Chapter 368: God General-Level Legions

Aurek's expression did not lighten even after gaining a massive amount of Emperor Points; instead, it became heavier.

He had lost a total of 3.4 million attribute warriors!

Although this accounted for less than one percent of the total force of tens of millions, the number itself was striking.

In the decisive battle with the 8 million Imperial troops on the Eura continent, the loss of attribute warriors was far less than this.

However, after stepping into the Abyss Demon Realm, the casualties had sharply increased, which was something he had to be highly cautious about.

He clearly realized that this huge discrepancy in losses was likely due to the presence of the enemy's God General-level or even higher-tier experts.

These individual powerhouses were able to deliver devastating strikes, disrupting the balance of the battlefield.

Now, over 20 million Imperial soldiers had already invaded Dawonru Empire's lands.

Whether to uphold the Empire's face or eliminate the threat, the enemy would undoubtedly deploy more forces and send more powerful top-tier experts to the frontlines.

The pressure on Suggwoth and others would increase exponentially.

Such an interdimensional expedition, without a sufficient number of high-tier experts stationed, could cause even a 20 million-strong elite army to be wiped out in an instant by a true God King-level powerhouse!

Not to mention the possibility of a Sage King-level expert lurking deep within the Dawonru Empire.

On the Eura continent, Aurek was unafraid of any challenge due to the support of the world's will.

But once he ventured deeper into the Abyss Demon Realm, he would lose the advantages of the terrain and laws, placing the Imperial army in a very disadvantageous position!

This potential disadvantage unsettled him.

Therefore, it was necessary to elevate the authority of the attribute warriors to level 16.

With 28 trillion Emperor Points, it was enough to complete the crucial upgrade.

Currently, the Elemental Assassins were at level 15, comparable to High God-level strength.

The Titans, Elven Marksmen, and Mountain Shieldbearers were at level 14, on par with Grand Divine Cleric-level warriors.

Other units like the Doomsday Warriors, Frostbound Warlocks, Life Sorcerers, and Void Warlocks were all at level 13.

[Emperor Points are sufficient, do you wish to upgrade the attribute warrior authority?]

[Yes, No!]

The system prompt appeared.

Without hesitation, Aurek chose to upgrade the Frostbound Warlock and Void Warlock levels.

[Frostbound Warlock authority has been upgraded to level 16.]

[Daily production: 409,600 units of level 16 Frostbound Warlocks.]

[Next upgrade requires 85 trillion Emperor Points!]

[New Legion skill: Absolute Zero.]

[Note: Level 16 Frostbound Warlocks have base combat power equivalent to the 1st level of God General.]

...

Though he had anticipated this, seeing the ability to produce 409,600 warriors in one day still left Aurek stunned.

He did not continue upgrading but fell into a brief silence.

Though he had already predicted this possibility, the shock was still immense when it became a reality.

In one day, the Empire could now produce 400,000 God General-level warriors!

This meant that every day, the Empire could form a super legion of 400,000 God General-level warriors.

And this was sustainable!

From today on, the baseline for the Empire's elite troops would shift from numerous Divine Cleric-level warriors to a force where God General-level warriors were commonplace.

A legion like this, entering the battlefield, would send waves of panic through the Abyss Demon Realm—Aurek couldn't even imagine the magnitude of that!

But it was certain that this would reverse the pressure Suggwoth currently faced and stabilize the battlefield in the Abyss Demon Realm!

Any previous discomfort in his heart was now gone.

Aurek was completely unconcerned about the consumption of 20 trillion Emperor Points.

He continued to invest the remaining Emperor Points.

The Void Warlock's authority was currently at level 13.

The required points for further upgrades would be immense, and Aurek was highly focused on this.

As the level of Void Warlocks increased, their control over the essence of space would deepen, and their power would become even more terrifying.

While most of the wars had been confined to the Eura continent, where Void Warlocks mainly played a supporting role, the strategic value of units like the Titans and Doomsday Warriors had yet to fully stand out.

However, in an interdimensional expedition, the position of Void Warlocks would become irreplaceable.

As one of the most fundamental forces in the structure of the world, the power of space was terrifying. Aurek, who held the power of space, understood this better than anyone.

[Space attribute warrior authority has been upgraded to level 15, daily production of 204,800 units.]

[Next upgrade requires 70 trillion Emperor Points.]

[New Legion skills: Dimensional Ridge, Plane Shift, Celestial Abyss.]

[Note: Level 15 Void Warlocks are equivalent to the 1st level of High God.]

The upgrade cost for Void Warlocks was far higher than for other units.

Just upgrading to level 15 had consumed over 200 trillion Emperor Points.

However, Void Warlocks were a critical part of Aurek's strategic layout. They not only impacted the current interdimensional war but also the Empire's future expeditions and defense systems.

Now, with the Emperor's Scepter brimming with energy, Aurek did not even need to visit Oracle Mountain.

Instead, he directly created an independent dimension in Valoria Palace to receive and assemble the newly born warriors.

In the next moment, 400,000 Frostbound Warlocks appeared.

They were dressed in crystal-clear ice armor, exuding an aura like goddesses sculpted from ice and snow, their presence causing the very fabric of the dimension to freeze.

In addition, 200,000 Void Warlocks had also assembled.

After the upgrade, their control over the essence of space was much more refined, allowing them to stabilize small dimensions for brief periods.

These 400,000 God General-level Frostbound Warlocks and 200,000 High God-level Void Warlocks were sent by Aurek to reinforce Suggwoth in the Abyss Demon Realm.

The remaining attribute warriors were temporarily deployed at Oracle Mountain, ready for action at a moment's notice.

"Dawonru Empire's ruler Gustav? Great Demon Emperor Hankley?"

"Let me see what else you have left!"

Aurek looked toward the boundless sky, his eyes filled with even greater disdain.

A God General-level legion!

Does the Dawonru Empire have one of these? How many can they muster?

Now, he no longer needed to worry about the threat posed by the enemy's conventional legions.

The only thing that required careful attention was the top-tier experts hidden within the Dawonru Empire.

However, with a legion of God General-level warriors like today's, Aurek could send one to the Abyss Demon Realm every day from now on, bringing the deepest despair to the Dawonru Empire!

At this moment, not only had he gained an enormous amount of Emperor Points, but he also possessed nearly limitless resources from the Aetherian Sanctuary.

With these resources, Aurek had the confidence to raise his rank further, even pushing toward the legendary Sage King level!

Moreover, these resources would support the promotion of special Hero Rank units like Harry, Tina, as well as core ministers like Queen Josephine, Sophia, and others.

With Eura continent unified, Crossbridge Empire's position was secure.

Aurek's next plan was to fully take control of the Aetherian Sanctuary and relocate the Imperial Palace within it.

With the Divine Gate forged from Starborne Gold guarding it, the Empire's central hub would be protected against any external threats, ensuring its absolute security!
