

Gardevoir 147

Chapter 147 This is the complete version of awa

"Then it's an informal battle between Sirona from Kamiya Town in the Sinnoh region and Satoshi from Pallet Town in the Kanto region."

"The battle rules are 1v1 unlimited battles. Do either side have any questions?"

As an informal battle, it naturally cannot be known to most people, so Sirona specially asked Miss Joy to find such a remote battle venue.

Of course, Miss Joy did not provide such a venue unconditionally. She chose to be the referee of this game. After all, it was a rare opportunity for her to see the champion's coaching match.

After seeing both sides nod, Miss Joy announced the start of the game.

Let's put the coaching battle on the field aside for the moment. Yu Feng is still very confused. Why did the coaching battle suddenly start?

Let him think about what happened yesterday.

Yesterday, under the persuasion of Professor Oak, Professor Mustard Orchid, Fu Nina and Xiaozhi, I agreed to this competition without thinking.

Then...then it seemed that Yuto Seidai recognized his relatives? Although he knew that Yuto Seidai was just an ordinary character and had nothing to do with Sirona.

It seems like this was a setting in a fan fiction book in the previous life, and then gradually became a common setting?

Could it be that he is in a novel? Oh, I can't think about it anymore, it's too dangerous.

Ahem, anyway, according to the private statement of the Yuhui Army, the reason why Shirona and the others came was because they wanted to see his Gardevoir, which means that it was Yuto Seidai who led the devils here.

It's not surprising, actually. As archaeologists investigating Sinnoh mythology, it doesn't seem strange that they are interested.

That's strange! If he remembered correctly, Wang Luo was Sirona's ancestor, why would they be interested in their own Gardevoir?

Oh yes, I forgot that the boss Pokémon is a special form of the Ancient God, also known as the Washiu region.

Although the current dominant Pokémon are similar in size, there is still a big gap between them.

It would be better to say that the boss, who was full of primitive wildness, crushed the overlord, because the boss was a Pokémon that only appeared once in a huge group in the area at that time.

As for Overlord, any Pokémon may appear in groups, and they will call for helpers or their own kind when fighting.

However, the boss Pokémon fights entirely by relying on its own supernatural powers.

Anyway, there is no boss Pokémon that is so small, there are overlords like the big-tailed raccoon that is bigger than a human...

However, Sirona and the others probably want to study the differences between the boss Pokémon and modern Pokémon in order to understand the history of ancient Sinnoh.

Back to the topic, the battle between Xiaozhi and Sirona is coming to an end.

As for the ending, it is clear without watching it. As for why? If Xiaozhi can defeat Sirona's trump card, Garchomp, it would be a miracle among miracles.

As expected, Garchomp, who had endured the electric shock, used a dragon claw to knock Pikachu into a baby-like sleep.

The only price he paid was a black mark on his body.

"Xiaozhi, your Pikachu skills are excellent. I think you can focus on developing in this direction."

Seeing Xiaozhi holding Pikachu, Sirona first praised the powerful skills of Pikachu.

He then pointed out Xiaozhi's completely reckless attack, as well as his complete observation of the situation and the loopholes in attribute restraint.

Xiaozhi accepted Sirona's suggestion very humbly.

But whether to change it or not is another question.

If it were changed, it would no longer be Xiaozhi.

Just as Miss Joy sent Pikachu for treatment, Shirona turned her eyes to Yu Feng, the target of their trip.

"Are you ready?"

Sirona's tone was very serious, completely different from when she was eating ice cream before.

"Well, let me ask you first, since it is unlimited, will you use Mega Evolution?"

Yu Feng nodded to show that he was ready, and then he asked the question that concerned him most.

That is to say, whether Shirona will use super evolution to fight in this battle.

"I didn't expect you to know this. This depends on your ability. After all, my goal is to observe the differences between the boss Pokémon and the existing Pokémon."

Although Shirona was shocked that Yu Feng knew about the existence of the Mega Evolution system, she still told Yu Feng her own opinion. After all, she came here to observe the gap between existing Pokémon and boss Pokémon.

In this case, super evolution can be regarded as a way to observe this difference, provided that Yu Feng has sufficient strength to allow her to use super evolution.

She didn't know that Yu Feng's boss was a Pokémon called Gardevoir, which was naturally capable of biting Land Shark, but looking at the Pokémon configuration that Yu Feng carried, it was not difficult to guess that this boy was good at psychic-type Pokémon.

Fairies and psychics are inseparable, so even if the boss Pokémon is a psychic type instead of a fairy type, she can't take it lightly.

"I understand."

After hearing Shirona's answer, Yu Feng nodded in understanding, which meant that whether he could make Shirona use her full strength still depended on himself.

Fortunately, I borrowed the magic weapon for victory from Miss Fu Ningna in advance, otherwise I might not have been able to win.

With the help of his sister, Yu Feng teleported to the field and looked at Shirona on the opposite side and Tyrannosaurus who was hugging his chest with an indifferent look on his face.

He suddenly became a little excited, even though he wasn't the type of person who liked fighting. (This was a lie)

But when he thought about fighting against the champion, especially the woman he liked in his previous life, Yu Feng felt his adrenaline secreted rapidly and his desire to fight gradually increased.

The only pity is that I can't go on the field, but...she is also myself, so if you convert it, I will still go on the field and fight.

This made Yu Feng's originally depressed mood a little better.

"Then it's a 1v1 battle between Sirona from Shenhe Town and Yu Feng from Pallet Town."

"Unrestricted 1v1, both sides have no objection?"

After Miss Joy confirmed again that both parties had no objection, she announced the start of the game.

"Come on, release your Pokémon."

At this moment, Sirona was not as calm as she appeared. For them, being able to see with their own eyes the leader Pokémon that had disappeared into history was no less than encountering an oasis in the desert.

Even if this leader just encountered some adventure, it was enough for them to understand what the lifestyle of Pokémon was like hundreds of years ago.

"Then it's time for the first battle against the champion! Gardevoir will be on it!"

Yu Feng clenched the love ball in his hand and threw it onto the field.

The ancient fear once again permeates this continent!
