Chapter 89 Going Crazy Again! (5/5)_1

By the time Chen Mo returned with Lady Wu, Meng Han and the others had already completed their daily task quota.

"Little Hanhan, I'm back!" Lady Wu rushed towards Meng Han as soon as she returned.

"Thanks to you, Little Wu was able to complete ten times the tasks." Meng Han embraced Lady Wu, then looked at Chen Mo and chuckled.

"It was no trouble at all," Chen Mo responded nonchalantly.

At these words, Lin Luoluo and the two others nearby couldn't help but twitch their mouths.

Listen to him! Is he even human? We struggled just to finish the base task quota, and for him, helping someone else complete ten times that amount is 'no trouble at all.' This damn show-off! If we weren't afraid we couldn't beat these two monsters, we'd go give him a thrashing!

"I have safely returned your friend. I'll take my leave now," said Chen Mo with a smile, noticing the death stares from the three people nearby.

"Call us if you need anything."

"Sure."

I still need to find more Special BOSSes. How else am I supposed to get the SSS-level reward? According to the introduction, the minimum reward was 60 survival days. The lowest was F-Class, followed by E, D, C, B, and A, yielding 120, 180, 240, 300, and 360 days, respectively. An S-level reward yielded 720 days, an SS level reward 1,440 days, and an SSS-level reward, doubling again, yielded 2,880 days! So, this SSS-level reward is no easy task to get. I must accumulate as many survival days as possible. So far, I've only accumulated 19 days. Still far behind. Naturally, I need to rack up as many Special BOSS kills as I can. Special BOSSes can increase the multiplier for the final survival day calculation.

The first day passed quickly. As Chen Mo and Yan Yingyue searched all over, it soon became the second day.

Since the sky within the instance dungeon never changed and, under the Heavenly Dao's influence, no one needed to sleep or eat, they didn't tire as easily as usual and could hardly sense how much time had passed. If not for The Heavenly Path's Hint sounding, they wouldn't even have known the first day was over.

As the second day arrived, Chen Mo also promptly received The Heavenly Path's Hint.

"[The Heavenly Path's Hint: The first day's tasks have ended. Task completion is now being tallied!]"

"[The Heavenly Path's Hint: First day task non-completion: 0 individuals! Twofold completion: 10 individuals. Fivefold completion: 30 individuals. Tenfold completion: 3 individuals!]"

All ninety people who survived the first day met the standard. Among them, those who achieved fivefold completion included only 10 disciples from the aristocratic families and 20 members of the anti-aristocratic family alliance. The remaining individuals had mostly achieved standard completion. Chen Mo and Yan Yingyue, however, were far ahead in the lead, with Lady Wu merely benefiting from their efforts.

"[The Heavenly Path's Hint: Based on first-day ranking performance, the top ten on all leaderboards will receive survival time rewards. First place: 10 days. Second place: 5 days. Third place: 3 days. Fourth to tenth place: 1 day each.]"

"[The Heavenly Path's Hint: As you rank first on the Daily Task Leaderboard, Special BOSS Leaderboard, and Survival Time Leaderboard, congratulations! You have received 30 reward days.]"

"[The Heavenly Path's Hint: The activity area will change in 1 hour. Please proceed to the newly opened second-stage area. Anyone remaining in the first-stage area after 1 hour will be directly ejected from this instance dungeon! Monster difficulty in the second-stage area is Level 10 A-Class.]"

"[The Heavenly Path's Hint: The second day's tasks are now posted!]"

"[Task Requirements: Within one day, kill a total of 500 Earth Element monsters. Kill 10 'Abnormal Elements (Earth)' (Elite). Kill 1 'Furious Mixed Elements (must contain Earth Element)' (BOSS).]"

"[Complete the tasks twofold to receive a reward of one survival day. Complete them fivefold to receive three survival days. Complete them tenfold to receive five survival days!]"

"[Each day, the first person to achieve tenfold completion will receive an additional 'Hidden Reward'.]"

As the second day commenced, the task difficulty also increased. Not only were the monsters stronger than on the first day, but the kill requirements were now also restricted to a specific attribute. This made finding monsters more difficult, and kill-stealing even harder.

"It's already the second day so soon." Chen Mo felt as though he hadn't even started looking, and the time was already up.

"Indeed, in this dungeon, you can't really feel the passage of time," Yan Yingyue said with a smile.

Actually, it wasn't just in the instance dungeon. She didn't know why, but being near Chen Mo made her feel very comfortable, completely oblivious to the passage of time.

"Let's go to the area that opens on the third day. We can't let anyone else snatch the Hidden Reward."

The tasks have just been posted, so naturally, the Hidden Reward is the priority. We can look for hidden missions and Special BOSSes after completing the main tasks; it won't be too late.

At this time, while others were moving from the first-stage area to the second-stage area, Chen Mo and Yan Yingyue instead went from the second-stage area directly into the third-stage area.

Just as many people, unsure of the day's monster strength, were cautiously transitioning to the second-stage area, Chen Mo had already summoned a large horde of Skeleton Monsters and begun a massacre in the third-stage area.

Soon, the leaderboards began to change due to his actions.

"Damn it! They're going crazy again! Is this game even playable anymore? Are those two even human? I haven't even found any monsters yet, and those two freaks already have a double-digit kill count! Weren't the task targets restricted to a single element? How are they still racking up kills so fast?!" Unable to hold back, someone immediately spat out a complaint.

Someone nearby glanced at the current rate of their kill count increase and commented, "I observed their kill rate yesterday. Today's speed, while fast, is noticeably slower than their soaring speed from yesterday. It seems the single-element restriction does have some impact on their monster-killing pace."

Though he said that, the speaker couldn't help but scoff internally. Some impact? Bullshit! Even with the restriction, those two freaks were still racking up kills as if on a rocket, non-stop!

After all, with one thousand seven hundred Skeleton Monsters fanned out across the woods searching for targets, it would be strange if their efficiency **wasn't** high. The Skeleton Monsters weren't inclined to differentiate between element types; if they saw something, they rushed up and hacked away. With combat power far exceeding that of the current Level stage, they could effortlessly slaughter not just minions, but even a BOSS as if it were a common mob.

While players inside the instance dungeon were complaining, outside, the teachers were also complaining. In reality, only eight hours had passed outside the instance dungeon, and the teachers were still eating, drinking, and watching. With the arrival of the second day, everyone's kill count on the Daily Task Leaderboard had reset to zero. But soon, the teachers saw Chen Mo's and Yan Yingyue's kill counts begin to skyrocket madly once more. Although it was becoming a familiar sight, they still couldn't help but want to comment on it.

"Looks like those two will top the leaderboards again today. Ten people died yesterday, yet surprisingly, no one tried to eliminate those two. That's rather unusual."

"You really shouldn't jinx it. I'm afraid someone might eventually find them too offensive and actually try something! And there are those with the strength to do it."

As this was said, many people glanced, intentionally or otherwise, towards where the members of the great aristocratic families were seated.
