Chapter 236 The Girl Who Ditched Home_1

"Sigh, you girl..."

Watching Qin Fang's car gradually drive away, Cai Pingyuan looked at his granddaughter, whose teeth were clenched in frustration, and could only helplessly shake his head, "Actually, Qin Fang is a really good young man. If you two could end up together, even if it means I have to meet the old lady right now, I'd be happy..."

Cai Pingyuan really liked Qin Fang quite a bit, and in his heart, he was still hoping to matchmake his granddaughter with Qin Fang, but seeing Cai Qing's expression, he could only give a resigned, bitter smile, then proceeded to head back to his room with somewhat faltering steps.

Looking at the somewhat hunched-over figure of Cai Qing walking away, her eyes couldn't help but well up. She knew the Cai Family's situation better than anyone, and she was also making her own efforts to gain more recognition. She truly regretted why she wasn't born a boy...

"Qin Fang, just you wait..."

But the more she thought about the bitterness of these years, the more she hated Qin Fang, the man who had suddenly appeared before her grandfather and stole the position she held in her grandfather's heart.

Qin Fang couldn't care less about what Cai Qing thought of him. Although he had not shown it during dinner, being able to get one over on Cai Qing had indeed made him feel quite good.

Originally, Qin Fang had planned to find any hotel in the city to stay for the night, but then he decided to go back to the university town instead. After all, even if he didn't return to his dormitory, he could still stay in his little house; he didn't have to worry about sleeping on the streets.

Upon checking the fuel gauge and noticing the car was low on gas, he found a gas station by the roadside to fill up, and also decided to pay the water bill, so he pulled out the key and went to the bathroom.

However, upon his return, he found someone sitting in his car, seemingly fiddling with something, while the gas station attendants acted as if they were oblivious, just standing there waiting to take his money.

"Hey man, you just watch someone steal my car and do nothing about it?"

Qin Fang was infuriated at this — you ignore someone stealing my car and have the audacity to ask me for money?

"Stealing? She said she was your girlfriend..."

The attendant was momentarily taken aback, speaking in surprise.

"Eh, my girlfriend? Did you see me come here with someone?"

Qin Fang scoffed at the man, then headed towards his car. The person tampering inside was indeed a girl, dressed skimpily, with a frustrating hairstyle that screamed delinquent no matter how you looked at it.

Thump~

Gently, Qin Fang tapped the girl on the shoulder.

Aah~~~

In response, he was met with a piercing scream as if she had seen something terrifying, startling Qin Fang, the instigator, quite a bit.

"You... trying to scare the life out of me?!"

The girl didn't stop screaming for a good while before finally turning around, glaring at Qin Fang and speaking with outrage.

One could tell the girl was young, probably about sixteen or seventeen, but her makeup was thick and along with her outfit and hairstyle, she was the spitting image of a rebellious young delinquent. Qin Fang felt quite uncomfortable with just a glance.

And yet, the girl seemed incredibly self-righteous, angrily pointing her finger at Qin Fang as though he had wronged her in some way.

"Hey, miss, shouldn't you give a heads up before messing with someone else's car?"

Though internally irritated, Qin Fang knew that arguing with the young girl was pointless. He wanted to get back and rest, so after speaking his piece, he stretched out an arm, grabbed the girl by the waist, and gently lifted her, removing her from the not-so-heavy car into mid-air.

Aah~~

Unfortunately, this young girl was not easy to handle. As soon as Qin Fang laid hands on her, she immediately let out another shrill scream with her raspy voice. Being closer this time, Qin Fang felt his ears nearly ache with the vibration, and even his Life Points seemed to shiver, as if they might decrease at any moment.

The gas station attendants had already steered clear, seemingly very concerned about getting involved in any trouble.

"Listen, beautiful, it's not like we have past grievances or recent quarrels; do you really need to torture my ears like this? It's late, go home already, stop wandering around out here..."

After getting the girl out of the car, this was all Qin Fang said. He promptly paid for the gas and prepared to drive away.

Unfortunately, the girl seemed exceptionally troublesome. Taking advantage of Qin Fang paying, she climbed back into his car and even acted as if she couldn't care less about the hot water she was in.

"What do you want, exactly? If you don't get out, I'm going to call the police..."

Looking at the somewhat helpless little girl, Qin Fang couldn't help but frown and took out his phone, pretending to call the police.

"Go ahead and call the police, and when they arrive, I'll just say you molested me and see who ends up unlucky..."

But this girl didn't seem to fall for that bluff and even directly called Qin Fang out, leaving him speechless.

"So what do you want?"

Qin Fang's frown deepened, and he glanced around subconsciously, feeling as if he'd stumbled upon a scam artist. Yet there was no suspicious person around, and the little girl didn't have any red glow about her, suggesting she didn't mean any harm.

He cast a Mind Reading Technique at her, unfortunately to no avail.

"Lend me your car..."

When she heard Qin Fang seemed willing to negotiate, the girl immediately became joyful and spoke with a smile.

"Lend you my car? No way!"

Qin Fang was momentarily stunned. They were complete strangers, and the girl's arrival was suspicious—daring to ask him for his car. No one would agree to that.

"I'll give you money..."

Seeing how resolute Qin Fang was, the girl became anxious and immediately pulled out a stack of banknotes from her person. It looked to be quite a sum, likely no less than ten thousand yuan.

"Since you have money, there are so many cars passing by on the street, and there are plenty of taxis. Go look for them!"

Qin Fang was puzzled, yet he refused bluntly and even intended to physically remove the girl, which was really not difficult for him.

"Ah... touch me again, and I'll scream molestation!"

But this girl really was helplessly persistent. She screamed and wailed about molestation from afar, leaving Qin Fang completely at a loss.

Looking at the time, it was already eleven o'clock at night. Even if he wanted to ask Ning Yumo for help, he couldn't bring himself to disturb her rest.

"This is what we'll do. Where do you want to go? I'll take you there..."

Having no other choice, Qin Fang grudgingly volunteered. It would be a minor delay, and since it was already very late, he didn't care about a little more time spent. All he wanted was to get rid of the trouble.

"That works! Longquan Mountain..."

The girl paused for a moment, her little eyes whirling around before she nodded in agreement and named the destination.

"Longquan Mountain? What would a little girl like you do there late at night? Aren't you afraid of those motorcycle gangs having their way with you, then killing you? Tell me where your home is, and I'll take you back..."

Hearing that name, Qin Fang's frown tightened further. Longquan Mountain was no good place; nearly everyone in Ninghai knew it was the biggest gathering spot for motorcycle gangs, who made a huge ruckus every night, with almost a fatality due to a car accident occurring every month.

If the road heading towards the university town in Southern City was a place where low-level thugs hung out, then Longquan Mountain clearly was a notch higher. The privileged young masters of Ninghai who liked to race cars would choose to do it there.

As far as Qin Fang was aware, Ning Weiqiang would frequent Longquan Mountain, occasionally indulging in some racing there. Qin Fang first learned that Ning Weiqiang was Ning Yumo's brother when Ning Weiqiang had come to borrow a car from Ning Yumo because he had just wrecked one during a race.

The environment there was even more chaotic. Sending a young girl like her there, who knew what tragic fate awaited her. Qin Fang, although not the nicest person around, certainly couldn't bear to watch a minor jump into a pit of fire without reason.

"I'm not going home!"

Yet this little girl was exceptionally stubborn, rejecting him bluntly, "You just need to take me to Longquan Mountain; otherwise, I'll start screaming molestation... hehe, I know what your name is now, Qin Fang! You can't escape..."

In the midst of talking, the girl actually tugged at her extremely cool dress, letting the shoulder strap slide down, revealing a glimpse of snow-white skin and the hint of a developing bust Qin Fang could barely make out.

And in the brief moment Qin Fang was stunned, the girl sneakily grabbed his wallet and saw his ID card, which made her smile more cunningly.

"You... you play dirty!"

Qin Fang couldn't help but smile wryly, having never imagined that this young girl would be so hard to handle, always leaving him at a disadvantage.

With no other options, Qin Fang could only reluctantly drive towards Longquan Mountain. Good thing it was also on the way to the southern part of the city. Although it was a detour back to the university town, it was still somewhat on the way.

"Listen to me, I will drop you at Longquan Mountain and vanish immediately. As for whether you get violated then killed, or your body is dumped in the wilderness, that will have nothing to do with me..."

Truth be told, Qin Fang really didn't want to deal with such a troublesome girl, but considering her heading to a place like Longquan Mountain alone, if she took a taxi and ended up with a predator for a driver, she might be led straight to the mountains and gotten rid of. Longquan Mountain had dense woods, and once hidden in a secluded corner, she would be near impossible to find in such deep night.

It was for these reasons that Qin Fang decided to give her a ride. After all, doing good deeds would earn Justice Points, so he didn't consider it too much of a loss.
