Chapter 206: Bladesworn Execute the Tyrant

Aurek's gaze locked onto the thin old man.

Using the Scarlet Kingdom's national fortune, the thin old man had temporarily held back the calamity.

But how could Aurek allow him to succeed?

The Wings of Thunder unfolded instantly, drawing the violent electric arcs from the sky into his luminous wings, greatly enhancing his speed and explosive power.

With a single hand, he formed seals.

He activated spatial magic to directly pierce through the Void Sand Sea's barrier, once again charging into the core area.

Surrounding him was not only the protection of the Divine Carapace, but also the Dragon Scale Shield, which manifested layers of energy dragon scales, providing additional defense.

"My empire's domain and people—how dare you, a thief, lay claim to them!"

Aurek's eyes radiated with undeniable dominance.

In the King's Swordsmanship, the imperial authority slashed out with unmatched force.

With one strike, he severed the massive flow of the kingdom's national fortune that connected heaven and earth,

And shattered the vast kingdom's framework!

What a worthless Scarlet Kingdom!

In essence, it was an inseparable part of the Crossbridge Empire!

"You damn bastard!"

Seeing his plans shattered, the thin old man was filled with uncontrollable rage.

His eyes nearly burned with madness.

He drew a maple wood staff, imbued with the terrifying power of Stellar Rank, and pierced through the Void Sand Sea, directly targeting Aurek.

This maple wood staff was a near-SS-class artifact,

And with the power of Stellar Rank, it became even more terrifying!

In an instant, it struck against the Dragon Scale Shield, causing layers of scales to shatter and disappear.

It then continued to hit the Shadow of the Holy Tortoise, but was ultimately blocked by the ancient beast's phantom.

The Shadow of the Holy Tortoise was formed from a trace of the ancient tortoise spirit embedded within the Divine Carapace, etched with mysterious holy tortoise runes.

Though it was an SS-class defensive artifact, its exceptional crafting materials made it extraordinary!

It was essentially an SSS-class defense artifact.

Even the Glamer Holy Sword would find it difficult to break through its defenses in a short period!

With Aurek's magical energy coursing through it, withstanding the Stellar Rank onslaught was not difficult at all.

Seizing the opportunity,

Aurek sliced through the maple wood staff,

And with the Holy Sword's edge, he cleaved a path forward.

Aurek quickly closed the distance to the thin old man!

This sight terrified the thin old man to his core.

Even the Maple Red Coffin sank lower, causing him to groan once more.

He dared not continue close-quarters combat with Aurek.

While desperately resisting the Void Sand Sea, he attempted to retreat.

The Stellar Rank Calamity would not last forever.

He had already withstood the worst of the impact with the power of the kingdom's people's faith, buying him precious time.

All he had to do was hold on for a little longer, and the calamity would be over.

At that point, he could fully focus on dealing with Aurek.

But Aurek would not give him that opportunity.

With his sword in his right hand, he used his left hand to manipulate the severed force of the heavenly law.

Under the protection of the Shadow of the Holy Tortoise, his fingers quickly traced, drawing mysterious seals.

Eventually, they formed the Emblem of the Lionheart's Reign, which shone with blinding light, pushing fiercely toward the thin old man.

To Aurek's surprise, the Emblem of the Lionheart's Reign could absorb some of the power from the Void Sand Sea and rapidly expand by thousands of times.

It was like a massive dam blocking the Sand Sea, slamming down on the thin old man's head!

Even the Maple Red Coffin was covered by the shadow of the Emblem of the Lionheart's Reign!

Seeing this, the thin old man panicked.

Just as he thought it was over, Aurek suddenly struck and broke through his defenses!

With one hand desperately holding the Maple Red Coffin, the other clenched into a fist, gathering his remaining magical energy and smashing it toward the Emblem of the Lionheart's Reign in the sky.

Just at that moment,

With one strike, he pierced through the hurriedly erected defense shield and thrust his sword deep into the thin old man's side!

The searing pain twisted the thin old man's face.

A massive Stellar Rank power exploded from his body, forcing Aurek back.

But the Maple Red Coffin lost control and was violently struck by the Void Sand Sea, slamming down onto the thin old man's head, shattering it into a bloody mess.

The Divine Aspect core also vibrated violently and cracked.

The Void Sand Sea surged in, sweeping over him and tearing away layers of flesh,

His life force rapidly diminishing.

With his Divine Aspect core damaged, his combat strength plummeted.

However, the thin old man found a small consolation—

The Stellar Rank Calamity, after delivering its final destructive blow, finally dissipated!

Aurek had withstood a Stellar Rank counterattack.

The Divine Carapace absorbed most of the damage.

The thin old man, now reduced to a bloodied skeleton, seemed to have been flayed alive.

His eyes glowed with a sinister and terrifying glare.

He had survived the Stellar Rank Calamity!

But at an incredibly heavy cost.

His Divine Aspect core was critically damaged and on the brink of collapse, leaving him with only half a life.

And all of this was thanks to Aurek!

With a look of hatred, he stared at Aurek.

The watching powerful figures in the distance, seeing the thin old man in this state, felt a chill run down their spines!

Among them were many Stellar Rank experts who usually hid in the snow-capped mountains or in cities and towns...

But what they had in common was that they were all struggling to find a way to combat the Stellar Rank Calamity.

Today, they had witnessed the catastrophic power of the calamity firsthand.

While gaining experience, they also grew fearful.

One misstep, and they could end up like the fat old man—his tragic fate!

Sadly, many of them were far from possessing the deep foundation that these two old men had!

A heavy atmosphere lingered among them.

At that moment,

The Steelbreaker Wolfgang swung his Steelbreaking Longsword!

The sword light cracked the heavens!

Chilly blade energy covered the sky.

A brilliant, icy torrent of blades descended from the heavens!

It seemed as though thousands of meteors were falling, streaking across the sky!

In the cities below,

Billions of civilians looked up in awe.

On this day,

Tens of thousands of Bladesworn marched out of the city, descending upon the world.

Each sword, gleaming with a cold light, cut through the air,

Like streaks of deadly aurora, charging through the world.

Sainette turned to look, his brow furrowing slightly.

Many hidden ancient beings watched in horror, lost in thought.

Freya and the others also watched with grim expressions as the chilling sword light approached from the horizon!

Wolfgang pointed the sword forward,

Personally charging toward the battlefield!

Fifty thousand Bladesworn, at least Peak Master Rank, transformed into icy streaks of blade light, fiercely entering the chaotic battlefield.

Overthunder and War Bear led the attribute legions in the charge!

The attribute warriors, who had just wiped out the remaining Crimson Hills Master Rank experts, quickly adjusted their formation and killed their way into this new battlefield.

The summoned forces that had been used to suppress the Crimson Hills Grandmaster Rank were also being reassigned to intercept the forces of Blade City.

These fifty thousand Bladesworn were the powerful foundation of Blade City that had kept it standing tall!

The fierce and cold sword light ravaged the heavens and earth,

One strike from a sword could flatten a mountain peak.

Void Warlocks, Doomsday Warriors, Elemental Assassins, and Mountain Shieldbearers quickly formed hunting groups, efficiently targeting the Bladesworn attacking from the skies.

At this moment,

Over one hundred Grandmaster Rank experts flew in from behind!

Carrying Skyblade Domain and other divine aspects, they immediately charged at all the summoned units, reversing the tide of battle!

This was the true strength Blade City had called upon!

The lord's decree had been issued, meaning the forces were in a state of total war, swearing to utterly destroy Aurek and his forces!

The battle became incredibly brutal.

The cold sword light clashed with destructive lightning columns and energy shockwaves.

Blinding energy flashes and the sparks of metal clashes erupted in the dark.

The Bladesworn's sword energy and the energy fragments from the attribute warriors flew in all directions.

Severed limbs and shattered armor fell like rain.

It was as if a war between gods and demons was unfolding here!
