Chapter 248: Upgrading the Authority, Titan

"Who did this? Crossbridge Empire?"

Faer's heart sank.

The destruction of an Overlord Rank force in the Eastern Domain was a monumental event that could shake the world.

The priest nodded with difficulty and continued.

"Crossbridge Empire doesn't just have a few thousand Stellar rank; it has... two hundred thousand!"

Clink!

The rune in Faer's hand fell onto the sand table, making a crisp sound.

"Two... two hundred thousand Stellar rank warriors?!"

He exclaimed, his eyes widening in shock.

Alger's expression also changed dramatically.

The usually calm Patriarch of the Holy Church was momentarily stunned.

When he regained his composure, his brow furrowed.

"What exactly happened?"

The priest hastily recounted the fall of Ordon Theocracy.

Faer sucked in a sharp breath, staggering back a step.

Not a few thousand, but two hundred thousand!

"Where did Crossbridge Empire get so many Stellar rank?"

He couldn't help but lose his composure.

Only someone like Aurek would dare form an army with Stellar rank powerhouses as soldiers.

Having such a neighbor was no longer just unsettling; it was downright nerve-wracking!

Alger fell silent.

Two hundred thousand Stellar rank—that number was indeed terrifyingly huge.

Had all the Stellar ranks in the Eastern Domain gathered at the Fasior Plains?

Even more unbelievable was that they also possessed the legendary artifact!

Faer looked at Alger.

"Patriarch... should we still wait and watch?"

Alger could no longer maintain his calm and decisively said,

"I will return to the Holy Hall immediately. If the threat in the Fasior Plains is not eliminated, the entire Eastern Domain will never know peace."

Crossbridge Empire Palace

[Destroy Oracle Mountain, Emperor Point +151 billion...]

[Destroy Ordon Theocracy, Emperor Point +278 billion...]

[Legion losses: 23,360]

...

Aurek was carefully examining Sacco's Sacred Seal and the Sun Saint Tome legacy when the system panel provided a timely update.

This operation had cost the Empire's legion quite a bit.

But Aurek had been mentally prepared for this, and the losses were within expectations.

The Crossbridge Empire, established only for ten thousand years, indeed lacked top-tier powerhouses above the Divine Envoy level.

However, Oracle Mountain and Ordon Theocracy both possessed such beings.

Of course, such high-level powerhouses were rare.

Aurek was not concerned.

Though he had only one or two such high-level powerhouses, his Stellar rank legions were endless!

Upon reviewing the gains from Ordon Theocracy, Aurek was somewhat surprised.

A semi-hegemonic force like Ordon Theocracy only provided nearly a trillion Emperor Points, while a stronger force like Oracle Mountain, along with Bimat Highlands, barely provided over a trillion.

But Ordon Theocracy directly contributed over two trillion!

This showed just how immense the gap was between a semi-hegemonic force and a true Overlord Rank power.

This was, of course, a good thing.

There were plenty of forces in the Eastern Domain with even greater foundations than Ordon Theocracy.

Once all of them were subdued, the Emperor Points gained would be astronomical.

Perhaps enough to raise the Summon Legion Authority to level 11, or even 12!

That would mean having an Imperial Legion with Divine Envoy rank or even Sub-God level!

The current Emperor Points had already reached over four trillion, enough to upgrade the Doomsday Warrior to level 10.

[Emperor Points are sufficient, do you wish to upgrade the Doomsday Warrior Authority?]

Without hesitation, Aurek consumed 2.1 trillion Emperor Points to upgrade the Doomsday Warrior.

[Doomsday Warrior Authority upgraded to level 10, can now birth 6,400 Doomsday Warriors daily.]

[Emperor Points needed for next upgrade: 20 trillion.]

[Note: Level 10 Doomsday Warriors are equivalent to Sage rank 2nd tier.]

The moment had finally arrived!

Sage rank, a realm once considered unreachable by all, was now something he could produce 6,400 of every day!

The feeling was exhilarating!

The miraculous aspect of the attribute warrior authority was that, the higher the level, the stronger the army it birthed, and the number of warriors would grow exponentially.

Such an immense increase was almost unimaginable!

He checked the remaining Emperor Points, still two trillion.

It required 6.5 billion for Life Sorcerer, 7.5 billion for Mountain Shieldbearer, and 8 billion for Elemental Assassin.

Luckily, he had resisted the urge to upgrade earlier, otherwise, he wouldn't have had enough to upgrade the Doomsday Warrior.

But he wasn't in a rush to upgrade these legions, instead, he checked the Emperor's Scepter's fifth evolution requirements.

120 billion, which was well within his current point.

[Emperor's Scepter evolution requirements met, do you wish to evolve?]

Aurek fell into deep thought.

Should he evolve now?

Each time the evolution required Emperor Points, it increased by over twenty times.

Now, with the Sage rank legion, dealing with the Eastern Domain situation was no longer a problem.

However, the new attributes from evolution would require a massive amount of Emperor Points, which would slow down the upgrades for the other legions.

If he didn't use the points, the new legion wouldn't be very strong at first, and it wouldn't make much of a difference in the current war.

After long contemplation, he decided to temporarily hold off on upgrading the other three legions and prioritize seeing the power of the new legion.

The strategic value of the Void Warlock had already given him a great shock, making him eager to see the potential of the new attribute legion.

Having made up his mind, he confirmed the evolution.

In an instant, the Emperor's Dominion expanded around him.

Several summoning authority phantoms appeared, and under the power of the laws, a brand new attribute authority was mirrored.

With rapid consumption of Emperor Points, it turned into a lake surging with primal energy.

The lake's surface boiled, and an ancient stone totem broke through the water.

Looking at the information flowing from the totem, a sharp gleam flashed in Aurek's eyes.

[The fifth evolution of Emperor's Scepter is complete, new summonable legion acquired!]

[New legion name: Titan/Level 1]

[Titan quantity: 0]

[Initial level: 1]

[Emperor Points required for next upgrade: 900]

[Skills: Rage of Titan, Steel Skin]

[Note: Level 1 Titan Authority, can summon 10 Titans daily. Titans focus on unlocking pure physical strength, and as their level increases, their Titan body grows larger, their power becomes more pure, and they master ancient combat techniques like Rage of Titan and Steel Skin.]

Aurek looked at the description.

The essence of the Titan was to pursue the ultimate in physical strength, not delving into elements or mind power, but focusing on unlocking the potential of the flesh.

The Titan body could grow to ten meters, a hundred meters, a thousand meters... not only would its physique be indestructible, but its power would become pure to the extreme.

If it reached a higher level, the legend of shattering stars or overturning worlds would no longer be just a myth.

No complicated techniques, just the most direct and brutal display of power!

This was indeed an unexpected surprise.

[Emperor Points are sufficient, do you wish to upgrade the Titan Authority?]
