Chapter 711: The Terrifying Skeleton Monster! (Two in One)_1

After Chen Mo had dealt with the thirty-fourth group of the Myriad Divine Power Army, he was just about to head to the Divine Domain that the thirty-fifth group was attacking. However, he discovered that the Myriad Divine Power Army, which had been attacking there, had vanished by the time he arrived.

"No one is here? Did they run ahead of time? They don't know which Divine Domain we will chase them to, right?"

"So many groups have died. They should have realized by now," Zhui Yi said, looking around.

"It seems the enemy has changed their plan. Since they've changed their plan, let's change ours as well. We'll directly adopt the second plan."

Chen Mo finished speaking with a smile, and Zhui Yi immediately understood. However, the others nearby weren't quite sure what this "second plan" Chen Mo mentioned entailed.

With a shared thought from Chen Mo and Zhui Yi, a dense horde of Skeleton Monsters suddenly appeared around them, each possessing terrifyingly high attributes.

"What is the situation with these Skeleton Monsters? Why do their divine element attributes feel so terrifying?"

"The divine element intensity of these Skeleton Monsters feels far superior to everyone here, and every single one of them is so freakishly strong!"

The people around were extremely shocked by the Skeleton Monsters summoned by Chen Mo.

This was natural, as the attributes of Chen Mo's Skeleton Monsters were amplified based on his own divine element intensity. Chen Mo's personal strength was already considered formidable among them, so the high-attribute Ghosts produced by amplifying his already impressive attributes were, naturally, even more monstrous.

At this time, the Divine Power level of the Skeleton Monsters was completely comparable to the second-tier Divine Realm Level.

It meant that they had directly surpassed everyone present by an entire realm.

Naturally, as soon as they appeared, they exuded an extremely strong sense of suppression towards the people around.

Since the enemy had already withdrawn their Divine Power Formation Troop, it was clear they would adopt a dispersed attack strategy.

Chen Mo had already anticipated this.

If the enemy adopted this method, they would definitely have Myriad Divine Power Army units stationed nearby to set up defenses. They would attack as soon as the Solar System sent anyone over.

Their calculations were clever, aiming to use this to greatly weaken the Solar System's power.

But Chen Mo possessed a very strong Undead Summoning ability.

The Solar System could completely rely on deploying these Ghosts with extremely high attributes to cover every Divine Domain, without sacrificing anyone.

At this moment, Chen Mo's Ghosts were no ordinary beings. The Ghosts he summoned using his summoning skill while within an army array all possessed tens of thousands of Divine Power points.

This Divine Power originated from the army array's blessing. While it wouldn't directly multiply their attributes, it could neutralize the enemy's Divine Power. This capability ensured that no matter how strong the enemy's army array or their Divine Power, they would feel as if they were fighting primitives.

If the influence of Divine Power was ignored and only initial attributes were compared, the attributes of normal professionals obviously couldn't compete with those of the Skeleton Monsters summoned by Chen Mo.

Chen Mo had long been prepared with a plan to counter the enemy's scattered offensive strategy.

If the enemy chose to attack with concentrated main forces, he would hunt them down one by one with Zhui Yi.

If the enemy adopted a dispersed attack, then his Skeleton Monsters would be enough to cause them the greatest disturbance.

As the Skeleton Monsters would enter different Divine Domains, Chen Mo would lose control over them. Consequently, using these Skeleton Monsters to eliminate powerful foes with Myriad Divine Power was clearly impractical. After all, the Skeleton Monsters lacked human intelligence, and the enemy could engage or withdraw at will.

But for dealing with other scattered personnel, they wouldn't need any command; they would just kill on sight.

With a shared thought, Chen Mo and Zhui Yi each summoned 500 trillion Skeleton Monsters. A total of 1 quadrillion Skeleton Monsters densely filled the entire Divine Domain.

Since they no longer had the Divine Stealth Box, Chen Mo and Zhui Yi chose to summon 1 quadrillion assassin-type Skeleton Monsters.

These Skeleton Monsters came with innate stealth Skills, allowing them to achieve zero collision volume and thus avoid completely overrunning the entire Divine Domain.

At the same time, their stealth Skill also allowed them to approach enemies more effectively.

After summoning the Skeleton Monsters, Chen Mo directly contacted the Base Administrator in the tower.

To facilitate direct communication, the two had added each other as Heavenly Dao friends not long ago.

At this time, he said directly, "Administrator, we've summoned 1 quadrillion Skeleton Monsters here. Please arrange to distribute them evenly across all the Divine Domains we currently control for defensive purposes. Next, I'm going to start plundering."

Chen Mo hadn't sent out these Ghosts earlier simply because he wanted to lure the enemy's Myriad Divine Power Army to their deaths. Since the plan was exposed, there was no point in pretending anymore; he would just lay his cards on the table.

Since the Skeleton Monsters lacked an army array and operated as individual units, if the enemy's Myriad Divine Power Army units employed Army Formation Skills against them, these Skeleton Monsters could still be eliminated.

Army Formation Skills were a very terrifying method because they could integrate the divine element power of all team members, making their burst intensity incredibly formidable.

The difference between the Divine Power provided by an army array and normal, personal Divine Power had been mentioned before. The Divine Power from an army array would only be used to offset all of the enemy's Divine Power, but it would not reduce the enemy's initial attributes.

Therefore, once these Skeleton Monsters were deployed, if they encountered Myriad Divine Power Army units and the enemy utilized an Army Formation Skill, a specific interaction would occur. The enemy's Army Formation Skill would be suppressed by the Skeleton Monsters' Divine Power. This suppression meant the skill wouldn't receive the typical amplification—often tens of thousands of Divine Power points—from the enemy's own army array. Nevertheless, the inherent power of that Army Formation Skill, which was derived from the combined divine element intensity of all the enemy members, would not be diminished by this absence of their array's Divine Power boost. They could still consolidate the divine element intensity of all their members to launch a potent attack.

Chapter 712: Terrifying Skeleton Monster! (Two in One)_2

Even if the Skeleton Monster's divine element attribute was extremely strong, the enemy's strength lay in the sum of their entire team's divine element power. Additionally, their Army Formation Skills would further amplify this damage by a multiple equivalent to the number of members in their army.

No matter how strong the Skeleton Monster's attributes were, it couldn't surpass this amplified power.

As mentioned before, the Myriad Divine Power Army was a large-scale army array, different from Chen Mo's army array.

Chen Mo's top-grade army array had no limit on the number of participants, whereas normal army arrays typically had a fixed limit.

For instance, a one-thousand-point Divine Power army array could have a maximum of one hundred participants, while a large-scale army array like the Myriad Divine Power Army could have up to one thousand.

When the enemy utilized an army array of one thousand members, even if the average divine element boost per person was only 1,000 points, the total could reach 1,000,000 divine element points.

Comparing this to Chen Mo's Skeleton Monster, let's say, for example, the Skeleton Monster's attributes, after buffs, reached 100,000,000 divine elements. The opposing team's combined divine element power might only be 1,000,000, but their Army Formation Skills would amplify the damage by a multiple based on the number of members in the army array.

Chen Mo's previous use of the Arrow-War Technique, which allowed him to kill in a single hit, demonstrated its immense power.

An attack with 1,000,000 divine elements, amplified 1,000 times, would result in an attack with the strength of 1,000,000,000 divine elements.

A Skeleton Monster with 100,000,000 divine elements naturally could not withstand an attack of this level.

Of course, this calculation was a conservative estimate for both sides.

With various buffs, Chen Mo's Skeleton Monster had more than 100,000,000 divine elements.

And the Myriad Divine Power Formation Troop's total combined Divine Power was far more than just 1,000,000.

The final result was still that the Myriad Divine Power Formation Troop's attack power surpassed the attributes of Chen Mo's Skeleton Monster.

But this only applied to the Myriad Divine Power Formation Troop. A slightly weaker Five-Thousand-Point Divine Power Formation Troop would likely be unable to deal with these Skeleton Monsters.

This showed just how monstrously powerful Chen Mo's summoning skill, fueled by his tens of thousands of Divine Power, was.

Of course, possessing tens of thousands of Divine Power, which granted immunity to the effects of the enemy's Divine Power, was crucial. However, the most critical factor was still Chen Mo's inherently powerful summoning skill.

Even his comrades in the Solar System trembled upon sensing the monstrous attributes of Chen Mo's Skeleton Monsters.

They had been fighting so hard for so long, yet their attributes were still not as powerful as those of Chen Mo's Skeleton Monsters.

Indeed, comparisons could truly be infuriating.

After dispatching the Skeleton Monsters, Chen Mo and Zhui Yi resumed their work.

The dispatched Skeleton Monsters could only perform defensive tasks.

To achieve final victory, they had to control as many Divine Domains as possible.

That's what they were about to do.

As both sides simultaneously changed their battle plans, the various Divine Domains immediately became extremely lively.

First, several fifth-transition powerhouses from the Yongming Star System directly invaded the Divine Domains near their home system, beginning to break through their defenses.

Near these Divine Domains, Myriad Divine Power Formation Troops lay in ambush, waiting to slaughter the Interception Team sent by the Solar System.

However, they didn't encounter the Solar System's Interception Team. Instead, they saw Skeleton Monsters from the Solar System rushing into the Divine Domains.

Through their stealth detection ability, several groups discovered these Skeleton Monsters. Those groups without stealth detection ability were directly slaughtered by these Skeleton Monsters with their freakishly strong attributes!

"Skeleton Monsters with extremely high divine element reaction intensity have appeared in the Divine Domain! Requesting support!"

Those scattered fifth-transition professionals who were attempting to conquer the Divine Domains were stunned on the spot after discovering these Skeleton Monsters using their stealth detection ability.

They hurriedly sent messages to the Myriad Divine Power Formation Troops hiding in neighboring Divine Domains to request reinforcements.

"Skeleton Monsters?"

Upon hearing the term 'Skeleton Monster,' everyone's first reaction was that it referred to a very weak type of monster.

Did these require reinforcements?

When these curious Myriad Divine Power Formation Troops arrived, they were utterly dumbfounded.

The divine element reaction from each of these supposedly weak Skeleton Monsters was monstrously high.

"What the hell? Are these really Skeleton Monsters!?"

The Myriad Divine Power Formation Troops that had come to provide support were all stunned after sensing the attributes of these Skeleton Monsters.

"How can Skeleton Monsters have such powerful attributes?"

News of this was quickly relayed back to the Alien high command.

The Four-Star Demonization Brigade had previously passed on intelligence regarding Chen Mo's ability to summon Skeleton Monsters.

The Yongming Star System naturally knew about this.

They didn't even need to guess; they immediately knew who had summoned these Skeleton Monsters.

They were almost accustomed to Chen Mo's monstrous performances, finding themselves unflustered and unsurprised by such peculiarities now.

"These Skeleton Monsters were undoubtedly summoned by Chen Mo. Given his monstrous capabilities, it's not strange that he could summon such Skeleton Monsters. At zeroth-transition, he could wipe out top-grade second-transition professionals. At second-transition, he started wiping out top-grade fourth-transition professionals. Now that he's at fifth-transition, it probably wouldn't be an issue to consider his strength at the second-tier God Realm level!"

Someone in the Yongming Star System remarked helplessly.

However, everyone knew this was just an exaggeration. The difference between pre-fifth-transition and post-fifth-transition was immense; transcending tiers wasn't that easy.

Even though Chen Mo's Skeleton Monsters were strong, they were clearly no match for a true second-tier God Realm powerhouse.

However, in the absence of second-tier God Realm powerhouses, their attributes indeed possessed the strength to sweep away everything in the first-tier God Realm.

It wouldn't be an exaggeration to call them pseudo second-tier God Realm level.

"To deal with such Skeleton Monsters, other than relying on the Myriad Divine Power Formation Troops using their Army Formation Skills, I'm afraid there's no other way."

"Damn it! This way, aren't our Myriad Divine Power Formation Troops still forced to operate on the front lines? Our plans have completely fallen through!"

"Quickly, tell the think tank to reconsider our strategies!"

At this time, the think tank members of the Alien Alliance were truly at a loss. As the saying goes, even the cleverest housewife can't cook without rice.

In the face of absolute power, even the best strategies eventually become a joke.

They were experiencing this feeling now.

They had worked hard, devising various countermeasures, but all were effortlessly crushed by the opponent's overwhelming strength.

They were incredibly frustrated!

Just as the Alien Alliance was racking their brains for new tactics, Chen Mo dealt them an even heavier blow.

This was because, in addition to summoning Skeleton Monsters, Chen Mo had another, exceptionally monstrous killing technique he hadn't yet used.

Previously, Chen Mo had aimed for a swift, decisive battle to maximize efficiency and prevent information leaks, so he hadn't employed this particular move.

But now that the information had clearly leaked, he decided to engage them more comprehensively.

He would directly use the simplest, most overwhelming force to utterly crush their will to resist.

Because Chen Mo's Skeleton Monsters had drawn out the enemy's Myriad Divine Power Formation Troops for elimination, many of these troops were still exposed.

Chen Mo and Zhui Yi easily encountered another such troop while en route to attack an enemy Divine Domain.

This Myriad Divine Power Formation Troop had just used their Army Formation Skills to annihilate the Skeleton Monsters in this Divine Domain when they suddenly saw Chen Mo's forces, exuding terrifying Divine Power fluctuations, charging at them.

Terrified, they hurriedly fled.

Chen Mo, as before, immediately led his forces in pursuit.

Soon, this enemy troop was forced back into this Divine Domain.

However, this time, Zhui Yi's forces did not employ their previous method of swift annihilation.

First, Zhui Yi used an Army Formation Skill to shatter the enemy's army shield, breaking their army array and scattering them into individuals. Only then did he unleash a Healing Wave at their captain!

This short delay, however, was enough for the enemy to transmit the intelligence.

The earlier speculation by the Alien Alliance's think tank—based on limited intelligence—that the Solar System possessed two army formations, each wielding tens of thousands of Divine Power, was initially an unconfirmed possibility, though widely believed. Now, with this new intelligence relayed back, they finally had confirmation.

However, whether this was confirmed or not was no longer important, because they were about to receive even more terrifying intelligence!

Chapter 713: Ark Project (Two in One)_1

As Zhui Yi unleashed the Healing Wave, it instantly killed the enemy captain, who had lost the protection of his army array. A black mist suddenly rose from the body of this instantly killed captain.

In the next moment, a figure identical to the captain who had just fallen stood up again.

At the same time, the others nearby were successively killed by the ricocheting Healing Waves, a black mist rising from each of their bodies. In no time, the original Alien team had all transformed into a Special Undead state.

And these Special Undead could indeed possess all the abilities they had before death.

At that moment, Chen Mo had also returned to the Divine Domain.

Seeing this large group of Aliens before him who had lost their self-awareness, he smiled at Zhui Yi and asked, "Can an army array be established?"

"Haven't tried yet. I just finished killing them. Let me give it a try."

After speaking, Zhui Yi focused his thoughts and commanded the Alien Undead captain, the one who had possessed the Myriad Divine Power Army.

The Alien Undead captain's eyes suddenly lit up with a blue glow...

"It works!" Zhui Yi exclaimed with joy.

The next moment, to the astonishment of everyone watching, this Special Undead troop actually reformed into a Myriad Divine Power Formation Troop.

"This... can't be."

"The Divine Power fluctuations are exactly the same as when they were alive! Can the Undead summoned by Chen Mo truly form a Myriad Divine Power Army?"

"It's too heaven-defying!"

While the people of the Solar System were marveling, those in the Yongming Star System had already received some intelligence, as the bouncing Healing Waves that killed their people had also given them a chance to send out information.

This intelligence was then given to the think tank for deduction.

It had to be said, the think tank, assembled from the brightest minds of various major Star Systems, truly lived up to its reputation and quickly deduced a terrifying possibility.

When this possibility reached the higher-ups of the various Star Systems, everyone wore an expression of disbelief.

"Sir, the think tank has deduced a very grave possibility."

"What grave possibility? Speak quickly."

"According to intelligence from the front lines, those killed by Chen Mo can transform into Undead in their original forms and rise again. Based on records of similar Undead professions, these Undead are highly likely to retain the abilities they possessed before death!"

"This means..."

Everyone instantly realized something was wrong.

"Yes, including the ability to establish the Myriad Divine Power Army!" The person delivering this intelligence was himself utterly shocked.

If this deduction were true, then they wouldn't have even the slightest chance of victory.

If the enemy continued to use this method of slaughter, then all their people would become the enemy's Undead Puppets.

Their only option then would be to retreat to the Base of the Tower.

But what was the difference between retreating to the Base of the Tower and simply waiting for death?

At this moment, everyone's face was ashen, and the higher-ups of other Star Systems were even considering abandoning the fight. Although this was merely the think tank's deduction, to everyone else, it was practically a certainty.

However, they wouldn't need to agonize for long. Since Chen Mo had now chosen to adopt such an all-out offensive strategy, he would openly deploy all his combat power.

The Yongming Star System quickly received definitive news.

Their scattered fifth-transition professionals, sent for rapid conquest, reported sighting Undead formed from the Alien Coalition Army assembling a Myriad Divine Power Army.

With that, everyone was utterly dejected. All shred of false hope was gone.

"Forget it, let's go. Since it has come to this, there's no point in staying any longer. Perhaps when we enter the second area, we'll be directly wiped out by the Solar System. But there's still a one-in-ten-thousand chance we might survive there. We have no need to continue wading into this mess with the Yongming Star System."

Although they said this, they knew that after entering the second area from the first, there would be no so-called Base of the Tower. The Base of the Tower in the first area was a form of Novice Village protection granted by the Heavenly Dao to each Star System. Once in the second area, having left the Novice Village, there would naturally be no such protection.

This was why they had been so desperate.

Someone like Chen Mo, if he couldn't be eliminated in the first area and was allowed to enter the Tower of Eternity and develop even slightly, would become powerful enough to defy the heavens. Suppressing him in the second area would then be utterly impossible.

And facts proved their foresight was correct. Forget developing in the Tower; Chen Mo was already at his peak the moment he entered.

He didn't even need to develop; he could already beat them so badly they couldn't even lift their heads.

Although they had detected this threat early on, they had no way to eliminate it. Now, they had no choice but to give up.

Soon, the Alien Coalition Army began to scatter like birds and beasts.

The projections of the higher-ups from various Star Systems immediately departed the Yongming Star System.

As for their personnel skilled in establishing the Myriad Divine Power Army, they couldn't be retrieved.

They could only be left for the Yongming Star System to handle.

Seeing the suddenly half-empty conference room, the Yongming Star System's higher-ups all looked ashen-faced.

"Sir, what do we do now? They, at least, won't face a fatal blow from the Solar System until they reach the second area, but our own crisis is right before our eyes!"

"There's nothing to be done. We've reached the end of the road. With the enemy possessing such heaven-defying methods, no matter what we do, we can't possibly turn the tide," one of them said with a sigh.

Chapter 714: Ark Project (Two in One)_2

"How should we handle the owners of the Myriad Divine Power Armies in other star systems? They deserted us in our crucial moment. We shouldn't let them get away with it."

"These Myriad Divine Power Armies no longer pose a threat in the eyes of the Solar System. Regardless of whether we make them suffer, they will not end well. Just leave them be."

The high-ranking officials of the Yongming Star System seemed to have accepted this as well.

At this time, the three Alliance Hierarchs of the Solar System received a message from a long-silent Heavenly Dao group chat. The initiators were the highest commanders of the Yongming Star System.

"Three Alliance Hierarchs of the Solar System, congratulations on your final victory. After many years of conflict, we never imagined that you would ultimately triumph."

Upon reading this message, Jiang Yun and the others exchanged smiles. They indeed had never imagined that they would see the day when the Solar System would triumph over the Yongming Star System, and now, the reactivation of this group chat felt like ages had passed.

The other party continued, "Does our previous Ark plan still stand?"

The Ark plan was known only to the highest commanders of the two star systems. It was proposed by the Yongming Star System when the group chat was first established, a proposition that was quite surprising to Jiang Yun and his peers at the time. The Yongming Star System, confident of their impending victory, initiated this group chat and left the Ark plan to the three Alliance Hierarchs of the Solar System. After that, the chat remained inactive.

The so-called Ark plan would allow a hundred children from the Solar System to receive the Yongming Star System's Stars Citizenship Conversion Card and change their citizenship to the Yongming Star System, provided these children were too young to understand worldly affairs, held no hatred towards the Yongming Star System, and were merely intended to continue their Solar System lineage. The proposition of this plan was a sign of the victor's mercy towards the vanquished. In a war of racial annihilation, the competition must be ruthless until the very end. However, once victory was determined, they could show a final act of kindness.

When the Yongming Star System proposed the Ark plan, although Jiang Yun and the others were uncomfortable, if the Solar System truly reached a dead end, they would have had to accept the plan. But who would have thought that the Ark plan, which the Solar System didn't need, would now be something the Yongming Star System might need? The Yongming Star System had proposed this plan unilaterally, never thinking that they would fail. The three Alliance Hierarchs of the Solar System had never mentioned applying the Ark plan if the Yongming Star System were to fail. Therefore, when the higher-ups of the Yongming Star System reactivated the group chat and asked if the Ark plan was still valid, they truly felt uncertain.

At this moment, Jiang Yun and the others fell silent. The Yongming Star System had clearly stated that only the high-level officials of the star system would know about this plan. The personnel whose citizenship had been changed would be secretly integrated into the other star system. No one else would know about it, preventing discrimination and oppression. If they agreed to this plan, the Solar System would obviously have to respond in kind to maintain decorum.

However, the Yongming Star System, in its heyday, had never really suffered much at the hands of the Solar System or lost many of its people. The ordinary people of the Yongming Star System bore little animosity towards the Solar System, making them more accepting. However, the Yongming Star System invaded the Solar System, assassinated, destroyed, and even massacred pregnant women and children to maximize their chances of victory, all because they perceived Chen Mo's emergence as an immense crisis. These actions were absolutely unforgivable in the eyes of Earthlings. Accepting the last descendants of the Yongming Star System would not be easy.

The three Alliance Hierarchs, as the highest commanders of Earth, could not simply act on impulse like ordinary people. Seeing the other party's words, the three of them fell deep in thought. Since the other party offered them this plan, should they reciprocate? Although it seemed they would only be accepting a hundred naive children, it was a difficult decision to make.

"What do you both think?" Jiang Yun looked at the two by his side.

"While it is important to remember our grudges, since they gave us this plan first, regardless of their initial mental state, at the very least they provided the Solar System with a thread of survival. We can consider giving them a chance at life too. Since they have already been defeated and their entire star system will eventually fall, these inexperienced children, even if they understand what happened, won't be able to stir up much trouble in the future. I believe it's feasible."

"They only proposed it back then; it's still unknown whether they would actually have implemented it if they had won. We don't really have to take their words too seriously. But from a personal standpoint, this Ark Plan is indeed very humane. However, if this matter was made public, the general public would definitely be unable to accept it," Belinda looked ahead and said. Thinking about how so many people on Earth had died, one after another, for this final victory... She herself had checked the death lists several times, her heart filled with such resentment that she wished to grind the entire Yongming Star System to dust.

Now that victory was within reach, her mindset was indeed not as extreme as before.

Seeing that both of them had agreeable attitudes, Jiang Yun finally gave a nod after some consideration, agreeing to this plan. He was from China. The miseries China had suffered in its early days, before the new era, were still too painful to recall. Such choices, in his view, had appeared more than once in history. Since they had been willing to offer a lifeline before, now that he held the power, he could also give them a chance.

"Fine, but the personnel must be selected by us personally entering your star system."

With Jiang Yun's response, the high-ranking officials of the Yongming Star System, who had been anxiously waiting, finally let out a sigh of relief. Under their leadership, the Yongming Star System had not managed to prevail, and they felt a deep sense of guilt towards their entire star system. Preserving even a faint flicker of the Yongming Star System's lineage meant they had done their utmost.

What Jiang Yun meant by personally sending someone was not sending someone else, but himself. Even though the Yongming Star System's current demeanor suggested they wouldn't cause further harm, one couldn't rule out the possibility of them acting irrationally out of desperation. Since he had agreed to this, he had to shoulder this potential risk himself.

"Alright, your Teleportation Array is not damaged, you can directly teleport people over."

The Yongming Star System could teleport to the Solar System, so naturally, the Solar System could also teleport to the Yongming Star System. The Teleport Portal from the Solar System to the Yongming Star System was closely guarded by the Yongming Star System, making it difficult to discreetly infiltrate their territory. Coupled with the Solar System's own manpower shortage, they had not attempted to send personnel to the Yongming Star System. The key point was that the other party controlled three star systems; even if the Solar System tried to cause trouble, they could not effectively disrupt all of them.

At this moment, within their Divine Domains, the Yongming Star System had withdrawn all its personnel back to the Base of the Tower, leaving their various Divine Domains effectively undefended. And the ten highest managers of the Yongming Star System had, at this time, gathered above a certain forest on Sirius, the main star of the Yongming Star System. The Yongming Star System constantly monitored their Teleportation Array and could instantly locate anyone arriving, which was why the Solar System had refrained from sending personnel.

Belinda and Markus originally did not agree to let Jiang Yun take the risk, but in the end, they were persuaded by Jiang Yun to let him teleport to the Yongming Star System. According to Jiang Yun, this final task must be completed by one of the three Alliance Hierarchs; it didn't matter who it was. But currently, the three Alliance Hierarchs were selected intentionally, one from each of three different human ethnicities. Losing any one of them would require considerable discussion and screening to fill the vacancy, which would prove troublesome. However, if something were to happen to Jiang Yun, with Chen Mo's unique status, he could directly replace Jiang Yun without anyone feeling it was inappropriate. This would indeed avoid a lot of trouble, so he was the most suitable candidate.

With this reasoning, Belinda and Markus naturally had nothing to say.

Chapter 715: Winning Broadcast, Regional Barrier! (Two in One)_1

When entering another planet through the Special Teleportation Array, regardless of one's previous strength, it would be suppressed to a level below the fifth-transition.

At this moment, Jiang Yun could be described as completely defenseless.

Yet, the ten highest controllers of the Yongming Star System all adopted a deferential posture before him.

"This must be Alliance Hierarch Jiang Yun from the Solar System, correct?"

Upon seeing Jiang Yun's arrival, the other party promptly asked.

Jiang Yun nodded and glanced at the surrounding environment.

"Your Sirius and our Earth's environments aren't too different, aside from the appearance of the vegetation."

"Even within the same Star System, the flora and fauna on different planets develop in varied forms. We have two other Life Planets, and their environments are completely different."

"Interesting. We only have one Life Planet, which feels somewhat solitary."

After some small talk, Jiang Yun turned to the ten individuals and said, "Since you have three Life Planets, have you finalized your personnel selection?"

"We have decided. If a maximum of 100 people are allowed, then 40 will be from Sirius and 30 each from the other two planets."

"Alright, let's select the forty from Sirius first."

"Okay, please come this way. We've designated some child protection zones where you can freely choose suitable children."

At this time, Jiang Yun addressed the crowd, "Since I have come, I naturally bring the utmost sincerity. I dislike any underhanded schemes. I hope the children selected will be as innocent as blank slates."

"That's a given. At this point, playing any tricks is meaningless. Even if the 100 children you select retain their Star System's consciousness, they likely can't cause any significant disruption. We are well aware of this."

Jiang Yun nodded. "That would be best. I don't want to turn a good deed into a bad one, and there's no need to hide certain things from you. Our Star System has experts skilled in the Mind-reading Technique. Any anomalies can be detected directly. I simply wish to avoid any unpleasantness."

As soon as these words were spoken, a name almost instantly surfaced in the minds of the Yongming Star System's upper echelons.

Their last group of operatives hiding on Earth had been inexplicably wiped out one day.

They had been well-concealed before, so such an event clearly indicated a major, unforeseen development.

This incident was likely because someone on Earth had mastered a special ability that could directly identify people from the Yongming Star System.

The timing of their elimination was remarkably close to when Chen Mo emerged from the Heavenly Dao event.

With a little deduction, their think tanks could piece together most of what had happened.

Although they didn't know what Chen Mo had gained from the Heavenly Dao event, they knew it was definitely related to him.

Hearing Jiang Yun's words now, they naturally recalled this incident.

Knowing the other party possessed such abilities, they naturally dared not resort to any trickery.

Of course, even if they hadn't known about this, they wouldn't have had the inclination to play tricks either.

After all, their entire Star System had utterly failed. Resorting to such schemes at this late stage would be meaningless.

They merely hoped to leave behind a trace of their lineage, and that would be satisfaction enough.

While Jiang Yun was selecting suitable children in the Yongming Star System, Chen Mo and his team were acting swiftly within the Tower of Eternity.

Chen Mo and Zhui Yi were the most efficient, rapidly breaching each Divine Domain, while others constantly relayed information about various puzzles and challenges back to the Solar System's think tank for quicker solutions.

The sheer volume of difficult puzzles relayed back was overwhelming for them to solve.

Thankfully, Chen Mo and Zhui Yi also managed to find time to join in and assist.

After obtaining the relevant puzzles from the group chat, they helped solve a considerable number of them.

This led to several Divine Domains being breached in quick succession.

At this point, they were still unaware that the Yongming Star System had actually surrendered.

The Ark Plan was a project that absolutely could not be revealed to the public. Given the profound animosity between the two Star Systems, not even the three Alliance Hierarchs could suppress the potential fallout if it were known.

If the identities of the one hundred children were exposed, their lives would undoubtedly become very difficult.

Even if these children could be nurtured to be as loyal as the Solar System's native inhabitants, constant exposure to hateful rhetoric from a young age would inevitably corrupt even the most promising among them.

Therefore, the three Alliance Hierarchs did not disclose this matter.

This aligned with what the Yongming Star System had previously agreed upon with the Solar System. When the Yongming Star System proposed this plan, they had assured that these children would be received secretly to prevent discrimination.

Since the Solar System had agreed to this, they naturally reciprocated with the same level of discretion and integrity.

However, while hiding this matter from others might be easy, concealing it from Chen Mo was not.

「At the Academy Alliance Headquarters」

Belinda and Markus were discussing this matter.

"How do you think Chen Mo will react to this? Despite his strength, he's still just a child, and children tend to be impulsive. If he's unwilling to accept these children, it could become problematic," Belinda said to Markus.

"That is indeed a concern. However, judging by Chen Mo's behavior up to now, he isn't like a typical, impetuous child. I believe he can be reasoned with."

Chapter 716: Winning Broadcast, Regional Barrier! (Two in One) _2

"This plan, after all, was proposed by someone else for us to follow. If they can achieve such a feat, so can we. He is Chinese, and Chinese people have always been magnanimous. Regarding these one hundred children who don't know anything, I expect Chen Mo wouldn't harbor serious resentment."

Markus felt that this matter should be relatively easy to handle. If they were to accept the enemy's fifth-transition professionals, it would certainly provoke dissatisfaction among the people of their entire Star System. After all, those fifth-transition professionals were, to varying degrees, stained with the blood of their Star System's people. But innocent children didn't pose such a significant problem.

Once Jiang Yun had chosen one hundred innocent children in the Yongming Star System, the Base Administrator of the Solar System promptly received one hundred citizenship applications. After consulting with the three Alliance Hierarchs, he decided to approve them. Soon, Jiang Yun secretly brought the one hundred children back to the Solar System. All these children were orphans. Jiang Yun had specifically chosen them this way to ensure their emotional ties to the people from their original communities were weaker.

After bringing these one hundred children back, the three Alliance Hierarchs immediately placed relevant marks on each of them, allowing their movements to be tracked with tools. They then dispersed the children among various orphanages on Earth. Since the children were sent directly by the Alliance Hierarchs, the orphanage administrators, despite not knowing the full situation, still took them in and educated them as they would normal children from Earth.

By the time Jiang Yun and his group had finished all this, Chen Mo and his team had already occupied most of the Divine Domain. Meanwhile, within the core territory of the Yongming Star System, many people were anxiously asking their Star System's leadership if they had any strategies to change the current situation. However, they never received an answer. Clearly, they had already arrived at the answer themselves: in the face of absolute power, no amount of cunning was useful. What other methods could there possibly be?

「Quite some time passed again.」

Finally, the Solar System successfully occupied more than ninety percent of the Divine Domain in the First Area, where both they and the Yongming Star System were located. As they completed this occupation, The Heavenly Path's Hint and the sound of the great path resonated simultaneously.

"Congratulations to the Solar System for successfully conquering more than ninety percent of the Divine Domain in the First Area, becoming the victor in the competition against the Yongming Star System!

"As a special reward, the Solar System's range will be doubled, the volume of its existing Life Planets will be doubled, one of its uninhabited planets will be transformed into an environment suitable for life, the lifespan of its star will be doubled, and the star's energy will be distributed evenly across the planets suitable for life.

"All fifth-transition or higher members of the Solar System will each receive an additional 100 points of Divine Power as a reward."

Who would have thought there would be such significant benefits for the Solar System after winning? As people across the globe listened to the reward broadcast, they felt faint tremors from the ground. The sun in the sky seemed to suddenly recede slightly, yet the temperature remained unchanged, which felt rather magical.

The sound of the great path continued.

"The Second Area of the Tower of Eternity's First Floor is officially open to the Solar System. Within the Second Area, higher-tier Eternity Class Abilities will become available. In the Second Area, you will face new challenges.

"However, before entering the Second Area, you must first breach the regional barrier.

"The more Star Systems that meet the conditions to open their corresponding Second Area, the lower the difficulty of breaching the regional barrier will be."

The regional barrier was the key obstruction preventing Large Star Systems from entering the Second Area. This was also why many Large Star Systems, despite having won their wars in their own First Area, continued to linger there. The regional barrier blocked them, making it impossible for them to enter the Second Area. The difficulty of breaching this regional barrier decreased the more Star Systems qualified to enter their respective Second Areas. For instance, the difficulty of breaching the regional barrier corresponding to the Solar System's Second Area had already been continuously decreasing as, one by one, other Star Systems met the qualification requirements.

Initially, the first Star System to unify its First Area faced a state of complete despair when confronted with that incredibly difficult-to-breach regional barrier. After assessing the barrier's strength, they lost all interest in attempting to conquer it and instead began to patiently wait for more Star Systems to gain the opportunity to enter the Second Area. Subsequently, as more and more Star Systems completed the unification of their First Areas, the strength of the regional barrier gradually decreased. It had diminished to a point where one could finally see a glimmer of hope for breaching it, but it remained quite difficult.

Now, with the Solar System gaining qualification to enter the Second Area, the regional barrier had finally weakened once more, making breaching it slightly easier. Previously, those other Star Systems had been analyzing that if no new Star System unified its First Area and qualified for the Second Area, they might need another hundred years to breach the regional barrier at its then-current strength. But now, with the barrier's strength weakening again, a hundred years would no longer be necessary; they estimated it could be breached in about a year.

Breaching the regional barrier involved no complex skills; it simply relied on each professional's attributes to "excavate" through it. The strength of the regional barrier would decrease substantially, even exponentially, with each additional Star System that emerged victorious in its First Area.

Chapter 717: Winning Broadcast, Regional Barrier! (Two in One)_3

When a second winner emerges, the strength of the regional barrier is reduced by a factor of two. When a third appears, it is reduced by an additional factor of three from its then-current strength, and so on. The Solar System is the 100th winner, so this time, the barrier's intensity will be directly reduced by a factor of 100 from its current level. Naturally, breaking through should now take only about a year.

Attacking the regional barrier is actually a very tedious task because all one needs to do is place a hand on it and wait. The regional barrier automatically deducts barrier points every second, based on one's total divine element. In the beginning, merely counting the number of digits in the regional barrier's point value was enough to make one's head spin. It's much better now, though a great many points still remain. Breaking through will not be so easy.

However, once the Solar System secured its victory, the process would accelerate significantly as soon as another Star System won.

As news of the Solar System's victory in the first regional competition spread among all Star Systems poised to potentially enter the second region, the upper echelons of the Heavenly Water System, who had always maintained a good relationship with the Solar System, promptly sent their congratulations.

"Congratulations on your victory in the first region."

"To be honest, we are rather embarrassed. It was sheer luck that we produced such an outstanding youngster; we are merely basking in their glory."

"Alas, our Heavenly Water System has not been so fortunate. We are struggling under immense pressure and fear we will soon be defeated. We only hope that you might spare us some slots for star citizenship conversion, allowing us to preserve a small part of our lineage."

The leadership of the Heavenly Water System made no unreasonable demands, such as asking the Solar System to send forces to help them win their battles. They knew such a request was ludicrous and impossible. Once individuals from a different region entered their own, their lives and deaths would be entirely under the control of that region's inhabitants. No matter how amicable the relationship, no one would willingly send their powerhouses into a situation where they had no autonomy over their own survival.

Knowing this, the Heavenly Water System's leadership never even broached the subject of requesting aid. Firstly, their most pressing current need was to preserve a fragment of their lineage. Secondly, the Solar System had already won. Why would they send their people to help, incurring unnecessary casualties? The Heavenly Water System could offer the Solar System no benefits, so there was no reason for the Solar System's people to make sacrifices for them. Even if the Heavenly Water System promised to follow the Solar System's lead upon entering the second region, such a promise held no guarantee. Even if the speaker was sincere, the listener could not be certain of their truthfulness. Therefore, any aid from the Solar System would amount to a pointless sacrifice. Understanding this, the Heavenly Water System's leadership knew they couldn't possibly make such a request.

Thirdly, even if the Solar System genuinely sympathized and was willing to send aid, they would clearly not dispatch their top powerhouses. After all, once a powerhouse entered another region, regardless of their strength, they would be completely at the mercy of that region's inhabitants. No matter how good the relationship, they wouldn't risk their paramount experts. The only conceivable exception would be if they faced an existential threat, such as an entity like Chen Mo who could jeopardize their future survival; only then might they disregard all costs and deploy all available forces to eliminate him. And if top powerhouses weren't sent, the battle's outcome couldn't be changed, rendering any other assistance meaningless. Consequently, these matters were best left unmentioned.

Upon reading the Heavenly Water System's humble request, Jiang Yun and the other two fell silent for a moment.

"How many conversion cards should we give them?"

"We even gave 100 slots to the Yongming Star System, with whom we have a grudge. The Heavenly Water System has always been on good terms with us, so naturally, we can give them more. We might even be able to fully integrate all their powerhouses to serve us. After all, we have no enmity with the Heavenly Water System. Upon their arrival, their primary animosity would be directed towards the Star System they competed against, making their assimilation relatively straightforward."

As the three of them conversed, two figures flickered into existence in the room. Chen Mo and Zhui Yi had exited the Tower of Eternity and appeared before the three Alliance Hierarchs.

After the Solar System's resounding victory, everyone had gathered back at the Base of the Tower. At that moment, Chen Mo's Mind Reading Technique had successfully detected several traitors among them. Although the Solar System had now achieved victory, these traitors had, to varying degrees, previously leaked intelligence about the Solar System. Clearly, some old scores needed to be settled.

As for how to settle these accounts, Chen Mo naturally felt it was most appropriate to leave the matter to the three Alliance Hierarchs. Thus, he flew in with Zhui Yi. He arrived just in time to hear the three Alliance Hierarchs discussing the integration of new forces. And as his Mind Reading Technique took effect, Chen Mo instantly gained a clear understanding of everything the three Alliance Hierarchs had recently been doing...

Chapter 718: Surge of Divine Power, Start of the Intergalactic Leaderboard! (Two-in-One)_1

Through his Mind Reading Technique, Chen Mo learned about the three Alliance Hierarchs' acceptance of a hundred children from the Yongming Star System.

Upon first discovering this, Chen Mo was actually somewhat displeased. That was because he had personally witnessed the indiscriminate killings committed by people from the Yongming Star System. He held no favorable feelings towards them at all.

But upon discovering that the Ark Project was initially proposed by the Yongming Star System to the Solar System, Chen Mo, despite his initial surprise, found he could understand the actions of the three Alliance Hierarchs. That the Yongming Star System could now send these hundred children was purely because the last shred of goodwill they had shown earlier had, in turn, saved them.

This just goes to show, as the saying goes: leave some leeway in your dealings, and you'll meet again on better terms.

In light of this, Chen Mo decided not to comment further.

As for the Heavenly Water System, Chen Mo thought its situation was handled quite well. Although it wouldn't be appropriate for him to offer aid directly, accepting their star system's masters was indeed an excellent choice.

The Solar System, being inherently a system with only one life-bearing planet, had noticeably fewer powerhouses than other star systems. This kind of reinforcement was exactly what was needed. If masters from a friendly star system were to transfer over completely, it would undoubtedly bring substantial benefits to the Solar System.

"Why did you come back instead of breaching the regional barrier in the Tower of Eternity?" Seeing Chen Mo's sudden appearance, Jiang Yun and the others asked curiously.

"I've compiled a list of those who betrayed our star system. According to information I gathered using my Mind-reading Technique, these individuals were bribed by the Yongming Star System. They sold critical information about us, including the methods to overcome checkpoints in several of our lost Divine Domains. Their crimes are quite significant. I thought I would hand this list to you for your decision on how to proceed."

"I see. Although the matter has passed, these individuals must still face a military tribunal. Show us the list. We'll review the names on it first and then discuss how to deal with them."

Chen Mo nodded and handed the organized list to the three Alliance Hierarchs.

At that moment, the three Alliance Hierarchs glanced at Chen Mo, seemingly trying to gauge his opinion on their decision to take in a hundred children from the Yongming Star System.

Chen Mo, with his Mind Reading Technique, instantly understood. He chuckled and said, "The three Alliance Hierarchs have always diligently managed and planned for our entire star system. I will not question any decisions you make from your perspectives."

Hearing this, the three of them immediately smiled. This young man is truly exceptional! Powerful, magnanimous, and knows his place. Having such an outstanding and reassuring junior is indeed a blessing for the entire star system.

After bidding farewell to the three Alliance Hierarchs, Chen Mo didn't rush back to the first level of the Tower of Eternity.

He had previously postponed his Legendary Trial and hadn't completed it yet, which meant he had received almost no rewards from the Divine Domain.

He was eager to complete the Legendary Trial quickly, as doing so would allow him to receive all the rewards from the Divine Domains within the first area of the Tower of Eternity.

In the Divine Domain, one could obtain rewards such as divine element, Divine Power, and Eternal Divine Weapons.

However, these rewards could only be obtained from instances found within Divine Domains already controlled by one's own star system.

The more Divine Domains a star system controlled, the higher the probability of its instances yielding good rewards.

Currently, the Solar System had complete control over all Divine Domains in the first area.

As a result, the probability of instances yielding good rewards was now a thousand times higher than before.

Previously, instances in the Divine Domain might require immense effort only to yield a disappointing Eternal Divine Weapon, Eternal Divine Object, or Eternal Divine Skill, often without earning even 1 point of Divine Power or divine element.

Now, if a good instance appeared, there was a significant chance of earning Divine Power and divine element.

However, the difficulty of instances within the Tower of Eternity differed from those in the outside world. The lower one's basic divine power and divine element, the higher the chance of encountering instances that awarded Divine Power and divine element, and the lower their difficulty.

Conversely, the higher one's basic divine power and divine element, the smaller the chance of encountering instances that awarded Divine Power and divine element, and the greater their difficulty.

This was why it was so difficult to increase one's Divine Power and divine element.

Since Chen Mo hadn't completed his final Legendary Trial, he couldn't obtain any rewards from the Divine Domain. Therefore, the first thing he needed to do after coming out was to undertake this final Legendary Trial.

As Chen Mo activated the process to enter the Divine Training Tower with a thought, he found the scene before him somewhat different from his previous entry.

Before him sat ten individuals exuding terrifying Divine Power, seated across a long table.

These ten individuals had varied appearances, each displaying the unique physical features and characteristics of different Alien Races.

Their skin tones varied, clearly indicating their origins from different planets and cultural backgrounds.

Seated at the far left was a tall warrior. He had pale skin, as if bathed in silvery moonlight. His deep blue eyes radiated a calm and resolute strength. His short, black hair lay flat against his determined face, which seemed as if sculpted from forged iron.

Next to him was a member of a Flying race, adorned with magnificent plumage. His body was covered in colorful feathers that shimmered with golden, green, and red light. He possessed slender, perfectly sculpted facial features, and his eyes, like brilliant gemstones, radiated an aura of wisdom.

Further to the right was a Half-Fish Man clad in scale Armor. His skin was a shimmering blue and green, like the glistening surface of the ocean. His large, bright eyes resembled pearls from the deep sea, and he exuded a distinctly cold and aloof impression.

Chapter 719: Divine Power Surges, Interstellar Rankings Unleashed! (Two-in-One)_2

Besides him, there were seven other peculiar beings, each exhibiting different characteristics. Some had gleaming metallic skins, like mechanical lifeforms; others were covered in bright red scales and appeared to be flames personified. There were also those who stood shorter, their skin an earthy yellow color, representing a power that lay deep beneath the ground, and other beings of various forms and complexions. These ten individuals varied in appearance, yet each was cloaked in an incredibly powerful Divine Power.

Previously, Chen Mo was clueless about the tiers of Divine Power, knowing only that they were mighty. But now, he clearly understood the differences in quality. Take the five people standing before him; never mind the sheer amount of their Divine Power, just its quality alone far surpassed his current level.

Chen Mo looked at the ten individuals and asked curiously, "Seniors, how did the ten of you end up on this floor together? And what is the trial on this level?"

The man at the front, with pale skin, smiled and said, "Chen Mo, your aptitude has exceeded our prior expectations. We have unanimously decided that you have passed the newcomer's examination. You no longer need to participate in the Divine Trial Tower. We came here mainly to see you and to give you the final reward for passing the newcomer's examination."

"So, the Divine Trial Tower is just for the newcomer's examination?" Chen Mo looked at the ten people in front of him with surprise.

Good heavens. To these people, the Divine Trial Tower, which casually awards dozens of Divine Power points, is considered to hold such little value.

If it were out there, the value of the Divine Training Tower alone would probably be enough to win over all the professionals in the whole first area.

So many people struggle to gain just one Divine Power point within the dungeons of the Divine Realm.

Yet, here one can easily obtain a large amount of Divine Power.

Is this valuable place of testing that people dream of, simply a Novice Village in the eyes of these big shots?

Although surprised, considering the Divine Power strength of the big shots in front of him, Chen Mo didn't have much else to say.

After all, to these big shots with incredibly high Divine Power tiers, such low-tier Divine Power really seems cheap.

"If the seniors say this is just a newcomer's examination, will there be more examinations waiting for me afterwards?"

"Exactly, but don't worry. The later exams will not be compulsory, and you will have the chance to choose. Of course, once you've tasted the sweetness of the newcomer's examination, I suspect that even if we tried to stop you, you would want to continue with related examinations."

Hearing this, Chen Mo couldn't help but laugh.

Indeed, once you've tasted how easy it is to get Divine Power, even if you tell previous trial-takers that later trials are harder, they would most likely still want to take part. After all, under normal circumstances, it's too hard to acquire Divine Power.

"May I ask what the subsequent examinations the seniors mentioned are?"

"You don't need to worry about that now; you will understand once you reach the second-tier God Realm."

"I see. So, since my newcomer's examination is over now, what benefits can I gain directly?"

"This time, the reward we will give you can directly increase your Divine Power to 1,000 points."

"Basic divine power?"

"Of course."

Chen Mo immediately checked his current basic divine power.

His basic divine power was only 420 points now. If they were to reward him with Divine Power to reach 1,000 points, that would mean gifting him 580 points of Divine Power outright.

Such a significant Divine Power boost!

In the outside world, you would be hard-pressed to find anyone whose basic divine power could reach 580, and they're giving away so much at once?

For the professionals in the first area, this is simply a massive benefit.

However, not everyone could enjoy such benefits. According to these individuals, Chen Mo's newcomer's examination was concluded early. This was primarily because his performance in the previous few trials was too exceptional, rendering the remaining trials meaningless. So, it was decided to save everyone some time and directly award him with the highest reward.

Chen Mo, of course, was quite pleased with this outcome. The previous stages had been effortless for him, lacking any sense of challenge. He found the current situation quite satisfactory.

He immediately nodded and said, "Then, esteemed seniors, please grant me Divine Power."

"Alright."

Following the lead figure's words, ten top-tier God-Realm experts each extended a finger, aiming at Chen Mo. As ten beams of light shot towards Chen Mo's forehead in unison, he could feel waves of surging Energy continuously pouring into his body.

His Divine Power started to escalate wildly.

From the original over 400 points, it soared towards 1,000 points at an incredible velocity.

Over 500 points of Divine Power for free! Standing still and gaining endless Energy pouring into his body was a sensational feeling indeed.

As this refreshing feeling that felt like his very soul was being elevated enveloped his body, Chen Mo's basic divine power finally climbed to 1,000 points.

And the moment his basic divine power hit this threshold, The Heavenly Path's Hint in his ears began to ring out one after another.

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: As your Divine Power has reached 1,000 points, your Divine Physique has the chance to be fully activated. Please consult related task hints for specific activation methods!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: As your Divine Power has reached 1,000 points, you have obtained the chance to form a divine character. A related task has been made available. After forming the divine character, you will enter the second-tier God Realm, and your divine element quality will be improved. Please check the specific task content in the related task hints yourself!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: As your Divine Power has reached 1,000 points, your Star System has been granted the privilege of quickly breaking the regional barrier!]

As Chen Mo received these Heavenly Path's Hints, the sound of the great path also echoed throughout the Solar System.

"Congratulations to the Solar System for having the first professional whose basic divine power reaches 1,000 points. As a special reward, all professionals in the Solar System whose All Attributes are below 500 million after a fifth-transition may have their All Attributes directly supplemented to 500 million for deification! Professionals who have already completed their fifth-transition will also receive the same benefits!"

This sound of the great path only appeared in the Solar System, while another sound of the great path was broadcast throughout the Milky Way.

"Congratulations to the Solar System for having the first professional in the Milky Way Sector whose basic divine power reaches 1,000 points. Due to this, the Solar System will gain the privilege of rapidly breaking the regional barrier!"

"Congratulations to the Solar System for having the first professional in the Milky Way Sector whose basic divine power reaches 1,000 points. Special rewards will be granted to this professional! This professional will receive an Above SSS-level Gift Pack!"

As the sound of the great path resonated throughout the Milky Way, people from all the large star systems near the Solar System were stunned!

"Damn this Solar System! Does it ever stop? They haven't even left the first area yet, and their basic divine power has already reached 1,000 points. What the hell!"

Before the people from other star systems had a chance to complain further, the sound of the great path echoed again.

"The Star Rankings function is officially launched! This ranking will list several leaderboards containing a total of one hundred professionals, ranked according to various indicators such as their basic divine power strength, pet strength, ability strength, and more.

Professionals who make it onto a list will receive special rewards allocated by the Heavenly Dao. Rewards will be distributed based on official days, months, and years. Different rewards will be given according to the total time spent on the leaderboard and the ranking achieved daily, monthly, and annually.

Simultaneously, there will be a direct reward for first-time entry into a certain ranking. This reward will change with your ranking. If you first enter the list at 100th place and then climb to 1st place, you can receive both the 100th place reward and the 1st place reward.

If your original ranking is already high, rest assured. We will provide additional reward benefits to the top-ranking professionals daily. These benefits will be no less substantial than the multiple rewards obtained by those who climbed from lower ranks."

Chapter 720: The Ranking Rewards, All Top-Grade!_1

As the sound of the great path faded, The Heavenly Path's Hints began to chime continuously in Chen Mo's ears.

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Congratulations! Your Divine Power Strength has reached First Place on the Regional Divine Power Ranking.]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: As the first to attain First Place on the Regional Divine Power Ranking, you have received a special leaderboard reward: the God-Devouring Pearl!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: For securing First Place on the Regional Divine Power Ranking, you will receive a continuous 100% buff to your Divine Power as long as you maintain this rank!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Congratulations! Your pet's strength has reached First Place on the Regional Pet Ranking.]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: As the first to secure First Place on the Regional Pet Ranking, you have received a special leaderboard reward: the Pet Enhancer!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: For securing First Place on the Regional Pet Ranking, you will continuously receive a buff that permanently maintains your pet's loyalty and fullness at their maximum levels as long as you maintain this position!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Since an individual can only be listed once on the same ranking, your second chaos-grade pet will not be eligible!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Congratulations! Your ability level has reached First Place on the Regional Ability Ranking.]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: As the first to achieve First Place on the Regional Ability Ranking, you will receive a special leaderboard reward: the Ability Converter!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: For securing First Place on the Regional Ability Ranking, you will continuously receive a buff granting immunity to all negative ability effects as long as you maintain this rank!]

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Since an individual can only be listed once on the same ranking, your other chaos-grade abilities cannot be listed.]

Chen Mo glanced at the Heavenly Dao's leaderboards.

Although the Star System leaderboards had been activated, Chen Mo and others like him could currently only appear on the regional leaderboards, which were subcategories within the Star System leaderboards. There were five such regional leaderboards in total. The first three were the ones just announced. The remaining two were the "Star System Combat List" and the "Star System Power List." Evaluation for these two leaderboards would only begin once participants entered the second region. This was because these two leaderboards were evaluated based on the total attributes of all Star Systems within the second region, calculated after they had entered it. The Star System Combat List calculated total combat power based on the aggregate divine elements of all professionals within a given Star System. The Star System Power List, conversely, was scored based on the size and quality of the territory a Star System occupied within the second region. For now, these rankings could not yet be determined.

After glancing at The Heavenly Path's Hints, Chen Mo immediately inspected the leaderboard rewards he had just received.

[God-Devouring Pearl - Exclusive Leaderboard Reward]: When used to kill other professionals possessing Divine Power, this pearl allows the wielder to absorb their basic divine power. The more an opponent's basic divine power exceeds yours, the more basic divine power you can absorb. Conversely, the lower their basic divine power is compared to yours, the less you will absorb.

What an incredible treasure! It can actually absorb Divine Power directly from kills?

Chen Mo was astounded just by reading the first leaderboard reward. These rewards were too potent!

If I kill a large number of professionals from opposing Star Systems, wouldn't I be able to absorb Divine Power to my heart's content?

I just don't know what the specific absorption rates are.

However, even without knowing the exact absorption figures, the description stated that he could absorb Divine Power even from units with lower Divine Power than his own. No matter how he looked at it, this item's utility couldn't be bad. Moreover, with this treasure enhancing his Divine Power, his top-ranked position would likely become even more secure.

Seeing how excellent the first leaderboard reward was, Chen Mo eagerly turned his attention to the second.

[Pet Enhancer - Exclusive Leaderboard Reward]: When used, this item helps a pet in its complete stage receive a breakthrough quest to reach the ultimate form stage!

There's actually another growth stage beyond the complete stage?

Chen Mo was quite surprised after examining the Pet Enhancer. Previously, he understood that there were only five stages of pet growth in total. After the nascent stage, they were: juvenile, growth, maturity, and finally, the complete form. Under normal circumstances, reaching the complete form stage signified that a pet had attained its final form. He hadn't expected there to be a hidden ultimate form beyond the complete form. This was a major discovery.

After all, based on the Pet Star Level progression of his chaos-grade pets, each advancement to a new growth stage meant a 50-star increase. He had originally estimated they could only reach 250 stars. He hadn't expected an even higher stage. Judging by the name "ultimate form," this final stage might even grant an increase of more than 50 stars. Chen Mo had two chaos-grade pets, so the combined potential was astronomical. This particular leaderboard-exclusive reward was also incredibly potent.

Seeing how powerful the first two leaderboard rewards were, Chen Mo eagerly looked towards the third.

[Ability Converter - Exclusive Leaderboard Reward]: Allows you to freely convert any of your abilities into either basic divine power or basic divine elements. The conversion rate is determined by the rank of the ability. For abilities of the same type, only the highest-ranked ability's conversion data will be used.

Another outrageous item! It can directly convert abilities into basic divine power and basic divine elements?

Chen Mo immediately tried to check the conversion value of a chaos-grade ability.

[The Heavenly Path's Hint: This ability can be converted into basic divine power and basic divine elements, directly increasing your corresponding basic divine power and basic divine elements tenfold!]
