Chapter 307: The March to Selene Empire

Eura Continent, Godfall Gorge.

The demon aura grew denser, and even the air became thick and viscous.

Galenor's face was full of anxiety, but he felt helpless due to Suvorov's presence in the area.

At that moment, Angie arrived, bringing two golden imperial decrees, which she handed to Philip and Lucio.

The two unrolled the decrees, and the golden imperial wax seal merged with their bodies as the Empire's national power bolstered them. To their surprise, their previously dwindling lifespans began to grow longer.

"Your most loyal subjects thank the Emperor for his divine grace!"

They bowed deeply toward the heart of Crossbridge Empire, their eyes filled with astonishment and joy.

This divine title meant they were now irrevocably bound to Crossbridge Empire, gaining the protection of national power to counteract the life-reaping consequences of fate's predictions.

"The Emperor said that as you two sages are destined to face the backlash of the world's will, the Empire will never fail you in return for your efforts."

Angie said.

Aurek valued not only their strategies but also their ability to predict fate through astrology and Tarot, skills that would prove invaluable in time.

"Please report to His Majesty that we will give our last drop of blood for the Empire's cause!"

Philip answered respectfully.

Lucio added, "Lord Angie, through our divinations, we foresee that the passage seal will likely be fully breached in two to four months. Please ask His Majesty to prepare for what's to come."

Angie nodded and left, leaving the two men feeling the immense national power within their bodies, their eyes alight with a fierce determination.

Crossbridge Empire, Valoria Palace.

Aurek had just finished his duties when he began to study Sword Judgement Domain.

This godly swordsmanship was incredibly powerful, and when mastered to its fullest extent, it could create a sword domain, annihilating the very stars with a single strike!

In the two months of conquest, Overthunder, War Bear, Harry, and Tina had ravaged the continent, gathering Emperor Points and rare medicinal herbs, allowing Aurek's rank to steadily rise.

The Empire now had over 9 million summoned soldiers stationed at the Oracle Mountain barracks.

Just the Divine Cleric rank titans alone numbered over 3 million!

This number moved Aurek, and he now felt incredibly reassured.

Against the demon realm's overwhelming invasion, numbers were the greatest advantage!

"Your Majesty, the demon aura spilling out from the gorge is far more intense than before. Philip and Lucio's predictions were accurate; the fissure will likely be fully breached soon."

Suvorov quickly entered the hall and spoke solemnly.

"The news has spread, and the morale across the continent is sinking. People are in fear."

Aurek was not surprised.

Though the demon realm's invasion from a hundred thousand years ago had long passed, the fear was deeply embedded in the people's bones.

He spoke coolly, "Since they intend to come, we will wait for them."

He stood up and issued orders.

"Go to the Oracle Mountain barracks and send two million Divine Cleric rank titans to guard the fissure, along with all defensive legions. We must protect the passage."

"Understood!"

Suvorov knew that His Majesty intended to make up for the lack of high-level strong individuals by relying on the sheer number of Divine Cleric rank soldiers.

Aurek returned to his chambers and called up his attribute panel.

[Emperor Points sufficient. Would you like to upgrade the summoning army authority?]

The results of the conquests over the past two months were remarkable, and without hesitation, he chose to upgrade.

He spent 85 billion Emperor Points to upgrade the summoning authority of Elven Marksmen, Frostbound Warlocks, and Life Sorcerers to Level 12, corresponding to God Fire rank strength. Each could now summon 25,600 soldiers per day.

Next, he spent more Emperor Points to raise his own rank to Level 7 of Divine Cleric, causing the power of the sacred marks within his body to surge by several times.

"The threat of Selene Empire should be dealt with now."

He looked toward the direction of the Selene Empire, his eyes gleaming with sharp light.

If Elizabeth was not dealt with, when the demon realm invaded, he would be caught between two enemies.

"Convey my will, immediately ready the army and march on Selene Empire!"

"Order the armies at Bimat Highlands, Tylus, Goldflow Bay, and the southern regions to gather at the border immediately!"

Aurek's voice was firm as he issued the command.

Angie was stunned for a moment but quickly bowed and accepted the order.

The news spread, sending shockwaves throughout the Empire.

Gloria and Lucy were both deeply concerned.

The Selene Empire had deep foundations, and recently, many Divine Cleric rank warriors had emerged, including even higher-ranked beings. The risk of Aurek personally leading the attack was immense.

"General Suggwoth is still guarding the gorge. Without him, the Emperor's safety may not be guaranteed..."

Josephine frowned and said.

"Don't worry, since His Majesty has decided to lead the march, he must have confidence in his strength."

Lucy comforted her, "I'll accompany you and mentor."

Gloria nodded in agreement, but her worry was evident in her eyes.

At the same time,

Violet Thunder had already gathered 1.2 million soldiers for the border assault.

Three hundred thousand Divine Cleric rank titans, three hundred thousand Elemental Assassins, three hundred thousand Mountain Shieldbearers, and three hundred thousand Void Warlocks were assembling at the Kawah River, preparing to launch a fierce attack on Selene Empire.

Selene Empire Palace.

Empress Elizabeth sat upon her throne, listening to a report from Xiangnan, her eyes cold with resolve.

"Crossbridge Empire dares to declare war?"

"Convey my decree, mobilize all imperial legions for a full counterattack!"

"Understood!"

Xiangnan bowed and left.

In the palace chamber, a Mandrake-like shadow flickered, its voice ethereal.

"He tried to test you last time, and now he dares to act—he must have something up his sleeve."

"You should awaken the others, it's time to give him a proper lesson, lest he slips beyond your control."

"I want to see what his trump card really is."

A fire flashed in Elizabeth's eyes.

"If he truly possesses some world-shattering power, perhaps a different plan would be more fitting for us!"

Moments later, she personally rushed to the frontlines.

A massive golden dragon pulled her imperial chariot, tearing through the void and arriving at the Kawah River.

Behind her, hundreds of contracted deities in flower and plant forms circled, radiating divine light.

Over a dozen terrifying divine statues accompanied her, and the overwhelming divine pressure immediately halted the advancing Crossbridge Empire forces.

The heavens split, and the Waterwave Griffon and Flame Griffon drew the imperial chariot, with Aurek seated inside, holding the Glamer Holy Sword. Gloria and Lucy followed closely behind.

As they gazed at the distant divine statues, their faces grew grim.

The Selene Empire's strength was far more terrifying than they had imagined.

Empress Elizabeth locked her gaze on the imperial chariot, her lips curling into a meaningful smile.

Since he chose to resolve things through battle, this time, she would fully subdue him and unite Selene Empire with Crossbridge Empire!

Aurek's eyes were equally surprised.

He hadn't expected Selene Empire to have so many Divine Cleric rank warriors under Elizabeth's command, far beyond what he had anticipated.

No wonder she had always appeared so confident in her victory.

Aurek's gaze swept over the contracted deities in flower and plant forms, finally focusing on the dozen or so divine statues at the front.

Judging by the vast aura emanating from them, each one was a Grand Divine Cleric rank warrior.

His expression suddenly turned serious.

Had he moved earlier, he might have faced these powerful foes—after all, no one knew when or how Elizabeth had recruited them.

But one thing was certain: these Grand Divine Clerics had not existed before his conquest of the Eastern Domain.

Otherwise, Elizabeth would not have needed to cooperate with him; this power alone could have swept across Eura continent!

"Take down Aurek!"

Elizabeth gave the command to the Grand Divine Clerics behind her without hesitation.
