

Gods Daily 580

Chapter 580: Tablet of Destiny, Mastering Fate

After the meeting concluded, the other branch leaders left one after another. Only the Sea God of the Star Sea and Sophia remained in the grand hall.

"Grandfather."

Sophia saluted.

Though she had reincarnated once, she had now regained her memories. She was Sophia, the granddaughter of the Sea Temple Master.

The Sea God of the Star Sea knew about her reincarnation. When the God of Wisdom and the War Executor returned, he learned that his granddaughter was now the Empress of the Crossbridge Empire.

"Are you planning to return?" he asked.

Sophia nodded and then asked, "Grandfather, what exactly is the Tablet of Destiny?"

The Sea God of the Star Sea fell silent for a moment.

"Those who ascend the Tablet of Destiny, as long as they don't die, are destined to reach the Empyrean Sanctum. They will also gain a portion of luck and have the opportunity to bear the will of fate."

"Bear the will of fate?" Sophia's pupils contracted. "Are you saying... that they will have the opportunity to reach the eternal Sage Rank?"

The Eternal Sage Rank!

That was a legendary rank.

At least up to now, she hadn't heard of anyone truly reaching that step. No one knew how terrifying that rank really was.

There was only one rumor, saying that the Eternal Sage Rank could see the Fate River, peer into the fates of all beings, and control destiny!

The Sea God of the Star Sea nodded.

But then he continued, "However, nothing is absolute. The key is survival. As long as you've ascended the tablet, there's a chance."

He didn't plan to intervene with Sophia's position as Empress. The Crossbridge Empire was indeed surrounded on all sides, but the man at the top of the Tablet of Destiny had unimaginable potential.

"Also," the Sea God of the Star Sea looked at Sophia. "The Starfont Divine Court and the Reincarnation Divine Court are already negotiating an alliance."

"Just like when they dealt with the Star Divine Court back then, they plan to launch a full-scale war against the Crossbridge Empire. The forces from all regions of the Star Sea will be involved. The old forces from the Star Source World and the Reincarnation World will also intervene."

He paused and continued, "Although I am the Grand Master of the Sea God Temple, the Pantheon's restraints on me prevent me from doing much. I can't mobilize the Judges. I can at most send a few True Sage Masters and potential Empyrean Sanctum experts to help, but with such a small number..."

He didn't finish his sentence, but the meaning was clear.

A drop in the ocean!

Sophia didn't say much.

She understood her grandfather's difficulties. She had to quickly send these messages back to the Aetherian Sanctuary.

...

Since the meeting between the Stellar Saint-Emperor and the Reincarnation Holy Emperor, the battles near the Endless Forest Sea had ceased.

In the Fire Extreme Star Domain, a large hall sat two opposing forces.

From the Starfont Divine Court, there were the Eternal Glory God King, Starwatcher God-King, and the seven marquises.

From the Reincarnation Divine Court, Dark Keep's War God, Hellshark, and others had arrived.

Also present were the Apocalypse Temple Master Lindsey, the Slaughter Angel from the True Knowledge Council, Thunder Warden Clan Leader Leon, the Lord of the Endless River, the Lord of the Four Symbols Secret Realm, and the Lord of the Starry Realm...

The heads of various forces of the Star Sea had gathered.

"Storm Thunder God is dead, and we have a general idea of Aurek's strength; he possesses Empyrean Sanctum-level battle power."

The Lord of the Sanctuary of Peace, Leonel, laid out the information they had gathered.

"But besides the Eternal Sunfire War God and the Cursefont Star God, there are no true Empyrean Sanctum figures guarding his side. The real issue is his army of tens of billions of Sage Lords."

The Lord of the Endless River furrowed his brow.

"Those tens of billions of armies are probably not just Sage Lords, right? I heard that some of them wield time and space laws, and others are curse-type sorcerers who can kill enemies beyond their rank."

"Indeed."

Leon still felt uneasy recalling that battle.

"They can cooperate in a way that can completely destroy a true Sage Master. In this aspect, they lack nothing in terms of battle power."

The Dark Keep War God sat on the main seat, his imposing figure intimidating.

The murderous aura around him made the order of the Fire Extreme Star Domain freeze.

He glanced at the Starfont Divine Court's enemies.

They had previously fought to the death, and now they were sitting together, discussing how to join forces against someone else. It was truly ironic!

"You've clashed with the Crossbridge Empire before," Dark Keep's War God stared at Starwatcher God-King, "Any thoughts?"

Starwatcher God-King felt uneasy inside.

His previous crushing defeat was now known to all.

But he didn't let his emotions show on his face.

Now, the Crossbridge Empire was the common enemy of both Divine Courts. They had to join forces to destroy it.

He spoke, "If we only use Divine Court forces to fight head-on, we would need at least 100 billion elite troops."

These elite troops had to be of the frontier defense level, all starting from Sacred Radiance rank!

Dark Keep's War God's eyes narrowed upon hearing this.

Hellshark, the Lord of the Four Symbols Secret Realm, and the others were all surprised.

Starwatcher God-King continued, "Alternatively, we could deploy enough potential Empyrean Sanctum and request a few true Empyrean Sanctum figures to specifically target those armies."

"Otherwise, this war won't achieve the desired outcome."

"Is Crossbridge Empire that strong?"

Some of the leaders clearly didn't believe it.

They knew that Aurek killed the Storm Thunder God, but that was Aurek himself.

"On the matter of battle power," Starwatcher God-King continued, "That army of tens of billions of Sage Lords can sweep across the entire starry sky!"

"The Eternal Sunfire War God and Cursefont Star God have already reached the threshold of Empyrean Sanctum, having killed several potential Empyrean Sanctum figures. One of them can fight against ten or even dozens of similarly ranked opponents!"

"Aurek can kill Storm Thunder God. You saw the kind of terrifying power he wields."

"He is an enormous threat to any true Emyrean Sanctum."

"To truly kill him, one Emyrean Sanctum is clearly not enough. Destroying his army of tens of billions will also be extremely difficult."

Everyone in the room was reviewing the intelligence they had.

This was the detailed battle strength assessment of the Crossbridge Empire.

"The Divine Court can't afford that many troops."

The Dark Keep War God directly admitted it.

One hundred billion elite troops would empty out the entire reserves of both Divine Courts.

If they were to fight like this, what would be the point of the alliance?

It didn't align with the interests of the Reincarnation Divine Court.

"The Reincarnation Divine Court can send one hundred billion elite troops."

The Dark Keep War God said, "We will try to mobilize as many True Sage Masters and potential Emyrean Sanctum experts as possible. As for the Emyrean Sanctum, I will report it to the Holy Emperor for a decision."

"Starfont Divine Court must match our effort. The Apocalypse Temple, Four Symbols Secret Realm, Endless River, and others must each send one hundred billion forces above Sacred Radiance rank, and we'll need to gather enough True Sage Masters and potential Emyrean Sanctum."

"Not enough."

Starwatcher God-King frowned. "To kill Aurek, we need at least five Emyrean Sanctum."

He knew that many old forces were secretly watching, pushing others to go to war with the Crossbridge Empire.

But until that secret was revealed, those old forces wouldn't personally intervene.

Three hundred billion elite troops surrounding those tens of billions of troops might seem advantageous in numbers, but it was uncertain whether they could defeat them.

Two Emyrean Sanctum figures going after Aurek was still an unknown.

The Starfont Divine Court would never risk a battle with no certainty.

"Aurek killed Storm Thunder God. The Lord of the Formless will certainly intervene," Lindsey reminded them. "The ancient scions will also take advantage of this and strike. This will help us share the pressure."

"I also heard that some old forces are already keeping an eye on the situation and may intervene at any time."

The room buzzed with discussions.

Most of the forces wanted to minimize their contributions in the alliance, conserving their own strength.