

Gluey Love 2231

Chapter 2231

Henrick was speechless.

"Mom, my nose is broken. Don't you see that my face is covered with blood?" Henrick glared at his father resentfully.

Victor glared back fiercely.

Henrick pretended to be fine and looked elsewhere. After so many years, his father's aura was still the same as it used to be. A single glance from him could make people's legs go soft.

Victor was speechless. If Henrick was scared, there was still hope!

"Dear, let's go back first." He couldn't bear to see his wife come to the hospital.

Eden looked at him and shook her head slightly. Although she did not know what was going on, she knew that her husband was very angry, which showed that the matter was unusual.

"You go back. I'm here to take care of Ricky." No matter how hard she tried, she could not bear to see her son lying on the bed and remain indifferent.

Her son was in the wrong and deserved to be beaten. If he was beaten, it hurt her heart, but she had to endure it.

"Then I won't go back." Victor, who had always been competitive, turned around and sat on the chair beside him.

Feeling a headache coming on, Henrick rubbed his forehead. Whoever left would have no time to think.

If he let his mother remain there, he would be a sinner.

At that moment, Josue, Dwayne, and Alma also came in.

Seeing Victor and his wife, the three of them greeted the couple.

"Mr. Alwynn, Madam."

Victor nodded slightly. Eden looked at them and smiled, asking them to sit down.

Henrick said, "Dad, Mom, you can go back. I'm not badly injured. I'll go home and rest after I leave the hospital tomorrow. Josue is here. He can take care of me."

"Eden, I can stay and take care of him," Alma also took the opportunity to speak up.

Hearing this, Eden glanced at her. "Alma, thank you, but as a woman, it's not convenient for you to stay and take care of him."

Thinking of Alma's feelings for Henrick, Eden didn't give her a chance to speak. She said directly, "Ricky, I'll take you out of the hospital now. When we get home, ask Adonis to come and give you the anti-inflammatory injections. I'll feel at ease if I can see you."

Boohoo, boohoo, boohoo...

Henrick was so excited that he was about to cry. His mother's love for him was back.

"Mommy, I love you!" Henrick was so happy that he danced with joy.

Everyone was speechless. Could it be that his soul had been changed?

Josue was also lost for words. "Mr. Henrick, pay attention to your character," he thought to himself.

Eden looked at Josue and said, "Josue, thank you for your hard work. Go and complete the discharge formalities for Ricky."

He smiled. "Please wait for a moment, Madam. I'll do it right away."

Watching Josue go out, Henrick looked away and saw Alma, who was a little reserved.

He slowly looked away. When he thought of how she had used him, there seemed to be a flame of anger burning in his heart.

He understood her suffering, but she did not understand his goodwill.

She didn't cherish their friendship, so he could only tear it apart with his own hands.

In the beginning, he was willing, but that ended in his ruthlessness.

In the end, Henrick followed his parents home.

Alma didn't even talk to him.

The matter of Victor beating up his son was widely spread in River City.

Lucian, Anson, Abigail, and Jasper put down their work and they all ran to Victor's house to scold him.

Victor had his own difficulties. His son had done something wrong. Could he still treat his son who had made such a big mistake kindly? Henrick would never remember it if Victor didn't hit him.

Victor silently endured the scolding that Abigail directed his way.

She eventually became tired of scolding him and went upstairs to see Henrick with a distressed heart.

They chatted for a while before she left at ten o'clock in the evening.

Only Victor and Eden were left in the living room.

"Haha..." He smiled coldly and said, "We're really getting old. They're nagging more and more."

He looked at Eden and said, "Dear, Abigail has been nagging since she was young, and she's even more so now that she's older. Anson can stand her. I admire him."

Eden was better than Abigail; she said what she should say, and remained quiet when there was nothing to say.

She looked at him and saw that he had been scolded all night. In fact, he was also wronged. "Victor, Abby is distressed about Ricky. You should endure it tonight. They don't know your intentions, but I do."

He smiled and praised, "You, my dear, are the most considerate."

.....

On the second floor, on the far left was Henrick's room. It was decorated in gray and white, and the room was fashionable and magnificent.

Martin and Boris were sitting on the sofa not far away, watching Henrick sipping his soup.

Victor was really ruthless, and Henrick's mouth was full of wounds, so much so that he could only drink cold soup. Even doing that could make him cry out in pain.

Boris's eyes became bitter when he saw Henrick drinking his soup. He was also afraid of his uncle. How ruthless was he?

"Martin, keep him company. I feel uncomfortable looking at him."

Martin nodded slightly and said, "Okay, go and rest."

Boris said with a smile, "I'll go to the backyard to have a look. If Grandma and Grandpa aren't asleep, I'll chat with them."

Martin said, "Grandpa and Grandma go to bed at nine o'clock every day, and get up at six o'clock in the morning. You don't have to go there now. You can go there tomorrow morning." The two elders had lived a regular, scheduled life, and he was very familiar with them since he lived here.

"Okay, I'll go to sleep." Boris took a gloating look at Henrick and left with a smile.

Henrick put down the small bowl slowly, not caring about Boris' gloating at all. If he cared, he would lose.

He picked up a piece of tissue paper and wiped the corners of his mouth elegantly. Then, he looked at Martin with a mischievous smile.

"Martin, why don't you go back and accompany Gia now? Do you have something to ask me?"

Martin hit the nail on the head and stated sharply, "You like Alice."

"Haha..." Henrick couldn't help laughing, as he felt like he had heard a joke.

He and Alice were enemies now. How could they like each other?

"Martin, you're jumping to conclusions."

Martin looked serious and did not joke with him. He said calmly, "Last time, when Miss Klein came to our house, you looked at her with a particular gaze."

Henrick was stunned. He was such a coward that he didn't even want to face Martin.

He liked Alice? Was that the case?

He didn't even understand what love was.

He had thought that he liked Alma before, but he later found out that he was wrong. He didn't like Alma either.

What he liked was the little girl when he was a child, the one who smiled softly at him.

Wasn't that right?

At that time, what he liked most was Alma's gentle smile, which was as comfortable as a spring breeze blowing over his heart.

Martin stood up and looked at Henrick, who was still in shock. He said, "I've already said what I should say. I just don't want you to miss it, let alone Alice. Her heart and eyes are glued to you. She is truly in love with you, but you don't understand."

Martin was an experienced person, and he knew much more about love than Henrick did.

The look in Alice's eyes was exactly like that of his own when he hadn't found Gia in those years.

Chapter 2232

Henrick didn't know when Martin left. When he looked up, his brother-in-law was no longer in the room.

He turned his head. Outside the window, the lights were brilliant.

"Alas!" He sighed and closed his eyes. The image of Alice with tears streaming down her face appeared in his mind again.

He suddenly opened his black eyes. His pupils trembled, and his heart trembled. He felt that he must be sick as it was too uncomfortable to breathe.

Buzz buzz buzz... The phone on the bedside table suddenly vibrated.

He grabbed it and glanced at it. It was Alma. Feeling a little annoyed, he ended the call.

However, the phone rang again.

After several rings, he picked it up.

"Hello!" His voice was very cold.

On the other side, Alma's hand, which was holding the phone, trembled slightly.

"Henrick, are you okay?" She asked gently.

"I'm fine. Don't worry," he replied with no expression on his face.

When the filming was over, he would end the relationship between him and Alma.

He would never let anyone take advantage of him, and the person who took advantage of him would not have a good end.

"Henrick, can I go to your house to see you? I'm worried about you!"

His expression turned cold. "No need. I'm fine. I'm hanging up."

"Henrick, have a good rest."

After hanging up the phone, Alma looked at Candice and Ellie who were beside her; her expression was grim.

Candice looked at her and asked, "Did Mr. Henrick agree for you to visit the Alwynn family home?"

As long as Henrick allowed Alma to enter Dragon Villa, she would be able to make things happen.

Alma shook her head sadly and looked at Candice. "Miss Yates, he didn't agree." She also knew that if it wasn't for marriage, Henrick would never bring a woman home so easily.

Candice frowned and her expression darkened instantly.

"Alma, the most important thing for you now is to ask Mr. Henrick out. As long as you can have dinner together, I can help you solve this problem. We must get the jewelry endorsement."

"We are only responsible for the connections. As for the jewelry business, they will solve it by themselves after meeting Mr. Henrick."

Alma's expression darkened as well. In the past, Henrick had never treated her like this.

Ever since she framed Alice last time, he had changed.

Just once and he had completely changed; she was terrified.

Ellie spoke up, "Alma, don't worry. Mr. Henrick has been in a bad mood these days and he's injured all over. When he recovers, you can ask him out again. He promised you that he would definitely do it. Don't you know his temper?"

Alma nodded, but she still felt that something was wrong.

.....

After Victor and Eden went back to their room, she called Aubri again. She told her that something had happened at home that day, and she would meet with her and talk about it in detail the next day.

After hanging up the phone, she took a deep breath and sat on the European-style beige sofa, looking worried.

"Eden, what did Aubri say?" Victor sat opposite her, handed her a glass of water and some snacks.

She looked at him and asked with a smile, "Are you going to eat supper?"

He helped her smooth the hair around her ears and looked at her with a distressed expression. "Because of Ricky, you didn't eat much tonight. This is the midnight snack I asked someone to prepare for you."

"These are some of your favorite sandwiches."

"Thank you, my husband! But I still can't eat it." She looked worried. "Aubri said that she wanted to see me alone tomorrow. There is no need to verify anything or do a DNA test. I am sure that the children are Ricky's."

"Aubri said that Alice was in a bad mood when she went back. She locked himself in the room and didn't even have dinner. Because we found out about the children, she must feel very uneasy, just like I did back then."

Victor understood as he had also been thinking about it for a whole day.

"Eden, this is what I think. Since the children are Ricky's, he has the right to know. Besides, they're a pair of twins."

"I left in a hurry today so I haven't seen that little girl. I don't know what she looks like."

Eden smiled and recalled the scene that day. The moment she saw the brother and sister, she was also shocked.

"She's like a little elf, and she's very beautiful, like Alice. She called me 'grandma' many times. She's already in the first grade, and she's doing very well in her studies."

"Really? Our Alwynn family's genes are really good." He smiled and suddenly felt that having grandchildren was very good.

She glared at him. "In front of Alice and Aubri, you can't say that. Regarding Ricky, I'll tell him. After this matter is told to him, he can't make things difficult for Alice. He must respect her decision. After all, there is no relationship between them."

He smiled and spoke with an unfathomable look, "Dear, there are some things that are still uncertain."

She also pursed her lips and lowered her eyes. She liked Alice very much. If she and Ricky could love each other, she would be very happy.

Alice didn't know how she got home.

After returning home, she hid in her room and did not go out.

Seeing Eden and Victor, she was worried that the children would be taken away.

She laid on her stomach weakly and looked at the picture of the family of three at the head of the bed with her listless eyes.

Knock, knock... She glanced at the door. That was the third time that her mother had knocked on the door.

Alice sorted out her emotions and got up to open the door.

Her bedroom was very big, and there was a very beautiful round, glass table by the bed. There was a vase of lilies on it, giving off a faint fragrance.

She opened the door and looked at her mother outside. She said apologetically, "Mom, I'm sorry. Come in first."

Aubri nodded and held Alice's dinner in her hand.

Aubri put the dish on the round glass table and said, "Alice, have some dinner. I have something to tell you."

Alice nodded and remained silent. She sat down and lowered her head to eat.

Aubri didn't prepare much, but it was Alice's favorite spiced chicken.

Alice lowered her head and took a few bites. As she ate, she couldn't help crying and her tears fell onto her food.

"Woo woo woo..." In the end, she cried out, and she could no longer swallow the food in her mouth. She had been suppressing her emotions for too long, and her shoulders shook violently.

Looking at her daughter, Aubri couldn't help but silently shed tears as well.

Aubri did not disturb her. If Alice could cry, she would feel better.

Her daughter was content, gentle, and determined. If she could meet a good man who loved her, she would be happy for the rest of her life.

After crying for more than ten minutes, Alice finally calmed down. She looked up at her mother with a pair of red and swollen eyes. She choked and asked, "Mom, did you already know about it?"

Chapter 2233

Aubri looked at her with distress and nodded. She reached out her hand and gently stroked her daughter's crying face. Her daughter was very beautiful and excellent, but she met a man who did not understand and did not want to cherish her.

This time, she came here because she wanted to completely resolve this matter.

"Alice, you've been in love with Henrick since you were a child. You've become so outstanding in order to marry him. I'm happy to see it in your eyes. There are little stars hidden in all our hearts, and those stars can make our lives sparkle."

"Over the years, you worked hard silently, and finally, you stunned all those who knew you."

"Then, you suddenly fell pregnant. When you decided to give birth to the children, do you know how much pain your father and I were in? You were still a child, and it happened to be at the moment when your life was just beginning."

"Your father and I both hope that you can live a life that you want, instead of living for the sake of others. However, since you were young, you have been obsessed with Henrick and can't let go of him."

Speaking of this, Aubri lowered her head and sighed. Then, she added, "The more Marlon grows, the more he looks like Henrick when he was a child. Can't your father and I see that? Besides, your father also did a DNA test. The children are indeed Henrick's."

"With your work in River City this time, your father wants you to face all this and get out of this pain to welcome a new life."

"Otherwise, your whole life will be ruined. We are old and can't take care of you for the rest of your life. We also hope that there will be someone who can love you and grow old with you."

"Mom, I'm sorry!" Alice cried and threw herself into her mother's arms.

"Boohoo... Mom, I've never regretted giving birth to Marlon and Juliet. With them in my life, I have a life that's even more wonderful than I can dream of." Her sobs spread throughout the room.

Aubri patted her daughter's back gently. When she heard her cries subsiding, she said, "Alice, Victor and Eden have already seen Marlon and Juliet. Victor saw them and became angry, so he beat up Henrick."

Alice left her mother's arms, wiped her tears, and said in a trembling voice, "Mom, I'm so afraid. I'm afraid that they will take away the children."

The children were her reason for living. All these years, it was because she watched the twins grow up and had their company that she persisted.

"Fool." Aubri smiled and reassured her, "Don't worry. Eden and Victor are not those kinds of people. They are very reasonable. Your father and I did this because we know their personalities."

"I have an appointment with Eden tomorrow. I will have a good talk with her. I think she will respect your decision."

"Really? Mom, I'm still worried." Although Alice knew what kind of person Eden was, she was still very worried. Despite this, she was still very angry. This time, her father had deliberately cooperated with the Alwynn family.

Her father should have discussed this matter with her. If he had done so, she would not have been so helpless and sad in such a sudden situation.

If she had a choice, she would choose to never let the Alwynn family know about the existence of the children.

She could not leave the children, nor could they leave her. She could take care of the children by herself.

Aubri seemed to have seen through her thoughts and said, "Alice, don't blame your father. Your father and I have seen how much pain you have been in these years."

"Your father made such a choice so that you would be able to walk out of the shadows. There are no eternal secrets in the world. The Alwynn family will know about it sooner or later."

"In other words, Marlon is very smart and will investigate his own background when he grows up."

"Alice, they have the right to know about their father's existence. Only when you bravely face all of this can you come out and give yourself a chance to be reborn."

She really loved her daughter. Her daughter had been depressed everyday and often shed tears alone. All these years, she had rarely smiled.

Alice finally nodded. The moment she closed her eyes, her tears fell like broken pearls.

Aubri sighed. Who could be blamed for this matter? Her daughter had fallen in love, so she had to bear it.

No matter who was right or wrong, it was meaningless to blame anyone.

She didn't care what Henrick thought. What she wanted was for her daughter to walk out of the shadows and have a good future.

.....

The next day, Eden and Aubri met at a restaurant in River City.

Eden ordered the dishes that Aubri liked. In the private room, the environment was very comfortable.

When the dishes were served, Aubri also arrived.

"Aubri, you are here." Eden looked at her with a smile. Over the years, she was still as beautiful as she used to be.

She pulled out the chair for her and asked her to sit down.

Aubri sat down with a smile and asked, "How is Henrick? Is he alright?" Knowing about Henrick, she asked casually.

After all, she was very resistant to him.

"He's much better." Eden sat next to her with a smile. She picked up her cutlery, picked up a few pieces of meat, and put them onto Aubri's plate. "Aubri, I remember that spicy chicken and beef stew are your favorite dishes. Eat more."

"Thank you. You should eat too."

They ate and talked, talking about unimportant matters. Eden didn't mention the children. She felt sorry for Alice. She didn't know what happened to Alice the night before.

After the meal, Eden asked someone to serve tea. The tea was green tea, which Aubri liked, and it also relieved tiredness.

After drinking two cups, Aubri took out two DNA test results from her bag and handed them to Eden.

Eden looked at her and took it, but she didn't open it.

Aubri saw it and knew that Eden already knew. "You saw the children yesterday."

Eden nodded and looked at the information in her hand. It was not difficult to guess that there were DNA test results here.

Aubri looked like she was in pain, and she lowered her eyes. In front of her daughter, she did not dare to show such a fragile side. As a mother, if she complained about being sad all day long, then her daughter's life would be really bad.

"Alice has suffered a lot over the years. I want her to come out of everything completely." After saying that, she looked up at Eden and said, "The children are Henrick's. Four years ago, Bert had done a DNA test on them. Alice is still young. If she can't walk out from this, her life will be ruined."

Eden's eyes turned red. "Aubri, thank you for telling me the truth so frankly."

After that, she solemnly apologized. "Aubri, I'm sorry. If I had known about this earlier, I would not have let Alice suffer so much. Go back and tell her that we will all respect her decision."

"I think Ricky will also respect Alice's decision. I will find an opportunity to tell him everything."

Aubri knew that Eden was a reasonable person, and she smiled gratefully. She hoped to see her daughter's genuine and heartfelt smile when she returned.

Chapter 2234

When Eden returned home, Victor was also waiting for her anxiously. Seeing her come back, they went straight back to the room.

Henrick went downstairs to drink some water. Watching his parents enter the room, he shook his head. They had started to show affection for each other in broad daylight. The couple was so lovey-dovey.

"Dear, what did Aubri say?" Victor was very anxious. He had been worried that Aubri would vent her anger on his wife because of his son.

"Nothing. We just had a casual chat?" Eden sat on the sofa on the balcony, but her expression looked terrible.

He turned around and went to the water dispenser to pick up a cup of hot water and put it in front of her.

She showed the DNA test results to him.

Although he already knew the truth, he was still stunned when he saw the results with his own eyes.

Looking at the time, the test was done a few years ago.

"Hmph! That old man, Bert's, words were so harsh. It's all because he was using my grandchildren to hit me in the face." Victor sat next to his wife with a cold expression on his face. He was so angry that he wanted to fight with Bert to the death.

Eden looked at the test results in front of her, and her expression was not very good either. Alice had worked hard to raise the children for seven years. For a woman of her age, this was the age where they should have dreams, and would flourish and work for a bright future.

If she had to bear the reputation of having children out of wedlock and that she was a mother of two children, how could it not be painful for a 19-year-old girl?

The couple's mood was very heavy. After discussing for a while, they could only try to find a suitable opportunity to tell their son about the matter.

After a weekend's rest, Henrick's body had completely recovered. Anton's medicine was very effective.

He had to go to the film shoot, and he really wanted to see Alice.

To his disappointment, when he arrived, he didn't see her. Only her team was there.

When Candice saw Henrick coming, a scheming look flashed across her eyes.

The jewelry company had already extended an olive branch to them, and she would not let go of this opportunity.

Alma was also very happy to see him.

"Henrick, when the director said that you were going to come here today, I thought he was joking. Have you recovered?" Her laughter was crisp and sweet.

He nodded lightly. "Yes."

She wanted to say something more to show her concern, but he walked to the other side.

He walked over to Brenden. Looking at him, who was talking to Amiyah about the scene, Henrick asked, "Brenden, where is Alice?"

Brenden looked at him and replied, "She has returned to Lemmon City."

"When did she leave?" Henrick was very surprised. Didn't she have a job? How could she go back?

"Two days ago. She had something to deal with there and she'll return after settling things." Brenden didn't know about the relationship between Alice and Henrick, but because of Alma's matter, he didn't have a good impression of Henrick.

"Oh!" Henrick suddenly became unhappy. When he came here, he had been thinking about what to say when he saw Alice.

He had been ruminating about it in his mind, but he was extremely disappointed when he didn't see her.

He turned around and left, with a grim expression on his face.

This time, Dwayne personally explained the scene to him.

Henrick listened very carefully.

Dwayne looked very pleased, and the following shooting went smoothly.

Henrick did his best, and the others actively cooperated with him. The filming had been very smooth, but Alice, who said that she would come back in a few days, did not return.

Instead, she sent the scripts over.

What was even more surprising to Henrick was that Alice did not show up again even after everything was completed.

Henrick's family and friends around him noticed that he had changed. He was less talkative and he became much calmer.

Meanwhile, Alma was also shocked by the change in him. During this period of time, he had been focused on filming, and he had been very serious when he was filming. He was a real cold and domineering president.

His coolness and acting skills made people applaud for him.

That day was the last day of the crew gathering.

Henrick wanted to go out for a walk, so he asked Josue to tidy up as he prepared to go back to the Alwynn family in the evening.

Alma and Candice, who had never had an appointment with Henrick to have dinner alone, put all their hopes on that evening.

During this period of time, Henrick had turned a blind eye to Alma. No matter what she did, he would always treat her coldly, just like he was with everyone else.

The last shot of the day was in a nature park in River City.

Henrick changed his clothes and came out. He looked at the clear sky. The light and shadows under the tree were mottled, the birds were singing and the flowers were fragrant. Moreover, the wind was gentle, making people feel comfortable.

He felt that time passed very quickly. It was the end of June, and the students were on holiday, flocking to the park in twos and threes.

Buzz buzz buzz... His phone vibrated a few times.

Henrick lowered his head to take a look, and what caught his eye were the words "DNA test".

He glanced at the person who had sent the message. It was his younger brother, Andrew.

"What does this kid want to do with a DNA test?" He muttered to himself with a smile.

However, he was quite interested in the results. He directly saw that there was a paternal relationship between him and Marlon Klein, then another paternal relationship between him and Juliet Klein.

He was speechless. Could it be that his eyes were dazzled by the bright sunshine? He actually saw his own name, and it was on the results of two paternity tests.

Then, Andrew sent another message.

"Henrick, it turns out that Marlon and Juliet are your children. Henrick, why didn't you tell us earlier?"

"The two children are so cute. I like the quiet little girl the most. On the day we went out to have fun, she said that I was the most handsome."

"Pfft..." Henrick thought that his brother was teasing him, so he couldn't help laughing.

His reply was, " Andrew, how did you manage to get these DNA test results?"

Andrew replied, "Henrick, what are you talking about? These are the DNA test results I found in Mom's room. I came to find her charger and used it. I found the results in the cabinet."

"I've seen them before. Why are you still hiding it? Since they're your children, bring them back as soon as possible. It'll be fun."

Andrew probably didn't know what he meant by saying that, but Henrick was stunned on the spot.

He took another quick look at the name of the person who had requested the DNA tests, Bert Klein.

Boom...

Henrick's mind went blank.

He immediately dialed Andrew's number.

"Henrick, what's wrong? Did you call me to tell me to bring Juliet and Marlon back? Speaking of which, their primary school has closed for the holidays."

Henrick trembled all over, and even his voice was shaking.

"Andrew, when did you see the children?"

"During the holidays, on the day when you were beaten up by Dad. Henrick, I saw that Marlon looks exactly the same as you did when you were a child. Dad didn't believe me and said that I was spouting rubbish. He said that he was going to the bathroom, but he didn't come back and instead, went to beat you up."

Bang... The phone in Henrick's hand landed on the cobblestone path.

Chapter 2235

The phone bounced on the cobblestone several times before it came to a stop.

"Henrick, Henrick, are you listening to me? Henrick..." There was a sudden silence on the other end of the line, and Andrew could no longer hear his brother.

He also thought that he might have made trouble, so he quickly hung up the phone to find his mother.

Henrick looked at the broken phone screen and stood rooted to the ground, his mind blank.

Under the bright sunshine, his shoulders were broad, his waist was narrow, and his long legs were long. Standing in the sun, he seemed to be on the verge of collapse.

After a long time, two girls in school uniforms passed by him.

A girl picked up his phone enthusiastically and handed it to him with a smile.

"Sir, your mobile phone fell." He seemed to have come to his senses and took the phone in a daze. He was already sweating under the sun.

He stared at the broken phone screen and blinked. A drop of sweat dripped from his forehead onto the broken screen. Only then did he realize that he was not dreaming.

What he had just heard was the truth.

He, Henrick Alwynn, had two children, a son and a daughter. It was Alice who had given birth to them.

"Haha..." He laughed foolishly, looking silly.

However, when he laughed, he also burst into tears. "Alice was pregnant with my children. Why didn't she tell me?"

Was he such a b*stard in her heart?

If she was pregnant, how could he not admit it?

He cried and laughed, and he couldn't even control himself.

"Haha..." In the end, he still smiled, which looked very ugly.

That was because he had realized something. His mother found out about the truth in May, but she didn't tell him.

His mother really didn't love him anymore. She didn't tell him such an important thing.

"Haha..." He looked up at the sky with a smile, with tears flowing from the corners of his eyes.

Alice, you let my children grow up without me.

Without a father in their childhood, they would be scolded by others, and they would be uncomfortable.

Henrick walked over to a scenic rock and sat down. There was a tree next to him that blocked the sun.

He stared blankly at the field in front of him. His hands hung weakly beside him. It was really hot, and he was extremely decadent. The fragrance of the grass was so strong that he felt like he could breathe more comfortably.

He had children, and they were twins. He was really amazing!

Tsk, tsk, the inheritance was really incredible!

Based on Alice's age, the children would be going to primary school that year.

He missed the best times for the children. Unless time flowed backwards, there was no way to make up for it.

Henrick leaned against the stone and closed his eyes. The contradiction and confusion in his heart really made him uncomfortable and tortured.

During this period of time, he had been thinking about Alice at night. Even in his dreams, she was crying bitterly.

Alice, you finally did it. You took your revenge on me.

That was because every night, when he woke up, he would feel a heartbreaking pain and feel tortured.

All kinds of emotions in his heart were about to burst out. He really wanted to find a place to vent out all his emotions.

It was so painful for him to suppress his emotions, which made him lose control unconsciously.

Henrick placed his hand on his eyes and pressed down. He felt like he was about to cry again.

That was the most painful feeling in the world.

Anger, pain, regret, and guilt made him feel like he was almost going to collapse. It also proved once that his endurance was really weak.

"Alma, tonight is your last chance. I'll drink with Mr. Henrick later and spike his drink. You have to watch him drink it and make sure you're with him when he feels uncomfortable. You have to remember to stay with him all the time. When the drug takes effect, you'll immediately take him back to the room. This time, I won't let anyone ruin your plan like what happened seven years ago."

"Thank you, Miss Yates. You have been helping me all these years. As long as I marry Henrick, we will have a good life together."

"Alma, thank you, too. As long as you marry him, we will all be fine when your life is better in the future."

"Miss Yates, I understand."

"Yes! I'll go prepare first. You have to seize the opportunity. Mr. Henrick has liked you for so many years, and he won't give you up so easily."

"I know. I know him very well." Alma's voice was full of confidence.

Hearing their conversation, Henrick smiled coldly. Was he going to get even with Alma?

Seven years ago, she had schemed against him, turned him into a sinner, and made Alice suffer for seven years. During those seven years, she had made use of him to live a happy life.

Seven years later, she wanted to scheme against him again. In her dreams. This time, he would return what she gave him.

He would let her know that when he spoiled her, she was the treasure in his hands. When he gave her up, he could crush her mercilessly.

He waited for their footsteps to fade away before he slowly stood up. Looking at the broken screen of the phone, he looked at it with disdain. Even the phone was bullying him.

He walked out of the park, found the business district, and bought a new mobile phone.

After he transferred all his software to the new phone, he dialed Alice's number for the first time after he left.

After several rings, she answered the phone.

"Hello!" Alice's voice was very nervous.

When she saw Henrick's phone number, she was shocked. She didn't want to answer the phone, but she knew that there were some things she couldn't avoid.

She simply picked up the phone.

"Alice." Henrick called her name in a deep voice. He could hear the nervousness in her voice, but he also regretted calling her, for fear that she would be sad again.

Alice's hand, which was holding the phone, trembled. It was really him.

"Alice, where are you now?" He had a thousand words in his mind, but he didn't know what to say.

"What's the matter?" She was very nervous, afraid that he would ask about the children.

"It's nothing. I just... wanted to hear your voice. I wanted to call you. Alice, wait for me." After he finished speaking, he quickly hung up the phone without waiting for her to speak.

Then, he called Josue and arranged everything for that night.

After the call with Josue, he smiled evilly and walked in the direction of the hotel.

Alice was playing with the children at home when she suddenly received a call from Henrick. She was stunned for a moment. Seeing the two children playing games, she got up and went to the balcony to answer the call. She thought that Henrick had dialed the wrong number, but he called her name as soon as he opened his mouth.

He told her to wait for him. His voice was no longer full of disgust and anger. Instead, he was a little humble.

He.. He knew. He knew about Marlon and Juliet.

Alice was a little nervous and scared, but he didn't seem to want to take the children away.

What did he mean by saying that he wanted to hear her voice and asking her to wait for him?

Chapter 2236

Alice looked out of the window. Summers in Lemmon City were very hot and stuffy, but her heart, which had been silent for a long time, began to beat again.

During the period of her return, she had figured out one thing. Even if they were not fated to be together, she was still very happy to have met Henrick.

That was because she had been really happy when she chased after him all those years.

When she had his children, she was also happy. She thought, "This is what love looks like."

She liked him. What could she do? Love was always like this, a combination of pain and happiness.

She thought that maybe in another time and in another place, they could be fated to be together.

When she was about 16 years old, she took a plane to another city to see the person she liked. Because she cherished and liked him too much, it led to more pain later.

She just liked him; what did she do wrong? That was how she comforted herself and let herself walk out of it slowly.

Now, she had experienced her father's good intentions. She could really face all this calmly in her current state of mind.

She thought that life was like this. Only when she took the first step bravely could she dare to think about what will happen in the future.

In the past, she was only persistent in love, but never humbled by it. In the process of loving that person, she had found happiness.

Looking out of the window, her gaze gradually became distant. Looking at it, she smiled from the bottom of her heart.

In a banquet hall in River City, it was the most relaxing night for everyone that night. The final party that was being paid for by the company was an all-you-can-eat buffet.

After Dwayne passionately gave a speech and wished for high ratings, everyone dug in and enjoyed themselves.

The atmosphere was relaxed, and everyone had a good time.

According to Henrick's instructions, Josue kept an eye on Candice and Ellie's every move all night. He was afraid that he would miss something, so he secretly arranged different people to keep an eye on them.

Alma was wearing a beautiful, light golden dress that night. Her long hair was draped over her shoulders, and her crystal earrings reached her collarbone, making her look very beautiful.

She had always been by Henrick's side, toasting him. Her smile was gentle and elegant, making her look even more charming.

Candice had always been very satisfied with Alma's appearance, which was very suitable as the heroine.

Ellie had been watching everything from the side. Everything was for the sake of that night.

There were not many investors invited that night. As Henrick was the Second Young Master of the Alwynn family, no matter where he went, he was very popular. There were always people coming to toast him.

Despite this, no one found that he had been holding a glass of water instead of wine.

After toasting, he went to get some food that he liked and sat with Alma face to face.

"Henrick, you're in a good mood tonight." Alma lowered her head and ate a small piece of steak.

He also smiled and looked at her with a deep gaze. She was very beautiful that night, but the more he looked at her, the more he found that she looked very ugly. From the bottom of his heart, he found that he was right.

Her innocent face exuded a pure and charming aura. Unfortunately, he could no longer admire her.

He nodded slightly and thought for a while. He was not in a bad mood. "I'm in a good mood indeed. The work is done, so I can have a good rest for a while."

He really needed to have a good rest and deal with his affairs.

"Henrick, will we still have a chance to cooperate in the future?" Alma asked tentatively; his answer would also help her decide what she would do that night.

He lowered his head and ate. The steak from this place was good, but it was not delicious compared with the famous restaurant in River City.

He took a bite of steak and said slowly, "Let's see how it goes in the future. However, I don't want to be an actor anymore. I've already gotten the awards I wanted to win."

He thought for a moment, and his dark eyes were full of longing. He said with a gentle smile, "I will have something very important to do in the future. I promised Martin a TV series. After that, I may retire from the industry."

In the future, he would accompany his children and... Alice. Of course, as long as she agreed, their relationship could be cultivated slowly.

The process from shock to acceptance of having children only took a few minutes.

Over the years, he had been busy chasing his dreams and wandering around. He had done what he wanted to do. It was time for him to settle down and take responsibility for what he should do.

Alma looked at him in shock. There was a serious look on his handsome face, and no one could tell whether he was joking or not.

Acting was his lifelong dream. Right then, he actually said that he would give up on his dream.

"Henrick, how can you do that? This is what you've always wanted." She was shocked. He wanted to quit acting. She really felt that he would never make such a choice in his life.

She knew how much he loved acting.

He smiled. "Why can't I? Sometimes, giving up requires more courage than persistence, but I already have what I want. I can't act too passionately anymore."

He glanced out of the window and muttered to himself, "I'd prefer to explore the unknown future."

He thought that he would have a better life in the future.

His mother always said that a life with one's family was perfect.

He finally believed that sentence.

Only those who knew how to satisfy others and had enough patience could have a confident future.

At this time, the drinks in their glasses were almost finished.

A waiter came over with drinks, and Alma waved to him.

The waiter smiled and walked towards them. Alma picked up one of the glasses and placed it in front of Henrick. It was the watermelon juice that he liked. She also took a glass of orange juice for herself.

She looked at Henrick with a smile. "Henrick, drink some watermelon juice. Don't you like it very much?"

He looked at her with a deep gaze. In front of her, he drank most of the watermelon juice.

Alma also drank half of the orange juice in her glass excitedly.

Henrick ate another piece of steak. He felt very hungry that night, so he got up and went to get some more dishes.

As for Alma, she felt that something was wrong with her body. She felt so hot that she was about to sweat. She also felt like her body was extremely empty and in need of comfort.

Henrick didn't seem to notice that something was wrong with Alma. He lowered his head and ate up the food on the plate before gracefully wiping his mouth. Looking at Alma, whose face was flushed, he said with a strange smile, "Alma, you don't look very well. Let me take you back to your room."

She was in a trance. She felt that something was wrong, but she finally nodded obediently.

He helped her to the elevator. Seeing this, Ellie, who was not far away, smiled with excitement.

At the thought that she would have countless money in the future, she was very happy.

Seeing that Henrick and Alma were about to leave, Josue quickly got up and chased after them.

When the three of them entered the elevator, Henrick was pushed into Josue's arms by Alma, who was in a trance.

Chapter 2237

Josue was speechless, and there was also some disgust in his eyes. He really didn't expect Alma to be so vicious.

Fortunately, he secretly switched the drinks. Otherwise, Henrick would have fallen into her trap. When he got up the next morning, he could die on the spot.

"Mr. Henrick, what should we do now?" Josue held Alma, who kept rubbing against his body. He was embarrassed to the extreme.

Henrick looked at him coldly. "Where are they?"

Josue avoided Alma and answered, "Alma's room."

"Hmph!" Henrick snorted coldly. "Where's Candice?"

"Mr. Henrick, our hidden people have already dealt with it and obtained the video. Candice has been arrested by the police."

Hearing this, Henrick was relieved.

"Give the police the evidence from before and let her experience the consequences of framing me." Candice shared the same thought with Alma, who wanted to be the daughter-in-law of the Alwynn family for the sake of interests.

Josue sent Alma to her room and fled.

Following that, he stood guard not far away.

It was none of his business. It was all Alma's own fault.

It was she who pushed herself into the fire pit, and it had nothing to do with him. She couldn't blame him for this. He was only following instructions.

On Henrick's side, everything had been arranged, but the Alwynn family was filled with worry.

When Eden received a call from her son, she hurried home, but Andrew ran to the room to hide. He knew that he had made trouble, so he didn't dare to face his parents. He had been doing his homework in the room and didn't even go downstairs for dinner.

Moreover, when he saw the video of his father beating his second brother, he was deeply troubled in his heart.

Eden looked at him and sighed faintly.

Victor sat there, reading the information, and patiently waited for Henrick to come back to ask about the truth of the matter.

However, Henrick seemed to be very patient and had not come back yet.

Adriel and Alan were so envious that they went to play games on the terrace outside.

"Andrew hasn't come down yet. I'll go up and have a look. Although it's good to admit his mistake, he still has to have dinner."

Victor nodded slightly.

Eden went to the kitchen to bring Andrew's dinner upstairs.

At this moment, Henrick, who had asked Josue to guard Alma's room, drove home alone.

He knew that his mother knew the truth. He had to go back and figure things out before he could meet his son and daughter, as well as Alice.

Half an hour later, he returned to Dragon Villa. As soon as he got home, he saw his parents.

Seeing her son come back, Eden finally breathed a sigh of relief. He knew that he had children, and he did not escape. This was her son. He was going to take responsibility for his own mistakes.

"Ricky, have you eaten yet?" Eden asked.

"I've eaten."

Henrick's expression was not very good. He walked over to Eden and sat down. He had always been somewhat fearful of his father.

The last time when he was beaten was still clear in his mind.

Eden put down the document in her hand and looked at him. "You've seen the DNA test results."

He choked, pursed his lips, and nodded.

Then, he looked at his mother angrily and said, "Mom, you should have told me at that time."

She looked at him calmly. She had never found a suitable opportunity to tell him about it. It would be better if he found out in this way.

"I was also looking for an opportunity to tell you, but on the third day after we knew the truth, Alice brought the children back. Your father and I respect her choice and won't compete with her for the children."

"However, I think that with her character, even if we make it very clear, she would still be very uneasy when she comes back."

"I was going to tell you the truth after you finished filming. No matter what, you can't take the children away from her. You must respect Alice's choice."

"Alice said before she left that if you knew the truth, she would not object to you going to see the children. You are their father, and you have the right to know their existence."

"Mom, do I look like someone who wants to take away her children?" Henrick was so angry that he laughed.

However, after thinking about it, Alice felt that he would only let her down and hurt her.

Especially after that night seven years ago.

"Alas!" Eden sighed and looked at her son. He looked like a child who had not grown up, but as long as he realized his mistake, he would still take responsibility for it. Despite this, she knew her son, but it did not mean that others knew him.

"Ricky, do you know why Mrs. Klein brought the children to River City this time?"

Henrick obviously shook his head. With Alice's character, he thought that she would never let him discover the existence of the two children in his lifetime.

In the past seven years, if it hadn't been for Gia's wedding, he wouldn't have met Alice again. It could be seen that she had protected herself and the children well for so many years.

Eden knew that it would be very painful for Ricky to hear these words, but she had to say them as she was afraid of him hurting Alice again.

She spoke in a very serious tone, "It's because Alice has suffered a lot in recent years. Mrs. Klein was very anxious to let Alice face this matter and let her get out of it completely. Although it is very cruel, Alice has been in a much better mood than before when she went back recently."

"Her mom and I often call each other, and the children are also very well-behaved. Now, they are on holiday."

Henrick's body tensed up, and his heart was filled with deep pain.

He had never felt such pain before.

What he didn't care about was what she cared about the most. His carelessness was almost devastating to her.

After knowing the truth, Henrick made a decision. "Mom, I'll go to Lemmon City tomorrow and bring my wife, son, and daughter back. No matter what, I must ask Alice to forgive me."

Victor and Eden looked at each other. She warned her son seriously, "However, you can't hurt Alice anymore."

"Mom." Henrick looked sad. "Mom, when did you start not believing me?"

Her eyes flashed. "It's not that I don't believe you, but I am afraid that you will hurt Alice. Although she is much happier than before when she went back this time, she has not completely come out of the matter where you hurt her."

Henrick was also worried about this. Alice was unwilling to see him again.

However, he would try his best to make her fall in love with him again.

"Mom, I may live in Lemmon City for a period of time. Of course, I remember that there are several villas there, which were left by Grandma for you. Give me a place to stay for a period of time."

"Also, you two need to make some preparations. I'm very likely to be their son-in-law."

"Impossible!" Victor suddenly looked at him sternly.

"Go apologize to Alice and show your sincerity. After Alice forgives you, bring my grandson and granddaughter back. As for you and Alice, it's best if you two like each other."

Chapter 2238

"Dad, don't worry. We will fall in love with each other because I like her too." Henrick said with a smile. When he said this, he felt relieved and went upstairs to pack his luggage with a smile.

Victor and Eden looked at each other.

He watched his son go upstairs and asked in a low voice, "Dear, I didn't hear him just now. Did he say that he also likes Alice?"

She also nodded in shock.

"I heard it clearly. He did say that." She liked Alice very much. If Alice and Henrick loved each other, things would be much easier.

However, there were always some incomplete and unfulfilled parts in life.

Alice had burst into tears. She hoped that after she got out of this pain, she would have a beautiful future.

Eden said, "Victor, ask the people in Lemmon City to arrange a villa for Ricky near Alice's family. Let them live close to each other so that they can often meet each other and their relationship will improve more quickly."

He nodded. "I'll get someone to arrange it tonight. He can move there tomorrow."

Eden was also relieved.

Henrick packed up his luggage and asked his mother for a picture of the children. She sent some photos and videos of the twins to him.

After saying goodbye to his parents, he went straight to the hotel. He took Josue there, so he was not afraid that someone would try to do something to him.

This time, he planned to go all out. No matter how much Alice hated him and blamed him, he would not give up.

Martin was right. He, Henrick Alwynn, liked Alice.

It's true that those who are involved will be confused!

After returning to the hotel and taking a shower, Henrick picked up his phone and clicked on the video to watch the children.

The first time he saw his own children, he was deeply shocked. He saw the little boy in the video who looked very much like him. He was sitting on the sofa watching TV with his legs crossed and holding a bag of plain potato chips in his hand.

Henrick couldn't help but smile. Wasn't this a replica of his own childhood? He had the same bad roots as his father.

The boy really looked like him.

Suddenly, a delicate little girl ran over. She wore a pink princess dress and her long hair was tied up in a ponytail, revealing a delicate and beautiful little face, which looked like Alice's.

She was his daughter, and she was so beautiful!

Henrick was so excited that he almost burst into tears. There was nothing that could make him feel more proud than this.

In the video, Juliet wanted to get her brother's potato chips, but she was slapped away by Marlon. Juliet then looked at her brother with grievance.

Henrick suddenly sat up, his expression darkening. He couldn't help saying, "You brat, how dare you bully my daughter."

Henrick was stunned for a moment. She suddenly understood the feelings of Harrison, Uncle Anson, Uncle Lucian, and the other uncles and their daughters. He was also going to spoil his daughter to the heavens.

Henrick replayed the video and kept looking at his son and daughter.

During this period of time, he was actually very depressed. His heart was heavy, and he felt even more uncomfortable at night.

He was busy everyday, thinking that he could sleep when he came back, but he still couldn't fall asleep.

Every time he woke up, he saw the vision of Alice crying very sadly. The dull pain was so dense that it covered his limbs.

That night, he slept soundly and had a sweet dream.

.....

The next morning, when Alma woke up, she felt sore all over.

She opened her eyes with difficulty and looked around. She felt incredible about her crazy behavior the night before. The pain all over her body made her almost unwilling to move.

However, why did there seem to be something wrong?

She suddenly looked to the side and saw a strange man sleeping next to her.

Why wasn't it Henrick?

Where was Henrick?

Why was it a strange man she didn't know?

"Ah..." She cried out in shock.

The strange man next to her frowned unhappily. "Shut up, why are you so noisy?"

"Who are you?" Alma looked at the man who had ruined her with tears in her eyes. She wished she could tear him into pieces.

The man quickly got up, picked up the clothes on the ground, and put them on. Then, he looked at her, who looked incredulous.

He smiled evilly, and his yellow teeth were a little disgusting.

Alma even wanted to die.

"I didn't expect you to be so skilled, and it's not your first time. Tsk, tsk, tsk." The man's face was full of disdain as he quickly left the room.

Woo woo woo... She reacted and burst into tears in disbelief.

She was thinking about what had happened the previous night and what had gone wrong?

However, after thinking about it for a while, she couldn't remember what had happened at all.

She liked Henrick, and he loved her so humbly. In the past few years, wherever he was, she would laugh a lot. The days she spent with him were always so happy.

However, right then, she had slept with a strange man.

The more she thought about it, the more she felt that something was wrong. She had to deal with the matter carefully. She was going to be famous soon, and her future would be bright.

She stopped crying and put on her clothes. When she was looking for her phone, the door was suddenly pushed open.

Seeing the person coming, Alma opened her red lips in surprise, and her tearful appearance was very endearing.

"Henrick, you..."

It was indeed him.

Henrick was dressed in a casual white suit and looked handsome. He walked in expressionlessly.

She felt bitter, and a bad premonition rose in her heart.

She stood stiffly where she was, not knowing what to do.

He glanced at the scene and sneered. "It's quite intense."

She felt like she was thrown into the ice cellar in an instant. She blinked her bright eyes, and a sense of fear quickly spread throughout her whole body.

She had admired him for a long time, but she knew his character.

In her heart, she felt that there was no one more suitable for him than her. She had always been a well-behaved and sensible woman.

However, that day, she realized that she had never understood him.

Then, she heard Henrick's evil voice. "Alma, how does it feel to be schemed against?"

Boom...

Her mind went blank, her pupils trembled violently, and the few wisps of red blood were particularly obvious.

"You... What do you mean?" Alma asked with all her strength, her voice trembling uncontrollably.

Henrick walked in leisurely. Under the light, his figure was slender, and his handsome face was no longer as gentle as before.

"Alma, seven years ago, you schemed against me and made the woman who was with me suffer for seven years. I, on the other hand, was a jerk and hurt her deeply."

Hearing his words, she collapsed limply on the ground.

He took a few more steps forward and sneered. "I didn't expect you to use this disgusting method on me seven years later. Do you know? I was the one who told the director to cast you in this drama, but you took advantage of me after I put in so much effort."

Chapter 2239

Alma couldn't believe what she was hearing. She felt numb, as if she was dreaming at this moment. She thought that when she woke up, everything would be over.

However, Henrick's cold voice made her return to reality. "Alma, from now on, I won't take care of you anymore. Candice and Ellie can't escape either. They must pay for what they have done."

"Now, the two of them have been taken away by the police. As for you, get out of the entertainment industry. Don't let me see you again."

For Alma, it would be very difficult for her to get out of the entertainment circle.

Over the years, in addition to acting, she had only been dreaming of marrying the second son of the Alwynn family. She had dreamed so much that she could not come out from her dreams.

She looked at the ruthless man in front of her, the man who usually looked at her with a gentle smile. At this time, the expression on his face made her feel strange and scared.

His words were to completely ban her, leaving her no chance of survival in the entertainment industry.

How could he treat her like this? She had been following him ever since she was a child. She had studied very well since she was a child, and she had been directly admitted to Multimedia University in River City and started her dreams since she was in high school.

In the years when he had not returned to the country, she had started from the bottom and gained experience. Then, she had made use of his reputation to get all the way to where she presently was.

However, at this moment, his words completely shattered her dreams.

It was only at that moment that she realized that all of this had been planned by Henrick.

Her breathing hitched and she could not accept the facts.

She questioned him angrily, "Henrick, how could you do this to me? I... love you so much. Apart from... wanting to marry you, what did I... ever do to you?" Her voice was trembling and choked with sobs.

When she said those words, Henrick's calm eyes were full of anger, and the atmosphere became so tense that people could not breathe.

Alma was frightened by him. At this moment, she finally knew how ridiculous she had been. She had never deeply understood the man in front of her. She thought that she knew him, but right then, she realized how wrong she was.

What she saw was only the superficial Henrick, who was good to her.

She seemed to have forgotten what kind of person his father was.

There was a strong sense of mockery on his handsome face, and the frost in his eyes seemed to freeze everything around him.

The moment she saw his eyes, she became nervous and even her breathing became cautious.

"Haha..." His mocking laughter was also very cold. "Alma, your love is really cheap. You say you love me, yet you are dating Jaime Jefferson. You're trying to reap benefits from the both of us, and you also gave him your first time."

"Alma, I've never seen such a shameless woman like you." His voice was full of disdain.

His words rang in her head.

She couldn't believe what she had heard. How could he know about these things?

She had done these things very secretly. How did he find out?

At that moment, Alma finally understood what it meant to lift a stone and hit her own feet.

"Alma, I feel sick of your love. Get out of the entertainment circle by yourself. Don't wait for me to make your scandal known to the world." After saying that, Henrick turned around and was about to leave.

"Henrick," she cried and called out to him.

He turned to look at her, his handsome face devoid of any warmth.

She took a few steps towards him in tears, her eyes full of questions, and her tone was aggressive. "Henrick, if you didn't like me, why did you treat me so well? If you didn't like me, why did you have to help me? If you didn't like me, why did you give me false hope? Now, you say that you want me to get out of the entertainment industry. What do you think of your previous efforts?"

In her opinion, it was he who gave her the illusion that he liked her. That was why she took advantage of him, and she was full of expectations to marry him.

It was all his fault. Since she was a child, he shouldn't have given her such hope.

"Haha..." He was so angry that he laughed.

His laughter was full of self-mockery, disappointment, and anger. There were mixed emotions on his handsome face.

"Alma, when you were in primary school, you were often bullied because of your family's poor situation. I saw that you were pitiful and wanted to help you. I didn't want to see you being bullied. I begged my father to let you be a child model because I wanted you to have a good future."

"Over the years, I helped you grow, both openly and in secret, so that you could have a bright and beautiful life. Even as a friend, I am sincere in helping you. However, you have terrible ambitions and want to marry me to enter the Alwynn family."

"Let me tell you, although my family is rich, our requirements are not high. No matter what family you come from, as long as I like you, my family would not object to my choice. However, my mother only has one condition. The girl I like must be kind-hearted."

"Look at yourself again. Do you... deserve it?"

His sexy lips were smiling sarcastically, and the corners of his eyes and eyebrows revealed his pain. The pain in his heart was akin to it being cut by a knife.

All his efforts had been doubted and questioned by her, which was undoubtedly the most painful thing for him.

Because he treated her as a friend, he was good to her.

Alma choked. She had forgotten that because of his special care, she was able to get rid of the predicament at that time.

A human being's desires were endless; as long as they could get it, they always wanted more.

Henrick smiled bitterly. "Alma, why do you think I'm helping you? In my eyes, your smile is as clear as a spring. When I see your smile in summer, I feel cool and relaxed. Because you were innocent and lovely, I pitied you and took care of you as a friend. However, what did you take me for?" The ending was indeed so painful.

After finishing his words, he turned around and left. This time, he walked very fast.

By the time Alma realized what was going on, Henrick had already pulled his suitcase into the elevator with Josue. The moment the elevator door closed, he heard her heart-wrenching voice.

"Henrick, you can't treat me like this, boohoo..." Alma sat paralyzed on the ground. She didn't have much strength, and her whole body was trembling.

However, no matter how sad she was, things had already happened. She was unable to turn back, and she finally fainted in the corridor of the hotel.

Henrick's eyes were cold and his expression was icy. Josue was watching from the side, trembling. He could feel that Henrick was very angry right then.

Right then, they were going to Lemmon City. It was uncertain when they would come back, so he felt a little guilty. If they left, when would they be able to come back?

In Lemmon City, the scenery was beautiful. The sun shone brightly, and the surrounding greenery was excellent. On both sides of the road to the villa, the wisteria were blooming beautifully, resembling a purple waterfall.

The bright flowers were also very beautiful. Henrick was very satisfied with the surrounding scenery. What made him even more satisfied was that he was right next door to Alice.

Chapter 2240

He could often see his children and Alice. His father was definitely good at doing things.

He glanced at the next door and smiled. "Alice, I'm here," he murmured.

Alice, I'll definitely make you love me.

He smirked and walked towards the villa.

Josue followed behind him. He felt that Henrick's mood had suddenly improved along the way.

Right then, he finally understood. Along the way, Henrick had laughed a lot because Alice was here.

Therefore, he deduced that Henrick liked Alice.

Wow!

Finally, Henrick's heart was full of love.

Haha...

Was he going to have some things to do in the future?

From then on, Henrick could smile every day and be more at peace with the world.

The butler, Peter, who had just arrived at the door and who was in his fifties, greeted them with a smile.

"Mr. Henrick, you're here."

Henrick nodded slightly and said, "Mr. Davies, thank you for your hard work these days."

Peter smiled and said, "Mr. Henrick, you're too polite. It's what I should do. If you need anything, just tell me. The president has already told me everything."

Henrick knew how powerful his father was, and he also knew that Victor was very concerned about this matter. His lips curled into a warm smile as he said, "Mr. Davies, we'll get up early tomorrow morning and go to the mall. I will personally pick out gifts and then visit the Clarke family."

Peter smiled and said, "Okay, Mr. Henrick."

Only then did Henrick look up at the villa in front of him. It was a modern style villa. It was fashionable and elegant, with two and a half floors. The surrounding scenery was excellent, and the lighting was good.

He walked in and sat on the sofa. Peter asked the servants to pour him two glasses of water.

When Josue saw the interior decoration of the villa, he could only exclaim in his heart, "The rich are all big shots. I don't know if I can afford to buy this villa in this life."

Including Peter and two servants, as well as Henrick and Josue, there were a total of five people living there.

It was almost dinner time. After telling Peter what he wanted to eat, Henrick went to the third floor to rest.

If he stayed on the top floor, he could see the situation next door. He wanted to see how the children and Alice lived.

According to his mother, Alice's family had bought two villas here, one for her parents, and the other for her and the twins.

The children were still young and naughty. Alice bought two houses in order to let her parents get enough rest.

It was also because the location of the two villas was very good.

Henrick went up to the third floor, and the beautiful scenery in the distance was clear at a glance.

The room on the third floor was very big, and all kinds of clothes were prepared in the cloakroom.

He changed into a casual black suit and went out of the room. There was a set of contemporary-styled chairs on the balcony with tea set beside it.

He walked over and sat down, boiling the water and making tea leisurely.

He leaned back elegantly and sat in this position. He could see Alice's courtyard and the balcony from the third floor. There were many toys on the balcony on the third floor, and there were many green plants. To Henrick's surprise, there were several chili plants in black flower pots, which had already bloomed. Looking forward, he found that there were actually some fruits, cabbage, and tomatoes.

He was speechless. The balcony on the top floor of a person's house was usually used to enjoy the scenery, while Alice used it as a vegetable garden.

He smiled. It turned out that Alice lived such a down-to-earth life.

She was so cute!

He couldn't help but smile. That kind of life was very desirable.

"Marlon, where did you put my play-doh?" In the yard, Juliet shouted angrily.

Henrick's expression changed. He looked excitedly at the little girl in the yard. She was wearing a blue and white dress. She had long hair and round cheeks, and she seemed to be very angry.

His heart beat wildly. This was his daughter, Juliet.

"Marlon, you're going to hide and not come out, right? If you don't return my play-doh to me, I'll smash your turtle eggs."

"How dare you!" A little boy in blue clothes ran out with a pink box in his hand, and he quickly handed it to his sister.

"Here, you little brat. I bought you play-doh but you want to smash my turtle eggs. Do you know that in order to hatch them, I have been working hard? Go, play next door. Don't disturb me, I'm watching TV."

"Hmph!" The little boy snorted at his sister.

Juliet was unwilling to show weakness and shouted back, "You don't have to hatch them in person. What are you trying to do? Try your best and show me."

"You don't understand. I've been observing their changes everyday. This time, I must hatch them."

The brother and sister argued for a while before Juliet went to her grandparents' house next door.

Henrick narrowed his eyes as he looked at his son. Why was this brat always bullying his sister?

His daughter was so beautiful. Her big eyes were like a clear spring, bright and clear. She was very similar to her mother. When she grew up, she would be a great beauty.

He had always been good at judging people!

With a smile on his face, he kept looking at where the two children were standing. They were no longer there, but he still did not look away.

The orange sunset glow shone on him, covering him with a faint layer of warmth. His smile was as gentle as the clouds, but there was some melancholy in his eyes. When would he be able to meet his son and daughter?

Suddenly, he saw Alice's car entering the yard.

After getting out of the car, she went to the trunk to get something. She was dressed very casually in a white sweater, and her hair was tied into a ponytail. She looked very young and proper, just like a college student who had just left the campus. That was especially the case for her clear and fair skin, which shone like porcelain.

She returned to the villa with two large bags. Before entering the villa, she seemed to have sensed something. She suddenly looked up and saw Henrick sitting on the balcony.

The two villas were not too far apart, and their eyes met. Her pupils obviously trembled, and the things in her hands fell to the ground.

Despite this, Henrick looked at her with a gentle smile.

Alice was speechless.

She turned around, walked out of the yard angrily, and walked towards the villa where he lived.

His handsome face was full of nervousness. He was going crazy. How could he meet her in such a situation?

A few minutes later, she appeared in front of him and glared at him fiercely.

The water had just boiled. He looked at her and smiled. "Alice, sit down. I'll make you some tea."

He smiled and wanted to ease the atmosphere, but it made the atmosphere even more tense.

She looked at him in disbelief. It was really Henrick.

"What are you doing here?" Her angry tone was so suppressed that she trembled slightly.

He smiled gently. "Alice, didn't I tell you to wait for me? I'm here to atone for my sins. I'm here to beg for your sincere forgiveness."

"You can rest assured that without your consent, I will not appear in front of the children. You don't have to worry that I will compete with you for the children. I respect your decision."
