

Genius 641

Chapter 641 - Helen Dayangma_1

...

Of course, Qin Fang himself suddenly felt overwhelmed as well.

Chu Yunxuan had been spending the past few days accompanying her best friend and classmate, said to be joined by another who flew in specially from the United States, and now it seemed to be the blonde, mixed-race beauty in front of him.

It was just that the level of enthusiasm was a bit beyond Qin Fang's imagination... Of course, the words the beauty had just spoken had already explained everything—she knew that Qin Fang was Chu Yunxuan's man.

But the issue was, Qin Fang's identity at the moment was as Ning Yumo's boyfriend, specifically there to act as a shield against this Yang Rui... Being approached by this mixed-race beauty in such a manner left Qin Fang somewhat dizzy.

In fact, Qin Fang wasn't the only one feeling dizzy; Yang Rui's face was also full of confusion and incomprehension.

Although he had been certain for a while now that Qin Fang was not actually Ning Yumo's boyfriend and had tried in every way to expose Qin Fang's lies, especially detesting Qin Fang for boasting about making a mere "few hundred million from a small business."

As for the reason, well, it was naturally because Qin Fang looked too ordinary, lacking the proud disposition of a wealthy young master, so he simply assumed Qin Fang was just an average Joe, completely unsuitable for a beauty like Ning Yumo.

But now...

The scene before him dealt a heavy blow.

Why, you ask?

This mixed-race beauty was no ordinary person; she was the daughter of his boss and also a member of the head company's board of directors. In her eyes, he was nothing more than a middle-level employee at the company, absolutely not within her league.

It just so happened that this young lady came to Ninghai to visit an old classmate, and by such a coincidence, she bumped into him, so he took the opportunity to invite her over. Of course, the beauty beside her with the excellent temperament, no less outstanding than Ning Yumo, was her classmate.

But what he hadn't expected was...

Turns out, she was actually the girlfriend of Qin Fang, whom he very much looked down upon!

Girlfriend?

Yang Rui suddenly caught onto something and couldn't help but let slip a slight grin from the corner of his eye.

If this beauty was Qin Fang's girlfriend, then obviously Ning Yumo was not anymore, otherwise... it would truly be like Mars colliding with Earth!

"You must be Sister Yumo... Hello, I am Chu Yunxuan, one of Qin Fang's girlfriends!"

Yang Rui might have celebrated too soon. The mixed-race beauty's enthusiasm for Qin Fang indeed surprised both Ning Yumo and Cai Qing. They naturally heard what the mixed-race beauty had said, but Chu Yunxuan sat down beside Ning Yumo with a sweet smile and spoke very friendly to her.

Ning Yumo and Chu Yunxuan were close in age, both impeccable in beauty and temperament. The moment they sat down together, the surroundings lost all color.

Cai Qing was a bit better off; at least she was also a very beautiful woman. However, Tong Bin's girlfriend, Ling Yan, suddenly couldn't help but want to find a crack in the ground to crawl into.

"You... hello!"

Ning Yumo hadn't yet recovered from her shock and only mechanically shook hands with Chu Yunxuan. She hadn't expected Chu Yunxuan to call her by her name at their first meeting.

Looking at Qin Fang's expression, it was clear he didn't know he would meet Chu Yunxuan here, either. That meant Qin Fang must have mentioned her, Ning Yumo, to Chu Yunxuan beforehand.

"Sister Qing, hello..."

But Chu Yunxuan's greetings weren't meant only for Ning Yumo. Cai Qing, who was sitting beside her with an odd expression, was immediately stunned.

"You... you know me?"

Cai Qing, just like Ning Yumo, was very clear that she and Chu Yunxuan had never met before.

"You and Sister Yumo have been of great help to Qin Fang. He has mentioned you to me many times, saying both of you are top-notch beauties, recognizable at first sight..."

Chu Yunxuan was Qin Fang's most trusted woman, and their dual cultivation had reached such a soul-intertwining level that each was very familiar with all of the other's past memories; therefore, Chu Yunxuan naturally knew every person Qin Fang knew...

Cai Qing was Qin Fang's senior sister, and Ning Yumo was Qin Fang's foster sister. While Qin Fang never specifically mentioned these relationships, Chu Yunxuan knew every detail of their interactions very clearly.

It was because she was so well-informed about these matters, even feeling a kindred connection, that Chu Yunxuan became Qin Fang's most trusted woman and the least likely to get jealous.

Such an encounter was unexpected for Chu Yunxuan as well, and she could imagine Qin Fang's awkwardness, so she immediately started to help him out of the awkward situation.

"Hehe, really? Sister Yunxuan, you flatter me too much..."

Although Cai Qing had some quirks, she was still a woman and liked to be complimented, especially when such compliments came from a beauty who seemed even more exceptional than herself. She was truly delighted, and any irritation she felt towards Qin Fang also lessened a lot.

"Oh, these are not my own words, all from Qin Fang himself... Of course, as soon as I walked in the door, I realized he hadn't exaggerated one bit!"

Chu Yunxuan's flattery continued to work wonders, and Cai Qing seemed quite pleased with it.

However, Ning Yumo wore a strangely peculiar expression, her eyes flickering uncertainly, leaving one to wonder what was on her mind.

"Yunxuan, this is..."

Qin Fang had finally managed to extricate himself from the hands of the enthusiastic mixed-race beauty, whose name he didn't even know—her zeal was just too overwhelming.

"Her name is Helen, she was my classmate at Harvard..."

Chu Yunxuan promptly introduced the blonde mixed-race beauty to Qin Fang and the others.

"You're not needed here anymore..."

As the group talked amongst themselves, they ended up sidelining Yang Rui, who was left out in the cold. He tried to chime in, but nobody gave him so much as a glance.

It wasn't until Helen sat down with Chu Yunxuan that they finally acknowledged the presence of this successful individual... and then rather unceremoniously asked him to leave.

"Yes, yes, of course... Miss Helen, if there's anything you require, do let me know..."

Yang Rui certainly wanted to stay, after all, Ning Yumo was still there and she was his target. If he walked away, he'd lose his chance for good.

"No need!"

The beauty was incredibly warm towards Qin Fang, but she was less courteous to Yang Rui, hardly letting him finish his sentence before she waved him away.

"Yes..."

Yang Rui bowed slightly, his face clouding over, but he dared not make a scene and could only leave reluctantly.

Although Tong Bin and Ling Yan were still seated there, they took a look at the others at the table, hesitated, and then found an excuse to leave as well.

Qin Fang and the others didn't mind. Aside from Chu Yunxuan and Helen, who were out of the loop, everyone knew what was going on with the two who just left.

"What's happening?"

As Chu Yunxuan, the official girlfriend, arrived, and Helen's status seemed even higher than Yang Rui's, Ning Yumo wasn't worried about Yang Rui bothering them anymore. She and Cai Qing sat together, letting Qin Fang and Chu Yunxuan sit side by side.

Qin Fang frowned, unclear about what was happening, and had to ask Chu Yunxuan for clarification.

"I didn't mean to interrupt your flirtation... Helen and I just happened to come here for dinner, and we ran into that Yang guy. He seems to be an employee at Helen's company; we met him twice before and he invited us over on the way here..."

Chu Yunxuan was always upfront with Qin Fang and told him the truth.

It seemed it really was a coincidence that they bumped into each other this time.

"Helen... Yang Rui is an employee at her company... isn't that... Reid Pharmaceuticals in the United States..."

It dawned on Qin Fang suddenly; Ning Yumo had briefed him on Yang Rui's background before she came: he worked at the multinational company Reid Pharmaceuticals, served as the head of Dragon Country's division, and was involved in the pharmaceutical industry.

Reid Pharmaceuticals was a very famous American large-scale business dealing in pharmaceuticals, with many investments worldwide. In Dragon Country, they cooperated with several drug factories, ranking in the top ten pharmaceutical enterprises globally, possessing assets worth at least a hundred billion US dollars—a true behemoth.

"Right, Reid Pharmaceuticals is owned by the Helen Family. Helen herself is also a Ph.D. in pharmacology... We both graduated from Harvard together,"

Chu Yunxuan nodded and explained, "The various pieces of equipment I needed to purchase this time were all facilitated through Helen's help..."

Qin Fang was aware of this; while he had assigned Chu Yunxuan to handle it, she always gave him a heads up beforehand.

The analysis of the Heart Nourishing Pill's pharmaceutical components was Qin Fang's first medicinal technology project, and with Dr. Chu Yunxuan in charge, he believed the difficulty wouldn't be too high, with the only trouble being the various experimental instruments and equipment.

Chu Yunxuan sought help from her classmate in the United States to procure the equipment, as the domestic level in this field was relatively behind.

Without a doubt, the Reed Group was an international large-scale pharmaceutical company. Their drug testing labs and research institutes were among the top globally. Those instruments and devices would undoubtedly be state-of-the-art, and apart from some restricted items, almost everything could be supplied to Chu Yunxuan.

As old classmates and close sisters, she could even expect some discount on the price.

"If it weren't for Helen's background, I would've considered bringing her into the research team... Of course, if you could capture her heart, maybe that could still happen..."

Chu Yunxuan joked with Qin Fang, laughing.

"Forget it, I can't handle such a foreign beauty..."

Qin Fang shook his head, laughing. Undoubtedly, Miss Helen was quite attractive, with exceptionally smooth skin, not at all like the rough and large-pored skin typical of Europeans and Americans. If one set aside her long golden hair, her facial features were quite close to those of Dragon Country people.

"She's not entirely a foreign horse; she's half Dragon Country by blood... Her mother is our compatriot! Did you not notice she speaks Chinese very fluently?"

Chapter 642 - Exposure_1

...

Chu Yunxuan immediately revealed a bit of news to Qin Fang with a cheerful smile.

Qin Fang hadn't expected that Helen, the beauty, was actually half a fellow villager; no wonder her skin wasn't white like that of Caucasians but rather a bit wheat-colored.

Of course, this wasn't without the effect of sunbathing, but upon close observation, there was still a bit of the Yellow race's skin tone, which actually looked quite nice on a mixed-race person.

Despite this, Qin Fang still shook his head with a wry smile. He wouldn't take Chu Yunxuan's words seriously—such a lady with her background was not someone he could bring down.

Moreover, Qin Fang already had enough women in his life. Just bumping into her earlier had given him quite a headache; he dared not imagine what the scene would be like if Tang Feifei and the others bumped into Chu Yunxuan and Fan Ning.

It is often said that beauties are the most likely to stir up conflicts and feel uneasy about each other... Yet, the scene before him evidently did not unfold that way. The four outstanding beauties quickly became one group and began happily discussing topics of their interest.

Without a doubt, they were discussing beauty and skincare, topics that Qin Fang certainly couldn't chime in on.

Even though all four beauties were naturally gorgeous and at the age of their prime beauty, what women worry about the most is the gradual loss of their youthful days...

Chu Yunxuan and Helen both held doctorates in pharmacology, and they had conducted much research on various drugs. Additionally, Chu Yunxuan was a doctor with excellent medical skills, and Helen's family owned a globally recognized pharmaceutical company—her research in this field was exceedingly profound.

With these two professionals there to chat, it didn't take many minutes for the four women to get along quite well, and had Qin Fang not known they had just met, anyone else would have thought they were long-time friends.

"Qin Fang, come with me for a moment..."

Although he still held a favorable impression of Chu Yunxuan and they spoke quite congenially, plus Chu Yunxuan had intentionally befriended the two beauties, Ning Yumo found nothing inappropriate and even quickly became good friends with Chu Yunxuan and Helen.

But that didn't stop Ning Yumo from calling Qin Fang over, and at an opportune moment, she pulled him aside.

"Sister Ning, what's up?"

Qin Fang felt a bit uneasy inside. He speculated that Sister Ning probably wanted to talk to him about Chu Yunxuan. Ning Yumo had long been aware of his several girlfriends and hadn't said much about it, as she knew very well that in the end, the only one Qin Fang would marry would certainly be Tang Feifei.

But every time she met with Qin Fang, she would discover that there seemed to be another woman by his side, especially this time... Qin Fang had attended this gathering as her, Ning Yumo's, "boyfriend," and most of her classmates were already aware of this news. Yet along the way, Chu Yunxuan appeared, which was somewhat embarrassing for her.

"What are you afraid of? Guilty conscience?"

Looking at the Qin Fang in front of her, compared to when she first met him six months ago, his body was noticeably more robust, but the temperament on his face hadn't changed much. The biggest change was that Qin Fang's eyes were now filled with confidence.

"Not at all!"

Qin Fang said with an embarrassed smile, actually feeling a bit guilty.

It wasn't because of the other women, but mainly because facing Ning Yumo, he needed to lower his head to see her face clearly, given his height. However, this brought his line of sight straight in line with the deep, bottomless ravine.

Ning Yumo had an excellent figure and particularly fair skin, which, coupled with her black gown, made her look like an angel fallen to earth, irresistibly prompting the urge to get closer.

Shifting his gaze slightly from Ning Yumo's proud peaks to her delicate and rosy lips, at some point, he had tasted her flavor... which was quite exquisite, like that of fine wine, making him want to savor it once more.

"Uh... thinking crooked!"

Qin Fang immediately stole a glance at Ning Yumo, hoping she hadn't noticed his shift in demeanor. Qin Fang had always held Ning Yumo in high regard and truly did not dare have any disrespectful thoughts...

"This... remember this?"

Qin Fang had not only gone off on a tangent but had gone far too astray. Ning Yumo had called him over not to discuss that but to take out a thin Silver Needle and wave it in front of Qin Fang.

"This... Is this a needle?"

Qin Fang was taken aback for a moment, looking at the Silver Needle before him with a puzzled expression, wondering what Ning Yumo meant.

Such needles were used in Acupuncture and could be bought at any ordinary pharmacy; they weren't anything out of the ordinary, which was why Qin Fang felt puzzled.

"This Silver Needle is for Acupuncture, I suppose you're not unfamiliar with it..."

Ning Yumo shook the needle and then said.

Qin Fang also nodded his understanding, of course, he knew because he himself was carrying several hundred such needles on him right now...

Wait, the style of this needle...

Qin Fang suddenly froze for a moment. The silver needle before him was almost identical to the ones Qin Fang commonly used. Although they were all casually bought from pharmacies, they were identical in size and length, which was enough to raise suspicions.

Especially since... Ning Yumo had deliberately brought such a needle in front of Qin Fang... There was definitely something to be said about that.

"A few days ago, there was a shooting case that caused a big stir among the police, and it even shook the government at both the provincial and city levels..." Ning Yumo didn't mention the matter of the needle, but instead talked about the shooting.

As soon as Qin Fang heard this, he knew it must be about the murder of Song Gang, but he didn't feel it was appropriate to say too much. He simply nodded subtly, signaling Ning Yumo to continue.

"The victim was called Song Gang, an international fugitive. You've seen his photo before, before you left for Xishu Province..."

Ning Yumo continued to speak. The Song Gang case was still confidential at this stage; ordinarily, she shouldn't have discussed it with Qin Fang, but Ning Yumo did regardless.

"Indeed, I've seen it. I remember he seemed to have an accomplice called... Cao Chun! Yes, Cao Chun..."

Qin Fang vaguely sensed that Ning Yumo had a hidden message in telling him this, but he didn't want Ning Yumo to be in a difficult position. Naturally, he wouldn't reveal the truth that he, Qin Fang, was the killer. He had no choice but to feign ignorance.

"Keep pretending... keep on pretending..."

While Qin Fang played dumb, Ning Yumo really rolled her eyes and laughed with contempt.

"Enough, stop pretending. I've known for a long time that you were the killer... This silver needle was taken from the body of that security guard; it's the only evidence left at the scene! Many people are aware of the incident where you dealt with Ye Xiang using one of your needles. As soon as I saw this needle, I knew it was your doing! Here, put it away yourself..."

Qin Fang was about to continue the act, but Ning Yumo directly exposed his charade and grasped Qin Fang's hand, placing the silver needle in his palm and gently closing his fingers.

Given the turn of events, Qin Fang recalled how he had indeed sealed the security guard's acupoints with a silver needle. Qin Fang had planned to release the guard after succeeding, but developments exceeded his expectations. With the police arriving quickly and no time to spare, he didn't manage to do so...

Back when Ye Xiang became vegetative due to a silver needle from Qin Fang, Ye Heng, the then city police chief, had desperately sought medical help to no avail. In the end, they had to turn to the one who tied the bell to untie it, which meant asking Qin Fang to come and save Ye Xiang.

It was after that incident Qin Fang's silver needles became famous in Ninghai. Even Elder Ma, a Medical Grandmaster, had expressed considerable admiration for Qin Fang's Nine Revival Needles technique.

But it was this very needle that betrayed Qin Fang this time, revealing that Song Gang had died by his hand.

"But..."

Qin Fang did not admit it, but neither did he deny it. He just looked at the needle in his hand, surprised, trying to understand what Ning Yumo meant by doing all this.

This was a piece of evidence from the crime scene, and Ning Yumo's actions were tantamount to destroying evidence, clearly crossing legal boundaries.

"Don't worry, I've got it all under control..."

However, Ning Yumo shook her head with a nonchalant expression and continued.

She herself didn't quite understand why she had done it. When she found this piece of evidence, her immediate thought was of Qin Fang. She had almost instinctively hidden the needle away, and none of her colleagues at the police were aware of it...

Of course, with just this needle, Ning Yumo could be convinced that Qin Fang was the killer, but the actual evidence was far from enough.

When Qin Fang killed Song Gang, he deliberately didn't avoid the cameras. Instead, he let the cameras capture a face that was actually the face of one of Li Rui's underlings. Qin Fang had knocked out the underling and left him in the villa's garage while the real killer — Qin Fang — drove straight out.

So when the police checked the surveillance footage, they were immediately dumbfounded, unable to understand what had happened...

"Also... don't be so reckless next time. It's too dangerous!"

Ning Yumo softly reminded him again. Her voice was quiet, but the concern in her words was obvious.

"Sister Ning..."

Looking at Ning Yumo's stunning face, the worry in her eyes, and the extent to which she had gone for him, Qin Fang really didn't know what to say.

Perhaps it was at that moment, a tremor went through Qin Fang's heart, or perhaps his mind suddenly surged with blood. Without any hesitation, he reached out and pulled Ning Yumo's perfect body into his arms. He hugged her tight, as if he wanted to completely merge her into his body...

Chapter 643 - He is stepping on five boats_1

...

Qin Fang, in a moment of impulse, embraced Ning Yumo, even he hadn't expected to do so.

Ning Yumo was the same, although she always cared for and took care of Qin Fang, the nature of their relationship had always been ambiguous, like that of siblings.

However, this sibling-like relationship seemed to have started deteriorating at some point.

At least compared to her actual brother, Ning Weiqiang, she seemed to care even more for Qin Fang, her sworn brother...

Especially after that one kiss with him at the banquet, their relationship had utterly changed.

At this moment, Qin Fang seemed very excited, holding Ning Yumo tightly in his arms, and his posture seemed quite playful. At least the three beauties not far away all saw it, but their reactions were completely different.

Cai Qing's face was full of gloom, and her eyes almost seemed to spit fire.

Helen, however, was looking over at Qin Fang with her pale blue eyes, appearing somewhat intrigued and a bit eager to try.

As for Chu Yunxuan, she had a faint smile on her face, gently lifting her wine glass to sip.

"You're not jealous?"

As soon as Cai Qing turned her head, she caught Chu Yunxuan's reaction and immediately asked in surprise.

"Jealous? Why should I be jealous?"

Chu Yunxuan smiled and playfully retorted.

Cai Qing knew Chu Yunxuan was aware of her unconventional preferences, and she stood by Qin Fang's side, hoping Ning Yumo, such a perfect woman, wouldn't turn out to be like her – that would be a terrible waste of resources.

"Ugh... Qin Fang is your boyfriend, and in front of you, he's being so intimate with another woman, and you're not jealous?"

Cai Qing felt her brain was not quite keeping up, as she had never seen a woman so magnanimous.

She was familiar with Qin Fang, but she actually knew very little about his affairs, like Tang Feifei, Xiao Muxue, Wen Yan; she hadn't met any of them.

Even when Fang Feixue's shop had its opening, this beauty hadn't attended, naturally missing the opportunity to run into them.

"I love him! I love everything about him! Whatever he likes, I like too..."

Chu Yunxuan's expression was very natural, not the slightest bit off, and even when she spoke those words, they were full of deep affection. Her eyes, looking at Qin Fang not far away, seemed almost ready to twinkle with stars.

"Crazy... You're all crazy!"

Cai Qing couldn't help shaking her head relentlessly, overwhelmed by the chaotic relationship dynamics.

From some point onwards, she had considered Ning Yumo her dearest love. Apart from Yumo, she rejected all other men, seeing them as filthy and loathsome.

So when Ning Yumo entered the martial arts gym with Qin Fang, their intimate appearance immediately infuriated Cai Qing, and she felt a potent threat.

That's why from the very beginning, she was very hostile towards Qin Fang.

Earlier, when Yang Rui was here, she had helped him try to take Qin Fang down. Compared to someone like Yang Rui, it was natural that Qin Fang posed a greater threat.

But Yang Rui hadn't succeeded and was interrupted by the arrival of Helen and Chu Yunxuan. Chu Yunxuan had appeared as Qin Fang's girlfriend, and what was thought to be an opportunity to defeat Qin Fang had unexpectedly led to a situation that completely shattered her worldview.

As for Cai Qing's reaction, Chu Yunxuan had expected it, but she didn't take it to heart and didn't take her words seriously.

Chu Yunxuan had understood from the start that if she were to be jealous, she didn't have the right to be. The one who should be most jealous was Tang Feifei, the one who had been with Qin Fang from the earliest days, not her, the third party who joined halfway.

"Chu, I want to discuss something with you..."

But the breakdown didn't stop there. Helen, who also seemed very interested in Qin Fang, immediately pulled Chu Yunxuan aside and whispered in her ear.

"Your boyfriend is really handsome. Can I have a chance? You know, what I admire the most are the men from Dragon Country! Even just for one night would be fine..."

Women from Europe and America tend to be more straightforward; they say what they think. Helen and Chu Yunxuan were very close friends and had gone wild together during their college days, so there was no need to beat around the bush.

Clearly, Western women have different appreciation standards for men. To Asian women, someone like Yang Rui was the epitome of handsomeness, whereas Qin Fang might only be considered average looking.

But in Helen's eyes, Qin Fang was obviously much more handsome than Yang Rui. You could tell by how she flirted with Qin Fang, while she treated Yang Rui like a servant, bossing him around.

"I don't mind at all! Just afraid you don't have what it takes... plus, it seems like you haven't been broken in yet; I reckon you can't handle him..."

Chu Yunxuan's smile became even brighter as she immediately teased.

"How is that possible? Humph, just you watch..."

Helen was not put off by Chu Yunxuan's teasing and confidently patted her ample bosom. The quivering motion could have blinded many onlookers.

Chapter 644 - He is stepping on five boats_2

...

"Let go of me!"

Feeling the unusual gazes of the people around her, Ning Yumo finally snapped back to reality. Her fair face instantly flushed with embarrassment, and she gently pushed against Qin Fang's chest, chiding him softly.

Qin Fang knew that moderation was key and immediately, albeit reluctantly, released his hold on her.

It had to be said that their bodies fit together perfectly—when they embraced, they were almost entirely in sync with one another.

"I'm going to touch up my makeup... and I'll settle the score with you later!"

With her face still burning with embarrassment and not daring to linger or meet Qin Fang's eager eyes, Ning Yumo muttered softly before seeking a place to hide. Yet, even in her flustered state, the typically tough Officer Ning didn't forget to leave behind such a fierce remark.

Qin Fang didn't try to stop her. In fact, he had been acting on impulse as well, but this impulsive act had unexpectedly pierced through the delicate barrier between him and Ning Yumo—an unexpected but welcome surprise.

He knew Ning Yumo would need time to adjust to this change; if he were to persist, it might backfire.

Ning Yumo hid in the restroom, while Qin Fang returned nonchalantly to his original spot, where Helen, the beauty, immediately approached him with enthusiasm.

...

After a good twenty minutes, Ning Yumo emerged from the restroom, the flush on her face had gradually faded, leaving only the slightest hint of pink that made her look even more delicately lovely.

"Yu Mo, that Qin Fang is two-timing..."

No sooner had she walked into the dining area than Yang Rui came up from the side, blocking Ning Yumo's path and immediately started talking.

This was the opportunity Yang Rui had been waiting for. With Helen holding a much higher status than him, he didn't dare to approach her, so he could only watch Qin Fang chatting and laughing with four beautiful women at the table, gnashing his teeth from afar.

"Who told you he's two-timing?"

Ning Yumo frowned slightly. Her impression of Yang Rui had been average to begin with. Reaching such a status did imply some capability, and while not to her taste, he wasn't too bad.

However, Yang Rui's remark immediately caused Ning Yumo's opinion of him to plummet, prompting a rather blunt retort.

If Yang Rui had been more attentive to the tone of her words and had backed off, Ning Yumo might not have thought so poorly of him. But Yang Rui was already seething with jealousy, wishing nothing more than to trample Qin Fang underfoot and drown him in disdain...

"Didn't you hear just now? Miss Chu is also his girlfriend..."

Yang Rui quickly defended himself. Helen spoke Mandarin fluently, and since he had been present at the time, there was no way he could have misheard.

"I'm aware of that, so what?"

Glancing at Yang Rui, Ning Yumo felt he was truly distasteful and her tone grew increasingly unfriendly.

Never underestimate Officer Ning's temper—famous for her fierceness in the Ninghai Police Circle, she was known to come down hard on criminals, especially those who committed heinous crimes. They often met with her wrath before even reaching trial.

She and Qin Fang had together caught two rapists in the past, a particularly dangerous incident which nearly cost Officer Ning her life.

By the time the two culprits were brought into the station, even before they could be sent to prison, they had already paid a visit to Lord Yan with their manhood.

It was precisely because of her fiery temper that despite there being many local young masters in Ninghai, and Officer Ning being stunningly beautiful, no one dared to entertain the thought of pursuing her. They couldn't handle her outbursts!

"But... aren't you angry?"

Just like Cai Qing, Yang Rui also felt his brain wasn't quite up to scratch.

Even though it was exposed that Qin Fang was two-timing, Ning Yumo acted as if nothing happened, still being lovey-dovey with Qin Fang, and even shared laughs with the "mistress" Chu Yunxuan, as if they were close sisters.

"Let me put it this way, it's not just two boats that Qin Fang is stepping on... Let's count... one, two, three, four, five... He should be stepping on five boats... Can you control it? If you can, then go ahead... If not, scram early!"

Unfortunately, this guy Yang Rui ended up triggering Officer Ning's explosive temper, and she directly sprayed him in the face without any courtesy.

How many women Qin Fang had, Ning Yumo wasn't particularly clear, but as for those in Ninghai, she knew of several, for instance, Tang Feifei who was definitely the official girlfriend, followed by Xiao Muxue, and then there was Fan Ning, whom Qin Fang didn't hesitate to fall out with Li Rui for. As for Wen Yan, Ning Yumo was not very clear...

Just counting these alone, that already made three.

Now adding Chu Yunxuan to the count, that made four... And since she wanted to irritate Yang Rui, she naturally included herself, making it exactly five boats that were being stepped on.

After saying this, Ning Yumo directly stepped forward, swaying her enticingly perky derriere, wearing a smile on her face as she walked towards where Qin Fang and the others were, leaving behind a stunned and pitiful Yang Rui with a surprised face.

"Damn bitch... Sooner or later..."

By the time Ning Yumo returned to Qin Fang and the others, Yang Rui had just slowly come back to his senses, his face growing increasingly gloomy as he muttered a few harsh words under his breath, his eyes filled with bitter venom as he glanced at Qin Fang.

Achoo~~

Tragically, Qin Fang couldn't help but sneeze again.

The mixed-race beauty Helen was showing Qin Fang great attention, inviting him to take a night tour of Ninghai and perhaps spend the night together... His sneeze interrupted her, but it just happened to make her notice the brooding and resentful Yang Rui in the distance. Her pale blue eyes shifted slightly as if she had some idea in mind.

"Forget it, there's no point in staying here, let's change the place..."

The gathering that Ning Yumo had been enjoying was weakened a bit by Yang Rui's interference and considering the class reunion wasn't very interesting, she didn't feel like staying any longer.

"I have no objections!"

"I'm easygoing..."

Whether it was Chu Yunxuan, Cai Qing, or Helen, all expressed their agreement, and as for Qin Fang's opinion... well, in front of several women, that was naturally selectively ignored.

"Then let's go to Fang Feixue. We've been here so long without a single decent bite to eat, I'm starving... Perfect opportunity for Qin Fang to cook us a few good dishes..."

Ning Yumo, for some reason, directly wanted to go to Fang Feixue.

Of course, Qin Fang's cooking skills were unquestionable; aside from Helen, the other three had tasted his cooking and had nothing but praise, even the exceptional cook Cai Qing had lost to him.

"Wow, Qin... you can cook? That's amazing... I love men who can cook..."

As soon as it was mentioned that Qin Fang would be cooking, Helen's pale blue eyes immediately sparkled with little stars, and she wrapped an arm around Qin Fang's.

My god, not even wearing a bra... She really is a bold Western mare from Europe and America!!

"All right..."

All the women agreed, and Qin Fang couldn't really say no. He just hoped he wouldn't run into Tang Feifei and the others there, or it would really be like Mars colliding with Earth.

Cai Qing naturally followed along. She wasn't very aware of Qin Fang's ventures, but judging from Qin Fang's offer to buy her a car earlier, it seemed his claim of "just earning a few billion from a small business" wasn't just an offhand remark.

When they arrived, it was just Qin Fang and Ning Yumo, but leaving turned into five people...

What left Qin Fang speechless was that, although the four women had two cars, none of them wanted to drive; they all squeezed into Qin Fang's Audi. Indeed, it had quite the flavor of luxury cars and beautiful women, with Qin Fang amidst a nation of fragrances...

Chapter 645 - Boss, Your Harem is So Harmonious~~_1

...

Imagination is always so beautiful, but reality is often very cruel.

When Qin Fang's Audi stopped in front of Fang Feixue with four beauties inside, they had just gotten out when they happened to run into Tang Feifei and her friends coming out of the store.

"Sister Ning..."

Tang Feifei was closest to Ning Yumo, and Xiao Muxue was also very familiar with Ning Yumo, while Wen Yan was not as well-acquainted but had met her several times.

The reason why Tang Feifei and the others came out of Fang Feixue was that they saw Qin Fang's car returning, and now that they bumped into Ning Yumo, they were naturally very excited.

"Feifei..."

Ning Yumo also smiled and gave Tang Feifei a warm hug; these two sisters had always been very close to each other.

"Sister Ning, weren't you and Qin Fang going to a gathering? How come you are back so early?"

Qin Fang, as Ning Yumo's pseudo-boyfriend and her companion to the class reunion, was something that Tang Feifei and the girls were aware of—the outfit he was wearing was even prepared by these beautiful ladies.

However, the gathering had only just started not long ago, and Ning Yumo and her group had already left early, and it wasn't even past eight o'clock at the time.

It was just the right time, as Tang Feifei and the others had just finished eating and had not yet left, so they happened to bump into each other.

"The gathering was not much fun; just happened to meet a few friends, so came over here for dinner..."

Not mentioning that class reunion would have been fine, but upon bringing it up, Ning Yumo suddenly felt a bit embarrassed, stealing a glance at Qin Fang, she felt a little unable to face Tang Feifei.

Originally, she and Qin Fang had a mutual fondness for each other, but it was hidden deep within their hearts, with neither piercing through that layer in their relationship; they cared for each other, looking like true siblings.

But it was this gathering that accidentally exposed the nature of their relationship, and although they had not spoken too much about it, it was clear that they could no longer return to their previous state.

Tang Feifei was Qin Fang's official girlfriend, and all the other women might be considered mistresses. Combined with the fact that their relationships were quite good, such a meeting was indeed quite awkward.

Though her relationship with Qin Fang was not yet established, she had already cast herself in that role.

Seeing such a scene, Cai Qing pursed her lips, intending to mock Qin Fang with a few words, to expose his relationships with various women, but after hesitating for a moment, she didn't open her mouth. Such words could certainly cause some trouble in Qin Fang's harem, but undoubtedly they would also hurt Ning Yumo.

She was Ning Yumo's best sister, and she had always regarded Ning Yumo as the woman she loved the most; naturally, she least wanted Ning Yumo to be hurt...

"Hmph, lucky you, kid..."

Cai Qing could only helplessly hum to herself inwardly, of course not missing the chance to give Qin Fang a few fierce glares.

"That's true, those class gatherings are the worst, all pretense... Don't even mention the food! Haha... Perfect timing, I was just feeling like I didn't eat enough, can grab a bit more to eat..."

Tang Feifei did not notice anything wrong with Ning Yumo's expression and warmly welcomed them. As for the other ladies, Tang Feifei wasn't familiar with them, and since Ning Yumo didn't rush to introduce them, naturally, the plan was to first bring people in before anything else.

The manager of the Fang Feixue lobby was still Xiao Qing, the beautiful young widow Qin Fang had personally hired. Although Fang Feixue had almost closed down some time ago, she had chosen not to leave, enduring harassment from rogues and hooligans to keep her position...

That's why one of the first things Qin Fang did when he returned was to increase her salary, doubling what it was before.

"President Qin, what kind of trouble are you causing this time..."

Xiao Qing, being experienced, even though she was currently single, had an excellent eye as someone in this line of business; she definitely noticed the changes in the expressions of the seven women who walked into Fang Feixue.

Tang Feifei, Xiao Muxue, and Wen Yan naturally did not need to be mentioned, very familiar with her; their relationships with Qin Fang were also well known to all the staff at Fang Feixue.

But the four beauties who entered now were all outstanding and much more mature than Tang Feifei, since they were several years older than Tang Feifei and her group.

Ning Yumo's gaze was a bit covert, but the way she looked at Qin Fang was particularly soft, not like their previously innocent brother-sister relationship...

Chu Yunxuan's gaze was even more revealing—any slightly sensitive woman could see that her eyes seemed to have only Qin Fang in them.

Cai Qing... was a bit strange; the way she looked at Qin Fang was like looking at an enemy, although her facial expression did not change much, it felt as if she wanted to tear Qin Fang apart.

As for Helen Dayangma... oh my, could this mixed-race beauty be lovestruck? The admiration for Qin Fang shining from her eyes was intense as if she wanted to pounce on Qin Fang right there and then.

"Sigh, let's not talk about it, just look after things a bit; if something goes wrong, it's all on you..."

Qin Fang chuckled bitterly, shaking his head. He had been very worried about such a situation before coming, and now that it had indeed happened, he was genuinely afraid of any disruptions.

Chapter 646 - Boss, Your Harem is So Harmonious~~_2

Xiao Qing's statement undoubtedly added fuel to the fire, and Qin Fang glared at her fiercely before huffing out his response.

"I can only say I'll try my best..."

Xiao Qing shrugged nonchalantly.

Since the opening of Fang Feixue, enough time had passed for her to get a clear grasp of Qin Fang's temper, which, despite his tough talk, was actually quite reasonable; he wouldn't really do anything to her.

Of course, as Qin Fang's employee, she definitely had to share his concerns, so as Xiao Qing walked along, she pondered ways to prevent the women from causing trouble.

The incidents from a while ago had gradually settled down with Qin Fang's strong comeback, and Fang Feixue's business had returned to its usual bustle, with nearly every table occupied and the private rooms almost always full.

However, since Qin Fang was the owner of Fang Feixue, it was natural that there would always be a spot available for him. Normally, the best private room would be reserved, just to avoid such predicaments.

Soon, led by Xiao Qing, Qin Fang and the seven beauties entered the private room. They all took their seats, but the atmosphere quickly became somewhat strange.

There was no need to say anything about Tang Feifei and her two companions, and since Ning Yumo knew them as well, that wasn't an issue, but the other three were relatively unfamiliar. Chu Yunxuan was smiling silently, Helen blinked as she put on an international friend's demeanor, and Cai Qing was relatively composed, simply waiting for a slip-up to enjoy the show at this gathering of Qin Fang's women.

"Hello, sisters, feel free to tell me what you'd like to eat. Our restaurant's chefs are very skilled..."

Since everyone present except for Qin Fang was a woman, and Qin Fang didn't find it appropriate to speak much, Tang Feifei immediately stood out and offered to handle the situation.

This restaurant was a joint property of her, Qin Fang, and Xiao Muxue. As a rightful owner, it was most appropriate for her to speak up.

"Feifei, there's no need to order. We sisters will chat and let Qin Fang handle it..."

"You're right, let Qin Fang take care of it!"

"We want him to cook personally so we can see if his skills have declined..."

"Qin, I love men who can cook, you got this..."

Qin Fang had intended to keep a low profile, but just as they had sat down, these women, despite not knowing each other well, rapidly formed a united front and immediately sent him away.

"OK, no problem, I'll go right now..."

The atmosphere in the private room was off, and Qin Fang had been eager to leave. He was afraid of sudden hostilities breaking out, and he knew he'd be the unluckiest caught in the middle.

These women were all shrewd. With Ning Yumo taking the lead and the agreement of others like Chu Yunxuan and Helen, Qin Fang gladly went with the flow, escaping the room as if he had received a general pardon. Xiao Qing, as a bystander, naturally snickered to herself.

"Laugh! Keep laughing, and I'll dock your pay..."

Qin Fang huffed out another line before heading toward the kitchen, where he was obliged to strictly follow the ladies' commands.

"Chef..."

Qin Fang had barely escaped from there and just stepped into the kitchen, not yet catching his breath, when suddenly an exciting voice reached his ears. A slim shadow threw open her arms and rushed towards him rapidly.

Facing such an "enemy," Qin Fang almost instinctively went for a side kick to send this person flying, but then he abruptly recognized the voice and forcibly stopped his motion.

Who else could it be?

It was none other than Little Girl Ding Chuchu, who had clamored to become his apprentice!

This young girl was now learning cooking at Fang Feixue, shadowing Wen Yi in the kitchen, and actually behaving quite obediently. It seemed she had taken Qin Fang's request seriously.

Qin Fang typically avoided venturing into the kitchen when he visited Fang Feixue, for fear of being caught by this little girl. But this time, driven to the kitchen by the commotion outside, he had unwittingly delivered himself right to her.

Qin Fang didn't make a move, Little Girl Ding Chuchu immediately gave him a bear hug, clinging onto Qin Fang completely, especially his arm, which she held tightly.

This was also due to the height difference between Qin Fang and the little girl, Qin Fang now being over one eighty, while Little Girl was barely one sixty, too high for her to reach anything but Qin Fang's arm.

"I say, Little Girl, don't be so jumpy, alright, you almost got kicked flying like a sandbag..."

Looking at Ding Chuchu, who was hanging onto him, Qin Fang had a face full of helplessness. This little girl always left him with no choice.

"Hey hey, Master, if you want to kick, just kick... If you break Chu Chu, Chu Chu will just wait for Master to support me for a lifetime..."

Ding Chuchu was not shy at all, boldly making such a statement.

If a beauty around Qin Fang's age had said this, naturally, Qin Fang would have been secretly delighted, but with Ding Chuchu... Qin Fang pretended not to hear, this little girl could say anything, very few of her words were reliable.

"Stop messing around. Wait until I'm done with my work..."

Qin Fang held Ding Chuchu's arm and plucked her off him, then went over to Wen Yi to begin preparing food.

Wen Yi was Qin Fang's founding disciple, and she had already completed her apprenticeship. Her proficiency growth had slowed down, but there was a quantity benchmark to strive for, and she was indeed advancing towards Advanced Cooking.

But if you were to ask who among Fang Feixue had the best cooking skills, naturally it was Qin Fang, who had rarely entered the kitchen anymore.

"Master, are you going to cook yourself? That's great, I'll be your assistant..."

As soon as Qin Fang started to cook, his three disciples immediately ran over, excited to assist him.

Qin Fang's three disciples were quite diligent. Apart from Zhou Rui, who joined last, the other two were close to topping Beginner Level and were not far from reaching Intermediate Cooking.

"Go mind your own business; don't mess with mine..."

Qin Fang gave the three lads a look, of course not wishing for their help with such a small matter. With the business doing so well, everyone had their own share of tasks in the store.

"Hehe, Master, let me assist you..."

After shooing away the three disciples, Little Girl Ding Chuchu popped up again, immediately hopping over to Qin Fang and said.

"Just stand on the side, don't make trouble..."

Qin Fang would rather have those three disciples assist him than have the little nuisance Ding Chuchu; her 'help' was truly just adding to the chaos...

In fact, on his way to the kitchen, Qin Fang had already thought of what dish to make.

What Tang Feifei, Xiao Muxue, and Wen Yan liked to eat, Qin Fang was very clear about, and those were definitely a must.

Ning Yumo was the same. Qin Fang had dined with her several times and noticed what dishes she preferred and what flavors she liked, and so on.

As for Chu Yunxuan, that went without saying; Qin Fang even knew what kind of underwear she liked to wear, what brand of sanitary napkins she used, so her dining preferences were even more obvious.

Cai Qing and Helen Dayangma... Sorry, it's best to just ignore these two directly.

Since Qin Fang knew everyone's preferred flavors very clearly, it was very convenient to cook those dishes. So, under Ding Chuchu's astonished gaze, Qin Fang swiftly transformed into superman, moving rapidly, and in no time, he had prepared over a dozen dishes.

Worried about the situation in the private room, after getting the dishes done, Qin Fang immediately headed over there; heaven knew what could happen in his absence.

"Boss, your harem is really... harmonious!"

When Qin Fang returned, Xiao Qing had just come out of the private room and seeing Qin Fang's return, her expression suddenly turned quite strange, hesitated for a moment, and then dropped such a comment.

Chapter 647 - Who to Send Off~_1

...

"Uh... Did they start fighting?"

Xiao Qing hadn't mentioned it before, but now that she did, Qin Fang felt a jolt in his heart, immediately worried that a conflict might have erupted inside. Without a second thought, he hurriedly pushed the door open and rushed in.

Qin Fang didn't want to stay here for fear that the women might start quarreling, and he would be caught in a difficult position in the middle.

However, while he was busy in the kitchen, he was also worried that the women might really start trouble, even come to blows...

Ning Yumo and Tang Feifei got along well; they definitely wouldn't fight and would even stand on the same side. What Qin Fang was really concerned about was Chu Yunxuan. He was afraid that she, being alone and weak, might be at a disadvantage.

As for her companion, Helen Dayangma, she looked quite sturdy, but if a fight really broke out, she was sure to be the first to "fall."

Whether she "fell" wasn't Qin Fang's concern; what worried him was that once she "fell," Chu Yunxuan would lose her best meat shield, making it too easy for her to come to harm.

Of course, what Qin Fang hoped for the most was that the women could get along harmoniously and that nothing would happen at all...

"Qin Fang..."

When Qin Fang burst through the door so fiercely, everyone in the private room instantly focused their eyes on his face. Noticing the urgency on his expression, Tang Feifei looked puzzled.

As for the other women, several understood why Qin Fang wore such an expression, such as Chu Yunxuan and Ning Yumo, and of course, Cai Qing wasn't excluded.

The first two were somewhat touched, clearly understanding that Qin Fang was worried about them. As for the latter, she was undoubtedly delighted by the potential for trouble.

"It's nothing, just worried that you might be hungry, so I came back a bit hastily..."

Everything in the private room was as usual, and none of the women showed any sign of being out of sorts. They didn't seem like they had just been through a battle. On the contrary, each person wore a smile, seemingly getting along very well.

"What's the rush? We're not that hungry yet,"

Ning Yumo spoke up proactively to defuse the situation for Qin Fang. The tension towards Qin Fang's seemingly impulsive action subsided among the ladies, with only Cai Qing casting a teasing glance at him before the women gathered again to resume their conversation.

Of course, Qin Fang's words weren't easily dismissed, and as he had just sat down, the waiter began serving dishes, quickly filling up the table.

"Wow, smells so good... Qin, did you make these?"

While the other women seemed calm, it was Helen, the mixed-race beauty, who reacted the most. She immediately took in the tantalizing aroma, a look of utter bliss on her face, her disbelief evident as she spoke.

Qin Fang nodded. His culinary skills had reached the Advanced Cooking level, which meant even some of the Five-star hotel chefs might not necessarily be better than him.

Moreover, Advanced Cooking not only enhanced the deliciousness but also allowed more intense innovation in dish creation, something that other chefs couldn't match.

For instance, Fang Feixue's signature dish, Seven Orifices Exquisite, had recently won a gold medal at the culinary festival...

Of course, several other dishes had also won gold medals.

Officials organizing such contests had to manage their face, which couldn't be avoided. Fang Feixue's renown wasn't large enough yet, and being too ostentatious wouldn't be good.

Helen didn't stand on ceremony with Qin Fang, promptly taking up her chopsticks to start on a plate of food. Although she was American, with half her blood from Dragon Country, she was quite adept with chopsticks—a marked improvement over other foreigners who had just learned to use them.

"Wow, this is so delicious... Mm, this is good too... This one's even better..."

In a moment, everyone could hear the mixed-race beauty Helen, unbothered about maintaining her ladylike poise, exclaiming continuously as she enjoyed the dishes.

The other women smiled subtly, taking small, delicate bites, paying careful attention to their manners.

"Qin, I've discovered I'm hopelessly in love with you..."

It was unclear when it started, but Helen, while munching on her food, did not forget to "confess" to Qin Fang...

Of course, such a confession had been repeated countless times by Helen since she became acquainted with Qin Fang, and even Tang Feifei and the rest took it as a joke.

"Fangfang, Sister Helen invited us to vacation in Hawaii; their family has acquired an island there. The scenery is so beautiful... Look, look!"

Speaking of Helen, Tang Feifei suddenly remembered something and eagerly extended her phone toward Qin Fang, displaying several pictures of beautiful scenery, clearly sent by Helen.

As the owner of Reid Pharmaceuticals, Helen's family assets certainly amounted to an astronomically high figure.

There are many islands in Hawaii, many of which are sold to top wealthy people from around the world. It was not unusual for her family to purchase such an island.

Americans know how to enjoy life; besides working hard, they almost always travel at least once every year. For a tourist destination like Hawaii, that's even more of a certainty.

Playing with many tourists at places everyone can go to clearly doesn't showcase the identity of wealthy people like them. Owning an entire island and having the beauty of the whole island to themselves, now that's the ultimate indulgence.

"No problem, when you all have time, let's go together..."

Qin Fang would naturally not refuse Tang Feifei's suggestion, as he had already planned to take these women around him out for a good time after wrapping up the business here.

The scenery in Hawaii is picturesque, traveling to such a place is definitely something many people eagerly wish for.

Moreover, it is tropical, and although going there in the winter isn't particularly ideal, the scenery will certainly not disappoint them.

"Right, right... The more the merrier!"

Qin Fang's use of words like "you" and "everyone" suggested that if they were an ordinary couple, they would prefer a world of their own. But it was obvious that Qin Fang wouldn't take only Tang Feifei; he intended to bring the others along as well.

"It's fun with a lot of people, and when you go, we can even take a yacht out to sea..."

Helen interjected while she was eating.

However, this idea was clearly excellent. Drifting on the azure ocean amidst the vast blue waves was also an extremely romantic thing to do, and it had a significant impact on the women, to the point that even the relatively calm Ning Yumo couldn't help but show some yearning in her eyes...

Eh... It seems Cai Qing also has a look of longing!

Of course, although Cai Qing had her orientation issues, in the end, she was a woman too. All her living habits and thoughts were the same as any normal woman's.

Squeak~~

Just then, the door of the private room suddenly opened from the outside, and a small head sneaked in, immediately attracting everyone's attention.

"Chu Chu..."

Tang Feifei was the first to recognize who this small head belonged to and immediately called out with a smile.

Ding Chuchu had known Tang Feifei and the others for quite some time. She had come over when Fang Feixue had its grand opening, and now she was even staying at Fang Feixue to apprentice and learn crafts. Tang Feifei and the others often came to eat there; how could they not be familiar with each other?

"Hello, sisters..."

Ding Chuchu was always the kind of girl who made herself at home wherever she went, plus she was much younger, which made her quite likable. With that one greeting, she immediately bridged the gap with the other women.

In front of a dumbfounded Qin Fang, it took Ding Chuchu less than three minutes to infiltrate the feminine squad, quickly engaging in lively conversations with the beauties.

Qin Fang, on the other hand, became someone who seemed dispensable, as he really couldn't interject in women's topics.

Only Tang Feifei was more accommodating to Qin Fang. Since they were sitting together, the two whispered sweet nothings to each other. Of course, Qin Fang also briefly introduced Chu Yunxuan's identity.

Regarding his intimate relationship with Chu Yunxuan, Qin Fang didn't spell it out, but he did tell Tang Feifei about the Heart Nourishing Pill.

As a birthday gift for Old Master Tang, Qin Fang had to communicate with Tang Feifei in advance, or else the gift might directly be discarded as trash when given.

With the Heart Nourishing Pill as a preamble, the identities of Chu Yunxuan and Helen became much easier to explain.

The meal was indeed very enjoyable, at least the concerns Qin Fang had did not occur, and everything went smoothly. But when everyone walked out of Fang Feixue, laughing and talking, as they looked at Qin Fang's Audi, the trouble also arrived.

"Who should I drive home?"

Qin Fang was at a loss.

He really didn't know which side to side with.

Tang Feifei and the others naturally needed to go back to the university town. Although they came to the city center for a meal, they would still return to the school dormitory for the night. Compared to Qin Fang's habitual overnight absences, they were much more well-behaved, at most staying the night at the little house near the Sawmill Factory...

Ning Yumo worked at the city bureau, she had a place to stay in the city center and didn't need to go back to her house in the university town.

Cai Qing could be ignored; nobody dared to mess with her unless someone was too brazen.

The most challenging ones to deal with were Chu Yunxuan and Helen, the two beauties...

Faced with such a situation, Qin Fang suddenly felt that this fortune of multiple women was not so enjoyable after all; sometimes, it was indeed quite a headache...

"Fangfang, why don't you drive Yunxuan and Helen? The three of us can take care of ourselves..."

Tang Feifei indeed had the grace of a head wife; her demeanor was quite unique. One could tell a lot from her eyes, even though she didn't spell it out.

Now faced with such a dilemma, Tang Feifei immediately stepped up to ease Qin Fang's worries. In this regard, Tang Feifei was very generous, making even Ning Yumo and the others look on with slightly strange expressions.

Chapter 648 - The Ocean Horse Invites Me to Three..._1

...

"Feifei, how about this, you and Muxue wait here for me a bit, I'll take Yunxuan and Helen back to the hotel and then come back immediately to take you guys back to school..."

Although Tang Feifei said that, Qin Fang clearly could not really do so.

If he really did that, Tang Feifei might not say anything, but she would definitely have some lingering issues in her heart, and that was obviously something Qin Fang did not want to see happen.

"No need, we can manage..."

Tang Feifei shook her head; after all, they used to go back that way before. Qin Fang had many things to handle and could not possibly drive them back every day, which they all understood very well.

This time even more so, since Qin Fang had returned miraculously from a great disaster, Tang Feifei had actually let go of a lot, even the things she would have minded in the past, she now saw in a more relaxed light.

Just like today's meal, with the looks several women gave, Ning Yumo was somewhat more subtle, but Chu Yunxuan almost didn't hide it at all. How could the ice-and-snow smart Tang Feifei not notice? She just chose not to say it...

Of course, if Qin Fang had nothing else to do, he would definitely take them back personally.

"Qin Fang, how about this, I'll take Feifei and the others back, and you go send Yunxuan and Helen..."

At the critical moment, it was still older sister Yu Mo who could best relieve Qin Fang's worries, immediately standing up and offering.

She had a house in the University Town, and being a policewoman herself, it was even safer to take Tang Feifei and the others back, not much different from Qin Fang personally escorting them.

"Yeah, Fangfang, let Sister Yu Mo take us back..."

Hearing Ning Yumo suggest that, Tang Feifei's eyes lit up, and she immediately said with a smile.

"This...okay then!"

It seemed like this was the best solution for now. With Ning Yumo as their escort, he wouldn't have to worry about Tang Feifei and the others, and he did indeed have things to discuss with Chu Yunxuan.

After settling on this, they quickly split into groups. Ning Yumo, driving the car specifically provided by Qin Fang for Fang Feixue, took Tang Feifei, Xiao Muxue, and Wen Yan back to University Town, while Qin Fang took Chu Yunxuan and Helen to the hotel. As for Cai Qing... naturally, she could only take a taxi to Triumph Restaurant to drive her own car home.

Watching the two groups leave, Cai Qing smiled bitterly. At this moment, she was the loneliest, even her best sister seemed to be drifting further and further away from her.

"Qin Fang...I won't let you get away with it!"

But the more Cai Qing thought about it, the more she found Qin Fang incredibly detestable, muttering resentfully in her heart, yet she really couldn't do anything about Qin Fang.

After the Wu Family incident, Qin Fang's strength had advanced by leaps and bounds. Although he was still Level 4, regular Level 5 experts were no longer his match.

Cai Qing was also a Level 5, considered a very formidable expert in Ninghai, but actually, in the younger generation of the Southern Martial Arts World, Cai Qing's fame was also very prominent, although this fame came from her beauty rather than her strength... In this aspect, it was rather similar to Luo Xi of the Wu Family...

The main reason was that Cai Qing, despite training hard, could not cultivate Inner Breath, which limited her development in the Martial Way and destined her never to enter the realm of Grandmaster-level Experts.

Without the support of Inner Breath, Cai Qing's strength was greatly discounted. Since Qin Fang's return from Xishu, after a brief exchange of hands with him, she could no longer bully Qin Fang as easily as before, and she even realized that Qin Fang was deliberately letting her, otherwise... the one being bullied would definitely have been her.

...

"Qin Fang, by doing this, won't Feifei..."

Sitting in the car, Chu Yunxuan was still thinking about what had just happened. She felt that Qin Fang's handling of the situation was not quite appropriate. She understood Qin Fang the most and could empathize with his difficulties the most, and she thought of the matter from Qin Fang's perspective as well.

Qin Fang's choice seemed very inappropriate to her; after all, Tang Feifei was Qin Fang's official wife, and the rest of them were mistresses. His actions could potentially hurt Tang Feifei.

"No need to say it, I know what I'm doing... Feifei will understand!"

Qin Fang shook his head, no longer dwelling on the matter, since he had already made such a choice, he naturally needed to be very responsible.

"Sigh..."

Chu Yunxuan let out a soft sigh.

Of course, she herself was very moved, after all, Qin Fang had chosen their side. Helen could be disregarded, so Qin Fang was clearly doing it for her own sake.

"Qin, are you staying with us tonight? Helen would love to spend a pleasant night with such an elegant gentleman like you..."

What was a particularly emotional moment was thoroughly ruined by the words of the mixed-race beauty Helen, and Qin Fang nearly lost control of the steering wheel, almost crashing the car off the overpass...

"Hey, pretty lady, can we not joke around like this? I'm driving..."

Qin Fang was really at a loss for words. This mixed-race schoolmate of Chu Yunxuan's was truly leaving him speechless. She wasn't too difficult to handle, at least not as much as the little sorceress Ding Chuchu, but the beauty's occasional remarks were really more than Qin Fang could bear.

"I'm not joking! I'm serious... God is my witness!"

Unexpectedly, Helen turned serious and insisted, even pulling out a cross from within the deep valley of her cleavage.

It was something that hung from Helen's necklace, always nestled within her deep cleavage—he hadn't noticed it before, but now he could see it quite clearly...

Er, of course, he wasn't looking at the cross—what Qin Fang was really eyeing were those two huge meatballs...

"Yunxuan, she's here because of you, you deal with her..."

Qin Fang withdrew his gaze. Given such a straightforward woman who even made offers so earnestly, Qin Fang had no idea what to do and simply let Chu Yunxuan, one of the instigators, handle it.

"Qin Fang, actually... you really should consider it, you know. Helen and I are very good sisters, and I wouldn't mind at all..."

Chu Yunxuan, with her arms folded as if she was watching a good show, immediately laughed when Qin Fang pushed the problem onto her.

"Don't be fooled by Helen's seemingly flirtatious words. In fact, she's still a virgin. If you were to take her virginity, it would have a very good effect on your Joyous Zen Technique... and those big meatballs... they are really quite something..."

No one knew Qin Fang's thoughts better than Chu Yunxuan did. She knew that although Qin Fang was very proper, he had his smidge of sly desire, but he just had strong self-control.

As for the Joyous Zen Technique, naturally, Chu Yunxuan knew about it too. Qin Fang had obtained the Heavenly Bead Bracelet from Qiao Zhenfei before meeting Chu Yunxuan, so it was impossible to hide it...

Moreover, Chu Yunxuan herself now cultivated Inner Breath because of the Joyous Zen Technique's dual cultivation, and she had also begun practicing martial arts, albeit still rather unskilled at the moment.

"Joyous Zen..."

Qin Fang also felt slightly moved when he heard this.

The dual cultivation of Joyous Zen indeed played a significant role in improving his power. Of course, the purer the body, the better the effects Qin Fang would receive—just like the first time he and Chu Yunxuan had been together. Even if it was his first time using this secret technique, he had achieved the strongest effect.

Compared to that, although the subsequent dual cultivation also had good effects, it never reached the height of that first time... The reason was that Chu Yunxuan was no longer a virgin; the most pristine Primordial Yin had been lost, hence the weaker results.

"Let's forget it..."

However, in the end, Qin Fang shook his head and refused.

Qin Fang was a man with a very strong sense of possession. Perhaps it was a trait common among men from Dragon Country. His women were his alone. The thought of them being touched by other men made him uncomfortable...

Women in Europe and America seemed to be more liberated. Many spent their lives with numerous men; some even led promiscuously indisputable lives.

It was somewhat surprising that Helen, at twenty-five or twenty-six years of age, still kept herself untouched. According to what Qin Fang had heard, it seemed that most American girls lost their virginity by the age of sixteen... A twenty-something virgin was simply unimaginable.

Previously valuing her virginity didn't equate to continued restraint after losing it, after all, once a woman has tasted the joys of intimacy, her body would begin to crave it...

"Qin, Yunxuan and I are very close sisters. We share a lot of things together, and I wouldn't mind sharing you either... Of course, you'd have to be capable enough. I've heard that men from Dragon Country are somewhat..."

Seeing Qin Fang shake his head, Helen, the foreign beauty, immediately chirped in, especially her last comment, which came with glances at a certain part of Qin Fang, as if she thought it wasn't particularly impressive.

"Qin Fang, she's the one saying this—she's belittling your abilities..."

Chu Yunxuan, who enjoyed the excitement, also chimed in from the sidelines. Not only did she fail to clear Qin Fang's name, she even added fuel to the fire...

"Damn, to be looked down upon by a foreigner..."

Qin Fang couldn't help but curse inwardly, his eyes involuntarily rolling.

What could men least endure?

That was a woman claiming he wasn't capable!

If it were any other man, upon hearing Helen's words, whether it was true or not, he'd probably flip the table in an instant, yelling, "You darn witch, how dare you say I can't do it! Have the guts to take me on for three hundred rounds, and see if I can't beat you so hard that you can't get out of bed for three days..."

"Pretty lady, it's best not to say things like that. She knows best whether I'm capable or not. If you really want to test the gun... you're definitely going to cry..."

Regarding his prowess in a certain area, Qin Fang, like the vast majority of men from Dragon Country, was exceedingly confident; he just didn't express it as directly, choosing to phrase it somewhat more tactfully...

Chapter 649 - Taking My Wife to See Mom~~_1

...

Of course, confident as he was, Qin Fang wasn't really going to do such a thing.

Hailing from a wealthy family, Helen stayed in Ninghai's best five-star hotel, and moreover, in the luxurious presidential suite—a place most people couldn't afford.

Chu Yunxuan was also temporarily staying there, and as a rich woman herself, she could afford a presidential suite too, but there was no need for such extravagance.

With Helen's arrival, Chu Yunxuan naturally moved in to stay with her. The two were close sisters, making it more convenient to live together.

After Qin Fang took these two beauties back to the hotel, he directly escorted Helen to her room, while he took Chu Yunxuan to open another room, keeping a good distance away.

The night was inevitably filled with passion. Qin Fang had been busy dealing with Li Rui's affairs these days, and to avoid unnecessary trouble, he had only been in touch with Chu Yunxuan over the phone, barely meeting face-to-face—today just happened to be by chance, otherwise, Qin Fang planned to deal with Cao Chun first before meeting up with Chu Yunxuan.

As they say, absence makes the heart grow fonder—the young couple fought passionately until dawn. Even though they had to cultivate their energy together in the process, by the time the first rays of morning light came through, Chu Yunxuan felt she had no strength left even to move a finger...

Even for taking a shower, it was Qin Fang who carried her to the bathroom, where he avoided stirring up certain areas, and there was another release... which left Chu Yunxuan not wanting to get out of bed for the whole day.

After having breakfast with Chu Yunxuan in the room, Qin Fang left her to rest at the hotel while he drove back to the university town.

Why, you ask?

Qin Fang's elusive mother suddenly called saying she wanted to meet her future daughter-in-law...

"You... you're not joking, are you?"

When Tang Feifei heard the news, her mouth was so agape with surprise she couldn't close it, and her face flushed with a pinkish shyness, clearly finding the news a bit too sudden for her.

"An ugly bride must eventually meet her in-laws, and you're not ugly..."

Qin Fang pinched Tang Feifei's reddened cheeks and said with a chuckle.

Tang Feifei was Qin Fang's official girlfriend, and as for the others, they'd have to meet eventually, but it just wasn't the right time.

Although the relationship between Qin Fang and Tang Feifei was just beginning, unless they did something particularly outrageous, the chances of them breaking up were slim.

Tang Feifei had even tolerated the fact that there were other women around Qin Fang—what couldn't she bear?

"Then... what should I bring to Auntie?"

Meeting the parents for the first time was, in fact, extremely nerve-wracking, whether it was for Qin Fang in the past or for Tang Feifei now, both were scared of upsetting the elder and being driven apart as a result.

Of course, Qin Fang's relationship with Tang Feifei always looked like a 'grassroots' man climbing up to a 'golden branch and jade leaf' like Tang Feifei. As long as the Tang family had no objections, Qin Fang's side shouldn't have any—after all, the gap in status between them was quite significant.

"As long as you come, you'll be the best gift, no need for anything else..."

Qin Fang said with a beaming smile.

He knew his mother's character all too well. She didn't care much for external things and was very easygoing. With Tang Feifei's extremely gentle and empathetic personality, she was sure to be well-liked...

"Still, that won't do, I must buy something..."

Tang Feifei wouldn't really listen to Qin Fang; it was simply improper to visit for the first time empty-handed.

"Then it's up to you. You decide... Alright, have Mu Xue and Wen Yan help you pick something out!"

Qin Fang didn't insist too strongly. After all, it was Tang Feifei's thoughtfulness, a filial gesture to his mother—how could he refuse?

Actually, the time wasn't far from Old Master Tang's grand birthday. Qin Fang estimated that after staying home for a few days, he would need to start preparing with Tang Feifei to head to Capital City for the celebration.

It would be a good opportunity for Qin Fang to take care of his mother's heart problem, freeing her from the torment of illness.

Buying gifts was actually quite straightforward. Fang Feixue had now found its footing and business was booming. Although the initial costs hadn't been fully recouped yet, it was only a matter of time. The dividends for the shareholders had been distributed continuously.

Although Qin Fang, Tang Feifei, and Xiao Muxue were all family, Qin Fang remained fair, with the dividends being transferred directly into each person's bank account by Fang Feixue's finance department, making it convenient for everyone when they needed money.

It wasn't that Qin Fang was stingy with money, but doing so prevented the women from feeling like they were being kept by him—they were all self-sufficient, after all.

"Are you all coming too?"

Qin Fang's Audi's trunk was filled with various gifts of all sizes, Tang Feifei took the passenger seat, and the back seat was squeezed in by Xiao Muxue and Wen Yan.

Seeing these two beauties also coming along and Tang Feifei's winking gestures, Qin Fang knew what they meant.

"Then let's go together!"

Although the situation was slightly early, it was inevitably going to happen. Qin Fang figured that even if his mother had small complaints, they wouldn't be too significant, especially since Qin Fang's top-notch mother would be too happy if Qin Fang brought several young girls home... the thing was, Qin Fang used to be too wooden, getting red-faced just from seeing girls was already an achievement.

Chapter 650 - Taking My Wife to See Mom~~_2

Qin Fang's home was also located within the bounds of Ninghai, just a bit more remote, in the suburbs of the northern part of Ninghai. Back when he was in high school, every time Qin Fang went home, he would have to first take a bus ride of over an hour to reach the county town, then another bus from the county town to that little town for more than an hour, followed by at least an hour's walk to finally reach his house.

From this, it was evident just how secluded that place was...

It was precisely because the location was so remote that Qin Fang, during his high school years, only went home about once every one or two months, usually living in the school dormitories. It wasn't until after the college entrance examinations ended and he left school that he had to spend money to rent a small house.

Among the three girls, Tang Feifei, Xiao Muxue, and Wen Yan, only Xiao Muxue came from a rural background. The other two had grown up in the city, and although they had been to the countryside, they had almost never lived in a village. Qin Fang was a bit worried that they wouldn't be used to staying there as he certainly wouldn't be coming back the same day he went.

"Don't worry, we can handle it..."

Tang Feifei seemed very open-minded and confidently assured him, and Wen Yan naturally felt the same.

Qin Fang didn't say much else but simply smiled indifferently, thinking that if they really couldn't get used to it, he could just drive them to the county town to find a hotel to stay in.

The Audi departed from Ninghai City District, heading northward. As the capital of Jiangnan Province, the road construction in Ninghai was actually very good. Even in rural areas, there were cement roads all the way to the doorstep.

The reason the area was called remote was mainly because buses did not pass through these villages but directly connected various small towns, and the most challenging part was the segment from the town to the village.

However, since Qin Fang was driving back himself, the journey was naturally much faster. Within just two hours, the Audi entered the village where the Qin Family's home was nestled.

Rows of two-story buildings stood erect, forming one row after another. Though they were not uniformly neat, it somewhat reflected a decent standard of living for the people there.

Occasionally, one could see cars parked in front of some of the houses. However, most were only middle to low-end vehicles. Luxury cars like the Audi were virtually unseen, so Qin Fang's Audi attracted attention the moment it entered the village...

"Hey... isn't that driver... Qin Fang from the Widow Qin's house..."

One person might not give much thought, but when two or three recognized him, the word spread quickly. Even though Qin Fang had changed quite a bit in the past six months, after more than a decade, a closer look still revealed it was him.

"It does look like Fang... Isn't he at university in Ninghai? How did he get a car?"

"Look, that girl sitting next to him is pretty. Must be his girlfriend... probably from a wealthy family..."

Villagers tend to be somewhat simple in character, at least in the village where the Qin Family lived. However, their biggest issue was that there were many gossips, and they often couldn't bear to see others doing better than them, which sometimes made their comments unpleasant.

As soon as Qin Fang drove into the village, news spread like wildfire. In no time, the gossip morphed into "Qin Fang caught the eye of a rich girl, climbed up the social ladder, and became a stay-at-home son-in-law..."

Qin Fang and his mother had moved to this place from outside, but after living here for more than a decade, they had become very familiar with the local villagers. Since Qin Fang's mother, Qin Qing, had raised him alone and no one had ever seen Qin Fang's father, they assumed Qin Qing was a widow. There was only one Qin Family in the village, so people usually referred to Qin Qing as Widow Qin...

More than a decade ago, the mother and son, orphaned and widowed, had come to this unfamiliar place to start a new life, and the strangeness they felt towards the surrounding people was imaginable.

At first, they faced exclusion, especially since the village mainly consisted of large families with the same surname; it was very troublesome.

Ruffians and old bachelors in the village would from time to time come to harass the Qin Family, making life incredibly difficult for the mother and son.

Fortunately, the old village chief at that time took special care of the orphaned mother and son. He strictly ordered the villagers not to disturb the Qins and warned of severe punishment for violators. After a few serious punishments, things gradually calmed down, and the Qin mother and son were able to settle down there.

Qin Qing wasn't like the other women in the village who couldn't recognize a single character and were illiterate; she had an education, though even Qin Fang was unclear about the specific level, he could be sure that it was definitely quite high.

She worked as a technician at a mechanical plant in the town, a job that was greatly envied by many people over a decade ago, and it had allowed her to raise Qin Fang to this age.

Unfortunately, as the new millennium arrived, the plant's performance began to decline, and with Qin Fang's ever-increasing educational expenses, the Qin family's life became more difficult.

If it had not been for this, Qin Fang wouldn't have ended up working as a power leveler at the Gold-Farming Studio after the college entrance examination, just to ease some of his mother's burden...

Tang Feifei and Wen Yan were unaware of these things; only Xiao Muxue, who had talked through the night with Qin Fang once, knew some of the details. Now, as Qin Fang mentioned it so casually, they all had red-rimmed eyes in an instant.

They had great admiration for the strength of Qin Fang's mother, whom they had not yet met...

After the car entered the village and slowed down, it quickly approached their destination. In about ten minutes or so, Qin Fang turned a corner and stopped in front of a row of houses.

"We're here..."

Qin Fang parked the car and softly told the three beautiful women beside him; ahead of them was the home where he had lived for over a decade.

Unlike the other small buildings in the village, the Qin family's house seemed a bit lower, a row of bungalows surrounding a small courtyard fenced off by various climbing plants.

Beep beep~~

Qin Fang sounded the horn, and after a short while, he saw the courtyard door being opened, and a strikingly delicate-looking middle-aged woman stepped outside, her puzzled eyes fixed on the valuable Audi in front of her.

Naturally, this woman was Qin Fang's mother, Qin Qing. Though middle-aged, she still retained glimpses of her youthful beauty. Even now, she remained quite stunning.

"Mom..."

Qin Fang stuck his head out first to greet his mother, then he saw a radiant smile instantly spread across Qin Qing's astonished face as she hurried over from the doorway and embraced her son, who had just gotten out of the car.

"My dear son, it's been more than half a year since I've seen you, let your mom have a look... I've missed you to death..."

Qin Qing, beaming, hugged her son and sized him up from head to toe, her smile growing even brighter. At that moment, Tang Feifei, Xiao Muxue, and Wen Yan got out of the car and quietly stood to the side.

Only when Qin Qing's gaze shifted away from Qin Fang did the three girls politely call out in unison, "Hello, auntie..."

"Good! Good! Good..."

Qin Qing was initially slightly startled, but her smile quickly returned to her face. She stealthily squinted at Qin Fang, tossing him a look of approval, then she left Qin Fang behind and went straight to Tang Feifei, who was closest to her...

"This must be Feifei, right? So beautiful..."

And really, Qin Fang's mother had a sharp eye – out of the three girls standing there, she recognized Tang Feifei at a glance...