

Gardevoir 3

Chapter 3 We still want someone like this

Blue Star, Daxia.

A slightly old urban village shows its vitality facing the rising sun.

People are constantly busy making a living, and the streets and alleys are filled with the cries of hawkers.

"Jingle Bell!"

The crisp sound of a telephone ringing came from one of the few tall buildings in the urban village.

As the view zoomed in, a bell rang out from behind a slightly shabby wooden door.

There was an eye decoration on the wooden door, and below it was a sign with words so faint that they could not be recognized, except for the words "Chuan" and "Bu".

A white-gloved hand picked up the old-fashioned landline phone and put the receiver to his ear.

"This is the Chinese branch of the Blue Star Time Travel Department. Are you in need of time travelers?"

A man in a black suit who looked like a secret agent in a movie listened attentively to the phone call.

"Pokémon World? Then what kind of candidates do you need?"

The man recorded the world he was going to travel through on an old-fashioned computer nearby and continued to inquire about the other party's requirements.

They receive many calls a day from worlds like this that need travelers.

"Not lustful?"

Although the man was a little surprised to hear this request, he still wrote it down. After all, it is not outrageous that some time travelers would return after saving the world.

"Be responsible?"

The man's brows couldn't stop frowning, and he kept convincing himself in his heart.

Being responsible is also for the purpose of saving the world, otherwise what if you are attracted away halfway or surrender to the enemy?

"Are those the requirements?"

"Anything else? Justice and courage? Selfless dedication? A one-way ticket with no return?"

Hearing the other party's request, the man's voice gradually became pleasant, and the corners of his mouth couldn't help but rise.

"It's so funny, can't we keep such people on Blue Star? Moreover, how can you expect them not to be lustful when traveling one way?"

The man really didn't want to say anything. It was reasonable to ask for so much for a round trip.

After all, after being repatriated, they can be arranged to find jobs in various positions according to the world they go to, and it is not impossible to arrange for a wife.

But a one-way journey where you can't come back means you have to spend the rest of your life there, and it's really outrageous to ask others not to be lustful.

The other party seemed to think that his request was a bit outrageous and remained silent for a long time.

"Let's do this." The man rubbed his frown, fiddled with his old computer for a few times, stared at the screen and recommended candidates to the other party.

"If you're familiar with Pokémon, we have five candidates, two men and three women."

The man looked at the options that appeared on the computer and told the person on the other end about the candidates he could recommend.

"Zhou You? Male (?), 18 years old, compares the Pokémon series..."

The man stopped talking halfway, as if he had heard something he couldn't stand, and his fists clenched tightly.

"You want the male protagonist type of Japanese anime? Then you dialed the wrong channel. This is the Chinese branch."

"What's wrong? The one recommended by the Japanese branch is ugly and fat, and it has all the unwanted requirements. Don't you want to spend the time and effort to transform it yourself?"

"Then why are you going to the European and American branches? What? Too selfish? And you have all the requests you don't want? You're coming to our Chinese branch because you really don't have anything else?"

The man slammed his fist on the table and said fiercely to the phone: "What's the matter? You have already selected all the others and have no choice but to come to my Huaxia branch to select, right?"

"I won't sue you anymore. I won't serve you anymore. We Chinese athletes don't even bother to go into a world like yours where you look down on others."

The man hung up the phone directly. He was really looking for trouble. He was picky and looked down on the Chinese. He really gave it face.

"Jingle Bell!"

Before the man could calm down, another call came in. The man had to quickly calm down and ask the other party in a very official tone.

"This is the Chinese branch of the Blue Star Time Travel Department. Are you in need of time travelers?"

"Yes, I need a one-way male traveler here. He needs to be responsible. Well, it would be best if he knows more about Pokémon."

A pleasant voice came out of the microphone, which made people feel comfortable as soon as they heard it.

It's the Pokémon world again, the man muttered to himself, but he didn't show any strange expression on his face.

"There are three more male time travelers to choose from. Zhou... Sorry, this one has already been chosen."

"This Lu... Sorry, this one has also been chosen."

The man was about to retrieve the files of the two people, but found that they had been blocked, which meant that the two people had been arranged to travel through time.

"It's okay, there's another one, let's go with that one."

The other party had no complaints. At least most of the time travelers found in China had good values.

"Okay, let me tell you about this person."

The man took a look at the information of this time traveler.

"Yu Feng, male, 20 years old, has a knowledge of Pokémon. He has watched the anime except for After the Journey, and purchased the Arceus and Zhuzi games."

"It's just that...his hobbies are a bit weird."

Speaking of this, the man became a little uneasy. After all, this person's hobby is quite peculiar.

"For those who love Wifemon, as long as there are versions with Pokémon like Gardevoir and Blimwin, these will definitely be the main team."

After saying this, the man also covered his face. This situation is really rare.

Although others also like it, they just keep it for eye candy or change it according to the opponent's team. He just treats it as the main team.

"This is great! I just happen to be in need of something like this!"

Hearing this, the other party also became excited. Isn't this the person she is looking for? So astringent? Bullshit!

"You have no other requests?"

"It's gone. It's good that he's gone. I wish his condition was more serious so that I could save him and prevent him from being robbed again."

Hearing the excited tone of the other party, the man couldn't help but smack his lips.

I've never seen such a hobby before, that someone actually likes it so much.

But that's none of his business. All he has to do is move his fingers and enter the number of the other world above.

As the man pressed the last number, Yu Feng's file instantly became dark and locked, which meant that the young man's journey of time travel was about to begin.

秦地

"Ohh! Shiny Rafts! It's worth the half month I've spent on it!"

Yu Feng excitedly tapped the handheld game console in his hand. He had bought this thing more than half a month ago and had been playing in these ruins for more than half a month.

Finally, he got the Road Flash Larulas. Looking at the blue mushroom head slowly moving on the screen, sweat kept oozing out of Yu Feng's palms.

Xiao Zhao in the middle of the screen threw the cranberry in his hand in front of Shiny Larulas.

The little guy took small steps, picked up the cranberry curiously, took a small bite and let out a happy cry.

Right now, let your guard down! Increase your chances of capturing! Back attack!

A gleam of light flashed in Yu Feng's eyes. As he operated, Xiao Zhao rolled over and got behind the shining Larulas. While it wasn't able to react, a huge heavy ball flew out of his hand and hit Larulas directly.

The huge ball fell to the ground and jumped slightly upwards, causing Yu Feng's heart to beat along with it.

The huge ball stopped jumping as he looked at it, and his heart relaxed.

"Now go to the camp and check the gender of this Larulas. It must be female. It must be female."

Yu Feng rubbed his hands and operated Xiaozhao to return to the camp, his heart trembling with excitement.

He opened the ranch and turned to the last page. After taking a closer look, he saw that Yu Feng was so angry that he fainted.

A shiny blue ♂ symbol was drawn on the screen, indicating that this shiny Larulas was a cute boy.