturned his habit of sleeping alone for the past four years.

On the other hand, Krista refused to drink milk tonight. She even locked the door and hung a glass on the door to ensure that nothing went wrong.

She thought that she would finally be able to sleep peacefully and no one would bother her anymore.

But unexpectedly, she tossed and turned, unable to sleep.

She felt a little uncomfortable and wanted to hold something.

What she did not know was that every time she slept, she would hug Kingston's arm tightly.

Now that it was suddenly gone, it was instead uncomfortable.

"What the hell?"

Krista sat up. She was so sleepy that her eyelids began to close, but she just couldn't sleep.

She was a little upset. She planned to go to the courtyard to see the moonlight to get some fresh air.

However, she did not expect someone to be a step ahead of her.

Kingston also could not sleep. Sitting in the pavilion and listening to the chirping of insects and birds, he felt a bit more comfortable.

When Krista saw that Kingston was there, she was a little embarrassed and wanted to quietly leave. However, Kingston had sharp eyes and immediately saw her.

"Since you're here, why don't you take a seat before leaving?"

Krista couldn't leave just like that.

When she entered the pavilion, she found that Kingston was drinking.

"Are you drinking in the evening?"

"Yes. A bit of wine will promote sleep."

Her eyes lit up when she heard this.

She thought, 'That's what I want now!'

"Is the alcohol content of this wine high?"

Kingston was very smart and immediately understood her intentions. His deep and quiet eyes hid a sly light.
