Chapter 77: Attracting Customers_1

Qin Fang picked up the techniques quickly, largely because of his ability to turn what he had learned into skills. Though they were beginner movements, after a few seemingly proficient repetitions, Qin Fang had already significantly mastered the routines.

After sparring briefly and simply with Fang Dacheng, experimenting with attacks and defenses, Qin Fang still ended in a complete defeat. Fortunately, it was not a fight to the death, but merely a practice session between the two, thus there was no risk of injury.

Their brief morning exercise soon came to an end. They jogged back to the dormitory from the little grove, noticing an increasing number of people along the way.

"Brothers, time to get up, let's go have breakfast..."

It was just past six o'clock, prime sleeping time for students like themselves, but they were all roused by Qin Fang and the early-rising Fang Dacheng.

"Boss, Fourth Brother, aren't you two being a bit too cruel? I was just dreaming about a Fairy Sister..."

None of the others seemed appreciative, complaining about their interrupted sweet dreams. Muttering a few words, they attempted to continue their dreams by snuggling back into their blankets.

"Get up quickly, adapt sooner rather than later. Rumor has it that being late during military training will result in severe punishment... I'm helping you! If you want to embarrass yourselves in front of all the school's beauties, then I'll leave you be... Boss, let's just go ourselves, forget about them!"

Seeing that everyone was about to go back to sleep, Qin Fang and Fang Dacheng exchanged a silent look. However, Qin Fang had a solution—he promptly called Fang Dacheng to get ready to leave and deliberately left them with that message.

Whoosh~~

They might not have heard the "severe punishment" part, but the prospect of embarrassing themselves in front of all the school's beauties got them out of bed faster than rabbits.

"Don't go, don't go, I'm up, I'm up..."

Complaining, they finally left their cozy beds, reluctantly got up, and squeezed together by the washbasins to freshen up. After that, led by Qin Fang, the group of six headed towards Fang Feixue Noodle Shop.

After a few days of management, the noodle shop's business was getting better, particularly since the start of the university term, resulting in a dramatic increase in customer traffic. Most of those who had dined in the shop and came to Lanyuan tended to prefer Fang Feixue as their first choice.

Draggin the dorm mates along was not just Qin Fang being generous; it was also about bonding and bringing them in to familiarize themselves with the place and to serve as a form of advertisement.

On the way, he called Tang Feifei and Xiao Muxue, only to find out that the two beauties had arrived at the noodle shop even earlier than him.

"Fourth Brother, this is your noodle shop? Fang Feixue... what a feminine name!"

When the group arrived at Qin Fang's noodle shop, the first thing they noticed was the shop's name. Xiao Nan immediately criticized it mercilessly, while the others snickered, clearly agreeing with Xiao Nan's jibe. In response, Qin Fang could only offer a wry smile, as there wasn't much else he could do.

"Hm, the interior decoration is quite nice, and it's very clean. Not bad..."

As the group entered the noodle shop, they all had their comments. Fortunately, this time none of the remarks made Qin Fang want to run away in tears. Otherwise, he might have seriously considered using the Nameless Ancient Fist Technique he had just learned to knock out several of Xiao Nan's teeth.

"Alright, quit the chit-chat and take a seat! I'm going to start making the ramen..."

With Qin Fang's arrival, Fang Feixue Noodle Shop was officially open for business. Perhaps it was the small group of six people that stood out this early morning. Some of the early-rising customers, on the hunt for food, had taken notice, and stragglers had begun to trickle in.

Turning on the stove, boiling water, stretching the ramen, cooking it, serving it up with sauce... the whole process was smooth as flowing water. The brothers from the dorm had just sat down and were chatting when they saw Tang Feifei and Xiao Muxue already smiling with bowls of prepared ramen for them.

"Fourth Brother's very own ramen, I must try this..."

Xiao Nan was about to give a pre-meal speech when he noticed that the others had already been captivated by the enticing aroma and had immediately grabbed their chopsticks to dig into their bowls of ramen.

Among them, the most voracious eater was naturally Fang Dacheng, who had the largest appetite and had just vigorously exercised that morning. Since he was the only one who had previously tasted Qin Fang's delicious ramen, he didn't hesitate to start devouring it, shoveling in mouthfuls as if he were a starving refugee emerging from Africa after days without food.

"Damn you, you beasts..."

By the time Xiao Nan noticed, he found that his tablemates had already tried the ramen, and each of their expressions had frozen, frightening him to the point where he was afraid to even move his chopsticks, "What's with those faces? Is the ramen not good?"

As he voiced his question, he couldn't help but glance at Fang Dacheng, who seemed to be thoroughly enjoying his meal. In just a short time, half of the steaming bowl of ramen was already gone.

"It's really... really... too delicious!"

Shen Yang struggled to get the words out of his mouth after quite an effort, almost passing out from not taking a breath. Xiao Nan was tempted to go up and slap him a few times to help him catch his breath.

After uttering those words, Shen Yang joined Fang Dacheng's frenzied eating brigade. His naturally large build made the bowl of ramen seem insignificant, and he ate even faster than Fang Dacheng, which was truly terrifying.

"Is it that good? You're not messing with me, are you?"

Xiao Nan was skeptical, although the bowl of ramen before him smelled irresistibly fragrant, he wasn't sure if it would taste as good as it smelled.

"Forget it, since it's Fourth Brother's skill, I have to show some support!"

Xiao Nan clenched his teeth and immediately grabbed his chopsticks to take a clump of noodles and put it into his mouth as if he were ingesting poison rather than food. Thankfully, Qin Fang was busy in the kitchen and hadn't come out; otherwise, he might have been so angered by Xiao Nan's reaction that he'd spew blood.

However, as soon as the first bite entered his mouth and a bit of soup touched his tongue, he instantly recognized the taste as extremely delicious, raising his initial impression a notch internally.

As he chewed the noodles, he found them to be springy and well-flavored, and the sauce was an eye-opener for Xiao Nan.

He considered himself a well-traveled food connoisseur, yet when it came to ramen, Qin Fang's offering was amongst the top, earning his unrestrained praise, "Fuck, this is so amazing..."

Of course, Xiao Nan didn't waste time either. With the ramen being exceptionally tasty and his stomach a little hungry, he immediately joined the ranks of the eating rampage.

Xiao Nan was really too excited, he even blurted out a swear word, causing the expressions of a few customers who had just entered the shop and hadn't received their ramen yet to change slightly. Initially not too concerned about the ramen, they now grew quite expectant of Qin Fang's noodles, even specifically asking Tang and Xiao when the ramen would be served...
