

Gardevoir 74

Chapter 74 Humans still fear the unknown creatures in the fog

"Firewood, firewood, where are you? Answer me if you have any questions!"

Xiaozhi was very dissatisfied with the work assignment between Xiaogang and Xiaoxia, and was very perfunctory about the task of finding firewood. He called for the firewood as if he wanted it to come to him by itself.

"Alas, there is no way anyone can answer me."

Xiaozhi seemed to know that no one would respond to him, and he sighed dejectedly.

"Pickup!"

Pikachu seemed to have seen something and pointed into the distance, calling out to Xiaozhi.

"I didn't see the wood, but I saw the fire."

Xiaozhi was very confused. Could it be that there were people here who had the same idea as him?

Xiaozhi ran quickly towards the place where the light was coming from, and saw a boy surrounded by a group of people, as if he was doing something.

"And this? What does it look like?"

A man stood in front of a teenager on a treadmill holding a photo, and asked seriously what Pokémon was in the photo.

"Is it Super Sonic Bat?"

The boy on the treadmill gasped and looked at the blurry photo in front of him, saying uncertainly.

"The Pokémon that live in the mist are not necessarily all bat Pokémon."

Another boy gave a hint about this answer, saying that there are more Pokémon that can survive in mist than just the Bat Pokémon.

"Well...that's Bobo."

The boy on the treadmill was slightly stunned, as if he realized something, and he said his answer in an affirmative tone.

"That's right, but you should distinguish the types. We are asking you what his special move is."

The other teenager confirmed the answer of the teenager on the treadmill, but they were not asking for this but a more detailed answer.

"Bobo's special move is Wind Rising, level five is Flying Sand Kick, and level twelve is Lightning Flash."

The boy on the treadmill thought for a moment and answered their questions.

"That's just common sense. At what level will Bobo evolve, and what will Bobo be called after he evolves."

The others continued to ask questions to the boy on the treadmill, as if they wanted to tire him out.

"Okay, answer quickly, or you'll have to run faster."

People around him held candles and surrounded the boy on the treadmill to relieve his stress.

The boy was silent for a long time, so he sped up the treadmill under his feet.

"It hurts, I'm sorry, I forgot!"

The treadmill suddenly accelerated and fell to the ground, and the boy apologized to his companions around him with an apologetic look on his face.

"You can just forget it and let it go. Are you still a student of the Pokémon class?"

"You're so bad that we don't want to study with you anymore."

The leader looked at him seriously. After all, as a student in the Pokémon class, it was unacceptable that he couldn't even remember such things.

The boy also admitted his mistake very straightforwardly, but even if he admitted it himself, there would be someone who was dissatisfied with this situation. Who was this person talking about? Who else besides Xiaozhi?

"Wait a minute! What are you doing?"

Xiaozhi ran over with exaggerated steps and angrily questioned these bullying students.

"Unrelated outsiders should not meddle in other people's business. This is our own special training."

The leader was very dissatisfied with those who tried to force a relationship with him even though it had nothing to do with him.

"People like this who don't even know what the evolved form of Bobo is, can't stay in our class. This is our friendship."

Even though the green-haired boy looked down on someone who didn't even know the evolved form of Bobo, he still felt that this was a friendship that belonged only to them.

"What friendship are you talking about? Even though I'm just a passerby, I can't pretend I didn't see what you did."

Xiaozhi scoffed at what these people said about so-called friendship. If this could be considered friendship, then his relationship with Pikachu had already transcended friendship.

What's more, what these people do doesn't look like friendship at all.

"Xiaozhi is right, come on."

Xiaoxia appeared behind Xiaozhi at some point and supported Xiaozhi's actions.

"Xiaoxia?"

This also shocked Xiaoxia who suddenly appeared. Shouldn't Xiaoxia be preparing water in the camp now?

"As the most beautiful girl in the world, Xiaoxia, I will never forgive someone who bullies the weak."

Although Misty was very dissatisfied with Satoshi's recklessness, she chose to stand on the same front with Satoshi in the face of this situation.

"Xiaoxia, don't do anything, leave this to me."

He didn't want Xiaoxia to interfere in this matter. After all, it was about friendship and Xiaozhi would react strongly to such things.

"I'm not going to do anything. Girls hate violence the most. But there are five of them and you're alone. It's unlikely that you'll win."

Misty's words left Satoshi speechless. After all, girls are unwilling to use violence. However, the number of people on the opposite side is greater than that of Satoshi.

After hearing what Xiaoxia said, Xiaozhi finally realized that the number of people on the opposite side seemed to be more than his.

Thinking of this, a drop of cold sweat ran down Xiaozhi's face.

The expressions of the five people opposite looked extremely terrifying under the candlelight.

"If you are beaten to death, I will help you collect your body."

"Now it's time to show your manliness, Xiaozhi."

Misty was fanning the flames, while Satoshi swallowed but did not change his hand movements.

"It's barbaric."

"Every time you encounter something, you want to rely on your fists. It's like going back to the primitive times."

"Fighting with an ape-level idiot is detrimental to the reputation of our Pokémon class. It seems that we should end it here today."

Several people criticized Xiaozhi one after another, saying that he was useless, although he was indeed useless at the moment and had nothing but passion.

"Xiaochun, see you in class."

The green-haired boy looked at Xiaochun provocatively. They would spend a lot of time together in the future.

"Wait a minute, I challenge you, and you don't dare to accept it, right?"

Xiaozhi was a little anxious watching the few people walking away. After all, he had already challenged them, and these people who fled without fighting...

"It's the same as when you go to the market and never accept rotten goods. It's common sense."

The leader looked back at Xiaozhi and refuted what Xiaozhi said. They would never accept a challenge from such a person.

"What about my challenge?"

Yu Feng's voice came from the front, and several people saw a huge body looming in the fog and a pair of light spots emitting scarlet light.

"who are you."

Humans have a great fear of unknown things. In this invisible situation, there is a huge creature that you don't know about.

This feeling is really depressing.

"Since you asked the question sincerely."

This question seemed to trigger a switch.