Chapter 353: The Mysterious Emperor

Aurek used the space law to probe, instantly understanding the secrets of this sanctuary.

The world rules and the essence of the heavens here were more perfect than those of the outside world.

He also realized how to control this Aetherian Sanctuary.

"Your Majesty,"

Elizabeth's voice sounded beside him, carrying a rare solemnity.

"The Gold Giant Gate outside is the gateway to this sanctuary. That gate is forged from the ancient and rare Starborne Gold, inscribed with long-lost ancient divine texts and supreme law patterns."

"In the records of the boundless star sea, Starborne Gold is known to be the hardest and most mysterious divine metal ever discovered."

"Once absorbed, even the most taboo of existences cannot harm it in the slightest. It perfectly guards these twelve sacred realms."

How powerful is a supreme taboo?

No one knows for sure.

Not even beings at the God King level or Sage King rank could leave a mark on that giant gate, let alone those of higher ranks.

Combining his understanding of the sanctuary with Elizabeth's explanation, Aurek gradually grasped everything.

That Gold Giant Gate was equivalent to the legendary Gate of the Divine!

To fully control this sanctuary, he would need to absorb the golden seal, comprehend the supreme divine texts and ancient inscriptions on the Gate of the Divine, and absorb the essence of the twelve sacred realms' core.

Ultimately, he would have to perceive, merge, and absorb the supreme laws that govern it, integrating them like the Heart of God, becoming the sole ruler of the sanctuary, and commanding everything within it.

However, given his current rank, he couldn't yet perceive those supreme laws.

Therefore, he could only begin by absorbing the sanctuary's core essence, the golden seal, and the Gate of the Divine, establishing his preliminary ownership. Later, he could explore the highest laws slowly.

As for the resources contained within, they were more than enough to train all the Empire's soldiers.

Josephine, Natasha, and others would be able to tap into them endlessly, ensuring their growth.

Even a single baptismal pool or holy tree here could allow them to make a significant leap in power.

This was undoubtedly the best gift given to him before Divine Dawn Day!

Twelve layers—twelve sacred realms!

Each layer had countless crystal temples, and just one layer could easily accommodate tens of millions.

This didn't even account for the seemingly empty, yet vast, sea of clouds surrounding the stars.

These were stars that had been intercepted and reshaped by supreme power.

The twelfth layer was the most expansive and complete.

The divine herb garden, the royal gardens, the baptismal pools, and the starlight waterfall—everything belonged to that layer.

Clearly, the creator of this place had also made it their permanent residence.

The temples had yet to be named, but Aurek was already considering names based on the divine halls he had seen in his memories...

Aurek slowly descended from the twelfth sacred realm.

It was a long while before he returned to the Gold Giant Gate.

Princess Belinda and the others looked reluctant.

Though they knew they could live here permanently, the dreamlike beauty of the place made it hard to leave.

However, the immediate priority was to let Aurek gain initial control over the sanctuary.

Stepping out of the sanctuary, Aurek temporarily stored it away with his Space Domain.

Josephine and the others looked dazed, as if they had just stepped into a mythical palace and were now back in the mundane world.

"Your Majesty,"

Natasha reminded him at the right moment.

"From the secret realm where we found it, the origins of the Gate of the Divine are likely more complex than the records suggest..."

She recounted the entire process of acquiring the Gold Giant Gate.

Including the demon race of giant elephants that had turned into withered bones and the Divine Gate guardian.

"If the Sage King rank artisan truly suffered a taboo strike and, before dying, hid the gateway to the Aetherian Sanctuary in the Snail Sea... why would he leave only a guardian at the semi-God King rank, who lacked full power, to watch over it?"

"Also, whether this is truly the work of that artisan is still questionable."

"Who is its true master, and how terrifying is their rank?"

These questions were easy to ponder.

"Let's not consider these things for now."

Aurek's voice was calm but firm.

From the grandeur of the sanctuary, it could be inferred that its original owner must have been an existence beyond their imagination!

Considering such power, further thoughts were just unnecessary worries.

"You don't need to return to the Demon Realm for now. We will address everything after Divine Dawn Day."

Natasha nodded in agreement.

Cyriel stepped forward and bowed devoutly.

"Your Majesty, the Dawonru Empire is gathering troops on a large scale, and their military has issued formal orders."

"When we returned, we encountered strong resistance. The one who intervened was extraordinarily powerful."

"Yes! I almost forgot to report this."

Natasha immediately added, "Earlier, the Four-Winged Demon Legion submitted a battle report to the Dawonru military, and this war has attracted attention from many forces."

"Therefore, the Four-Winged Demon Legion is rapidly increasing its forces. From what we observed, it seems that the official military orders have been given, and the top-tier forces of the Dawonru Empire have already begun to intervene in this war."

Large-scale military forces?!

Aurek's lips curled into a cold smile.

Now, with millions of summoned units above the Divine Cleric rank, they were already lined up, waiting for their arrival!

What the Empire lacked at the moment were top-tier experts.

Otherwise, he would have already led the army into the Demon Realm. There was no need for the enemy to come knocking.

But with the resources available in the sanctuary, it was more than enough to cultivate enough high-level experts.

This gift had come at just the right time, as if someone had handed him a pillow when he was weary.

Aurek said no more, immediately commanding that Suggwoth, Harry, and others stationed at Godfall Canyon and the Oracle Mountains be recalled to Eryndor City.

As for Natasha and the others, apart from focusing on their ascension, they were to start preparing for the various tasks of Divine Dawn Day.

The gears of the Empire were now accelerating with the newfound foundation and the impending war.

Outside Valoria Palace

"What a lively place!"

"This world is so fascinating!"

The diminutive Blood Lion Reo blinked its six eyes, curiously examining the human world around it.

Having been trapped in the secret realm for so long, everything it saw here was filled with endless curiosity, and it chattered nonstop.

Zach, standing beside it, could hardly contain his irritation.

It was hard to believe that this creature, which had almost taken his life and forced him to use every ounce of strength to fight back, was now so fascinated by everything.

However, now, he was more curious about the palace in front of him...

From what he had seen, he had already figured out that the true master behind the Court of Darkness, the supreme existence who could make Natasha obey, was the emperor living in this palace.

What kind of charm and authority did this emperor possess, to make a True God-level expert serve him?

In his understanding, even a True God-level expert would be considered strong in the Abyss Demon Realm, let alone in this lower-tier world!

After a long while, Natasha's figure slowly emerged from the palace gates.

"Master!"

Blood Lion Reo immediately ran toward her.

Zach also stepped forward, placing his hand on his chest to salute Natasha.

"In this Eryndor City, you two should keep a low profile."

"If you cause any trouble, I won't be able to protect you!"

Natasha warned them.

Zach nodded, his eyes fixed on Natasha, though he seemed hesitant to speak.

Natasha understood his thoughts and immediately handed him two divine herbs and some rare treasures.

Zach quickly reached out to take them.

When he saw the bottle of liquid from the Starlight Sacred Pool, his heart surged with excitement!

The divine aura it radiated was pure beyond measure!
