Chapter 681: Dao Reward! Unleashing the Five-Star Hidden Profession to Everyone! (Two-in-One) _1

"Yes, Chen Mo," the pint-sized being explained with a smile. "The Pool of Dead Spirits is the final test of the Main God of the Undead's legacy and the key to you becoming the Main God of the Undead yourself. In the Pool of Dead Spirits, you will undergo a painful baptism. Only by successfully enduring it can you acquire the power of the Main God of the Undead."

"Well, let's give it a shot," Chen Mo decided, filled with anticipation.

The tiny figure smiled and nodded, gently waving his hand.

Suddenly, a passageway appeared before Chen Mo, leading to a place suffused with a Mysterious Aura—the Pool of Dead Spirits.

The scene at the Pool of Dead Spirits was somewhat unexpected. It turned out to be a massive basin suspended in the sky, emanating a profound and dark aura. The pool water was as black as ink, containing a powerful death energy.

"Are you ready to go in?"

"What am I going to face inside?"

"Take a look beneath the Pool of Dead Spirits."

The small being pointed at several bizarre, pitch-black creatures underneath the Pool, their bodies emitting eerie death energy.

"What are those?"

"Undead Source Beasts. Like you, before they entered the Pool of Dead Spirits, they too attempted to ascend to the realm of the Main God of the Undead and ended in failure."

"So dangerous? Will I become a monster if I fail?"

"This Pool is a convergence of Death Origin Power. Even your Divine Physique grants you no advantage within it."

"It's that risky? Is there a way to avoid it?"

"It's quite simple. If you feel you can't stand it, just get out quickly."

"Then how did these become Undead Source Beasts?"

"These few were on the verge of success but couldn't endure it when they were just a step away. They refused to give up, and that's how they ended up in this state."

"If I fail, can I try again?"

"You can. However, the Death Origin Power will be gentlest during your first entry. While you'll gain a better understanding of how to absorb it and improve your technique with subsequent attempts, the Death Origin Power itself will grow increasingly frenzied. It will likely be difficult to stabilize before the Heavenly Dao ejects you. Therefore, the more times you try, the harder it will become."

"Are the results the same whether one or two people enter?"

"It doesn't matter how many enter; the Death Origin Power is limitless. It won't be reduced because more people are absorbing it."

"What about its intensity? Does it change with the number of people?"

"No, it only reacts to the number of entries. The more times you enter, the more the Death Origin Power will reject you, so it will become even more chaotic."

"I see."

Upon hearing this, Zhui Yi immediately smiled and said, "Since its behavior is based on an individual's number of entries, let me go in first to understand the absorption techniques."

Zhui Yi was an outer incarnation; if he died, he would simply revert to being a tool. There was basically no danger. Furthermore, his entry wouldn't cause the Death Origin Power to become more violent for Chen Mo. This made it clearly suitable for him to attempt it first.

Chen Mo nodded in agreement.

The small figure beside them turned to Zhui Yi and said, "Interesting, an outer incarnation. Ever since the God of Creation died, such things have become increasingly rare."

"God of Creation? Sounds like someone who can create anything. Such a character can die?"

"When the great calamity arrived, what did mere Gods even count for?"

The small being seemed lost in reminiscence, his gaze drifting into the distance. Chen Mo looked at the small being, quite curious about the knowledge stored in his mind. This guy has lived for so long; he must be a living history book.

While Chen Mo was questioning the small being about ancient information, Zhui Yi had already stepped into the Pool of Dead Spirits.

As Zhui Yi leaped into the pool, the water immediately seemed to come alive, frantically surging toward him and completely enveloping him. Zhui Yi instantly felt a surge of intense power flowing into his body, causing him severe pain and torment. He felt as if he were sinking into an abyss of death, his body being brutally battered by the frenzied Death Origin Power within the Pool of Dead Spirits.

Nearby, Chen Mo synchronously experienced Zhui Yi's sensations. Zhui Yi gritted his teeth, steadfastly resisting the agony. His willpower and determination enabled him to endure it all. He knew that only by undergoing this painful baptism could he assist Chen Mo in attaining greater power, becoming a true Main God of the Undead.

Meanwhile, he also began attempting to guide the Death Origin Power into his body and integrate it as a part of himself. However, this step proved incredibly difficult. Unruly Death Origin Power constantly flowed throughout his body, invading it every moment. Just when he managed to grasp a slight thread of it, that very thread would be instantly swept away by the surging influx of Death Origin Power before he could even begin to assimilate it. Even with the aid of Moluo's Brain, absorbing the Death Origin Power for his own use seemed extraordinarily difficult.

Zhui Yi tried countless times. When an immense amount of Death Origin Power infiltrated his body, if he couldn't swiftly convert some of it into his own, his body would promptly begin to transform into an Undead Source Beast. By this point, Zhui Yi's legs, from his feet to his knees, had already undergone the Undead Source Beast transformation.

As long as the transformation doesn't exceed 80%, it's easily reversible. Once it exceeds that threshold, while it cannot be easily reversed merely by waiting, special items can be used to revert this state.

Chapter 682: Great Dao Reward! Five-stars hidden profession unlocked for everyone! (Combining two into one) _2

However, if more than 95% of the Death Origin Beast transformation occurred, it would be irreversible, ultimately reducing him to nothing but a Death Origin Beast.

At this point, Zhui Yi was still a long way from that limit, so there was no immediate danger.

Although his Divine Physique offered no extra help in absorbing and controlling Death Origin Power, his True Moluo's Brain provided significant support, enabling Zhui Yi to quickly master the technique.

「Over time」

Zhui Yi's body, submerged in the Pool of Dead Spirits, began to gradually change. His skin gradually turned as pale as snow, and his eyes glinted with a profound light of death. Black runes and patterns appeared on his body, exuding a mysterious and fearsome aura.

At this point, Zhui Yi felt his internal energy continuously strengthening. His control over his power reached a new peak as he continuously assimilated the energy within the Pool of Dead Spirits!

"Master, I'm done!" Zhui Yi exclaimed, leaping out of the Pool of Dead Spirits and smiling at Chen Mo.

There was no need for Zhui Yi to say more; Chen Mo had already synchronized with all of Zhui Yi's recent experiences and knowledge. As a result, he now possessed an extremely refined ability to absorb Death Origin Power.

After reassuring Zhui Yi to rest and rid himself of the remnant Undead Source Beast transformation, he leaped into the Pool of Dead Spirits.

With the experience Zhui Yi had gained, Chen Mo found transforming Death Origin Power remarkably easy. In no time, the Death Origin Power obediently flowed into his body without interruption. Only when he felt his body was saturated did he stop the influx of Death Origin Power.

When Chen Mo emerged from the pool, he was completely renewed. He exuded a powerful and sacred aura; he had successfully obtained power surpassing that of the Dominator of the Undead, becoming the true Main God of the Undead.

The Tower Spirit flew to Chen Mo's side and said proudly, "Congratulations, Chen Mo. You have successfully surpassed the Dominator of the Undead to become the Main God of the Undead.

"You now possess immense power and the potential to control the Undead. However, you still need to continue honing your skills. When your Divine Power reaches 100, 1,000, 10,000, and so on—powers of ten—you will continuously unlock new abilities."

Following these words, the sound of The Heavenly Path's Hint echoed in Chen Mo's ears.

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Congratulations, you have successfully undergone the baptism of the Pool of Dead Spirits. You have successfully advanced to the Super Fifth-Tier Profession, 'Main God of the Undead'. Your Occupational Talent and Skills have undergone a complete transformation.]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: You have obtained the Super Fifth-Tier Profession's exclusive Transcendental Artifact, 'Star of the Undead'. The Star of the Undead will continuously unlock new abilities based on your Divine Power.]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: As your profession has successfully reached the fifth transition, you have unlocked 'Divine Domain Ability'. Related enhancement items have been unlocked and can now be dropped or otherwise acquired. You can obtain relevant items in subsequent rewards to continuously enhance your Divine Domain Ability.]

Fifth-transition professionals can awaken Divine Domain Abilities. They can use relevant items to continuously enhance their Divine Realm—an inner space distinct from a fourth-transition professional's domain. The Divine Domain Ability allows one to occupy Divine Domains within the Tower of Eternity. Each Divine Domain occupied further enhances one's Divine Domain Ability. The enhancement of the Divine Domain Ability influences the development speed and scale of the exclusive Divine Domain World within one's body.

Once life emerges within one's Divine Domain World, it can grant its owner different rewards depending on the life forms' development and changes. Both divine elements and Divine Power have a chance to grow. As the master of a Divine Realm, applying various external treasures that influence the Divine Realm to one's Divine Domain World can also accelerate its development. This accelerates the improvement of one's own strength.

However, at this stage, no one's Divine Domain World had yet produced life. Everyone's Divine Domain World was essentially still a rudimentary model. The Divine Domain World of a newly advanced fifth-transition professional was no larger than a mung bean. As for veteran, mighty fifth-transition professionals, their Divine Domain Worlds, though perhaps somewhat larger, were still far from the stage of life generation. However, even without the birth of life, as long as the Divine Domain World continued to grow normally, it would still bring continuous benefits to its owner. It's just that these benefits were not as substantial as the power provided by life forms within the Divine Domain World.

Chen Mo's current Divine Domain World was somewhat different from those of ordinary fifth-transition professionals, perhaps because he had undergone the transcended fifth-transition. From the start, his Divine Domain World was as big as an adult's fist. Moreover, this Divine Domain World could provide Chen Mo with a full 100% enhancement to divine elements and Divine Power. Typically, a newly emerged fifth-transition professional's Divine Domain World, the size of a green bean, could only provide its master with a 10% enhancement at most. It was evident that Chen Mo's transcended fifth-transition strength had already exceeded normal standards by tenfold.

With his Super Fifth-Tier transformation successful, Chen Mo immediately tried to look inward at his internal Divine Domain World. Gazing at his Divine Domain World, still in a primordial, chaotic state, Chen Mo truly felt a special sensation, as if he had become a god in command of everything. He could even devise some simple rules for his Divine Domain World.

However, virtually no one would arbitrarily set rules, because the world they inhabited had already well-established the general rules under which life could emerge and exist. If you randomly set rules, not only would you be fumbling in the dark, but it was feared that your Divine Domain World might never even produce a single life form. That would obviously be to your own detriment. After all, setting and changing rules for your Divine Domain World required corresponding items. These items were not easy to obtain, and to sabotage oneself in this way was simply asking for trouble. The effort spent acquiring rule-modification items might be better used to obtain an additional rule-creation item.

Upon initially awakening his inner world, Chen Mo found it exceptionally novel, but he did not focus on it excessively. This was not the time to inspect his inner world.

As The Heavenly Path's Hint ended, he had already been teleported out of the rebirth mission world. The moment he emerged, the sound of the great path, resonating throughout the Solar System, reverberated once again.

"Congratulations to the Solar System for its first professional to complete the transcended fifth-transition rebirth mission! As a result, a special reward will be granted to all Solar System Professionals. From now on, all native Solar System Professionals, upon reaching the fifth transition, will have the opportunity to directly choose the transcended fifth-transition rebirth mission!

"Moreover, the penalty for failing any rebirth mission below the transcended fifth-transition will be reduced by 50%.

"At the same time, when Solar System Professionals awaken a five-star profession in the future, they will have a certain probability of directly awakening a five-star initial hidden profession. The probability is one in one hundred million."

"Congratulations to the first Solar System Professional who has successfully completed the transcended fifth-transition rebirth mission! A special additional reward, the Above SSS-level title 'Transcendental Being,' will be granted to this professional!"

As the sound of the great path boomed, everyone worldwide was dumbfounded. Even the three Alliance Hierarchs were exceptionally shocked at this moment. They had previously been contemplating how to obtain the five-star initial hidden profession Chen Mo had mentioned; unexpectedly, Chen Mo had directly solved this problem. In the future, any new professionals from the Solar System would have a chance to directly awaken this nearly unobtainable five-star initial hidden profession during their awakening.

Although the difficulty of awakening was quite high, at one in one hundred million. And this one-in-a-hundred-million chance wasn't from the general population; the first part of the announcement included a precondition. This probability applied specifically when awakening a five-star profession, offering a chance to awaken a five-star initial hidden profession instead. In other words, it was possible that only one five-star initial hidden professional would emerge for every one hundred million five-star professionals. This probability could be considered almost invisibly low. But having a chance was always better than having none.

In the eyes of the three Alliance Hierarchs, it seemed that the entire Earth—no, the entire Solar System and all competing star systems on the first layer of the Tower of Eternity combined—had only produced a single individual like Chen Mo. And his existence alone was enough to cause concern and provoke countermeasures from the vast majority of powers on the first layer of the Milky Way. This was enough to demonstrate the terrifying nature of a five-star initial hidden profession. Therefore, no matter how low the probability, if the emergence of a single such individual could have such a tremendous impact, then better days for the Solar System were truly foreseeable.

Chapter 683: The Chaos Supreme Treasure! (Two in One) _1

Following the completion of his fifth-transition, Chen Mo immediately checked his new profession and divine artifact.

[Profession]: Main God of the Undead (Transcending 50-star)

[Occupational Talent]: God of Undead

[[God of Undead]] : When there are Undead Units that you have summoned within "Level × Star Level × Divine Power" meters around you, you will not die for any reason. At the same time, all damage, abnormal effects, and curses you suffer will be transferred to random Undead Units. For each Undead Unit that dies, you can accumulate 1 Undead Point. Consuming Undead Points allows you to weaken a target enemy's Divine Power, up to an amount equivalent to your Divine Power points, or increase an ally's Divine Power, up to an amount equivalent to your Divine Power points.

Fatal damage inflicted by you and your summons can ignore an opponent's resurrection and immortality skills that are SSS-level or lower.

You can incorporate undead into your Divine Realm. Undead within your Divine Realm will exist indefinitely, regardless of their normal duration. However, when they are released, their remaining duration will continue to count down.

[Profession-Exclusive Passive Skills]: Domination of the God of Undead, Suppression of the God of Undead, Source Power of the God of Undead, Locked (Unlocks at 1,000 Divine Power points).

【 Domination of the God of Undead – Dazzling Passive】 : All your Undead Summoning skills can be cast instantaneously and ignore any summoning conditions. When you summon undead, you can summon a number of undead equal to your Level × Star Level × Divine Power. Any unit killed by you or your summons will be resurrected as a Special Undead with power equivalent to its strength in life, under your command. Special Undead exist for a duration of "your Divine Power" minutes!

【 Suppression of the God of Undead – Dazzling Passive】 : For every undead summon existing within "Level × Star Level × Divine Power" meters of you, all enemy units within "Level × Star Level × Divine Power" meters of you have their attack (any type), defense (any type), and maximum Life Value reduced by 1 point (minimum 1 point remaining)!

【 Source Power of the God of Undead – Dazzling Passive】 : For every undead summon existing within "Level × Star Level × Divine Power" meters around you, your Life and Energy recovery speed increase by 1 point, and enemy Life and Energy recovery speeds decrease by 1 point.

[Profession-Exclusive Active Skills]: Summon of the God of Undead, Resurrection of the God of Undead, Great Power of the God of Undead, Locked (Unlocks at 1,000 Divine Power points).

【 Summon of the God of Undead – Dazzling Active】 :

『Positive Summon』 : When selecting Positive Summon, you summon one powerful undead of each tier. The undeads' Levels change in sync with yours. These powerful undead exist permanently, but repeat summons will refresh previously summoned powerful undead. For each powerful undead that dies, this skill's Cooldown increases by 1 minute.

『Reverse Collection』 : You can absorb the power of all Undead Units you summoned for your own use. Each low-level undead increases attribute values by 1%, each mid-tier undead by 2%, each top-tier undead by 5%, each transcending-tier undead by 10%, and each god-tier undead by 100% (the maximum attribute multiplier is equal to your Divine Power). Additionally, you can use all skills of the absorbed units.

【Resurrection of the God of Undead – Dazzling Active】 : Immediately resurrects all friendly units within "Level × Star Level × Divine Power" meters around you that have died in the past 24 hours. The resurrection is an Above SSS-level effect. If a target is under a resurrection prohibition effect, this skill removes the prohibition and resurrects the target. Cooldown: 1 hour (not affected by any cooldown reduction effects).

Alternatively, if resurrecting an enemy unit, only one target can be chosen at a time. Regardless of the creature's Level, species, or abilities in life, after Revival, the being becomes your Eternal Servant, retaining all abilities from its past life. This unit gains the special skill "Special Undead" and enters a permanently invincible state. It is bound to your fate, dying only if you die. However, it cannot move more than 100 meters away from you and cannot take damage on behalf of any other unit. If the target is under a resurrection prohibition effect, this skill removes the prohibition and resurrects the target. Cooldown: 1 hour (not affected by any cooldown reduction effects). A maximum of one such special unit can exist at any time.

【Great Power of the God of Undead – Dazzling Active】 : You are unaffected by spatial restrictions of Above SSS-level and lower, allowing you to move freely to any undead summon's position and swap their positions at will. Simultaneously, the space within "Level × Star Level × Divine Power" meters around you, as well as the space within "Level × Star Level × Divine Power" meters around each of your undead summons, becomes a restricted zone. Within these zones, all enemy units are unable to use any spatial abilities (this restriction is an Above SSS-level effect)!

After examining the attributes of his current profession, Chen Mo found that although the God of Undead had fewer skills, it seemed that all the skills from his previous Dominator of the Undead profession had been consolidated and made stronger.

The summon multiplier, which previously depended on chance, was now a fixed value. The ability to summon god-grade undead, also previously chance-based, was now a direct option. These were substantial enhancements indeed. Furthermore, the talent's effect had undergone an even more significant change, providing what could only be described as a monstrous boost to his combat power.

As expected of a Transcending 50-star profession, the talent and skill effects are truly formidable!

Chapter 684: The Chaos Supreme Treasure! (Two in One) _2

After checking his profession attributes, Chen Mo immediately examined the Profession Exclusive Divine Artifact that had been fully transcended.

[Star of the Undead - Transcendent Profession Exclusive Divine Artifact]:

[Active Effect]: Upon activating this artifact, all your profession Skills are considered to have no Cooldown, and all profession Skill effects are doubled! This effect lasts for 5 minutes. When the effect ends, all Skills will return to their Cooldown state prior to the effect's activation. This effect can only be triggered once every 1 hour. (To unlock the next tier of effects, reach the second-tier God Realm.)

[Passive Effect]: The Profession Exclusive Divine Artifact possesses a protective characteristic. When you are about to sustain fatal damage, the artifact will actively shield you, making you invulnerable for 5 seconds, while simultaneously summoning a number of powerful Ghosts of various ranks equal to Level x Star Level x Divine Power to your side. This effect can only be triggered once every 1 hour. (To unlock the next tier of effects, reach the second-tier God Realm.)

This Transcendent Profession Exclusive Divine Artifact is truly an insane item. Not only does it eliminate Cooldowns for five minutes, but it also doubles the effects of every Skill. The Skill intensity of a Transcendent Fifth-Tier Profession, doubled on top of that—how insane is that?

Chen Mo was filled with joy.

The Transcendent Fifth-Tier Challenge was indeed not undertaken in vain.

Whether it was the strength of his profession or his Profession Exclusive Divine Artifact, both were shockingly powerful.

However, at this moment, Chen Mo's primary concern wasn't his profession's effects or those of his exclusive divine artifact.

He was most concerned about something else entirely.

That was the Chaos-grade Gift Pack.

Previously, when he had tried to open the Chaos-grade Gift Pack, he had encountered three conditions.

"Condition One": Consume 100 points of chaos source energy.

"Condition Two": Profession's reincarnation level must reach fifth-transition.

"Condition Three": Life level must reach that of deified beings.

Chen Mo had already fulfilled the first and third conditions, but the second had remained unmet. Now, with his profession having undergone its Transcendent Fifth-Tier advancement, he far exceeded this requirement.

He immediately took out the Chaos-grade Gift Pack, full of anticipation to see what kind of incredible items could be obtained from a treasure with such demanding opening conditions.

As Chen Mo opened the Chaos-grade Gift Pack, the sound of the great path suddenly echoed throughout the entire Milky Way!

Many events previously triggered by Chen Mo had only caused the sound of the great path to resonate within the Solar System.

But this time, Chen Mo's actions triggered the sound of the great path throughout the entire Milky Way, genuinely shocking everyone.

Even Chen Mo himself was very surprised. When he obtained his Chaos-grade pets before, he hadn't received such treatment.

And he had obtained not one, but two.

Neither of those instances triggered the sound of the great path, so why did opening a Gift Pack this time?

Although Moluo's Brain could analyze many things, it might not be able to analyze phenomena outside conventional rules.

After all, Moluo's Brain was the brain of Moluo, the God of Adventure. Puzzles that the God of Adventure Moluo himself could hardly solve were impossible for Moluo's Brain to unravel out of thin air.

However, the opening conditions themselves offered a few clues.

The Chaos-grade pet egg, despite its harsh opening conditions, didn't require chaos source energy and could be opened directly. The Chaos-grade Gift Pack, however, did have such a requirement, highlighting its significance.

Although Moluo's Brain didn't analyze the reason, Chen Mo guessed a possibility.

This meant the Chaos-grade pets hadn't reached their final form and weren't considered complete, thus carrying the risk of perishing. The great path likely chose not to announce such an incomplete entity.

However, based on this Chaos-grade Gift Pack, Chen Mo surmised that for his Chaos-grade pets to reach their complete forms in the future, the aid of chaos source energy would likely be indispensable.

This stuff really is an extremely scarce resource.

While Chen Mo was mulling over these thoughts, the broadcast from the sound of the great path concluded.

However, after listening to its content, Chen Mo was simply stunned.

"Congratulations to the Solar System Professionals for obtaining the first 'Chaos Supreme Treasure' in our Milky Way Sector! As a reward, all professionals in the Solar System shall receive 100 chaos source energy points!

Chaos Supreme Treasures are peerless treasures, and each one can be obtained as a drop. The recipient is advised to guard it carefully!"

Are they trying to screw me over? Doesn't this last sentence mean they're subtly asking others to kill me?

Although Chen Mo was speechless about the trickery of the sound of the great path, the reward it bestowed made him feel quite content.

I was just worrying about where to get more chaos source energy, and they actually gave me another 100 points! Doesn't this mean I can get another Chaos-grade Gift Pack to open?

"Congratulations to the first professional in the Solar System to obtain a 'Chaos Supreme Treasure' in the Milky Way Sector. Additional rewards will be granted specifically to this professional! This Chaos Supreme Treasure can be activated infinitely without the need for chaos source energy."

The personal reward for Chen Mo arrived promptly. After reading its content, Chen Mo realized that this Chaos Supreme Treasure was quite tricky; it seemed that using such a treasure normally required chaos source energy as a consumable.

At this moment, Chen Mo immediately opened The Heavenly Path's Hint to check the Chaos Supreme Treasure he had just obtained.

"Chaotic Primordial Pearl - Chaos Supreme Treasure":

"Active Effect: Consume 1 point of chaos source energy to temporarily negate the suppressive effect of an opponent's Divine Power on you. Additionally, the percentage-based effects of your Divine Power on the target are changed to a multiplier equal to the difference in Divine Power points between you. Lasts 1 minute, Cooldown 5 minutes. (Effective while in backpack)"

"Passive Effect: When a target's Divine Power exceeds yours, the percentage-based suppression effect of the target's Divine Power on you is changed to a multiplier-based suppression effect. (Effective while in backpack)"

"Special Modification: This item has been specially modified by the Heavenly Dao and no longer needs to consume chaos source energy to activate its active effect."

"Item Introduction: Boundless Chaos. With this item in hand, you can contend even with enemies far more powerful than yourself."

After reading the effects of this Chaotic Primordial Pearl, Chen Mo felt his scalp tingle for a moment.

Fortunately, Moluo's Brain processed information rapidly, allowing him to quickly grasp the pearl's specific effects.

Normally, if the Divine Power gap between you and an opponent reaches 100 points, any attack or Skill effects you inflict would be 100% suppressed, meaning they would have no effect whatsoever.

But with the Chaotic Primordial Pearl, it didn't matter even if the Divine Power gap with an opponent exceeded 100 points.

For instance, if the Divine Power gap between you and an opponent is exactly 100 points, you would normally suffer a 100% suppression effect, rendering you completely powerless.

But now, this 100% suppression effect is converted into a mere 100-fold suppression effect. The difference is immense.

For example, if you originally possessed 10,000 divine elements, 100% suppression would reduce their effective output to zero. Now, however, you could still achieve an effective output of at least 100.

Although the suppression is still severe, compared to completely nullifying your abilities, it at least leaves you some room for maneuver.

And this was only the passive effect of the Chaotic Pearl.

The active effect of the Chaotic Pearl was the truly insane part.

Once the active effect of the Chaotic Primordial Pearl is triggered, it can even directly nullify all suppressive effects the opponent has on you.

Here, "the opponent's Divine Power suppressive effect on you" refers to the amplification the opponent gains on their attacks and Skills against you, based on the Divine Power difference. This is distinct from the suppression effect you experience from them.

After all, Divine Power suppression is mutual.

For example, if there's a 100-point Divine Power difference, a Skill that originally dealt 500 damage would have its effect enhanced by 100%, dealing 1,000 damage.

A Skill that could originally reduce your All Attributes by 50% might now reduce them by 100%.

This is the opponent's suppressive effect on you, and this suppressive effect can be directly canceled by the active effect of the Chaotic Primordial Pearl, which is an incredibly crucial function.

In other words, as long as the Chaotic Primordial Pearl is used well, both the suppressive effect the opponent has on you and the suppressive effect you have on the opponent will change.

It transforms a situation where a Divine Power gap exceeding 100 points was an insurmountable chasm into one where a battle is now possible.

This was the true power of this Chaos Supreme Treasure!

Chapter 685: Can Lifestyle Professions also Transcend? (Two-in-One)_1

With the Divine Fifth Transition completed, Chen Mo could now prepare for the final Realm Breakthrough Assessment. According to the rule that a deified life form can skip the Realm

Breakthrough Assessment, Chen Mo was able to skip the final twentieth-tier Realm Breakthrough Assessment directly.

However, just as he bypassed the final tier of the Realm Breakthrough Assessment, The Heavenly Path's Hint suddenly rang out.

"Congratulations to the Solar System for the first professional to perfectly complete the Level 100 Above SSS-level Realm Breakthrough Assessment! For this, a special reward will be distributed to all professionals in the Solar System. From now on, any native Solar System professionals who do not wish to undergo the Realm Breakthrough Assessment at Level 100 can skip it directly, without needing to perform an autonomous breakthrough, and will receive the 'Breakthrough' title as a reward!"

"Congratulations to the first Solar System professional who perfectly completed the Level 100 Above SSS-level Realm Breakthrough Assessment! A special additional Above SSS-level reward will be given to this professional!"

[Heavenly Path's Hint: It has been detected that you have broken through the twenty-tier bottleneck. You have gained an opportunity to undertake the Legendary Trial. As you possess the Divine Physique, your god-tier rank will not be able to advance if you do not undergo the Legendary Trial. Do you wish to go to the Trial Tower to participate in the trial?]

[Heavenly Path's Hint: It is detected that you are a lifestyle professional. Lifestyle professionals breaking through the twenty-tier Realm Breakthrough Assessment will trigger a special reward mechanism. You have received the 'Extraordinary Transcender' title!]

"What!?"

Upon hearing this sudden Hint from the Heavenly Path, Chen Mo was momentarily stunned. He hadn't expected that lifestyle professionals would receive an additional special title reward for breaking through the twenty-tier Realm Breakthrough Assessment.

But this was not what shocked Chen Mo the most. What truly astounded him was the content of the subsequent announcement from the sound of the great path.

"Congratulations to the Solar System for its first lifestyle professional to break through the twenty-tier level restriction! For this, a special reward will be given to all lifestyle professionals in the Solar System. Whenever native Solar System lifestyle professionals engage in work compatible with their occupations, they will gain considerable experience point benefits!"

"Congratulations to the first Solar System lifestyle professional to break through the twenty-tier level restriction! An extra special reward will be given to this professional; their related profession will receive a Transcending reward!"

As the sound of the great path echoed throughout the Solar System, Chen Mo was amazed to see his lifestyle profession jump directly from its original five-star rank to a 50-star Transcendent Lifestyle Profession—it was simply astounding!

[Heavenly Path's Hint: Congratulations! You have received a profession Transcending reward. Your lifestyle profession, 'Infinite Fusion Master,' has completed its Transcending!]

[Heavenly Path's Hint: Congratulations! You have obtained the Divine Fifth Lifestyle Profession, 'Divine Fusion Master'!]

[Occupational Talent]: Transcendent Fusion

[[Transcendent Fusion]] : You can freely choose two materials of the same quality and synthesize them according to synthesis rules to obtain a new, superior material. You can also synthesize multiple different materials by learning the corresponding recipes. The success rate for synthesizing any item is guaranteed to be 100%.

[Heavenly Path's Hint: Because your lifestyle profession's tier has increased, its exclusive, built-in shop has also been upgraded. The shop will sell more new items as you reach higher Synthesis Levels. Please check it yourself!]

[Heavenly Path's Hint: Because your lifestyle profession's tier has increased, your maximum Synthesis Level has also increased. The current maximum Synthesis Level is now 20.]

It appeared that after the Fusion Master's profession tier was raised to a transcendent standard, the only change was a reduction in synthesis materials.

However, the reduction in required synthesis materials from three to two was, in fact, a qualitative change.

After all, acquiring even one unit of many rare items was already incredibly difficult, let alone three.

This single change brought about a massive improvement.

Awesome! I never knew lifestyle professions could undergo Transcending this way. It's truly eye-opening.

Under normal circumstances, it would be impossible for a lifestyle profession to break through the twentieth tier.

Because even if someone was willing to help you level up, upon encountering a tier bottleneck, the Realm Breakthrough Assessment requires you to clear the assessment instance by yourself.

Ordinary lifestyle professionals simply couldn't manage this.

After all, lifestyle professionals can't wear equipment or learn skills; they only have their basic attributes. Challenge the Realm Breakthrough Assessment relying solely on basic attributes? That's far too difficult.

The crucial difference between lifestyle professionals and regular combat professionals is that if combat professionals encounter a dangerous situation, they can use items to escape the assessment instance directly and then use the autonomous breakthrough function to break through gradually.

However, lifestyle professionals can't even use items. Once inside, they can only break through by clearing the instance completely, which essentially makes it an impossible task.

However, though the Great Dao has fifty aspects and heavenly workings utilize forty-nine, there is always one left as a glimmer of hope.

Lifestyle professionals were not entirely devoid of a way to break through tier restrictions and eventually overcome the twentieth-tier bottleneck.

Even an average lifestyle professional, not necessarily someone as exceptional as Chen Mo, would have a chance to successfully break through to the twentieth tier.

This meant that someone like Chen Mo, who could perfectly clear an SSS-level Realm Breakthrough Assessment, had to appear beforehand.

Because Chen Mo's consistent perfect breakthroughs had given all Solar System professionals the option to break through directly without undergoing the Realm Breakthrough Assessment, this opened another path for lifestyle professionals.

Chapter 686: Can Lifestyle Professions also Transcend? (Two-in-One)_2

Without needing to enter the Realm Breakthrough Assessment instance, one could bypass the level bottleneck and continue advancing in levels. This meant that as long as such a powerhouse appeared in their Star System, all lifestyle professionals within that system would have the opportunity to break through to Level 100. However, it still required someone to guide them in gaining experience points; they obviously couldn't do it all by themselves. But once a Star System had its first lifestyle professional break through the 20th-tier bottleneck, this situation would improve significantly. As the current broadcast from the sound of the great path announced, Chen Mo's successful breakthrough of the 20th-tier bottleneck had made it extremely convenient for all lifestyle professionals in the Star System to gain experience points. They simply needed to engage in work related to their lifestyle profession to continuously gain experience points, making it easier to break through tiers. Upon breaking through the 20th tier, they might even experience a breakthrough in their profession tier, obtaining a higher-tier lifestyle profession. This could also greatly enhance the overall production ecology of the entire Star System.

When the news of Chen Mo obtaining the Chaos Supreme Treasure was announced throughout the Milky Way, it had already shocked everyone. Earth's professionals hadn't even recovered from this stunning news when they received this even more surprising information. Everyone knew Chen Mo was certainly a combat professional. Yet, just as the sound of the great path reported Chen Mo's breakthrough of the 20th-tier bottleneck, another announcement immediately followed: a lifestyle professional had also broken through the 20th tier. Could this really be a coincidence? It seemed too incredible. Even the three Alliance Hierarchs of the Academy Alliance were utterly flabbergasted.

Jiang Yun was the first to send a message.

Alliance Master Jiang: A lifestyle profession? What's going on? The sound of the great path this time... was it triggered by you?

Chen Mo: It's complicated. However, for certain undisclosed reasons, I possess dual professions.

Alliance Master Jiang: What?!

Upon hearing Chen Mo had dual professions, Jiang Yun was utterly stunned. When he relayed this information to the other two Alliance Hierarchs, they too were visibly shocked.

Chen Mo: Let's discuss this after we've dealt with matters inside the Tower of Eternity.

Alliance Master Jiang: Alright. Now that your profession tier has broken through, you should be able to enter the Tower of Eternity. However, regarding the situation within the Tower of Eternity... you only recently started university, are you clear about it?

Chen Mo: Yes. I can directly synchronize and acquire the knowledge learned by my outer incarnation. I have it study when I'm in instances that don't require its participation, so I have a fairly clear understanding.

What Chen Mo didn't mention was that his Moluo's Brain itself already had a clear grasp of the relevant information.

After discussing these matters with Jiang Yun, Chen Mo still had one more Legendary Trial to undergo. However, the Legendary Trial required six hours. Time felt pressing, so he decided to join the battle quickly. If he found his Divine Power somewhat lacking, he could consider attempting the Legendary Trial then, before re-entering the Tower of Eternity to challenge it.

At this point, both Chen Mo's Divine Power and divine element intensity were considerably high. His current total profession star level was 400: 300 stars from his two pets plus 50 stars from his two professions. After a profession transition, all attribute points would reset based on the current star level standard. Others typically underwent deification after their fifth-transition, calculating their divine element based on their post-fifth-transition profession star level. In contrast, Chen Mo had previously calculated his divine element attribute based on his pre-fifth-transition star level. This meant his previous divine element attribute wasn't even its most potent form.

But things were different now. Chen Mo's divine element would now be calculated at a rate of 4 points per level gained after deification. Chen Mo was at Level 60 when he underwent deification, possessing a basic divine element of 5. This meant he could gain the benefit of 4 divine element points for each of the 40 levels from 60 up to 100. This was a significant advantage compared to others, who could only gain further divine element points through other means after reaching Level 100.

Currently, Chen Mo's divine element attribute was 165 points. Due to the amplification from his internal Divine Domain World, this doubled to 330 points. These 330 points would then be further augmented by Chen Mo's Divine Power. Chen Mo's Divine Power had reset to 0 after deification. Subsequently, he gained 55 points every 10 levels by completing the Legendary Trial. From Level 60 to 90, Chen Mo completed four rounds of the Legendary Trial, gaining a total of 220 Divine Power. His Divine Power also benefited from the boost from his Divine Domain World, bringing his current Divine Power to 440. Therefore, Chen Mo's augmented divine element had reached 145,200 points.

In contrast, normal fifth-transition professionals typically only had 5 divine element points immediately after deification. Although veteran first-tier deified professionals had acquired divine element bonuses through various means, most had a basic divine element not exceeding 250 points, and very few possessed high Divine Power. The individual among them with the highest known Divine Power had 500 points, and their divine element was also around 500. Combined with the significant amplification from their well-developed Divine Domain World, this person's divine element could reach at least 1,000,000.

However, this individual was not participating in the battle within the regions of the Yongming Star System and the Solar System. After all, such a top-tier figure was an immense asset. Firstly, they weren't even in the same Second Region competitive zone as the Solar System and Yongming Star System. Secondly, even if they were, their Star System would likely be unwilling to send such a powerful expert only to be lost in a pointless sacrifice.

Chapter 687: Can Lifestyle Professions also Transcend? (Two-in-One)_3

Such powerful figures could basically be considered supreme powerhouses in the First Region. The next level featured Elite Powerhouses, whose divine element standard could reach around 500,000. Following them were the Top-notch Powerhouses, with a divine element standard between 100,000 and 200,000. There were two such Top-notch Powerhouses in the Solar System, four in the Yongming Star System, and a varying number in other star systems. The Top-notch Powerhouses dispatched this time to support the Yongming Star System were those with a divine element standard of around 100,000.

However, the divine element standard was just a professional's basic attribute strength, representing the combat capabilities they could display without the influence of Divine Power. Professionals with the same 100,000 divine element could have a Divine Power difference of hundreds of points due to differing basic divine elements. Obviously, with the same 100,000 divine element, individuals with high basic Divine Power and low basic divine elements were stronger than those with high basic divine elements and low basic Divine Power.

Chen Mo's current divine element intensity was 140,000, which could almost be described as reaching a peak level right from his debut. The level of his divine element was already comparable to veteran Top-notch Powerhouses. This clearly showed how extraordinary he was.

And this wasn't even Chen Mo's current limit; he could still go to the Divine Training Tower for another challenge. Once the challenge was over, according to past precedent, he could gain at least 55 Divine Power points. Once these 55 points of Divine Power were amplified by the Divine Domain World within him, they would become 110 points. With this additional 110 Divine Power, Chen Mo's final divine element standard could reach approximately 180,000. This would nearly touch the ceiling for Top-notch Powerhouses in the first area of the Tower of Eternity's first floor. If he participated in a god-grade army array, pooling Divine Power, his combat power could increase even further.

However, even without participating in the Legendary Trial, he now possessed a divine element standard of 140,000, placing him at a mid-tier level among Top-notch Powerhouses, which wasn't too bad. With the exceptional standard of his Transcendent Profession, he could be as effective as several Top-notch Powerhouses on his own.

After checking his current standard, Chen Mo prepared to head to the Tower of Eternity. But before that, he planned to open another chaos-grade Gift Pack. This was because when he had opened the chaos-grade Gift Pack just moments ago, the Heavenly Dao had rewarded him with 100 points of chaos source energy. Now that his Fusion Profession level had also increased, it seemed he was right to save so many Above SSS-level Gift Packs. He could hurry and fuse another chaos-grade Gift Pack. The treasure he had just obtained allowed Chen Mo to have a chance to fight against powerhouses with 100 more Divine Power than himself. And Chen Mo was quite looking forward to what the second chaos-grade Gift Pack might contain.

However, he also considered a problem: he might not be able to use whatever he got from the second chaos-grade Gift Pack at all. Judging from the items from the first chaos-grade Gift Pack, using chaos-grade items required consuming chaos source energy. Chen Mo had only been able to use the first Chaotic Primordial Pearl without consumption due to the reward from the Heavenly Dao. But he probably wouldn't enjoy such treatment the second time he obtained a Chaos Supreme Treasure. This could lead to a situation where he couldn't use an item if he had no chaos source energy. However, he wasn't too worried about obtaining a useless item he could only look at but not use. After all, the first Chaos Supreme Treasure had a Passive effect that worked continuously without consuming chaos source energy.

Chen Mo immediately took out two Above SSS-level Gift Packs and began to fuse them. But this time, an unexpected message from The Heavenly Path's Hint appeared regarding the fusion.

[The Heavenly Path's Hint]: The fusion result for this item is divided into 'Selectable Above SSS-level Gift Pack' and 'Chaos-grade Gift Pack'. Please choose your desired fusion result to proceed.

He hadn't expected that being a Divine Fusion Master not only reduced the quantity of materials needed but also allowed him to directly control the fusion result.

Chapter 688: Top-grade Chaos Supreme Treasure! (Two in One) _1

At this moment, Chen Mo had a total of six Above SSS-level Gift Packs remaining. Fortunately, he hadn't rushed to merge them earlier. Originally, he could only have merged two Chaos-Grade Gift Packs. However, now that his lifestyle profession had been upgraded, he could merge three, effectively gaining one Chaos-Grade Gift Pack for free.

However, as he was currently lacking in chaos source energy, Chen Mo didn't rush to merge them all. Instead, he only merged one.

After gaining the ability to freely choose the results of merging, Chen Mo naturally no longer needed to activate the Extreme Fortune Wheel. He could directly select the Chaos-Grade Gift Pack as the merging result and proceed.

[Congratulations, your merge was successful!]

[Please retrieve your merged item, the "Chaos-Grade Gift Pack"!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: You have successfully opened the Chaos-Grade Gift Pack and have obtained the army array 'Chaotic Primordial Array·Chaos-Grade'!]

[Chaotic Primordial Array·Chaos-Grade Army Array]: When deploying this army array, it can gather all the Divine Power of all members in the formation. There is no limit to the number of members that can participate in the formation; however, for every additional member beyond 100, it requires an additional 1 point of chaos source energy.

This army array can use any type of Army Formation Skills and can even directly copy the Army Formation Skills of all other nearby army arrays during its formation!

Indeed, chaos-grade things are just absurd! There's no upper limit to the team, meaning as long as I have enough chaos source energy, I could gather everyone in the entire Star System into the army array for Divine Power fusion. Wouldn't that be absolutely heaven-defying!

Of course, the ideal is grand, but reality is harsh. It's already difficult to gather 100 points of chaos source energy, so where would he find enough to include so many people in the formation?

But even without consuming chaos source energy, it can accommodate a baseline of 100 members.

This was already very powerful.

This is because the greatest advantage of the Chaotic Primordial Array is that once formed, it can pool the Divine Power of all its members.

This is something other god-grade army arrays can hardly compare to.

Because, as mentioned before, normal god-grade army arrays have an upper limit to their pooled Divine Power.

For example, a Thousand Divine Power Army, regardless of how high the total Divine Power of its members, will only have a maximum pooled Divine Power of 1,000 points once formed.

Similarly, a Two Thousand Divine Power Army would have a maximum of just 2,000 points.

However, Chen Mo's Chaotic Primordial Array has no such upper limit.

This means that even without expending a single point of chaos source energy, as long as he could find 100 individuals with reasonably high Divine Power to form this army array, the pooled Divine Power could reach several thousand, or even tens of thousands.

This was indeed an incredibly powerful effect.

After all, the strongest god-grade army array to have appeared so far is only at the level of a Myriad Divine Power Army, which is a super-large-scale army array.

Chen Mo's army array only requires participating members to have an average Divine Power of 100 points.

This is actually quite easy to achieve.

An individual's basic Divine Power reaching 100 points might not be that common among those at the fifth-transition, but Divine Power can be amplified.

This amplification comes not only from one's internal Divine Domain World but also from Eternal Divine Weapons, which can also boost Divine Power.

Therefore, individuals who originally had only a few dozen points of Divine Power might see it amplified to several hundred points.

For instance, consider the person with the highest Divine Power in the first region. Although their basic Divine Power is only 500 points, with the amplification from their internal Divine Domain World, it can reach 1,000 points. Coupled with some Eternal Divine Weapons that further amplify Divine Power, reaching several thousand points is not an issue for them.

Chen Mo's current basic Divine Power is only 220 points, but relying solely on the amplification from his internal world, he has already reached 440 points of Divine Power.

If he could obtain Eternal Divine Weapons that enhance Divine Power, his strength would increase even more rapidly and noticeably.

Previously, Chen Mo hadn't had the time to learn any army arrays, as he had practically no use for low-tier ones.

Now that a chaos-grade army array was presented right before him, he naturally chose to learn it immediately.

This would give him even more confidence when entering the Tower of Eternity.

Having done all this, Chen Mo focused his mind, preparing to enter the Tower of Eternity.

The location of the Tower of Eternity is unknown. However, as long as one has completed the fifth-transition, they can enter it from any normal area at any time with a mere thought.

However, exiting is not so simple, as many things within the Tower of Eternity can prevent one from leaving.

For example, being in the middle of a battle, caught in certain trials, being restricted, or sealed, and so on.

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: You're about to enter the Tower of Eternity, are you sure?]

"Confirmed!"

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Detecting this is your first entry into the Tower of Eternity. Relevant information regarding the Tower of Eternity will now be provided. Please pay attention.]

As The Heavenly Path's Hint arrived, Chen Mo immediately received a large amount of information about the Tower of Eternity.

Much of this information was already known to Chen Mo, so he didn't pay excessive attention.

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Warning! Upon entering the Tower of Eternity, aside from your professional abilities, Constitution, divinity, and other inherent personal abilities, all other external items will not function normally. To be effective within the Tower of Eternity, these items must be empowered using the Eternal Stone.

This restriction does not apply to Eternal Divine Weapons, Eternal Divine Objects, Eternal Divine Skills, and Chaos-Grade Abilities!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Warning! Upon entering the Tower of Eternity, all title effects will be nullified. They too require activation with the Eternal Stone to function normally.]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Detected that you have obtained a Chaos Supreme Treasure. Individuals who obtain a Chaos Supreme Treasure before their first entry into the Tower of Eternity will have a chance to enter a Special Reward Space. Do you choose to enter the Special Reward Space?]

"Special Reward Space? There's actually such a good thing?"

Since it was a reward, Chen Mo had no objections and naturally chose to enter.

The moment Chen Mo made his choice, he entered a special, vast white environment.

Floating before him was a small, greyish orb.

"Lucky kid, to actually obtain a Chaos Supreme Treasure at the first-tier God Realm. You must know that even many superior gods have never obtained a single Chaos Supreme Treasure," it remarked.

Chen Mo knew about superior gods.

The God Realm was divided into ten Tiers. Tiers one to three were low-tier gods, four to six were mid-tier gods, seven to nine were superior gods, and Tier ten were True Gods.

In God Realm Tiers one to three, apart from the quality of divine elements being different, the quality of Divine Power was the same. They were first-tier to third-tier divine elements, respectively, and their Divine Power effect was uniformly a onefold multiplier.

Currently, Chen Mo and most others possessed first-tier divine elements, where 1 point of divine element was equivalent to 100 million points of All Attributes from the mortal period.

In comparison, 1 point of second-tier divine element was equivalent to 200 million points of All Attributes from the mortal period.

And 1 point of third-tier divine element was equivalent to 300 million points of All Attributes from the mortal period.

To upgrade the divine element rank, one primarily needed to advance their God Realm Tier, and advancing in the God Realm required condensing a divine character. Chen Mo had received such a mission right when he underwent deification, but he could only participate in the trials once his basic Divine Power reached 1,000 points. These 1,000 points referred to basic Divine Power, not achievable through amplification.

Thus, currently, no one in the first area had condensed a divine character, nor had anyone reached second-tier divine elements.

In God Realm Tiers four to six, not only did the divine element rank continue to increase, but Divine Power also reached a new level. This stage of Divine Power was called mid-tier Divine Power. Compared to low-tier Divine Power, mid-tier Divine Power had a twofold enhancement effect.

For example, consider two individuals, each with 100 points of divine element. God A has 100 points of low-tier Divine Power, and God B has 100 points of mid-tier Divine Power. God A with low-tier Divine Power would have only 10,000 final divine element points, while God B with mid-tier Divine Power, after amplification, could reach 20,000 final divine element points.

At first glance, this might seem like only a twofold difference, suggesting the disparity between low-tier and mid-tier gods isn't substantial. However, this doesn't account for the differences in divine element rank. When those are factored in, the gap becomes enormous.

The strongest low-tier god, whose divine elements are at most third-tier—for example, 100 points of third-tier divine element are equivalent to 30 billion All Attributes from the mortal period. Combined with 100 points of low-tier Divine Power, this can be amplified to 3 trillion All Attributes from the mortal period.

Conversely, even the weakest mid-tier god possesses at least fourth-tier divine elements. For example, 100 points of fourth-tier divine element are equivalent to 40 billion All Attributes from the mortal period. Combined with 100 points of mid-tier Divine Power (which has a twofold amplification effect), the final divine element intensity can reach 8 trillion All Attributes from the mortal period.

This is the disparity in their most basic state, without considering any other amplifications.

From this, it was evident that higher-Tier God Realms completely overwhelmed lower-Tier God Realms. This was also what the mentor Chen Mo met during his Ultra fifth-transition assessment meant when he said the greatest difference between the God Realm and the mortal period was that each subsequent realm was like an entire mountain range apart. The disparity was simply too vast.

And superior gods were even more formidable.

A superior god at the seventh-tier God Realm, with 100 points of seventh-tier divine element, is equivalent to 70 billion All Attributes from the mortal period. Combined with 100 points of superior Divine Power (a threefold amplification), the final attribute can reach 21 trillion All Attributes from the mortal period.

Even the most formidable mid-tier god, under similar conditions, with 100 points of sixth-tier divine element (equivalent to 60 billion All Attributes from the mortal period), combined with 100 points of mid-tier Divine Power (a twofold amplification), would only have a final attribute of 12 trillion All Attributes from the mortal period.

Again, it's a complete domination.

As for the even higher True God Realm, it's even more extreme. The Divine Power amplification reaches up to fivefold, and combined with tenth-tier divine elements, it represents a state of absolute overwhelming power.

Of course, these calculations of disparities between different God Realms are based on equivalent conditions. In reality, many conditions must be met to advance from low-tier to mid-tier god, and from mid-tier to superior god. The actual disparity is as vast as that between heaven and earth.

It can be said that the gap between mid-tier and low-tier gods is comparable to the gap between low-tier gods and mortals.

Chen Mo's current strength, within the Tower of Eternity, could only be considered that of a toddler just starting out. Although he was a step ahead of most fifth-transition practitioners who hadn't even achieved deification—who were akin to newborns—even if Chen Mo grew faster, he was merely in his early childhood. He was still a long way from being a truly powerful figure.

Never mind that he had frequently killed various 'gods' in dungeons before. In reality, those were all units within the dungeons whose strength had been forcibly suppressed by the Heavenly Dao. If their true forms were to appear, unrestricted by the Heavenly Dao, they could likely obliterate the entire Solar System with a single breath.

After praising Chen Mo, the small, greyish orb got straight to the point.

"Although you possess sufficient luck, this special reward isn't handed out arbitrarily. Beyond luck, I also need to assess if you have adequate strength.

"Now, I will give you an opportunity to exchange for a top-grade reward. You must understand, this is the only place you'll have the chance to exchange for such a reward. If you miss this opportunity, you'll never encounter it again."

The small, greyish orb's words were extremely tempting.

"An exchange opportunity?"

Chapter 690: Top-grade Chaos Supreme Treasure! (Two in One) _3

Chen Mo originally thought that entering this Special Reward Space would grant him a free reward, but it turned out to involve an exchange.

An exchange? Don't those usually require items of equivalent value? Then what would I even trade? Wouldn't that just be like moving something from my left hand to my right? What's the point of that?

Just as Chen Mo was pondering this, the dimly lit orb, which seemed to know his thoughts, continued, "Don't worry. To exchange rewards here, you don't need to offer something of equal value, only something of sufficient value. I can then give you this top-grade supreme treasure."

"If that's the case, it might be worth a try. But could I see what the supreme treasure is first?"

"Of course."

The dimly lit orb didn't try to keep him in suspense and directly shared the attributes of the top-grade supreme treasure with Chen Mo.

He hadn't fully grasped its appeal, but one look was enough to make Chen Mo's heart itch with an intense desire for it.

Because this top-grade supreme treasure was exactly what he needed most right now.

[Chaos Origin Core - Chaos Supreme Treasure]: A treasure that can continuously generate chaos source energy. Each hour, it can produce one point of chaos source energy for its holder.

A treasure that automatically generates chaos source energy? If I had this, then as long as I acquire an Above SSS-level Gift Pack, couldn't I continuously generate chaos-grade Gift Packs? I would also have a sufficient energy supply for using various chaos-grade abilities!

The value of this supreme treasure was absolutely irreplaceable by any other.

To Chen Mo, its value was equivalent to countless Chaos Supreme Treasures laid out before him, along with an energy supply source for all of them.

After seeing its effect, Chen Mo had already decided that he must get it.

He asked immediately, "What would I need to give up to acquire this item?"

"That depends on whether what you offer can meet my value requirement."

"What if everything I offer is not enough to meet the value for this exchange?"

"That's simple. You only need to give up all your belongings, all your Divine Power, and all your divine element, and I might reluctantly agree to the exchange."

Upon hearing this, Chen Mo laughed. That's definitely impossible.

If it weren't for the imminent danger, he might have considered it. But with a battle looming, even if this supreme treasure is incredibly tempting, exchanging everything for it goes against his principles. Besides, he currently possesses some chaos-grade treasures himself. Logically, their value isn't low, so he should have a chance to acquire it by trading some items.

"Can any of my items be used for the exchange?"

"Yes, anything. Be it your items, skills, profession, titles, equipment, etc.—anything you possess, you can use for the exchange."

Hearing this, Chen Mo immediately offered up a bunch of titles he no longer used.

Among his current titles, the only one with irreplaceable practical value was Chaos Tester; the others were all dispensable.

However, there was another title that was also quite good: the Above SSS-level title, Legendary Challenger. This title's effect was also quite potent within the Tower of Eternity. If possible, Chen Mo didn't want to trade this one away.

"Good, many high-quality titles. However, they are still not enough. Do you have anything else of value?" The dimly lit orb seemed quite satisfied with the list of items Chen Mo offered for exchange, but clearly, their value wasn't sufficient.

Chen Mo had anticipated this. The treasure the orb presented was top-tier even among chaos-grade items. Exchanging for it with just a few items below chaos-grade would likely be difficult.

Chen Mo couldn't help but examine his own items again. Many of them were quite important, and he was reluctant to part with all of them. He would have to select carefully.
