

Gardevoir 113

Chapter 113 The appearance of the giant Dragonite.

"This planet has existed for more than 4.6 billion years. So far, there are more than 150 known species of Pokémon. Of course, you are Pokémon trainers, and your goal is to capture all Pokémon."

Zhenghui continued to explain science to Xiaozhi. After all, Xiaozhi was the only one who looked stupid in the crowd....

Xiaozhi thought of the few Pokémon he had captured and suddenly felt frustrated. He was still far from the goal of 150 Pokémon.

"Let me correct you. It's the Kanto region. There are currently 1025 species of Pokémon known to humans."

Yu Feng corrected Zhenghui's slip of the tongue. After all, as a doctor who specializes in Pokémon, it is impossible for him not to know about this.

"Well, miss, you are right. It seems that you have traveled to other areas. Of course, in addition to these known ones, there are many unknown ones that have not been discovered."

Zhenghui ignored Yu Feng's sudden change in expression and waved his hand. The wall behind him suddenly lit up, and the densely packed Pokémon reliefs on the wall were imprinted in Xiaozhi's eyes.

"All life on this planet has its own purpose, and is now waiting for a unique Pokémon."

Suddenly, Zhenghui had some idea in mind and told Xiaozhi and the others the meaning of his living here.

"A unique Pokémon?"

It can be said that Zhenghui's words really hit the sore spot of Pokémon trainers. Even Xiaogang, who was going to be a breeder, looked sideways.

After all, for them, unknown Pokémon are the most attractive, and any profession related to trainers is no exception.

"Well, follow me."

Seeing that everyone's curiosity was aroused, Zhenghui didn't keep them hanging. He turned around and walked towards the core of the lighthouse, and motioned for them to follow him.

Everyone exchanged glances, and ultimately curiosity overcame caution, and they all followed Zhenghui to an unknown place behind the lighthouse.

After climbing the long stairs inside the lighthouse, they finally reached their destination when Yu Feng couldn't wait any longer and was ready to teleport up.

"That Pokémon is probably the largest in the world. No one has ever seen its true face, and that Pokémon is wandering around the world in search of its companions."

Zhenghui looked at the foggy sea and told them the story of this Pokémon he knew, that it couldn't find its family and companions because its body was too huge.

"Doesn't that Pokémon have any family or a lover?"

Xiaoxia didn't know why she suddenly asked such a question. Surprised, Yu Feng wanted to find out what Xiaoxia was thinking. She was said to be unique, so how could she have family or companions?

Zhenghui's mouth curled up slightly. He had known that someone would ask such a question, so he had prepared an answer: "He was wandering because he didn't have anything. One day I heard such a voice coming from the other side of the sea."

As he said this, Zhenghui took out a tape recorder from his clothes and started playing it.

"Woo~~~"

An ethereal and long voice came out from the recorder, and the voice was full of loneliness and sadness.

Xiaozhi and the others who couldn't bear to hear it felt goosebumps all over their bodies. This feeling cannot be described in words. It can only be said that a feeling of sadness lingered in their hearts the moment they heard this voice.

As for Yu Feng, who could understand what was being said, he felt goosebumps all over his body, because to him it sounded like two sounds mixed together, and the impact was even greater than what Xiaozhi and the others felt.

"I want to see you, I want to see you, that's what I heard."

Zhenghui explained the feeling he heard along with the sound, but everyone still looked at Yu Feng who could understand Pokémon's words.

After noticing the questioning looks from Xiaozhi and the others, Yu Feng nodded slightly, and then continued to rub his uncomfortable skin.

Pikachu, as an elf, couldn't stop shaking because he also felt that the voice was very sad.

"So I made the same sound and played it from this lighthouse to the other side of the sea. Then on a foggy day, the same sound was heard from the other side of the sea."

This time, the purpose of the lighthouse was finally explained to Xiaozhi and the others. It was to point the direction for passing ships, but it was just a trivial function. Its real function was to attract the Pokémon that they had seen that day.

"I guess on a foggy night in the future, that Pokémon will come to meet its kind that it hasn't seen in more than a decade. I really want to meet that Pokémon."

Zhenghui looked at the thick fog in front of him and sincerely hoped that the foggy night would be today. He had been waiting and planning for this for more than ten years.

"Can you capture that Pokémon?"

Xiaozhi is indeed a standard Pokémon trainer. The first thing he thought of was that Zhenghui wanted to capture this unknown Pokémon.

"What are we going to catch him for?"

Zhenghui was not surprised by Xiaozhi's question, or perhaps the purpose of being a Pokémon trainer is to constantly capture Pokémon, so it would be strange if he didn't ask.

"For me, meeting that Pokémon is understanding the world."

Xiaozhi didn't understand the behavior of these researchers, and Zhenghui expressed his understanding, just as he didn't understand why those trainers didn't care about the Pokémon after they caught them.

There are many unknowns in this world. For example, are there really only 1025 species of Pokémon? Not necessarily. Perhaps there are even more Pokémon in undiscovered areas.

Once seen, it means they are no longer unknown, which means humans and even Pokémon are not alone in this world.

It was rare for Xiaozhi to start thinking about Zhenghui's words. Although he might have quickly put them behind his mind, this scene still made Yu Feng smile and nodded.

No matter what, Xiaozhi is finally willing to use his brain. Recklessness cannot solve all problems.

Just as Xiaozhi was about to say something, a familiar voice slowly came from the sea.

A huge, hazy figure came towards the lighthouse from the thick fog. This scene made Zhenghui very excited, and he quickly pressed the button in his hand to send a signal.

The lighthouse began to continuously emit corresponding sounds in response to the mysterious giant Pokémon.

As the communication progressed, the sound gradually changed from sad and desolate to warm and happy, as if the other party was happy and joyful because he had found a companion.

Even Xiaogang couldn't help but invite Xiaoxia to dance with him to express his inner happiness. As for why he didn't invite Yuto Seidai, she simply rejected Xiaogang's invitation.

Pikachu had the same excited expression as Xiaozhi and Zhenghui. It was really exciting to be able to see unknown Pokémon.