

Gods Daily 354

Chapter 354: The Tribute of the Dawonru Empire

"Since you have sworn allegiance to the Court of Darkness, I will not treat you unfairly. These items will be enough to help you advance to the God General rank."

"Thank you for your grace, esteemed lady!"

Zach, who is currently at the Semi-God General rank, will play a crucial role in the upcoming war once he advances. This is one of the reasons Natasha chose to keep him.

However, she gave him another reminder.

"As for everything that happened in that secret realm, it is best for you to bury it in your heart forever."

"Rest assured, I promise not to reveal a word!"

Zach, having received the divine medicine, was already satisfied.

After all, he could not open the Gold Giant Gate.

He was unaware of what kind of opportunities or dangers it contained.

The gains he had received thus far were already a pleasant surprise.

On the other hand, Reo eagerly followed Natasha's steps.

He envied the reward Zach had received, but he understood one thing: as long as he did his part well, the benefits in the future would not be lacking!

...

The Emperor's Sleeping Chamber.

Aurek's rank had now reached the Semi-True God realm.

With the backing of the Empire's power, his strength was now comparable to that of a God King, and he possessed enough trump cards to slay a God King!

He began attempting to absorb the golden seal and then continued to absorb the core of the Aetherian Sanctuary.

"Absorbing and mastering it will clearly not be completed quickly, but once it is, it will not only raise my rank but also help me comprehend the true principles of the world."

The Supreme Divine Runes and ancient divine writings inscribed on the Gold Giant Gate were equally mysterious.

Absorbing them would bring him unimaginable benefits.

"Furthermore, with the supreme sacred texts collected in the Sanctuary, my path to advancement will encounter no obstacles!"

Aurek was overjoyed inside.

Some of the divine techniques within were even more profound than the Song of the Gods Awakening and other divine techniques.

The resources in the Sanctuary were nearly infinite, and Aurek planned to use them to fully accelerate his advancement and reach the True God realm!

In the afternoon, Suggwoth, Harry, Tina, Overthunder, War Bear, Golden Armor, and others arrived at the sleeping chamber to pay their respects.

Suggwoth had already advanced to the God General rank.

Harry had reached the Semi-Grand Divine Cleric rank.

Tina had just advanced to the Fourth Stage of Divine Cleric.

Overthunder, War Bear, Golden Armor, and the others had also reached the Divine Cleric rank.

The progress from Divine Envoy to Divine Cleric was a result of continuous battles.

This campaign had been particularly smooth.

In the face of the sweeping power of the Empire's God Fire realm experts, most of the forces on the Eura continent chose to submit, with only a few putting up a desperate fight.

Aurek bestowed the sacred medicines, holy liquids, and other resources from the Sanctuary to the group.

Their sole task now was to rapidly increase their strength to prepare for the coming war!

With abundant resources, there were no longer the previous constraints!

...

The Headquarters of the Four-Winged Demon Legion.

High-ranking demon generals stood solemnly within the hall.

At the head of the hall sat five middle-aged men wearing the imperial robes of the Dawonru Empire, including Wesley.

Their auras were solemn, and an invisible pressure distorted the surrounding celestial energy and law trajectories.

Four of them were True God realm experts sent by the military.

Deputy Director of the Military Department, Ganseng.

Imperial Colonel Barris.

Palace Secretary Fett and Osinger.

Although their positions in the Empire's core circle might not be the highest, each of them held a position of great respect within the Four-Winged Demon Legion headquarters.

Their ranks were higher than Wesley's, and with their True God realm power, their status was even more exalted.

No one could compare to Wesley, a low-ranked Great Lord, in terms of status or position.

"Regarding the intelligence about the Eura continent, I believe everyone is already aware?"

Ganseng spoke casually, addressing Wesley.

His mission was not just to assist in the battle but to win it decisively, take control of the Eura continent, and accumulate military merit for his future promotion.

At that time, the Demon Emperor Hankley could report to the Overseer, and his chances of becoming a high-ranking officer in the military would increase significantly.

Such an opportunity was not something he would miss.

Wesley nodded in response.

"Lord Ganseng, we have confirmed that the enemy has at least three to four million Divine Cleric rank troops on the surface."

"As for the top-tier experts, they have not exposed themselves too much, most of their forces are stationed in the Godfall Gorge and Oracle Mountain range on the Eura continent."

"The Eura continent has been unified, and the Crossbridge Empire is shining with great power. On the first day of next month, the emperor of the Crossbridge Empire will officially be crowned and announce his dominion over the world!"

"Next month, the first day?"

Ganseng exchanged glances with Barris, Fett, and Osinger.

"There are only a few days left. Has the Four-Winged Demon Legion prepared to invade the Eura continent?"

Wesley nodded.

"The conscription is nearly complete. The main forces are now gathering in the Secondary Demon Realm, about four million demon legions plus one million Darkness Demon Race troops from the Secondary Demon Realm. We've also recruited two million reserve soldiers."

"Then let's set the date for the full-scale attack on their Divine Dawn Day!"

Ganseng sneered.

"Since the Emperor of the Empire is going to be crowned, we cannot go empty-handed. We must present a generous gift, don't you think?"

Barris, Fett, and Osinger all agreed.

"On the day of the coronation, the enemy's focus will undoubtedly be on the celebration. That will be the best time to strike."

"Everything will follow the arrangement of the esteemed lords!"

Wesley had long been eager for battle. Upon careful calculation, Divine Dawn Day was indeed the best opportunity.

"Lord Wesley, you are mistaken,"

Fett corrected with a smile, "The matter of leading the troops into battle will be fully entrusted to you."

"We are here only to supervise the battle and observe the situation on the Eura continent, to make it easier to report back to Demon Emperor Hankley. The specific commands will be under your discretion."

He glanced at Ganseng.

Ganseng nodded: "Yes, the specific deployment of the battle will be decided by Lord Wesley. We are only here to offer suggestions."

"We will need to rely on your assistance, esteemed lords!"

Wesley understood this kind of rhetoric well. Everyone was clear on each other's goals.

He continued, "According to the intelligence, there are True God realm experts hiding on the Eura continent. Once the war begins, we will need the esteemed lords to suppress them."

"True God realm experts?"

The four of them were somewhat surprised.

They looked at Wesley, filled with doubt.

"Are you sure the scout's intelligence is correct?"

Wesley nodded confidently: "The intelligence has been confirmed, and they also possess a Chaotic Artifact."

The four of them grew serious at once.

If there truly were True God realm experts with a Chaotic Artifact, this war could become quite tricky.

It seemed that this gilded task was not going to be easy.

What exactly had happened on the Eura continent?

Could it really be because of that Emperor Aurek?

Wesley shifted his tone.

"However, esteemed lords, rest assured. That Chaotic Artifact will be dealt with."

"Who will deal with it?"

Ganseng asked curiously.

Wesley slowly replied,

"The Firmament Sage!"

Hmm!?

The four of them's pupils contracted, and their hearts were shaken.