Chapter 356: Divine Dawn Day

The two of them looked up toward the distance.

Now, the entire Eura continent was bathed in golden light, with the sacred glow spreading across the sky.

The air was filled with the essence of the laws of the world, and divine patterns flickered faintly in the air.

These phenomena had been occurring for several days.

Atop the Empire's God Mountain, a towering Sacred Light Platform had been forged, with steps leading straight up to the clouds.

Endless golden dawn rays cascaded down, and faint silhouettes of countless beasts could be seen swirling in the celestial light.

The Eastern Domain, Fasior Plains, Tylus Region, Solrens Region, Goldflow Bay...

Godfall Gorge, the Savage Lands, the Central Region, and other parts of the Empire—all the citizens seemed to feel a mysterious sense of calling, and they all instinctively looked up at the sky.

The celestial phenomena covered the entire Eura continent, with boundless holy light blessing all living things.

It was a declaration to the world that Divine Dawn Day was about to arrive!

...

Three days later.

Valoria Palace.

Aurek had absorbed part of the Aetherian Sanctuary's core essence and, with the help of its resources, had successfully advanced to the True God realm.

His core of laws and his divine soul underwent a complete transformation, coalescing into the immortal Heart of God.

This leap made him feel a transcendent evolution at the soul level.

Buzz—!

As he stepped out of the Emperor's Sleeping Palace, the emperor's ethereal figure, high in the clouds, suddenly emitted a loud hum that echoed through the heavens.

The entire sky was enveloped in layers of misty sacred light, and divine patterns swirled like a tide.

The beasts roared, and countless spirits of life spiraled in the void as if they were welcoming their sovereign.

All the billions of living beings on Eura continent looked up at this moment.

Divine Dawn Day!

It was destined to become the most glorious Chapter in the history of the world, and future generations would forever remember this day.

A great emperor had completed an unprecedented unification, ushering in a brand-new era.

Boom—!

The emperor's royal chariot, drawn by nine sacred dragons, soared through the sky.

These nine dragons had been captured from the three thousand states after the continent was unified. They carried a thick ancient bloodline and were surrounded by extraordinary celestial phenomena, exuding divine majesty!

The royal chariot proceeded toward the Empire's God Mountain.

"Long live the Emperor! The glory of the Empire is eternal!"

"May the gods bless the Crossbridge Empire, and its glory endure forever!"

"We, your most devoted subjects, welcome your divine presence..."

The citizens of Eryndor City knelt in unison beneath the royal chariot, offering their devout kneelings and blessings.

The humiliation of the past vanished in that moment.

The blood, pride, and glory of the Crossbridge people reached unprecedented heights.

"Long live the Emperor! The Empire is eternal!"

A wave of sincere shouts reverberated across the heavens and earth.

The royal chariot entered the domain of God Mountain.

The entire God Mountain was enveloped in a divine light, dazzling and resplendent.

Above the sky, divine laws spiraled, and the Flower of Laws bloomed in midair. Beams of holy light cascaded down like waterfalls, spreading over the stairway leading to the clouds.

Camiel, Heimerdinger, Gaia, Chuck, Lighton, Harland, Rand, and others who had already been waiting here stood solemnly, gazing up.

Steurn, Wak, Old Jace, and others had also hurried back from different locations, their faces filled with excitement as they looked to the sky.

On the high platform.

Empress Josephine, Princess Sophia, Princess Belinda, Natasha, and Elizabeth were all dressed in the most ceremonial court attire, watching as the emperor's royal chariot approached.

A sense of supreme pride filled their hearts.

Only they could stand at this pinnacle and share this unparalleled glory.

Aurek stepped down from the royal chariot and ascended the high platform.

He stood tall, his regal gaze sweeping over the world.

In his hand, he tightly gripped the Emperor's Scepter, a symbol of ultimate authority, and with each step, he ascended the Sacred Light Stairway.

His jeweled royal robe fluttered in the wind, and his sharp eyes sparkled with unprecedented determination, confidence, and absolute power!

Nothing could stop him from ascending this stairway to the highest throne!

Will, Neo, General Roosevelt, Mac...

These former overlords or rulers could now only stand on the walls, gazing up at that unparalleled figure.

In their eyes, the mark of complete defeat was engraved.

They were forever trampled beneath his feet, destined to only gaze at his back for the rest of their lives!

Benjamin, Joanna...

Everyone looked up.

Their thoughts varied.

Aurek, at roughly their age, had already stood at the summit of Eura Continent, accomplishing the great feat of unifying the land.

This achievement had won the respect of all the beings on the continent!

Even if Joanna felt bitterness and jealousy deep inside, she had no choice but to admit that Aurek, the ruler of the Crossbridge Empire, was the undisputed emperor!

"The Demon God above, what an overwhelming aura!"

"No wonder he could easily destroy Twilight City... this momentum is so immense, he must be at the God King realm, at the very least!"

Zach gazed at the scene, his heart filled with shock.

To think such a terrifying emperor had emerged from such a lower world plane—it was almost unbelievable.

Just standing beneath him, it felt as if one was in the absolute domain of his immense presence.

An undeniable, tyrannical will influenced his soul, and he instinctively felt the desire to submit, without any resistance.

"True God realm!"

"No, this overwhelming aura is comparable to the God King realm!"

Painek was also gazing up.

His usually calm eyes now surged with a storm of emotions.

Having been away from his homeland for so long, seeing such a monumental change upon his return left him feeling somewhat unfamiliar!

He had originally thought that after advancing to the God General realm, he would return and look down upon all beings, but he didn't expect to return and have to look up at a younger generation!

His heart was filled with mixed emotions.

He watched Aurek ascend the staircase step by step, a slight bitterness rising within him.

This younger generation's brilliance was so dazzling that anyone who came near would be overshadowed.

Even though it was difficult to accept, it was an irrefutable truth!

Aster, Camiel, and the others were equally overwhelmed with emotion.

Their eyes were fixed on the young figure climbing the stairs, and the shock within them was beyond words.

Although they had prepared themselves mentally before returning, still...

This God King-level aura was emanating from such a young emperor.

It had appeared in just over a year's growth!

When they heard about Aurek and the Crossbridge Empire's rise from Galenor,

They had no choice but to admit that this was a miracle that completely overturned their understanding.

More and more eyes were focused on that figure.

The chants of devotion grew louder.

Aurek, however, remained calm and serene within.

This was how it should be!

He stepped onto the clouds but did not halt his upward stride.

With each step, a new law-based stairway materialized beneath his feet.

At the highest point of the heavens, endless celestial law patterns rapidly gathered and transformed into a storm of laws.

Countless spiritual figures entered the center of the storm, and the source of the world, along with the sacred light, finally coalesced into an incredibly holy throne!

The throne radiated golden light across the sky.

Aurek stepped up to the throne, gazing at the divine seat made just for him.

The entire Eura continent could see this magnificent scene.

Countless beings looked up, holding their breath, gazing up with awe!

Painek and the others were completely focused.

At this moment...

Everything was silent!
