

God level 431

Chapter 431: The Assassin Who Ambushed the Royal Family

After half an hour of bustling activity, Da Fei had planted a circle of level 5 Holy Vines around the outer walls of Radiant City. Compared to level 4, level 5 vines had about one-third less initial attribute, but their skills were virtually indistinguishable. In any case, the entire perimeter of the outer walls was now entwined with a great swathe of what looked like green floral clothing from a distance.

However, even if there were no invading enemies in the current situation at the Pool of Radiance, it wouldn't really matter, since these are plants after all, capable of gradual growth. Surely, they would become stronger in the future.

Now, all the affairs of Radiant City that could be handled were taken care of. The next step was to wait – wait for the construction to be completed, wait for the Holy Vine Heart aboard the Flying to fully grow. In summary, it was now safe to log off and return home. Wahaha!

Da Fei gave his Guild a heads-up: "Brother's got a big thing to take care of, everyone have fun and be careful not to get bitten by a dog!"

The crowd responded one by one: "Brother Fei, take care, definitely won't get bitten!" "Even if we do get bitten, we'll bite back!"

Nice one! That's the spirit he was after. With that, Da Fei peacefully logged off.

Yet what Da Fei didn't know was that a secret and massive operation was unfolding around the Pool of Radiance. If Da Fei had scouted with his Reconnaissance Eagle, he probably would have been scared to log off, and would have had to postpone his meal. It must be said that constant victories had made Da Fei complacent. But one couldn't blame Da Fei; after all, even the NPC advisors didn't know and hadn't provided any warning. The safety rating of the city's panel actually increased rather than decreased compared to two days ago. Of course, the reason the safety rating had increased was that some of the Demon Camp's troops had all been sent away for transport.

At this moment, another batch of supplies was transported from nearby Demon Flame City to the Demon Camp at the Pool of Radiance. The stone materials stockpiled by the Demon Camp now almost sufficed to build an entire second-level Great Wall. It must be said, players from the China Region truly had substantial reserves; this could be considered a collective effort of all current players from the China Region to build such a crazy project!

And it was at this moment that a surge of blood fog once again enveloped the camp's square. Such a grand scale of operation finally awoke Nakasha, the Execution Officer, who had been resting for many days.

Lei Huolong had been waiting day and night for this moment for two consecutive days and nights. He immediately rushed to the giant spider to report: "Officer, I have prepared all the materials you requested!"

Nakasha laughed wildly: "Your madness and perseverance have truly touched me. Perhaps I should take back what I said; you have won my respect! Very good, I will immediately request workers from Lord Demon King to start construction, and I grant you one wish. How many workers do you want?"

Lei Huolong, trembling with excitement: "100,000! Officer, I want 100,000 workers to start on all fronts simultaneously!"

Nakasha roared with laughter: "Bold! I admire you so much that for such a huge number, I must personally see Lord Demon King for approval. Get ready, for when I return, it will be your time to make a great leap forward! Perhaps Lord Demon King will be so pleased, he'll grant even more than 100,000! Hahahahaha..." Amidst his raucous laughter, Nakasha once again turned into a mist of blood and disappeared.

Success! Absolute success! Lei Huolong excitedly phoned his boss Ma Yinglong: "Boss, the construction is about to start!"

Ma Yinglong couldn't help but rejoice: "How's the preparation of the contaminants at the workshop?"

"All have been stored for half a month's production, by the time the city wall is completed, the total amount will be equivalent to the last National War's!"

Ma Yinglong nodded: "Hold on! No slack until the moment of victory!"

Lei Huolong was incredibly fired up: "Yes, Boss!"

Although he required his subordinates to remain vigilant, Ma Yinglong himself couldn't help but heave a long sigh of relief. The night of yesterday was also a sleepless night for Ma Yinglong, a high-stakes gamble not on a strategic location, but precisely because it wasn't a strategic location, all opponents couldn't predict the intent of Dragon Slayer. After all, almost everyone had forgotten about the Pool of Radiance since the last National War. But from today onward, it will change – this place will become Dragon Slayer's strategic point, where they will grip the Achilles' heel of the Bright Alliance, at least ensuring Star's cooperation under various circumstances!

The countdown to the decisive moment had begun!

...

Elorin Pier.

The rookies in Da Bing and Da Wei's dormitory had completed their errand tasks and had quickly advanced to level 3, receiving several small soldier rewards from the system. Since running errands was no longer an efficient way to level up, Da Bing decided to take everyone on Guild-commissioned tasks and level up along the way at sea.

At this time, members of the Royal Guild were also eyeing the pier with great interest.

As the captain of the school's team, Da Bing couldn't let One Sword Eastward grab all the opportunities to stand out, so he took the initiative to step forward and joked: "We're about to go out to sea for leveling up, aren't you guys leveling up too?"

Royal Blade coldly said: "Heard your ship is so fast no one can match it. No problem! As long as you're leveling up, you have to stop your ship, and wherever there's a leveling spot, we have our eyes on it. I want to see how you'll continue!"

Da Bing was taken aback: "What if we find a secret leveling spot with no one around?"

Royal Blade laughed heartily: "Then, we would want to come and have a look! With so many players in the China Region, it'll be interesting to see where you find a vacant newbie leveling spot."

Just then, One Sword Eastward called out from a distance: "Soldier, get on the ship! Why are you so enthusiastic about chatting with dogs?"

Da Bing couldn't help but chuckle in surprise, and Royal Blade's face turned icy in an instant!

In any case, when the Octopus set out to sea, three fast fishing boats immediately followed behind and kept tailing it all the way to the open sea.

Brother Hao put down the telescope and couldn't help but wonder, "It seems they're not from the Royal Guild?"

Da Bing said gravely, "Of course not. The official members of the Royal Family are all racing against time to level up, they don't have the time to chase after us. Those must be temporary workers hired by the Royal Family with real money, specifically to hassle and deal with us!"

Brother Hao nodded, "I see, inshore these fishing boats might barely be able to catch up with us, but once we reach open sea we can immediately shake them off."

One Sword Eastward laughed, "What that dog said earlier is right, as long as there's a place to level up, there will be players, and there will definitely be someone to signal them. We certainly can't shake them off."

Brother Hao oh'd, "The Royal Family's methods are indeed much stronger than those of the Blood Sea Studio. How do we deal with this?"

One Sword Eastward laughed heartily, "Of course, we finish them off at sea!"

Da Bing exclaimed, "Bombard them? Turning red and delaying leveling for novices is exactly what they're hoping for!"

One Sword Eastward shook his head and smiled, "Soldier, how could you forget our trump card?"

"Trump card?" A moment of realization dawned on Da Bing, and he said with great joy, "Right! We have a trump card, let's find a place with the strongest currents where it's easiest to make a move!"

Now, the Octopus changed course and deliberately slowed down, narrowing the distance with the three fishing boats behind. Then, it consistently maintained a distance of forty to fifty meters, where both sides could easily shoot arrows at each other. However, shooting arrows under these circumstances would only turn one's name red and serve no other purpose, so neither side made a move.

At this time, Gui Wuhun, the leader on the fishing boat, looked coldly ahead at the Octopus, full of doubt. Although he could be certain that the other side definitely had a trick up their sleeve, what could they actually do to him? Regardless of whether he killed someone or was killed, he would achieve his employer's goal – he was already in an invincible position.

However, it was precisely this inability to grasp the situation that made Gui Wuhun, renowned as the "Assassin Amongst the People," extremely uncomfortable. In fact, accepting a commission that would delay his leveling time and potentially turn his name red, possibly even getting his Experience killed off, was even more annoying to Gui Wuhun. Had it not been for the fact that the employer was the Royal Dominator, with whom he had years of cooperative relations, had it not been for the commission price being as usual irrefusably attractive, had it not been for the target being Da Fei from the China Region who was outrageously arrogant and asking for a beatdown, Gui Wuhun would not have taken this annoying commission.

Gui Wuhun's specialty was the flying hook, the same used by pirates to board large ships. The difference was his flying hook could also be used as a weapon to kill from a distance. The main objective of this operation was to harry and steal monsters or force the other side to initiate PK, preventing them from leveling up, but if the opportunity arose, Gui Wuhun was prepared to use his flying hook to board the ship and clear the area, either stealing or destroying the Octopus belonging to Da Fei.

Neither One Sword Eastward nor the Invincible Soldier would be a match for him, and the chances of success were very high! Gui Wuhun could never understand – these two dregs without any real skills, how could they be so arrogant just because they had others to back them? No, it was not people backing them, but rather dogs backing dogs – a piece of trash like Da Fei isn't even someone to begin with!

In any case, the only thing Gui Wuhun could do now was to quietly wait for the opportunity.

Suddenly, there was a violent surge in the water ahead, and the Octopus abruptly turned and sped up!

Gui Wuhun's eyelids twitched. Is this— and then he saw a massive whirlpool appear ahead!

There wasn't time to ponder whether the whirlpool was magic or something else, a shocked Gui Wuhun shouted at the top of his lungs, "Turn! Turn!!!"

But it was no use, like a monster opening its huge maw, the tremendous suction of the whirlpool left no room for the three ordinary fishing boats to resist.

Watching the Octopus leave them in its wake, Gui Wuhun finally understood, but it seemed there was more he didn't understand!

Boom!!! Pulled by the tremendous suction of the whirlpool amidst the spinning sea and cries of alarm, the three fishing boats collided and finally were swallowed by the vortex...

...

At this time, the channel of the Dragon Cavalry Chamber of Commerce was filled with cheers!

One Sword Eastward laughed loudly, "They thought they could ambush us? I didn't give them a chance!"

Everyone said in turn, "Brother Jian, you're too badass, you solved the problem so perfectly!"

Brother Hao joyfully said, "Little Jian, you're really clever, I have to give you 32 likes!"

One Sword Eastward quickly responded, "Thank you for the praise, Brother Hao!"

Brother Hao smiled, "Praise! Yes, I'm praising! I'm going to award Little Jian 10,000 yuan, everyone else 1,000!"

The Chamber of Commerce erupted, "Brother Hao, we love you!"

Chapter 432: Playing with an Alternate Account

At noon, Da Fei, carrying a bunch of snacks from the supermarket, returned to his rental in Wenhua District.

Little Fang greeted him with a chuckle, "Big bro, you didn't have to splurge like this."

Splurge? I originally wanted to buy even fancier stuff! Just didn't know your size. Da Fei chuckled back, "No worries, snacks are for enjoying!"

Little Li also called out, "Bro, you're off work? Then let's eat. We've got your favorite spicy catfish and white-cut chicken today!"

Da Fei hurried to the dining table and exclaimed at the sight of seven or eight dishes, "Did you make all this yourselves?"

Little Fang laughed heartily, "We're too busy writing and testing to cook, I ordered all of it from a restaurant outside!"

Little Li gave a snort of laughter, "Yep, our President Fang is quite rich now."

Eating quickly, eat quickly! By the way, Big Bro, are you taking the afternoon off?" inquired Little Fang through laughter.

Da Fei chuckled, "Taking it off!"

Great, once we're done eating, I'll show you around the equipment and workflow. Business is pretty straightforward; game merchants need high-quality female players who are skilled at gaming, understand the machinery, and can do marketing, after-sales, or customer service. The pay is pretty good. Anyway, you'll be our sparring partner, Big Bro. Come join us when you have time," Little Fang beamed with a smile.

Da Fei nodded, "So, your job is to play games?"

Little Fang confirmed with a smile, "But you need to play well to be considered competent!"

Da Fei suddenly understood, "I see now!" Thinking to himself, these types of jobs that internet cafe youths fantasize about might actually exist with the way these agents and marketers operate! Too bad internet cafe kids can forget about it—it's more like internet cafe girls have a shot.

Nice job! Who would've thought that even Little Li, the one most opposed to gaming, is getting into it. What to say?

Looking at the table full of delicious dishes, Da Fei was deeply moved. Just a month ago, he was still eating boxed lunches for 10 yuan, not living this happy family life in a fancy apartment in a big city. Oh right, they don't know I've made a fortune, do they? If they knew, it'd be normal for them to be so kind to me. But what if they're this nice without knowing? How should I be touched? Shouldn't I tell them that I've already reached the peak of life in the game and am ready to marry a rich and beautiful woman?

Damn it, should've said something earlier, why pretend like I don't play games? Isn't this just ridiculously annoying?

After the meal, Little Li cleaned up the table efficiently, while Little Fang eagerly took Da Fei to their computer room-bedroom. The scent that hit him upon entering was intoxicating. Was this the smell of a woman's bedroom? Does my sister's bed have this fragrance too? She's really grown up!

Sniff, sniff, sniff!

Little Fang pointed to a leather chair full of cables and laughed, "Big bro, take a seat. I'll teach you how to create a character!"

Shit! A chair with its own external display, is this some high-end model I've never seen before? Da Fei was startled, "This chair is?"

"It has functions to massage the cervical and lumbar spine, can be adjusted freely, and assists in multi-line gaming operations. It's priced at 50,000; our job is to master this chair's functions," Little Fang explained with a smile.

50,000! That's beyond the reach of most students! Da Fei nodded blankly, "It kinda looks like those chairs they use in hairstyling salons for women..."

Little Fang burst into laughter, "Alright, put on the helmet. Manual keyboard input here, smart input there, and voice input in the helmet. Log in and start registering. Big Bro, pick a domineering name, choose Human Race, and for your profession choose archer, specialty in Leadership Skill, initial special skill Leadership Skill, and birthplace Strong Crossbow Town..."

"Wait, wait, wait!" Overwhelmed by the new model's myriad functions, Da Fei blurted out in panic, "Slow down, slow down!"

"It's simple, you've played games before, right? You'll understand as soon as I explain," Little Fang assured with a smile.

No, the issue is that I'm stuck on the name! Despite my talent in naming, Da Fei, Little Fei, are already taken by me! Where else can you find such great names? Fei! Flying? Junfei? No, no, online names can't be real names—that's too cringe. Right, Junxiang! Yes, Junxiang! What a good name, I'm truly talented in naming!

—System Prompt: Name valid! Registration successful! Hero Continent features Holy Hall, Elf, and dwarf from the Light Camp; Undead, Beastman, and Demon from the Dark Camp; as well as the Mage Academy from the neutral camp, normally unselectable...

Little Fang chuckled, "Big bro, your name, it's quite refined!"

Da Fei laughed, "What are your names?"

"I'm Blood Arrow Fragrance, and Little Li is Blood Arrow Linglong," Little Fang replied with a smile.

—Ah pfft! Such domineering names made Da Fei spontaneously spit out a mouthful of old blood. What Da Fei didn't know was that Little Fang had chosen such blood-themed names primarily to align with the Bloodrose Guild and prepare to infiltrate their ranks as a spy. Of course, if they could blend in, great; if not, no big deal.

After some time adjusting, Da Fei became gradually familiar with the new model's operation and then entered the game.

The scenery changed, a flash of light, and Da Fei appeared in the plaza of the Human Race town, Strong Crossbow Town. He opened his character panel.

Player level: 1

Profession: archer (Common form of a level 2 soldier from Holy Hall, special skill: Scatter).

Specialty: Leadership Skill (Every 2 levels up, the effect of Leadership Skill increases by 1%).

Skill: Basic Leadership Skill (Morale +1, Basic Commanding Ability +10%)

Weapon: Wooden bow

Reputation: 0

Command Power: 1 (Inherent specialty provides an initial Command Power of 1)

Tactical Position: 1

Attack: 0

Defense: 0

Magic Power: 0

Knowledge: 0

Hit Points: 8

Attack Speed: Normal, 9

Move Speed: 10

Basic Killing: 0-4

Morale: 2 (Leadership Skill +1)

Luck: 0

Stamina: 100

....

Well, that's roughly what the attributes look like. Generally speaking, because Elf Clan Rangers really outshine others, there are few players who would choose to start with Human Race archers. And Little Fang's special skill set is pretty much the classic archery sea strategy, isn't it? Sigh, this start is indeed quite mundane. But perhaps this level of mediocrity is just right for newbies.

No worries, bro's here. With me playing with you, I'll make sure you'll soar high. But then again, this is the first time bro is playing with a regular account, just like a normal player. I have to say, it feels a little fresh, doesn't it?

Right at this moment, Little Fang laughed and said, "Little Li, are you done washing the dishes? I'll take you to get the newbie quest!"

Little Li called out from the kitchen, "Hold on! Let me wash my hands!"

Huh! My sister is guiding me? But since when does she play games? If she's guiding me—suddenly, a strange feeling surged in Da Fei's heart. With a smile Da Fei asked, "What level is Little Li now?"

Little Fang burst into laughter, "After a whole day's effort yesterday, she proudly made it to level 3. She's higher than you, so will you bow down to her?"

— Ah pfft! Only level 3 after a whole day! But my sister has always been smart. Once she gets the hang of it, she'll definitely do well. For sure, she'll be better than me.

Da Fei shook his head and chuckled, "Amazing, sis. Bro truly bows down to you."

Little Fang laughed and sighed, "Big brother, you're so good at joking. The really impressive players in the game make tens of millions a year. Even the average players can make a hundred thousand to several hundred thousand. The game has now become a huge industry. Whether you're creating games, running them, or playing them, everyone's making a fortune..."

Da Fei nodded repeatedly, his heart swelling with joy. Totally worthy of being bro's future wife—she really understands bro's career! Bro has decided, I'll take a chance to properly confess to my wife! Right, I'll do it on April Fool's Day; if it works out, great, and if I fail for the moment, I can use the day as an excuse. Then, bro will be undaunted by failure and continue to confess!

At this moment, a world announcement came out in the game!

— World Channel [Royal Blade]: Da Fei Dragon Cavalry Commerce's trash is stealing monsters and clearing the field at the Blue Coral Sea Islands. Players leveling in the Blue Coral Sea, please watch out and avoid them, and post their coordinates or videos on the forums...

— World Channel [...] Qingcheng No. Romance [...]: You Royal Guild trash, those people were clearly paid by you to act and frame us!

— World Channel [Royal Blade]: Da Fei Dragon Cavalry Commerce's trash, you really live up to the name of trash, a thief shouting to catch a thief!

....

Holy crap! Da Fei was taken aback: "What's this?"

Little Fang sighed, "This Da Fei is the number one celebrity in China Region. Speaking of impressive, he's the most impressive, with a monthly income of 20 million. However, his character is really problematic and many people have disliked him for a long time. Now he has offended the people of Royal Guild. The big shots of Royal Guild are doxxing him in real life, looking for a face-to-face fight!"

Da Fei's eyebrows twitched, pretending to be puzzled, "Gaming has come to doxxing?"

Little Fang laughed with a sigh, "Yes, after they doxxed him, it turns out there was also a player named Da Fei a few years back who messed up the Dragon Slayer Guild. Forums are speculating whether they are the same person."

Da Fei's eyebrows twitched again! Holy crap! More doxxing! But back when I was causing trouble in games, I never left a trace in real life, no one could doxx me, and now I'm even less traceable, I'm not afraid of any of you!

Ah, wait a second! If they really do find me, it could involve my family as well!

Da Fei's heart tensed, no way! The game is just a game, reality is reality. The reason why I can be so reckless in the game is because I completely separate game and reality. Da Fei will forever just be a figure in the game, I must keep this secret forever. Now that bro has money, there's no need to tell Little Fang that I am Da Fei.

Little Fang then laughed and asked, "Big brother, what are you thinking about?"

Da Fei shook his head and chuckled, "I was just thinking, you know so much!"

Little Fang chuckled, "Of course, we might become customer service representatives, we have to stay informed about famous people in the game just like keeping up with current affairs."

Just then, Little Li arrived, coughed awkwardly, and said, "Wait for me to log on!"

Hahaha! Little missy, you've got your day as well! (To be continued. If you like this work, we welcome you to visit Qidian (qidian.com) to vote for recommendation tickets and monthly tickets. Your support is my greatest motivation. Mobile users, please go to m.qidian.com to read.)

Chapter 433: Arrow Skill Exam, A Lifetime's Future!

Watching Little Li log into the game so adeptly, Da Fei couldn't help but exclaim, "Little Li, you're really skilled at this!"

Little Fang snorted coldly, "What did you think? Everything Little Li does, she's always the top student!"

Is this the rhythm of becoming a family? Da Fei laughed: "Clearly, it's my Little Li, okay!"

Little Li responded irritably, "Bro, pay attention. Little Fang is teaching you hands-on with her own machine. After you learn, go to your own place. You are not allowed in this room afterward!"

Little Fang laughed, "That's right, no entry allowed!"

Da Fei said with a wry smile, "Yes, yes, your brother will learn diligently, learn diligently!" Humph, once I turn Little Fang into family, I'd be able to enter, right?

With guidance from Little Fang, Da Fei quickly "learned" a series of basic operations like forming a team, following, trading, adding friends, sending messages, etc. Then, under the lead of Little Li's character "Blood Arrow Linglong," who was also an archer, Da Fei first went to talk to an Execution Officer in the town, and then reported to the Militia Captain at a Watchtower outside of town.

The Militia Captain said with satisfaction, "You're just in time. Our messenger is sick, and there's been a backlog of letters and supplies for three days. You'll help send them."

——System Prompt: You have received the quest [Taking Over for the Sick Messenger].

——Task Hint: The sick messenger has a backlog of three days' worth of letters. There must be no further delays. You must deliver them as soon as possible.

Ah, there's nothing much to say; the first task for newcomers is always running errands. Anyway, with Little Li leading the way, Da Fei was happy to go along with it.

However, seeing Little Li's familiarity with the route, not even looking back as she delivered the letters, Da Fei couldn't help but laugh, "Little Li, you know this place well, huh?"

Little Fang laughed, "What do you think? We studied this all day yesterday! We optimized the route to every NPC's address; this task is time-sensitive!"

Little Li said sternly, "Don't talk! It distracts me!"

The two immediately fell silent. Inside, Da Fei chuckled to himself, thinking that studying a new player's task for a whole day was quite something. Well, I can only slowly train them up over time, raise their horizons.

When the first series of errand-running was completed, Da Fei triumphantly reached Level 2 and received the reward of two archers and some Gold Coins from the Militia Captain.

Da Fei's eyebrows twitched! That's not right, rewarding two Level 2 soldiers right from the start of a new player's mission? Skipping the Level 1 Long Spear Soldiers directly? Well, since this is Strong Crossbow Town, it must be the local feature. After all, I'm a "newbie" who knows nothing right now; let it be.

Little Fang chuckled, "Leveled up, huh? Now Big Bro can upgrade to Intermediate Leadership Skill, add attribute points to Attack."

Da Fei nodded in acknowledgment, "Understood, understood."

Little Li said solemnly, "Hurry up and accept the next quest, we need to hit the road!"

Da Fei agreed with a laugh, "Okay, okay!"

Then, after another round of errands, Da Fei received a few praises from the townsfolk, and a reward of three Command Power points. So, this is how ordinary players' Command Power is obtained, truly effortless. Da Fei couldn't help but remember the frustrating days of leveling up on a deserted island. Back then, to get 3 points of Command Power, one could only advance three levels, and even with Command Power, it was useless without a place to recruit soldiers.

Then he went back to report to the captain, and the captain rewarded him with two more archers and some Gold Coins.

Da Fei's eyebrows twitched again. Now he had a total of four archers, plus himself made five! That's not right! Even though archers are criticized for accuracy issues, quantity could make up for everything. Now with the firepower of five archers at Level 2, it was enough to form a formidable force! He could beat a lot of monsters now! Isn't this start for an ordinary player a bit too strong?

Alright, since I know nothing, I'll just keep running errands.

After another loop of errand tasks, Da Fei reached Level 3 and was rewarded by the captain with two more Command Power points and two archers.

Holy shit! Counting myself, that makes seven archers now, enough to sweep through! Da Fei laughed, "Continue to add Attack, continue upgrading Leadership Skill?"

Little Fang nodded and said seriously, "Right, now you can take on the last quest."

At this moment, the Militia Captain, invigorated, patted Da Fei's shoulder, "To finish three days' worth of work within a day, you're really a clever and astute lad. Recently, the town fortress has released a few exam spots for recruitment. I recommend you go to the fortress in town to take the Arrow Skill test. As long as your team can score over 60 points on the target shooting without any equipment bonuses, you'll receive a special reward. This could affect your entire career, don't miss this opportunity!"

——System Prompt: You have received the Militia Captain's recommendation letter, you've obtained the promotion quest [Arrow Skill Test, A Career for Life]!

——Task Hint: Exam Rule 1, must not exceed Level 5. Rule 2, must use archers. Rule 3, no equipment use allowed. Rule 4, you and your troops have only one chance to shoot at the target. Rule 5, each target has three rings; the bullseye is worth 10 points, the middle ring 7 points, the outer ring 5 points, missing the target scores 0, a total score of 60 points is a pass.

A promotion quest! Must not exceed Level 5? Holy shit, what's going on here? Has all this errand-running been a hidden task? No wonder I've always felt there was something off about these quest rewards. Where did they extract this strategy from?

Little Fang asked, "Big Bro, how much Command Power do you have now?"

Only then did Da Fei come back to his senses, "I have 10 points!"

Little Fang chuckled, "Not enough, this archery test can only be passed with a strong force, pull out the big guns!"

Da Fei was taken aback, 10 points still not enough? A regular player who levels up normally to level 3 Command Power would only have 2 points, only able to lead two soldiers, right? My specialty is Leadership Skill, born with 1 point of Command Power, and then after several rounds of running errands and various command rewards plus the 30% boost from high-level Leadership Skill, I've reached a realm far beyond what my peers could hope for! And that's still not enough?

Little Li then said, "Bro, initiate the trade!"

A trade window popped up in front of Da Fei, and suddenly two Skill Books appeared inside!

Skill Books! And there are two of them!!!

Da Fei's eyelids twitched wildly! Holy crap! How could they possibly have such high-class stuff! Where did it come from? Are they newbies who just got their machines yesterday? Or were these gifted by some other sucker?

Amidst his shock, Little Fang chuckled and said, "Bro, by using these two books you'll get two Skill Points, then you can upgrade your Leadership Skill to Master Level, which will give you a total of 12 points of Command Power. Then Little Li will trade your soldiers to you, bro, allowing you to take a full squad of 12 soldiers to the test."

Holy moly! Using the two Skill Books is just to increase the Command Power by 2 points! Suppressing the surge of blood to his throat, Da Fei exclaimed in astonishment, "But the rules say you can take the test as long as you're not over level 5, right? I can level up to 5 and use the system's reward Skill Points to upgrade my skills, right? And leveling up to 5 gives me two more points of Command Power."

Little Fang shook her head, "Although the test requirement is not exceeding level 5, the lower the level, the higher the bonus points. Therefore, it's most cost-effective to go at level 3. Anyway, the test is about shooting moving targets. Bro, don't worry about anything, just let the troops shoot automatically. With so many soldiers, as long as there aren't a large number of misses, passing might not be a problem."

Little Li nodded in agreement, "As long as they don't miss, with 12 soldiers the lowest score would be 60 points."

Damn it! I can do this elementary math!

Da Fei hurriedly asked, "Then what's the reward for this task?" You're playing around with two Skill Books on a side account, do you even realize how many months' worth of salary those are worth to you?

Little Fang shook her head with a wry smile, "Don't know, both Little Li and I failed! I failed at level 5."

Da Fei was astonished, "Failed?"

Little Li said gravely, "So, bro, after failing twice, we finally summed up the experience needed for success. It's all on you now."

So that's how it is! Fine, just two Skill Books. Regardless of which sucker gave them, now that I'm here, others should stop having any improper thoughts!

Now, with Da Fei upgraded to Master Level Leadership Skill and leading a full squad of 12 archers, he arrived at the gates of the fortress in Strong Crossbow Town under Little Li's guidance.

This place is a renowned archer production base of the Lionheart Empire. Normally players aren't allowed to enter, but Da Fei, with his recommendation letter, was an exception and thus could enter.

Guided by the guards, Da Fei arrived at a shooting range.

An One-eyed General hero named Gandor tore open the recommendation letter and casually remarked, "Another candidate? Then let me witness it, let the test begin!"

With a flag signal from the guard, a target appeared in front of the firing range, moving side to side at human running speed!

The guard shouted, "Aim!!!"

Da Fei tensed up inside, damn! Both at extreme distance and such a fast speed, with such a crappy type of soldiers under me, what kind of pro shooter is needed to hit the target?

Little Fang and Little Li, watching the external display, were also nervous, "Big bro, come on!"

Good lord! Just gonna let fate decide and step on it, right? Leave it to the computer's auto-shooting!

The guard shouted loudly, "Fire!!!"

—Swoosh swoosh swoosh! Thirteen arrows whistled through the air! And then Da Fei immediately saw six big misses!

What a letdown!!!

From afar, a guard shouted, "45 points!"

—Gah! Da Fei almost spat out a mouthful of blood! How could I face wasting those two Skill Books!

In a hurry, Little Fang said, "There's still a chance! Big brother has the advantage of level bonus points! Let's hear what the NPC has to say."

The One-eyed General watched the distant targets for a long while, then came up to Da Fei, patted his shoulder and admired, "Those who pass the test on their first try are geniuses, and those who achieve a fairly good score on their first try are talented. Geniuses are hard to come by, but what we need in the military is talent, lots of talent. Your score is not bad, I've decided to promote you exceptionally!"

A ray of golden light descended from the sky!

—System Prompt: Congratulations! You have completed the promotion task "Archery Test, the Road Ahead in Life." You have acquired a new specialty: Archer Specialization.

—Archer Specialization: For every 2 levels the hero levels up, the archer's attack and defense increase by 1 point each.

.....

Little Fang and Little Li cheered aloud with excitement, "Success!"

And Da Fei was stunned, speechless! A reward specialty? Now my alt account has dual specialties! Damn, this is truly a lifelong prospect; is this alt account also meant to defy the heavens?

Chapter 434: Shake Up Your Bloodrose Guild

The child of a wealthy person can't possibly have the same starting line as that of a civilian's kid. Of course, a high-level player's alternate account can't be the same as a regular player's either.

Little Fang's plan for her alternate account this time undoubtedly involved a lot of thought. Her information source was her vice hero, Welsky, whom she had temporarily added during the canal mission. Through continuous exploration into his inner workings, Little Fang learned about an upcoming entrance exam at Strong Crossbow Town Fortress, which was a hidden mission capable of granting players extra talent bonuses.

This was a simple yet time-sensitive random task. Missing it would mean it might not appear again. Even though it was simple, it still required the cost of two failures. If this had been another game, other players would have just deleted their characters and started anew. But "Heroic Creation Era," due to its random lottery mechanism, had accounts bound to the machine for a long time. They couldn't just delete accounts and create new ones instantly—here's a word of hope for the big brother this time. Fortunately, lessons from the two past failures forged the big brother's success; his talents were finally dual-specialized!

A specialty in Leadership Skill added to an archer specialty took the tactics of the archery sea to the extreme!

At that moment, Da Fei was still in astonishment. Meanwhile, Little Fang and Little Li had already started celebrating the God-level Hero.

Seeing Da Fei's dazed expression, Little Fang thought he might be a newbie unaware of the hero's worth. She began explaining, "Big brother, we finally nurtured a super-strong game account! From now on, this account of yours will specialize in carrying archers, sweeping instances and the outdoors with a rain of arrows, leveling up fast as heck!"

What kind of God-level Hero had talents that only allowed more archers? By mid to late game, wouldn't one magic spell blast a large crowd to death? But from the angle of early-stage leveling, it was indeed a God-level Hero.

Da Fei snapped out of it, chuckling, "Leveling fast? That's what I love!"

Little Fang laughed, "When big brother goes off to work, we'll use your account to dual-play our way through levels!"

Da Fei laughed heartily, "A dual-play functionality? No problem! I love having someone level for me when I'm not around!"

Little Li exclaimed, "Then who levels for you when you're not around?"

Da Fei pulled a face and waved it off with a laugh, "That's history, it doesn't matter now!"

Little Fang laughed heartily, "It does matter! It matters, since big brother's back as an old pro! We'll depend on you in the future!"

I'm more than happy to cover you all! Da Fei laughed heartily, "No problem, no problem at all. Keep your eyes on me!"

At that moment, the One-eyed General in the game patted Da Fei's shoulder appreciatively, "Young man, few have earned the honor of personally learning my ultimate skill over the years. Perform well! Should you decide on further development, come find me after reaching Level 50. Do your best!" He then turned and left.

—System Prompt: You have earned General Gandor's recognition. Your reputation in Strong Crossbow Town has become respected.

Da Fei marveled, "Respected already?"

Little Fang was even more excited, "The talent specialization can definitely be upgraded! This archer specialization of yours can be evolved into a more powerful specialization! Push for Level 50, haha!"

Da Fei nodded repeatedly, "I see!" Damn, just like what I was thinking! Little Fang knows so much—was she really just a newbie with a new machine yesterday?

At that moment, in the archery range, a hero came up to Da Fei, eyeing him up and down with a conflicted and envious tone, "Kid, you're appreciated by General Gandor? Not bad!"

—Ah, sputter! When this hero came, Little Fang and Little Li couldn't help but burst out laughing.

Da Fei was bewildered, "What's wrong?"

Little Fang laughed heartily, "We've met this hero before. His specialties and skills are really suitable for you, big brother. Why not take him as a vice hero?"

Damn it! I have no interest in male heroes! But this is a smurf account, so let's not be so picky. Fine, if they say to recruit him, I'll recruit him. Whether he accepts or not, it's up to him.

Da Fei couldn't be bothered with the formalities and directly blurted out, "Join my team as my vice hero!"

"Hahaha!" Little Fang laughed heartily, "Big brother, are you seriously recruiting a vice hero like this?"

As expected, the hero responded, infuriated, "Me, a respectable deputy instructor Ouling, following you, a level 3 punk? Believe it or not, I'll punch you every time I see you, keeping you Level 3 for life!"

Da Fei was taken aback; what a temper on this guy!

Little Li retorted irritably, "Why the laughter? My big brother is a newbie! Besides, this hero has levels and ability; they can't be easily recruited."

Da Fei's heart warmed; my little sis is indeed thoughtful, hahaha! But do you seriously think I'm a newbie? When he's placing himself in my path, it's clearly a request for sponsorship. I'll recruit him just to show you!

Da Fei laughed at Ouling, "I'll pay you!"

Ouling's eyebrows twitched, "What did you say?"

Da Fei continued, "Food included!"

Ouling's face turned livid.

Little Fang cradled her belly while covering her mouth; her eyes filled with tears of laughter. Little Li shot her a fierce glare!

Finally, Da Fei sighed deeply, "I have to go. When I return at Level 50 to find the General, Ouling instructor, you don't want to still be a deputy, do you? So, don't waste your youth. Come adventure and hustle with me! I need your help! When I make it big in the future, there'll be credit for you too!"

"Wow!" Little Fang and Little Li exclaimed in awe, "Big brother, you're quite the poet, huh?"

—Ah, sputter! Don't look at me like that, saying these words is cranking up my embarrassment factor!

Ouling's expression changed, muttering to himself, "I must attend a theater opera every week."

Da Fei was taken aback, "Huh?"

Ouling continued muttering, "I must have a steam sauna every week!"

Da Fei laughed in surprise, "No problem!"

"I must have a Dominigo roast whole pig every week!"

"What?"

"I need to drink Chardonnay every day too!"

For fuck's sake! This account is supposed to be grinding levels in instances constantly! Da Fei grew impatient, "Which freaking aristocracy do you belong to? Are you joining or not!"

Ouling finally came to his senses, tearing off his deputy insignia, "I'm quitting this shit!"

—System Prompt: Hero Ouling has joined your team as your vice hero.

—Ouling: Archery range instructor at Strong Crossbow Town, always aiming to stand out in the Empire.

Talents and Specialization: Master of Archery. Hero Level increases archery effect by 1% every two levels.

Level: 30. Attack 30, Defense 20, Magic Power 0, Knowledge 0, Damage 10-15, Command Power 152, Loyalty 60.

Skills: Master Knight, Master Level Archery, Master Leadership Skill.

.....

"Wow!" Little Fang and Little Li exclaimed in admiration, "Big brother, you recruited a Level 30 hero at just Level 3!"

Seen my prowess now? Da Fei laughed uproariously, "Now that we have a Level 30 hero, aren't we gonna level up like the wind!"

Archery specialization, Master Level Archery—perfectly complementing my specialization skill. And the key is, he's high-level and has strong command power! Now the archery sea instantly takes form!

Little Fang chuckled, "Alright, let's start leveling up next!"

Little Li also laughed, "Okay, big brother, you can switch to your other setup now. We'll call you when it's time for dinner."

Da Fei laughed bitterly, "Hey, hey, I'm playing solo here!"

Little Fang laughed, "There's voice chat!"

Now, Da Fei arrived at the rented room next door. There was also a hair styling chair in the bedroom. Speaking of which, did this chair have the feature of running multiple online games so it could dual-play? However, my main account often encounters big missions, so I can't walk away even for a moment. Dual-playing here isn't convenient. Moreover, I need to familiarize myself with the machine's functions before I can say anything.

Now, Da Fei logged into his account again. Little Fang's Level 5 archer Blood Arrow Fragrance was also waiting outside the fortress. Da Fei excitedly exclaimed, "Where are we going to level up?"

Little Fang laughed, "No hurry, let me contact someone to help us level up! Let's catch up to the mainstream player level as fast as possible!"

Da Fei was taken aback! Hiring people to help? Damn! There's definitely a sucker! Damn it, I need to keep an eye on my wife and sister!

.....

In Eastern Wilderness Town, Rose Knight, a.k.a Lin Tianhao, was preparing to take the guild's beauty squad to clear the "Wilderness Wolf Pack" instance, available every three days. As the only male player and the main tank in luxurious gear within the team, Lin Tianhao was enjoying his harem.

At that moment, new information popped up. It was from Blood Arrow Fragrance, a friend Shen added just yesterday!

Little Fang laughed, "Mr. Lin, we've gotten familiar with the game and even called in my big brother to play. Could you take us along?"

Take them? An entire day and still Level 5, this beauty lacks potential, truly. But as a charismatic rich and handsome type, he could never refuse helping beauties within his ability range.

Lin Tianhao replied, "No problem. Anyway, I'm forming a team, so a few more doesn't matter. But who is this big brother?"

Little Fang giggled, "It's the one who got out of the pickup truck at noon yesterday. He never really played games, yet when he did, his luck was exceptionally good!"

Ugh, what a turn-off! I only take beauty squads. Lin Tianhao frowned yet had to chuckle, "Then teleport to Eastern Wilderness Town. It's cheap for newcomers to transfer."

Little Fang smiled wryly, "But my big brother doesn't have money. He's already hired a Level 30 vice hero and can't afford the transfer fee."

Lin Tianhao was surprised, "A Level 30 vice hero? How old is your big brother?"

Little Fang laughed, "Level 3, just started an hour ago, accidentally completed a mission and gained an extra archer talent. He's dual-talented!"

Lin Tianhao was startled, "That's incredible! Where are you? I'll send you money!"

That's exactly the effect we're going for. Sending money is nothing; soon I'll have you sending troops too! As a newbie, I'm going to shake things up in your Bloodrose Guild! Little Fang secretly laughed, "Sorry to trouble you, Mr. Lin, but we're at Strong Crossbow Town!"

"Wait for me. I'll be there soon!" (To be continued... If you like this work, you're welcome to vote on Qidian.com. Your support is my greatest motivation. Mobile users, please read at m.qidian.com.)

Chapter 435: Having Fun with the Beautiful Women of the Guild

At the Teleportation Array in Strong Crossbow Town, a flash of golden light appeared, revealing a knight in full golden armor that was so dazzling it nearly blinded Da Fei's dog eyes.

Little Fang stepped forward and greeted, "Mr. Lin! So sorry for the inconvenience!"

The knight in golden armor waved and laughed, "We're all players here, no need to be sorry about anything. Is this the big brother?"

Little Fang smiled, "Exactly. He just started playing today, and this is the vice hero he recruited."

Mr. Lin? Holy crap! So it's really this sucker! Who the hell is your big brother! Wait a minute, Rose Knight? That sounds familiar!

While in a daze, Lin Tianhao approached Da Fei and smiled, "Hello, big brother! I'm very happy to meet you in the game!"

Holy crap! I remembered, this is the goof who challenged me at Saint Paul Port back then and got his ass whipped by Anlicia's bees! This fool has such a big background?

Da Fei felt a pit drop in his stomach, thinking, although my first impression of this joker in the game was unpleasant, my first impression of him in reality was even worse, but considering this account isn't my main account, I'd better behave and avoid causing the girls any trouble.

Da Fei said lightly, "Yesterday, I was also sorry."

Lin Tianhao laughed heartily, "We're just playing a game, nothing to be sorry for; as long as everyone's happy! Let's go, everyone's waiting over there."

——System Prompt: The Rose Knight has sent you a trade request. Do you accept?

——System Prompt: The Rose Knight has sent you a group invitation. Do you accept?

Had no choice but to accept.

——System Prompt: You received 10,000 Gold Coins from the Rose Knight.

——System Prompt: You have joined Bloodrose's second instance group.

Little Fang and Little Li laughed and said, "Thank you, Mr. Lin!"

Da Fei raised an eyebrow, Bloodrose Guild? Damn! Talk about a narrow path for enemies!

Then, from the team channel, Bloodrose Qiqi asked, "Captain, who are these three?"

The Rose Knight laughed, "Allow me to introduce, these three are from Shendong, Blood Arrow Fragrance, and Blood Arrow Linglong are university students and are applying for marketing positions in our company, and this is their big brother, Junxiang is quite impressive; he recruited a level 30 hero at level 3, and it even has double talents."

Holy crap! Brother Xiang my ass!

Little Fang and Little Li quickly greeted, "Hello, everyone, nice to meet you all, sorry for the trouble!"

The team channel instantly exploded, "Applying for marketer roles? Those must be beauties, right?"

"Double talent? Can we see some, Brother Xiang?"

"What's a level 30 hero like?"

"Is this Brother Xiang a real brother or that kind of brother? Is he handsome?"

...

Alright, from now on, I'll be Brother Xiang. Real brother or that kind of brother? Of course, I'm both! Handsome? No kidding! As for revealing my talented hero, that's a private matter —

Da Fei then deliberately asked, "Little Fang, how do we show off the hero's talents?"

Little Fang laughed, "Select the hero panel's attribute display and choose the team channel..."

Alright, since it's just a small account, no harm in privacy, let them see if they want.

When "Brother Xiang's" talents and Ouling's attributes were published on the team channel, it exploded with amazement!

"Oh my god! Level 3 and already has double talents, this is a standard archer sea hero, and this level 30 Arrow Skill Sub-Hero is a perfect match!"

"Is Brother Xiang a super expert?"

"How did Brother Xiang get double talents?"

The Rose Knight laughed, "Alright, alright, everyone get ready for the instance."

Just then, in the team, Bloodrose Holy Spear said, "Brother Xiang's vice hero has a Command Power of 152, capable of leading many troops, shouldn't let him sit idle, it's better to first take Brother Xiang to the town's barracks to collect 152 troops."

The Rose Knight laughed, "Right, right, but I don't have permission for that, let's have the admin sister lead the way."

Bloodrose Qiqi laughed, "Brother Xiang is only level 3, if anything goes wrong with so many troops, better equip him with some gear first."

Bloodrose Holy Sword said, "Captain, let's bring Brother Xiang to the Saint Paul warehouse first, oh yeah, the two new students should come as well."

Little Fang laughed heartily, "Oh yay, big brother, we found an organization!"

Da Fei broke out in cold sweat! What the heck! Gifting equipment and troops, what is this rhythm? Could it be they want me to join their guild? What a load of bother, but since it's just a small account, it doesn't matter.

Hence, Da Fei followed the Rose Knight to the familiar Saint Paul City, after yesterday's madness, today's Saint Paul was much quieter. Then Da Fei saw the beauties from Bloodrose Guild, Bloodrose Holy Spear, Bloodrose Holy Sword again, ever since meeting them in the Monastery, these Female Knights and Female Priests' gear has become even more dazzling, their looks even more heroic and charming.

Sigh, if they weren't the enemy, playing happily with these beauties is also one of the great joys for men, isn't it? But then again, I was the first to pit them, the achievements I have today, the Banshee was indispensable. When eating eggs, should I be thanking the hens that laid them? Hmm, having such thoughts indicates I've reached an extraordinary realm, so I won't argue with you, I'll use the small account to play joyfully with the beauties, wahahaha!

After negotiations, Da Fei obtained a complete set of C-level strategic equipment and a full set of personal Blood Defense gear.

Bloodrose Holy Sword advised, "Use the C-level strategic equipment for your high-level vice hero, the Blood Defense gear for yourself."

Da Fei nodded, "Sure, thanks."

Little Fang and Little Li also laughed, "Thank you, everyone!"

"Alright, let's head to Eastern Wilderness Town Barracks!"

So, Da Fei's party was teleported to this unfamiliar and desolate town. Despite its lifeless vibe, it was crowded with players, as it was a border town between the Lionheart Empire and the Beastman Kingdom, often raided by Beastman NPCs or players, making it a primary battlefield for players to earn Merit. Of course, Beastman Players from China Region are always underwhelming, making it largely Human Race players' turf.

Da Fei arrived at the barracks, adding 152 Crossbowmen to his army, an advanced form of archers! Damn, this is good! Previously mentioned, the 2-8 damage Crossbowmen are totally different from the 2-4 damage archers, besides damage, accuracy is their fundamental difference. Crossbowmen are the main force for Human players before level 50. This instantly formed a fearsome archery sea, striking terror into the lower-level units! Having an organization feels great, wahahaha!

Suddenly, Da Fei thought of something, in the game, apart from the Hell Race, other races' town Teleportation Arrays cannot teleport troops. Players have three ways to reach an instance in another town. First, go alone, relying on personal combat power. Second, personally lead troops on a cross-map trek, which is a pain. Third, settle in that town, do tasks, and gain reputation to obtain recruitment rights, this is all about mood. Of course, there's a fourth way, paying local players high prices to buy troops, then when leaving, stash them in local barracks or resell them, this is all about being rich.

Usually, the fourth method is common, also a way for local players to make money, like Crossbowmen units typically sell for 3 to 4 times the regular recruitment price.

It seems Bloodrose Guild operates primarily from Saint Paul across the world, most of these troops are likely bought at a high price. Now they're giving me 152 Crossbowmen without even asking, that's quite generous. I gotta say, you women have a good eye, wahahaha!

Now, the team, slightly held back by "Brother Xiang" and his crew, finally finished preparations, then Captain Rose Knight spiritedly called out "Let's go" on the team channel, and the group marched out of the city in grand fashion.

The Eastern Wilderness, as its name suggests, was a vast prairie of grass ranging from waist to man-height.

Perhaps as a reminder to the three newcomers, Rose Knight routinely announced over the channel, "Everyone, stay alert, outer units keep spread out. The grassland outside town is perfect for ambushes. Even with Reconnaissance Skill, it's hard to detect, and now is the weekly instance refresh time, some Beastman players might be hiding in the bushes to ambush us, but most importantly be wary of Beastman NPC troops, if encountered, everyone immediately pull back and form a 3D defense formation..."

However, the beauties of Bloodrose Guild clearly took the captain's caution lightly, a group of them squeezed around Little Fang and Little Li asking, "Classmates, which school are you from?"

"Shendong Normal University."

"Oh? Do you know Tang Yan?"

Little Fang and Little Li were surprised, "She's the student council president of our department, the department flower! Are you from our school?"

"Not at all, Tang Yan's gaming skills are impressive, not inferior to Deng Jiayi's professional level. Mr. Lin has always wanted her as an ambassador, and our guild leader has been trying to get Tang Yan to join our guild."

Little Fang and Little Li chuckled awkwardly, "We didn't know either, we just started focusing on this game in the last two days..."

Wow, this Beauty Guild is really friendly, huh? Not bad! Just when Da Fei was enjoying the team's lively atmosphere, a beauty named Bloodrose Xiaoyu nudged beside him and smilingly asked, "Brother Xiang, Mr. Lin's company doesn't hire male marketers. So why do you play this game?"

Why? Of course, to hook up with you girls! Although this is Da Fei's inner thought, if he dared to say that, he wouldn't get to play happily with the girls in the future.

Brother Xiang replied seriously, "I don't believe gaming could be a money-making career, so I'm here acting as a guardian, to prevent them from being deceived by bad people!"

These words made the ladies around Brother Xiang burst into laughter, "Mr. Lin, Brother Xiang is afraid the girls will get tricked by bad people!"

The Rose Knight laughed bitterly, "Big brother, do I seem like a bad person?"

All the ladies in the team laughed, "Yes!"

Ah! This is what it's like to mix in with a Beauty Guild, awesome!!! For a moment, Da Fei was utterly enchanted.

...

Meanwhile, in the grass in front of the team, a large group of Centaur Wolf Cavalry units lay quietly in ambush.

The leading player was none other than Dragon Slayer Guild's God-level Bloodsucking Orc, Tyrannosaurus Chang Liang. Gazing at the lambs about to walk into the trap, Chang Liang couldn't help but laugh, "Turns out to be a large flock of plump pretty sheep, not a waste of my precious 10 minutes and 36 seconds to stakeout!"

Chapter 436: Dragon Slayer Chang Liang's Ambush

As the team moved forward jokingly, Da Fei's shoulder was suddenly grabbed by someone.

Da Fei's heart skipped a beat, thinking which beauty was so bold and fiery? He turned his head eagerly, only to see Ouling with his cheeky little mustache!

What the hell are you doing?

Ouling said seriously, "I've got some bad news, we've been surrounded by orcs on three sides—"

As soon as Ouling said this, Da Fei and the surrounding beauties were all surprised, "We've been surrounded?"

Ouling continued, "Now for the good news, I've got a chance to make my mark. I plan to lead the troops on an independent expedition to flank the enemy from behind. You just stay here and distract the orcs for me, how about it?"

—System Prompt: Your vice hero Ouling requests to embark on an independent expedition, do you agree?

—Beginner's Tip: When your vice hero makes a request, it's advisable for players to comply whenever possible, or the vice hero's loyalty may decrease.

The team burst into an uproar, and Da Fei was utterly stunned! Doesn't Ouling have a Reconnaissance Skill? He doesn't have Flying Eagle either? How does he know we've been surrounded? Of course, that's trivial; the key is that it's extremely rare for a vice hero to voluntarily request an independent expedition!

Similarly, at this moment, Little Fang and Little Li were even more surprised, exchanging looks of disbelief. Who would've thought that this hero with a cabbage-level skill specialty could be so charismatic?

Ouling urged, "How about it? The opportunity will be fleeting, I'm not here to play games with you!"

Fine! I've always believed in the self-motivated ability of NPCs, Da Fei snapped back to reality and nodded, "You go ahead!"

Ouling said seriously, "Very well, if I don't return within 7 days, don't bother looking for me then, as it means I've failed and am too ashamed to come back!" With that, he took the troops and retreated in the direction they came from.

—System Prompt: You agreed to the vice hero Ouling's request for an independent expedition. Ouling left your team, and 152 crossbowmen left your team.

Ah, spit! Da Fei spat out! So, if he loses, does that mean I lose this vice hero? The thing is, he's not even a God-level Hero. Apart from a higher level, he's no different from a tavern hero, so why is he so arrogantly trying to make a name for himself? Damn, his level isn't that high either, only Level 30 and can be easily outclassed by Level 40-plus players at this stage! This really is a case of easy come, easy go, huh?

At this moment, the Bloodrose Team immediately reacted as well.

Bloodrose Holy Spear: "Just now Brother Xiang's vice hero said we've fallen into an ambush, what do you all think?"

Bloodrose Qiqi: "There must be an NPC orc army surrounding us because only NPCs would trigger an NPC response."

Bloodrose Holy Sword: "Makes sense, but such NPCs can't appear alone, there must be players on the other side who accepted related tasks. So, there are players on the other side too. Captain, what do you think?"

Rose Knight: "Just now Brother Xiang's vice hero suggested we stay put to attract the enemy's attention. I think this counts as a task hint, so let's do as he said. However, I personally suggest that everyone should move forward a bit to continue misleading the enemy and making them think we haven't noticed, getting more chances and time for that vice hero to execute his strategy!"

Bloodrose Holy Spear: "Alright! Listen to the captain! The team continues forward! But everyone must be ready to form a defensive formation at any moment, in your positions!"

"Roger!"

Looking at the discussions in the team channel, Da Fei couldn't help but nod in appreciation. Their thinking is quite similar to mine, huh? Bloodrose is quite capable after all?

And at this moment, Little Fang next door also sent a private voice message: "Big brother, our hero may be a hidden God-level Hero!"

Oh, well! Deserving to be my future wife! Her thinking is similar to mine! But we must see him pass this hurdle first, right? Da Fei chuckled foolishly and said, "That would be perfect!"

At that moment, Da Fei suddenly remembered Kate, who had been gone for the past half month. What was she up to? Could it be that she was also annoyingly requesting an independent expedition to investigate Desolate Island? Damn, my dear heart better not pester brother like that. In short, now my little account completely turned into a bystander gaining experience. I should take this chance to research this machine and strive to master the dual-log technique. Right, where's the manual?

...

Chang Liang's team quietly ambushed in the bushes, waiting for the prey to walk right into their trap. Bloodrose guessed correctly; Chang Liang indeed accepted an orc chieftain's hunting mission on the way, planning to conveniently earn some merit.

Actually, for a top-tier professional player like Chang Liang, his daily schedule is usually arranged by a logistics think tank. Every task, every instance run, even bathroom breaks must be precisely calculated and controlled. If a task runs overtime, it affects the next move. To ordinary players, this kind of CEO-like schedule is agonizing, but this is the work-life approach for top-tier professional players with annual salaries in the millions. Without enduring extraordinary effort and sacrifice, one cannot become a top expert.

And for someone like Chang Liang, whose entire schedule is pre-arranged, the uncertainty involved in ambushing players for merit is evidently unreliable. More precisely, this action was a spur-of-the-moment decision by the Dragon Slayer Guild.

The main purpose was to dampen the Bloodrose Guild's morale. During yesterday's massive buy-out event, Bloodrose caught the Dragon Slayer Guild's coattails, creating a huge sensation and emerging as the fourth largest guild in the China Region, which felt very uncomfortable from the perspective of old guilds.

Though on the surface Bloodrose seemed to have good relationships with Ninth Heaven and Star, giving an impression of invulnerability, Dragon Slayer knew it was superficial. Dampening their morale also aligned with the interests of Ninth Heaven and Star, though in reality, Ninth Heaven and Star hoped Dragon Slayer would strike at them.

Seeing through this relationship sharply, Chang Liang didn't hesitate to act, especially since Bloodrose's activity location happened to be on the way to his task location. Of course, once action commenced, it would undoubtedly create a stir on the World Channel, even better to attract everyone's attention and further divert attention from the guild's secret actions at the Pool of Radiance.

Time passed slowly, and Bloodrose's time gathering in town was a few minutes longer than expected. This made Chang Liang, who claimed to create tens of thousands of value every minute, feel impatient. Then the undercover small account in the city saw more new low-level female players joining Bloodrose's team.

"Damn! Lazy asses causing delays for everything!" For a semi-amateur team like Bloodrose, which also had many female players, it's indeed not appropriate to gauge them with international team standards.

Luckily they finally set out, everything still within Chang Liang's schedule, but given the extra few minutes delay, he planned to go all out and crush them in one move, putting psychological pressure on them and showing them the gap with top-tier teams. Moreover, Beastman players in the China Region have never acted on such a large scale, making Chang Liang's actions unprecedented in history, catching the opponent off guard.

Now the prey was fully within the encirclement. Chang Liang waved his hand to launch the encirclement, aiming to annihilate completely! If Bloodrose's troops were all wiped out, they might not have enough troops for their next instance. Tactical advantages are accumulated bit by bit.

Right at this time, the Bloodrose team abruptly halted forward motion and, with unusual swiftness, formed a circle with shield soldiers outside, gunners behind, and archers in the middle—a standard Human Race hedgehog formation.

Chang Liang frowned. They've been discovered? Now this was slightly troublesome! Chang Liang's team had a standard cavalry and wolf rider mobile unit configuration, excellent at assault but lacked Tier 1 cannon fodder goblins, not to mention Tier 5 tanky Frenzied Beastmen, making siege challenges slightly harder, not to mention the opposing team had many priests, and under various blessings, the crossbowmen became overwhelmingly strong.

To fight or not to fight? Fight!

Being a top-tier player, Chang Liang certainly would not be intimidated by a mere hedgehog formation. Although hedgehog formations are formidable, to Centaurs possessing the Mobile Shooting special skill, the threat wasn't especially high. Running Centaurs had high chances of dodging arrows, plus orcs had the Arrow Avoidance sub-skill in Defensive Technique, so Chang Liang's team wouldn't be at a disadvantage in a trade of fire.

Simultaneously, as long as the crossbowmen were distracted by the moving Centaur troops, the wolf cavalry could seize the opportunity to charge. Moreover, Chang Liang's hero Tyrannosaurus had the God-level characteristic "Army's Roar," and team members could summon Nature Spirits, not fearing the opponent's priests.

...

As the grasslands echoed with the orc's war horn, the Bloodrose team, long prepared, instantly blessed, prayed, and strengthened their entire force with spells, bathing the whole team in sheets of golden light. You could imagine how strong their combat capability became at that moment.

Yet, just then, the thundering hooves sounded over the prairie, dust clouds filled the sky, blurring the entire team's view!

The whole team buzzed in excitement, "They're experts!"

Rose Knight instantly responded, "Blind fire! Team 3, priest members reserve mana for post-battle resurrection, Team 2, priest members focus on healing!"

The whole team roared in response, "Roger!"

At that time, countless arrows rained down amidst the dust storm, Little Fang and Little Li yelped! Da Fei's eyebrow twitched, did they get hit? Or just startled?

Rose Knight exclaimed, "It's Tyrannosaurus Chang Liang, we've really encountered a master."

The team stirred into panic, "Isn't his leveling time really precious? Why would he waste time ambushing us?"

Bloodrose Holy Spear was astonished, "Can't we win? Should we retreat?"

Rose Knight resolutely declared, "I'm afraid it's not that simple, once we retreat and scatter our formation, it will be even harder to resist. I personally suggest fighting to the end, taking down as many of them as possible, after all, we still have a sliver of hope."

The group wondered, "What hope?"

Rose Knight smiled bitterly, "It's that vice hero who just left with Brother Xiang. Honestly, I'm curious and want to see how that vice hero intends to mark his way. In summary, let's hold our ground and see if he succeeds?"

The girls finally realized, "Oh, I see! Alright! We want to know too! Let's fight them! It's just losing some troops, we don't mind!"

Da Fei was stunned on the spot! Damn, you're all so righteous!

Chapter 437: Tyrannosaurus Gains Fame in Battle

Professional gamers' long-range shootouts are highly skillful. The previous text has introduced "Extreme Step Shooting," also known as "Phantom Step," where both sides' ranged units stand at the maximum shooting distance, stepping forward to shoot an arrow that reaches the enemy, and stepping back just enough to dodge the incoming arrows.

The Centaur, a miraculous ranged unit inherently possessing the Mobile Shooting special skill, is undoubtedly the best unit to execute Phantom Step, especially on this vast wilderness, fully displaying the Centaur's advantage in high-speed maneuverability. Under the control of a world-class professional player like Chang Liang, the Bloodrose Guild's Crossbowmen are frequently hit and continually fall, while Bloodrose's Crossbowmen, despite being full of BUFFs and blinded by the swirling sand, find it difficult to effectively retaliate. If this continues, the Priests' healing Mana will not last long!

Facing the aggressive attack from Dragon Slayer's Chang Liang, relying on an NPC hero whose skill level and troop strength are completely disadvantaged and even unaware of when he will take action is obviously unreliable. The Bloodrose Team must find a way to seek help!

— Regional Channel [Bloodrose Holy Spear]: Players in the Eastern Wilderness Town, many Beastman Players have come to provoke, let's all go outside the city and harvest Merit together, don't let them escape!

The only self-rescue method now is to stir up unsuspecting players to come and relieve the situation. After all, the Beastman's influence is weak in the China Region, and this area is a stronghold for Human Race players, so ordinary players are likely to feel psychologically advantaged.

Sure enough, the town's players were startled by the message; Beastman Players dare to be so arrogant? Isn't this just delivering themselves and Merit on a silver platter?

Thus, a player of "unknown identity" in the town shouted, "Let's go get some Merit!"

Immediately, players responded: "Together, together!"

In a moment, hundreds of players in the town followed the lead and headed straight for the barracks to gather troops and march out, creating a majestic sea of troops and people outside the city.

At this time, the undercover accounts that Dragon Slayer Guild had planted in the town monitored this grand scene, causing the Dragon Slayer headquarters to be a bit taken aback.

Ma Yinglong called Chang Liang and chuckled, "Stirred up a hornet's nest, huh! If it's troublesome, just leave, the mission is more important."

Having followed his boss for so many years, how could Chang Liang not know his boss's temperament? If it really were something trivial, the boss would decidedly not call, the true intention of the boss was actually for him to press on!

Chang Liang then laughed: "Brother, I'm just short of some Merit here, and they are sending tons of it my way, I don't find it troublesome at all!"

Ma Yinglong laughed heartily: "Good! Your Beastman account should also make a name for itself, it's time for our Dragon Slayer's Beastman force to stand tall and recruit more troops!"

Yes, this operation was not only to curb Bloodrose's sharpness but also to vindicate the Beastman's force in the China Region, encouraging a large number of new players, especially students who have just started school, to choose the Beastman force.

Chang Liang firmly said: "Brother, rest assured and just watch, I'll definitely slaughter them till the rivers run red!"

.....

The enthusiastic support of the town's players gave the entire Bloodrose Team a huge sigh of relief. However, despite this, Chang Liang on the opposing side still maintained his previous attack rhythm, unmoved.

Is he completely unaware of the movement of the town's players? Or does he simply ignore the existence of the reinforcing players? The answer is obviously the latter! Suddenly, the entire Bloodrose Team tensed up again!

Bloodrose Qiqi was even more infuriated: "Even Little Zhu said he dares not engage in a melee, I really want to see how capable this top Dragon Slayer is to be this arrogant!"

Now, the town players' reinforcement troops surged like a tide. The time to mobilize the masses had arrived!

— Regional Channel [Bloodrose Holy Spear]: Friends in Eastern Wilderness Town, the provocative Beastman is Dragon Slayer's top player Tyrannosaurus Chang Liang, with so many of us here, shouldn't we give him a piece of our mind?

Immediately, players in the regional channel robustly responded: "We have the numbers, let's take on the top player, if he's really that good, don't run!"

Thus, the regional channel fervently responded: "Being arrogant? We'll drown him with a spit each!"

— Regional Channel [Tyrannosaurus]: Ha ha ha! I'm letting you come closer, do you dare?

The regional channel surged with enthusiasm: "Charge!"

In no time, a dense and massive sea of people roared towards him!

And at this moment, a thunderous roar from the Beastman troops resounded around the plains, and the players and troops of the Bloodrose Team simultaneously saw a uniform -3 damage above their heads!

——System Prompt: You have taken damage from the enemy camp player Tyrannosaurus' "Army's Roar"! Your Morale -1.

"Army's Roar!" astounded the entire team!

"Quickly heal the archer's wounds!" exclaimed the Rose Knight.

Amid the shimmering golden light of healing spells over the grassland, another roar bellows, and the whole Bloodrose Team again loses 3 blood points!

Seeing this, the Rose Knight panicked: "Heal! Keep healing; don't hold back Mana for Resurrection anymore! We'll fight to the death!"

For crossbowmen with only 10 points of Basic Blood Volume, losing 3 points per roar is quite the terrifying damage. Indeed, this is the ultimate racial skill of Beastman that makes low-level players pale in fear—Army's Roar!

—Army's Roar: Beman Heroes inflict morale shock damage equivalent to their own troop count on the enemy. This shock damage cannot be reduced by Magic Resistance. For every level the special skill, Blood Rage, is increased, the effect of Army's Roar rises by 10%. Each time Army's Roar is unleashed, the enemy's Morale drops by 1, and the user's troop Rage Value drops by 20 points.

That means, the number of troops the Beastman Hero has is the exact amount of fixed damage inflicted on the opponent. This troop number is calculated by the Command Value. For instance, Chang Liang currently has a Command Power of 1000, carrying troops with a Command Value of 1000, making his Army's Roar's basic damage 1000 points, and then with a 50% increase effect of the master level Blood Rage, it becomes 1500 points.

Chang Liang's Hero Special Ability is "Army's Roar", which increases its effect by 1% every time the Hero gains a level. Now at level 40, that's a total of 40% increased damage, adding up to 2100 points of damage that ignores Magic Resistance, shared among the entire Bloodrose Team!

Of course, the damage from Army's Roar might not be the scariest aspect; the terrifying part is the constant loss of one Morale point with each roar, particularly fatal for races like the Human Race that heavily rely on Morale Burst.

Now, every time the Beastmen destroy a tactical position of the enemy, their Morale heightened and their Rage Value surged. That means, as long as Chang Liang's forces continuously slaughter, his Rage Value won't deplete, allowing continuous unleashes of Army's Roar! With such dazzling damage from Army's Roar, Chang Liang can kill players with fewer troops effortlessly by just roaring a few times!

This fearless stance is why he can face hundreds of players leaving the city!

However, the drawback of Army's Roar is also clear: as long as a portion of his troops are taken out, its power drops. Since Army's Roar consumes Rage Value, continuous use drains the Beastmen's Rage, leaving them weak in both offense and defense.

But for a top expert like Chang Liang, managing strengths and avoiding weaknesses are naturally not the concerns of ordinary players.

.....

Now, with Chang Liang's continuous full Rage Value roaring and support from Centaurs, Bloodrose Team's crossbowmen finally couldn't keep up with the healing pace and quickly collapsed. Without the long-range unit, the Bloodrose Team turned into hedgehogs without spines, unworthy of Chang Liang's attention anymore as his maneuverable troops swooped like a whirlwind towards the swarming regular players!

Another war cry resounded!

A player who brought only dozens of crossbowmen fell on the spot! His entire army was annihilated, restoring a massive amount of Rage and triggering another Morale Burst for Chang Liang's forces!

Roar! Roar!! Roar!!! War cries thundered across the wilderness! Wolf Cavalries and Centaurs darted throughout the field! Player troops fell like wheat before the wind, and Chang Liang instantly dominated the battlefield!

The entire region channel was in an uproar, and the Bloodrose Team was even more shocked!

At this moment, the shock in Da Fei's heart was imaginable! If he were to face Chang Liang, would he be roared to death? If it were him, would he handle so many players this easily? The gap! This is the gap between himself, the so-called amateur number one, and a real professional expert!

If he's not mistaken, Chang Liang must be using the account he sold to Ma Yinglong for the vampire inheritance, right? Now, even without engaging in melee combat, such impressive combat power is displayed; what more once the melee starts?

Urgency surged in Da Fei's mind. Not for anything else, but because someone was stronger than him, which really irked him. He must find a way to counter Chang Liang. And didn't he already have a Minstrel at hand to counter Chang Liang's war cry? Yes, Little Coltnr did mention on the boat that the Beastman's war cry was also a type of singing, and only music could counteract music.

It seems he really must learn from this Minstrel Brother. Although it would be more suitable for Selvia to learn it, firstly, she might not always be by his side, and secondly, the Habbit Village Chief had also mentioned he could bring her to him for personal tuition; she has plenty of opportunities.

In short, once he gets on his main account, he'll learn the profession. But the village chief mentioned that he lacks talent and might only remain an amateur for life even after learning – that's quite troublesome.

Nah! Da Fei doesn't buy it! Even Beethoven, a deaf man, could become a great composer revered through ages, and Da Fei, a genius who even tried multi-classing from Ranger Sentinel, couldn't manage being a Minstrel? From now on, he too will attend an opera every week to enhance his performative prowess! And what about Ouling? We're all dying here; why hasn't he taken action yet? Believe it or not, I won't take you to the opera anymore!

Da Fei sighed inwardly, relying on him was indeed unreliable. At this stage, any random player could enjoy a battle against such a caliber of hero. Even if Ouling appeared, he'd probably be roared to death by Chang Liang in a moment. Anyway, this hero comes easily and goes easily, and it doesn't matter much to Da Fei's second account anymore.

Now, the battlefield was in chaos, and the Bloodrose Team began their retreat amidst the confusion. The whole team, filled with beautiful members, silently lost their mood for laughter. Everyone knew that their Guild was going to be the top news, albeit for embarrassing themselves, only to glorify Dragon Slayer.

Chapter 438: The Fortunate Twin Strikes of the Dragon Slayer Guild

Maybe it's because they took into account the girls' fragile self-esteem, or because they were wary of the unreasonable temper of an enraged woman, in any case, Chang Liang's team didn't completely annihilate the Bloodrose Team. The Bloodrose Team shamefully fled back to the city amidst chaos, and not a single one of their low-level troops survived.

The Bloodrose Team was downcast, to say the least, and the entire Eastern Wilderness Town channel was filled with curses.

Just then, Bloodrose Holy Spear suddenly asked, "Mr. Lin, what do you think about recommending these three friends to join our Guild?"

Da Fei's eyebrows twitched, what was inevitable had finally arrived! That's right, locals always have an advantage, not to mention my stunning entrance and the big face I carry. But who said we're friends?

Rose Knight smiled and said, "How about it, the two new students, and Brother Xiang, want to join our Guild? Although we just suffered a defeat and failed to complete the instance—"

Little Fang immediately said, "We're very happy to join the Guild, I feel very happy to be with everyone!"

Playing with beauties, I'm happy too! So Brother Xiang also said indifferently, "As long as the two of them are happy, I have no objections."

The whole team of beauties spoke sarcastically, "Brother Xiang, you should know our Guild rarely adds male players, you really have no reason to object!"

Holy crap! Wasn't I just pretending to be a gentleman? Brother Xiang said, "Oh! It's kind of embarrassing, my newbie skills are limited, I hope I won't cause any trouble to everyone."

The beauties laughed, "Just learn it slowly!" "Moreover, Brother Xiang is dual-talented from the start, your prospects are incredible!" "Exactly!"

So,

—Guild Channel: A warm welcome to Blood Arrow Fragrance for joining the Bloodrose Guild.

—Guild Channel: A warm welcome to Blood Arrow Fragrance for joining the Bloodrose Guild.

—Guild Channel: A warm welcome to Junxiang for joining the Bloodrose Guild.

Hahaha! I've successfully infiltrated the beauties' inner circle! Although it was when everyone was unhappy.

—Guild Channel [Bloodrose Rosa]: "Welcome to the newcomers, I'm the president of the Bloodrose Guild, let's look after each other in the future!"

Little Fang and Little Li hurriedly said, "Hello, President! Please take good care of us in the future."

Brother Xiang also said hurriedly, "You're too kind, President!"

Without further pleasantries, Bloodrose Rosa shifted the topic, "I'm aware of what happened just now. It's clear that it was Dragon Slayer seeking revenge for the little advantage we took from them yesterday. Currently, we don't have the power to compete with Dragon Slayer, so let's turn our sorrow into strength, keep leveling up and developing ourselves. As for the leveling of the newcomers, I'll leave it to Rose Knight to arrange."

Rose Knight responded, "Got it, I'll handle it."

Holy crap! I want the beauties to arrange things, not you, you clown!

But Bloodrose Qiqi was still defiant, "Little Zhu? Little Zhu, are you there? This Chang Liang is too arrogant, do you have the confidence to deal with him?"

Little Pig Run replied, "Yes!"

Little Pig Run? Da Fei's eyebrows jumped again. Isn't he the number one player in the China Region? Wasn't he with Star? How was he also in their Guild?

Bloodrose Qiqi was overjoyed and said, "Then what are we waiting for, go get revenge for us."

Little Pig Run said, "First, Qiqi sis, stock up a few hundred Griffins for me in Eastern Wilderness City, then I'll show you a performance of eagles catching chickens!"

The whole team burst into laughter.

Bloodrose Qiqi angrily said, "Can't you ride a Griffin and fly there directly, just take your troops and fly over!"

Little Pig Run replied, "..."

Rose scolded, "Stop messing around, let's adjust our daily routine for today."

"Got it."

Little Pig Run can ride a Griffin and fly? Sayings unintended by the speaker, may be taken to heart by the listeners! Da Fei was shocked once more! Could it be that this Little Pig Run was already a legendary Griffin Knight? Holy crap! This is a flying hero! I heard that during public beta, some foreigner figured out how to become a Bone Dragon Knight, so freaking awesome!

Da Fei once again felt a sense of urgency. Initially, he was already shocked by Chang Liang's combat strength, but Chang Liang was practically unrelated to him, let alone having a somewhat friendly connection with Dragon Slayer Guild. His threat wasn't substantial. However, this number one player in China Region, Little Pig Run, was undoubtedly his enemy! Just by that stance before, wouldn't the beauty command him to annihilate whoever she wants? Bro needs to find a way to counter him!

But actually, countering a flying hero should be much simpler than dealing with Army's Roar, right? After all, a flying hero still needs to land to battle, doesn't he? Besides, when I'm on the ship or in the city, his threat isn't that big, right? Yeah, stay calm! Stay calm! The key is that it's no use for me to rush now. I have to take it one step at a time.

Alas, there are so many masters in this world. I can no longer indulge in the self-gratification of being the first among amateurs. Amateur will always be amateur, and there is a fundamental difference in operational awareness with the professionals, like the difference just now between Bloodrose and Chang Liang. To bridge this gap, there might be only one method—overwhelming them with high-tech! I need to continue climbing the high-tech ladder! Divine Artifacts, I need more Divine Artifacts! Damn, I can't wait to take down that stupid Eight-Headed Snake and that Divine Turtle!

Now Bloodrose Holy Spear starts giving orders in the Guild channel: "We're adjusting today's activities. All members gather in Grey Stone Town to tackle the instance. The three newbies come to farm experience too. Make sure everyone replenishes their potions and troops' supplies. We should be ready in 10 minutes. This instance is quite challenging, so I hope everyone will focus and give it their all, leaving behind any negative mood from earlier..."

"Roger that!"

Oh wow! So we three alts get to farm experience just like that? This Bloodrose Guild is actually not too bad, huh? It's truly warm as spring to comrades, and as cold as autumn to enemies! Good, farming experience, I like! Wahahaha!

...

At this moment, the video of Dragon Slayer Chang Liang single-handedly facing a hundred enemies in the Eastern Wilderness has stirred up the forums. If defeating ordinary players meant nothing, then the way Bloodrose, this damaged red flower, set off Chang Liang, solidified his fame as the number one person in Dragon Slayer and once again shook the industry!

Forums from countries around the world promptly shared the video of this battle and defined it as the rise of the Beastman force in China Region!

Using this video as an opportunity, Dragon Slayer Guild aggressively recruited new members, calling for newcomers to join the Beastman ranks. They also released a technical post written by Chang Liang, analyzing the advantages of Beastman and providing detailed growth strategies, etc. For a time, the Beastman Cities in China Region truly saw a noticeable increase in the presence of level 1 Beastman Players. The effect was indeed immediate.

As good news comes in pairs, Ma Yinglong, who was indulging in a celebratory drink, received a report from Lei Huolong of Hell's Side: "The Demon King has dispatched 200,000 Demon Workers, and has sent special forces to protect the workers as they build. Construction at the Pool of Radiance has kicked off across the board!"

Ma Yinglong, excited, downed his glass of red wine: "No need for a video, show me live!"

Lei Huolong, thrilled, switched the camera view: "Please look, boss!"

At this moment, the area around the Teleportation Array at the Demon Camp was crowded with Demon Priests. The Teleportation Array glowed red as waves of Demon construction workers and machinery were teleported from various Demon Cities, immediately being directed to their respective construction sites to start work right away.

And along the shores of the Pool of Radiance, a faint mist enveloped the area where Demon Workers were busy in the mist drilling holes, drawing lines for alignment, moving stones and transporting soil—busy activity was everywhere.

Ma Yinglong couldn't help but wonder: "What's this mist?"

Lei Huolong excitedly said, "This is the special forces illusion fog demon sent by the Demon King. Construction within the fog released by the fog demon can effectively shield us from the Elf Kingdom's reconnaissance! Boss, didn't you notice that there's no sound from the construction site? All the noises have been blocked! If you're looking at it from the enemy's point of view, it might just appear as a stone beach with nothing but the sound of waves!"

Ma Yinglong laughed heartily, "There's such high-tech too? Great! That's awesome! Now that the Beastman side has made some headway, you guys from Hell's Side need to step it up!"

Lei Huolong joyfully replied, "Don't worry, Boss. We only need four real-time hours to complete the construction of the level 1 wall! If necessary, there is no problem upgrading to a level 2 wall with the excess stone materials."

Ma Yinglong, spirited and commanding, gestured grandly, "A wall can never be too thick. Since we've finally moved the Demon King, let's not miss this opportunity. Keep on building! We'll continue to transport stone materials your side. Upgrade as many levels as we can!"

Lei Huolong was ecstatic, "Yes, Boss!"

...

For Chang Liang, the so-called beating hundreds of opponents single-handedly was nothing to boast about; in his view, it was no different from defeating a few hundred monsters. Having harvested a substantial amount of merit, he also completed the Beastman NPC Chieftain's hunting mission, and of course, the next step was to escort him back to receive the task reward.

Of course, his own team could handle this wrapping-up affair on his behalf. As for himself, he decided to hang back with the team and take a break, a rare opportunity to rest amidst the day's hectic tasks. Naturally, Chang Liang was not afraid of any so-called ambushes or sneak attacks from enemies because the Wolf Cavalry and the Three-headed Dogs from the Hell Race both had scent-based early warning capabilities, rendering those lurking enemies no threat to the Beastman troops.

Chang Liang stretched and lowered the back of his seat, closing his eyes to rest and recuperate.

The team advanced windingly through the vast wilderness, and the NPC Chieftain's troops began to sing a heroic and desolate song of triumph. Chang Liang, with closed eyes, suddenly felt that the Beastmen's music wasn't half bad, eh? Subconsciously, his fingers also began tapping along with the rhythm of the song.

Now, the team was nearing the clan's camp, and it was at this moment that the Wolf Cavalry let out a warning growl—something was up!

Chang Liang's team immediately became alert, spreading out in a battle formation to search. However, no lurking enemies were to be found in the vicinity. What was going on?

But the NPC Chieftain noticed something. He sniffed and rushed to the side of the road into the bushes, dragging out two blood-drenched corpses of Beastman patrolling soldiers from the underbrush, each with a feathered arrow from the Human Race troops lodged in their throats!

A single arrow to the throat! Instant kill! Was this damage caused by a type of soldier? Or was it part of a scripted event?

But if a single arrow was fatal, then why were there so many more wounds on the two corpses, and so much more blood?

The Beastman Chieftain roared, "Who is it! I will tear him to pieces!"

Meanwhile, Chang Liang's logistics and strategy team were exchanging puzzled looks! They certainly knew that a new mission had appeared, but this task was clearly beyond the planned schedule. To accept it or not?

Chapter 439: Phoenix Feather Strikes Again

Perhaps realizing something might be wrong back home, the NPC Chieftain's troops hurried back like the wind. Chang Liang's team had no choice but to follow closely. Soon, the howling of mount wolves from the Wolf Cavalry was heard ahead, and this time, a patrol team of 5 Wolf Cavalry along with the bodies of their mount wolves were found in the bushes.

This time, it wasn't a throat-piercing arrow, but their backs had been turned into porcupines! This means they were shot from behind without any alertness; even the mount wolves hadn't noticed! However, this squad died cleanly, unlike the previous two soldiers who were drenched in blood from knife wounds.

Now, Chang Liang's think tank team became even more calm and began their analysis. First of all, it was certain that this was done by an NPC, because a scene like this with clear narrative elements wouldn't appear after a player's battle.

"Brother Liang, this triggered follow-up quest is quite troublesome. This doesn't seem like a human's doing. Usually, only elves can attack Beastmen without them noticing. If it were a human, it would have to be a master of masters."

"Maybe this chieftain's lair was wiped out by this master. Our follow-up quest must be helping this chieftain take revenge."

"There are still many guards in the chieftain's lair; it wouldn't be easily wiped out. If it were really wiped out, that means a major NPC force has come."

"But a major force wouldn't need to stealthily hide bodies in the bushes, right? It should be a small elite force."

"I personally think we shouldn't branch out unnecessarily; it would affect our original schedule. If it's a small force, it's not worth our effort to exhaust ourselves hunting down every last one. If a major force has come, it's more than our team can handle, not to mention, the Blood Barbarian Tribe is just a border village; the best reward we get might just be having the whole tribe join us, which compared to our original plans, isn't worthwhile."

"Right, as long as they aren't wiped out, we don't need to delve any deeper. Especially since the skirmish outside the city earlier took up a lot of time and we even lost some Centaur Archers, which will affect our subsequent journey. So, once we receive the quest rewards, we'll just take off."

After hearing the analysis from the team, Chang Liang calmly said: "So everyone's opinion is to let it be?"

Everyone nodded: "Let it be."

Chang Liang shook his head and sighed: "Then let's leave it."

Actually, for Chang Liang personally, he was very interested in this mysterious assassin, and of course, he wanted to investigate further. Any player might feel the same, but it's different for a professional, large studio. The efficiency and strength of a large team is in its precise calculations, meticulous planning, and keeping everything under control. Any unplanned events should be avoided, even if these events might reward a Divine Artifact, it's not a priority for a large team. For them, power is the key; as long as they amass enough power, obtaining Divine Artifacts is inevitable, and there is no need to risk engaging in unreliable adventures or gambles during a crucial period of development.

In any case, the group escorted the chieftain back to the village, where security was tight, and there were no signs of the lair being wiped out. Isn't that enough?

Upon seeing the chieftain return, a Beastman Hundred Soldiers Commander hurriedly reported: "Chieftain, a small group of human heroes led by a team was spotted nearby, and Kerke has taken the Wolf Cavalry out to track them."

The chieftain frowned deeply: "Everyone, tighten security!"

"Yes, Chieftain!"

Then the chieftain handed out quest rewards to Chang Liang's team: "Thank you, young warriors, for your help. Our Blood Barbarian Tribe achieved such a splendid victory—but it seems we've run into new troubles, hopefully, it won't be anything major!"

This was clearly a plea for help. Both Beastmen and dwarves have a bit of a tsundere temperament; clearly in trouble but too embarrassed to ask for help openly, preferring others to say, "Can I do something for you," before agreeing reluctantly.

So, Chang Liang's Tyrannosaurus just went with the flow: "Chieftain, don't worry, it won't be anything major..."

For a moment, the chieftain's face looked like a pig's liver...

...

At this moment, during the Bloodrose Team's instance activity, Da Fei and Little Fang following the team were gaining experience painfully. Maybe the earlier failure in the Eastern Wilderness affected the girls' condition, causing mistakes here and there, making the entire battle perilously close to disaster.

Bloodrose Holy Spear couldn't help but roar frequently at the team: "What is everyone doing, what are you all thinking about! Qiqi, you've made the same mistake twice now, can you not improve? And Little Lan and Little Yu, are you two sleepwalking? Where are your soldiers heading? This instance doesn't allow us to be distracted, let alone the fact that we're also carrying three rookies..."

For a moment, the entire team fell silent, and Da Fei even felt like a dragging anchor being undeservedly blamed. Can they not mention the word 'rookie'? Since joining their team, they haven't had a smooth run, have they? Sigh, better to stop this banter or we might fail this instance too! Forget it, I'm not playing with them on this small account anymore, better to double up on my main account.

After witnessing Chang Liang and Little Pig Run's capabilities, Da Fei was deeply moved, feeling an urgent need to catch up. And after spending half a day poring over the manual, Da Fei was increasingly familiar with the new system's features. In short, it was time to try multi-boxing.

Da Fei activated the multi-line gaming feature, then switched out of the current game's screen, and a new game login window appeared.

Hahahaha! This machine is amazing, truly fitting for high-end players who aren't satisfied with just one account! But since it's multi-boxing, there should be a primary focus, so let's mute the sound effects on the main account.

He entered his account and logged in.

A flash of light, and Da Fei appeared in the offline Radiant City. Da Fei couldn't help but feel refreshed; his main account felt so familiar. It was like not seeing it for a few hours felt like years, this solid feeling was incomparable to the restlessness among beauties.

At this moment, Radiant City was still bustling. The Holy Vine he had planted before logging off seemed to have grown a bit stronger. Da Fei quickly checked its attributes, and indeed, it had grown; the Life Value seemed to have increased by 3 points! Hahaha, awesome! Just three points in a day or two of game time, how much would it increase in a month or a year? Holy Vine truly deserves its name!

Then he looked at the progress of the buildings:

— Netherworld Treasury: Construction progress 48%, completion time unknown.

— Death Bell Tower: Construction progress 35%, completion time unknown.

— Sewers: 39 sections completed, continuing to expand.

— Hospital: Construction progress 34%, will be completed in 10 days.

— Clinic: Construction progress 100%, already completed.

Oh wow! The clinic just sprung up! Seeing this, Da Fei indeed spotted a neat little white house with a red cross next to the City Hall, and he immediately clicked on the clinic's attributes!

— Clinic: Capable of treating and preventing diseases among citizens, increases the current city's sanitation score by 5 points. Staff (1/5). Chief Physician: Health Advisor Sedana (Master Level Physician). Assistant: None. Stock of medicines is ample. Capable of handling most common diseases. Note: The facility is understaffed and cannot function normally; you need to hire 4 medical staff with medical skills.

So this is the clinic! So the Health Advisor is called Sedana, and he's a Master Level! The system treats me well! Nice, hang in there! Once the hospital is built later, I'll make you the director! Hahaha!

And as soon as I talk about directors, upon seeing Da Fei inspect, the Health Advisor immediately came out to greet him: "Welcome, Lord City Lord, our clinic has been built and can operate effectively now!"

Da Fei laughed: "Mr. Sedana, you will have to work hard for a while. Later on, I will recruit a large number of physicians to relieve your pressure."

The Health Advisor shook his head with a resigned smile: "My lord, I have a suggestion, since most of your citizens are Flower Demons, and their ailments might not be curable by ordinary physicians. Well, actually, I am also not confident in treating Flower Demons!"

Da Fei frowned, so treating diseases also depends on the race? That's also true, I always thought that the physicians on the Beastman side were veterinarians!

Da Fei quickly asked, "What should we do then?"

The Health Advisor seriously said, "So I suggest that my lord immediately build a school and start a medical class focusing on medical skills, and enroll the Flower Demons of the city to study at the school. There is a certain probability to cultivate Flower Demon talents with medical skills. If I may, I can also serve as the instructor for the medical class!"

Damn, not only a director, you also want to be a headmaster? How can you teach students if you can't even treat Flower Demons yourself? Well, let's overlook this minor issue!

Da Fei nodded: "Alright, I'll build the school immediately; I want to train a large number of Flower Demon physicians for the hospital that will be completed later!"

The Health Advisor was overjoyed: "Lord City Lord is wise!"

Isn't that obvious? I can't wait to see what the Flower Demon nurses look like! Hahaha!

Just then, the Guild channel was noisy: "Brother Fei! Brother Fei is online!"

Da Fei chuckled: "Hello everyone, having fun?"

Invincible Soldier gravely said, "Sorry Brother Fei, we ran into trouble, the same Phoenix Feather from last time, he teamed up with the Royal Family and hunted us down, only a few of us over level 30 escaped, the other lower-level newbies all got wiped."

One Sword Eastward also said, "Sorry Brother Fei, his spell casting range is too long, we couldn't do anything about him, but once we sailed into the ocean, he couldn't catch up."

Da Fei's eyebrows twitched, Phoenix Feather? Damn! Isn't that the guy who chased me ragged during the last qualifying match?

Da Fei quickly asked, "What about Brother Hao? Did Brother Hao die?"

Brother Hao bitterly laughed, "Died, it's okay, haha!"

Suddenly, the entire Guild channel fell silent!

Damn! What's this rhythm? Obviously, I can't resolve it and they're asking for my help!

Chapter 440: Brother Fei Wants to Personally Lead the Team to Level Up

Being in the game is like being in the wild; you have no control over your own body. This game is like the wild; of course, it has the sea too.

Although Invincible Soldier was confident then, saying he wouldn't trouble Brother Fei, and even if he got trampled, he'd try to strike back, it still depended on people. In a situation like Phoenix Feather's super long-range attack plus limitless mana, it's purely a difference in talent and equipment. No matter how hard Soldier and his team try, they're probably not a match. Not even Da Bing. Across the entire China Region, how many can match him?

Let's not mention anything else. Da Fei asks himself, could he take him down? Although he won in the competition, that was the competition. Wild PK is a different ball game! If they can't win, they can run.

Da Fei then asked, "Is he still a loner with no troops?"

Everyone replied, "Yes, Brother Fei, he didn't bring any troops."

Da Fei's brows furrowed! A loner is the most troublesome. People come and go, die as they please, without a burden. Do I need to bring troops to deal with him? If I bring troops, I can't use the teleportation array, which is quite a hassle. Even Little Pig Run from the Bloodrose Guild had no solution because he had no soldiers. The problem is, if I don't bring any troops, how do I fight this mage?

Blood Eagle? Only the Blood Eagle! Da Fei quickly took out the Blood Eagle Flute to check Little Fei's current basic attributes.

——Growing Reconnaissance Spirit Eagle (Little Fei): Small-sized spiritual body leader creature, ATK 58, DEF 19, damage 20-21, health 219/219, mana 135, attack speed 20, magic resistance 53%, command value 0, stamina 173/173.

Special skills: Flying Creature, God-level Reconnaissance Technique, Plane Surveillance, Long Sky Eagle Strike, Glide, Dive, Fierce Bird Pressure, Petrification Aura, High-altitude Flight, Rapid Bite. 2 growth skill points, 2 inventory slots.

Ranger Guild Master Jilrien once said that the greatest significance of cultivating the Flying Eagle is to be able to directly execute weak targets during reconnaissance!

And with my insane attribute bonus on the Blood Eagle, the attack close to 160, even if Phoenix Feather's equipment and spells are top-notch defending up to 100, Little Fei would still have 60 more attack points than him. Every point of attack equates to a 5% damage increase, which means an increase of 300%, and Little Fei can deal up to 80 points of damage!

Even if the Phoenix Feather's health is impressive, I'll overestimate him and say his health matches my peak condition, which is 500 HP! Little Fei's dive can multiply damage by 2-3 times, meaning 160-240 damage, and when I use a Lucky Hand, the damage would double, instantly hitting 320-480! Follow up with a Rapid Bite, and he's finished! Not to mention my Divine Artifact Necklace with Brutal Power also has so many attack special skills! Maybe, I don't even need to finish him; it might be enough to instantly kill him! How could he possibly have 500 HP!

Awesome! If the sucker had come looking for trouble two days ago, he might've had me cornered, but sorry, my progress is skyrocketing day by day. I'll use you, this doofus, as a sacrifice for Little Fei's birth!

Da Fei then asked gravely, "He's killed so many of us; surely, he's got a red name now?"

Invincible Soldier replied, "He appeared with a red name; I suspect the red name from when he killed so many merchants in our Chamber of Commerce that day hasn't really been washed off!"

Damn! Isn't it obvious he's serving equipment to me?

Da Fei gritted his teeth, "Even though I don't have time to chase this doofus down, it doesn't mean he can crap all over my guild's head. Fine! I haven't taken everyone level grinding in ages; I'll take everyone out to sea for fun this time!"

The whole guild exploded with excitement, "Brother Fei is taking us out to play!"

Invincible Soldier was even more excited, "Brother Fei, are we going on your big ship?"

Big ship? Radiant Wings? Catherine hasn't even returned with the big ship! Besides, my big ship is a hero ghost ship. There are too many secrets I haven't figured out. How can I let others get on and mess around?

Da Fei replied irritably, "Big ship isn't something that can be used casually, and if I used the big ship, would that loser still dare to come? Anyway, Soldier, find a Chamber of Commerce commission mission of reasonable difficulty. By the way, where are you now?"

Soldier hurriedly replied, "We're still drifting in the ocean on the Octopus."

Da Fei acknowledged, "Then wait until you come back to talk about it. We'll set off after dinner tonight. Put the word out, just say Brother Fei is coming, and let the coordinates be out anytime. If the sucker has guts, he shouldn't hide; I'll kill him with a fart!"

The guild exclaimed excitedly, "Great! With Brother Fei on the move, that sucker won't be scared to death?"

Da Fei laughed heartily, "Yeah! It's just the kind of insult! Insult him so much he can't help but come; I'm afraid he won't!"

The guild burst into laughter! Therefore,

——World Channel [. . ★ Qingcheng No. Romance ● . .]: Phoenix Feather, you trash, raise your dog ears and listen well. Tonight, Brother Fei will personally take the guild's smurf accounts out to sea for a big mission. Brother Fei is free to broadcast his coordinates at any time. If you have the guts, come; Brother Fei will kill you with a fart!

Therefore, the current area channel was in an uproar, and the Royal Family quickly responded!

——World Channel [Royal Blade]: As long as Da Fei dares to go to sea, as long as he broadcasts the coordinates, our Royal Guild will accompany him to the end!

——World Channel [Royal Dominator]: Da Fei, you could at least be called a celebrity in China Region; don't embarrass yourself by not coming out and getting your face thrown in the latrine!"

Damn! I am going to sea, and does the Royal Family dare to kill me and make me a red name? If he dares to turn red, I'll be right with him—waiting. I'll top up too; they think they're the only ones with money!

Thus, Da Fei began his first public speech in the Heroic Creation Era!

——World Channel [Da Fei]: Loser, show up!

Wow! Da Fei has really joined the ranks of tycoons and can speak on the World Channel at a hundred dollars a sentence!

At this moment, the Bloodrose Guild of Da Fei's smurf account was in uproar.

"Again, it's that trash Da Fei! With him around, our China Region's game atmosphere is all polluted by this trash! What kind of people are these!"

"What's Da Fei acting all arrogant about? Phoenix Feather is a top expert recruited with a high salary from Star. His spell range is farther than a crossbow cannon. How can Da Fei kill him with a fart?"

"Hey, hey, as a beauty, you need to mind your image; what's with all the fart talk?"

"Why can't a beauty talk about farts? Oh, and you never fart? Can I at least say P?"

"Vulgar, there are male classmates in the guild!"

Little Pig Run: "It's okay, I'm still young, don't understand anything!"

Rose Knight: "Alright, everyone, focus on playing the instance; Sister Gun is about to explode!"

Bloodrose Holy Spear: "My throat is sore from shouting; I'm too lazy to shout at you fools!"

Bloodrose Qiqi: "Wahahaha! Actually, when Sister Gun doesn't shout, the instance runs a lot smoother!"

Bloodrose Holy Spear angrily responded, "It's all because you keep dragging us down! The newbies here just to gain experience are more valuable than you! They're worth zero, you're a negative value!"

The entire team laughed out loud. Da Fei was speechless about the discussions regarding him! Couldn't you show a bit more respect while talking behind my back? I'm still undercover in your guild!

In short, since I've put out the word to have a good battle, let's be prepared. The promised minstrel must be learned. I need to at least add some attribute points.

——System Prompt: You spent 1 skill point using the "Minstrel Poem Score," and you obtained the hidden side job, "Basic-level Minstrel," acquiring the professional skill "Concerto." You gained 8 free attribute points from the Basic-level Minstrel profession bonus.

——Basic-level Minstrel: Able to play basic-level scores, increasing troops' stamina recovery speed +10%, troops' morale +1, 1 free attribute point every 5 hero levels.

——Concerto: The minstrel can enhance the skill effects of singing and playing unit types by 20%. Concerto effects improve with the poet's level.

Wahahaha! I have so many side jobs that I can't even look at myself! Now I've stored 15 free attribute points. If I keep adding attack points, won't I scare Phoenix Feather to death? However, such a target isn't worth adding points for; now that I'm a poet, it's time to add some knowledge and magic power.

Right, I don't have basic-level scores, see Coltner about that. And this battle relies on Little Fei to raid the red name; I need to find out if Jilrien has considered what I said about arming Little Fei. Let's ask him.

Also, since it's the first time taking everyone out to sea, as the boss, I need to put on a good show. Meanwhile, beauties symbolize a man's identity and status, so I'll bring along my vice heroes Selvia and Anlicia, wahahaha! It's just a pity Catherine hasn't returned; taking Deirdre out isn't convenient; it's a small letdown. Sigh, Catherine, stop messing with me; it's a huge mission; just come back already. Isn't it just taking down Desolate Island? I have a divine artifact and a giant ship; it's not a big deal.

Just then, two system prompts came from the side of my smurf account!

——System Prompt: Congratulations! Your vice hero Ouling, on an independent expedition, has killed the minor chieftain Kerke of the Beastman Blood Barbarian Tribe, claiming victory!

——Team Channel: Team Member Junxiang's vice hero Ouling killed the minor chieftain Kerke of the Beastman Blood Barbarian Tribe, achieving victory!

In that instant, the entire team channel fell silent! Da Fei was even more astonished with his mouth agape!

What does minor chieftain mean? It means the chieftain's son, the crown prince! Ouling actually killed such an important figure? With his average talent and skills and ordinary level, without reconnaissance skill, how could he possibly do it? He truly is a god-level hero with substance?

And just then, the beauties in the team channel finally came to their senses!

Bloodrose Qiqi: "Hey, hey, hey! Did I really see what I saw? Brother Xiang's vice hero is finally coming into prominence?"

At the same time, Little Fang's excited cheer came over the voice chat: "Bro! He really is a god-level hero; we've hit it big!"

Da Fei raised an eyebrow, was it that easy?

Bloodrose Holy Spear, with a keen eye, noticed something unusual: "Under normal circumstances, Brother Xiang's hero on an independent expedition achieving results should only prompt a system notification to him. There's no need for a team channel notification, so there is only one possibility. From the moment Brother Xiang's vice hero left the group, everyone in our team triggered a mission plot! A high-difficulty hidden mission plot without a system prompt!"

The whole team suddenly realized, "Sister Gun makes sense!"

Da Fei raised his brows again, this beauty knows a lot, huh? I'd never thought of that!

Rose Knight was puzzled, "But the plot requires player promotion. We've all come back to run the instance instead of dealing with it. How did the plot progress?"

Damn! This doofus is raising a very insightful question; he's not actually that stupid, huh?

Bloodrose Holy Spear seriously said, "Yes, plots always require player promotion. He had us attract the enemy's attention while surrounded, which is the first step in player-promoted plot. Even though we suffered heavy losses, without a doubt, we have overachieved the task because many unrelated players participated in the battle. Precisely due to our efforts in the first step, he managed to kill the minor chieftain as a result. Now, with the first plot line concluded, we must proceed to the second step; if we admittedly leave it aside and continue here in the instance, it means we forgo the task, and he will fail!"

The whole team was enlightened once more, "Ah, so that's it!"

Da Fei was even more astounded! Damn, I've been such a fool; I never expected it would be ridiculous waiting for him to speak for seven days! Ultimately, it's because I didn't take this smurf and male hero seriously enough!

Little Fang's Blood Arrow Fragrance meekly asked on the channel, "So, how should we proceed, sisters?"

Bloodrose Holy Spear earnestly replied, "Simply, go and rendezvous with him!"