Chapter 452: Titans from the Myths

At the same time.

From the Holy Kare Mountains, an envoy galloped day and night to deliver urgent intelligence.

The report detailed the Council of the Dark Order's latest movements, as well as a grand scheme they had laid using the Court of Prophecy.

After reading it, Aurek did not dare to underestimate the situation.

The trap devised by the Council of the Dark Order truly caught him by surprise.

That the Ossuary Court would take the opportunity to stir up trouble was one thing—but for the god realm to descend upon the Eura Continent in force at the same time was far more dangerous.

If Kaos had not been stationed there, Aurek would have been forced to personally return for reinforcements.

And once he did, the plan to personally lead the campaign against the demon realm would essentially be declared a failure.

Moreover, the Council of the Dark Order was clearly brewing something in the shadows. The overall momentum was beginning to tilt in their favor.

Aurek did not underestimate the impact of this arrangement.

If it was not dismantled, it would mean that unexpected incidents could occur repeatedly during the campaign against the Council. Even if the Council were ultimately destroyed, the empire's foundations might be severely eroded by a chain of unforeseen crises.

"Order Lucio and Philip to spare no effort in deciphering this magic formation," Aurek commanded.

"In addition, relay the order—Ares, Stillness Sage, and Starbound Savant are to return to the Eura Continent immediately."

Void Warlocks instantly traversed space, crossing realms to transmit the imperial decree.

Aurek then turned his focus to his own breakthrough—to master the Myriad Judgment Domain.

As for the attribute legions, Level-18 Void Warlocks were already capable of wielding spatial laws. Killing a sage king across ranks was effortless for them.

This was the terrifying power granted by their special attribute. Once spatial laws were mastered, the true might of the Void Warlocks erupted completely.

Even a sage king would have to think twice when faced with an overwhelmingly massive Void Warlock legion.

As for the Soul Warlocks, with combat strength at the God King level, eliminating sage kings was now as easy as slaughtering those of the Ossuary Court.

The newly unlocked Burning Soul Fire was an even more dreadful skill—one that could intimidate sage kings outright.

Simply pushing these two newly upgraded legions to the front lines was already sufficient.

Taking advantage of this window, Aurek began consuming Emperor Points to advance his own rank—and activated one of the divine medicines:

Radiant Sunflower of Divine Glory.

This was a lower-grade authority divine medicine, containing both law-origin essence and authority-grade medicinal effects.

Its authority properties alone were enough to significantly enhance Aurek's strength.

Council of the Dark Order.

James stood before the forbidden Dark Hill, deep within the restricted lands.

At his side stood Hayden, Barclay, and the other Swords of Order, along with former Speaker Blair and a quasi-sage lord powerhouse, all gazing intently at the dark hill.

Even the ancient stargazer of the Court of Prophecy was present.

"How much longer will it take?"

Barclay suddenly asked.

Blair replied, "It has already reached the critical threshold. Now it's only a matter of timing."

The ancient stargazer spoke slowly, "If Lord Christ can step into the sage lord realm and then wield the Ouros Disc, this World Relic alone will increase the Council's overall momentum by at least fifty percent."

"At that point, eliminating the Crossbridge Empire will be a certainty."

Hearing this, the remaining Swords of Order all breathed a sigh of relief.

Out of the original eighteen Swords of Order, fourteen had already fallen.

The earlier activation of the Ouros Disc had been precisely to buy time and create the right conditions for Christ's ascension to sage lord—preventing Aurek from interfering midway.

Once Christ reached the sage lord realm, combined with a World Relic, killing Aurek would no longer be difficult.

James pondered briefly, then said,

"Go and contact the Judicatory Sanctum and the Gargoyle Clan. Bring them into this as well."

"If the Council falls, they won't be able to stay out of the Crossbridge Empire's blade either."

The others nodded silently.

Pulling in these two major powers would not only allow them to jointly block the Crossbridge Empire, but also launch a combined counterattack—annihilating it completely and eliminating all future threats.

Heavenlight God Realm.

The God Mountain Holy Army guarding the spatial rift had not even had time to react when millions of destructive lightning pillars suddenly crashed down!

Boom!

Bang!

BOOOOM—!

Explosions roared without end.

"Ahhh—!"

"What's happening?!"

Countless guards were instantly vaporized in the lightning.

Some survivors retreated in terror.

"What's going on?! What the hell is happening?!"

Jeremy, the deputy commander of the God Mountain Holy Army, retreated while furiously probing the rift.

General Zuurul had only just led his forces inside. Instead of good news, they were met with such a violent counterattack!

"General Zuurul and the God Mountain Holy Army... have been completely annihilated!"

"The Eura Continent is full of God General— and True God—rank powerhouses—this is their counteroffensive!"

The guards who had escaped quickly shouted, still shaken with fear.

If their duty had not been to guard the entrance of the passage, they would likely have been reduced to ash as well!

Jeremy was utterly stunned.

The Eura Continent launching a counterattack into the god realm?

Was this some kind of joke?!

He had no time to dwell on it. With a wave of his hand, he swept up the surviving guards and retreated at full speed.

Meanwhile, the violent fluctuations at the rift had already alarmed the nearby Ael Fortress, Ironcrown Fortress, and Sacred Light Fortress.

The three fortresses rapidly mobilized tens of millions of troops, converging toward the rift passage to intercept the invaders.

The Lords of the three fortresses—

Bob of Ael Fortress,

Hale of Ironcrown Fortress,

Todd of Sacred Light Fortress—

All three were sage king–rank powerhouses!

These fortresses were located in Unar Province, one of the one hundred and eight provinces of Olympian God Mountain, at the edge of the mid-realm Starreach Province.

Starreach Province possessed a Star Corridor connecting to the outer starry heavens.

It was precisely through this Star Corridor that Olympian God Mountain had discovered a weak point in the world barrier of the Eura Continent.

The heavy responsibility of conquering the Eura Continent thus fell upon the governor of Unar Province.

His name was Rupert, a Sacred Radiance—rank being!

At the rift passage.

After the savage cleansing unleashed by the Doomsday Warriors, Pippin led tens of millions of imperial troops surging out of the rift, rapidly spreading out into formation.

At the same time, five million elite main-force legions—at the God General and True God levels—followed them across.

Josephine, Elizabeth, Fiona, and Belinda, together with Beyoncé, stepped through the rift, breathing in the far denser origin divine power and law aura of the Heavenlight God Realm.

"How dare you trespass upon the territory of God Mountain—death without mercy!"

Bob of Ael Fortress roared.

The sonic wave of a sage king, carrying sacred might and crushing law pressure, swept toward the tens of millions of Crossbridge Empire troops.

Behind him, tens of millions of city-defense soldiers charged forward, howling.

These were not regular legions. Their strength varied wildly—Divine Clerics, Grand Divine Clerics, High Gods, and even God Generals were mixed among them.

At the same time, Hale and Todd, arriving from Ironcrown Fortress and Sacred Light Fortress, also commanded their armies to charge!

One million True God–rank titans stepped forward in unison.

Nearly one million True God–rank Soul Warlocks and Void Warlocks manifested simultaneously.

RUMBLE—!

In an instant—

Every titan’s body began to expand at terrifying speed, transforming into colossal giants nearly one hundred thousand meters tall!

Like ancient titans stepping straight out of myth.

Their overwhelming presence caused the charging fortress armies to stall in shock.

At that very moment, the Void Warlocks moved.

Spatial attribute skills activated instantly, freezing the fortress powerhouses in place and layering spatial overlaps into countless seals.

Even Bob, Hale, and Todd, along with numerous God Kings and True Gods, were bound by spatial force.

The Soul Warlocks seized the opportunity, unleashing Consciousness Collapse, True Spirit Annihilation, and other soul-based attacks.

In the blink of an eye, vast swathes of True God– and God King–rank enemies were instantly wiped out.

Even the mind power of sage kings like Bob, Hale, and Todd fell into chaos—their souls suffering devastating damage.
