Chapter 585: The Insane Tens of Billions of Sage Lord-Rank Legions

With a single slash of his sword, the War God of Dark Keep cut down large numbers of Imperial soldiers around him, then turned to look toward the depths of Styx Sector.

That planar gate was still pouring out troops without end.

And every single one of them was a Sage Lord-realm warrior!

This number had already become an enormous threat to the allied forces.

"All officers and soldiers of the Empire—annihilate every invader!"

Suggwoth roared as he swung his sword.

The first assembled wave of four billion Sage Lord legions was thrown completely into the battlefield!

That vast, indescribable pressure of Sage Lord-realm power rolled out with a thunderous force. Only now did the allied army of over thirty billion—previously brimming with killing intent—finally encounter a true opponent.

The two great armies collided, and the entire Star Sea was dragged into churning turmoil.

The allied forces were even forced back beyond the Styx defensive line!

The expression of the War God of Dark Keep changed drastically. He immediately mobilized three hundred quasi-Empyrean Sanctum experts from across the front lines to strike with full force against the Imperial legions' offensive.

As for himself, he led Star-Orbit God-King and the others straight toward Suggwoth, Ares, and the other powerhouses who had submitted to the Empire.

At the planar gate, the four-billion-strong Imperial army had only just finished assembling.

But before they could even catch their breath, another four billion troops came surging through!

Everyone watching was utterly dumbfounded.

Because to their horror, they realized that the Empire's reinforcements were still not finished!

The beings of the Celestial Light God Realm and the Eastern Starfield stared at that endless river of troops that still had not been cut off, and all that remained in their hearts was shock and confusion.

At least ten billion already!

At this moment, even the five Supreme Sage Rank experts instinctively sensed that something was going terribly wrong.

Rumble—!

Yet another several billion Sage Lord legions entered the vast battlefield, completely suppressing the allied army of over thirty billion.

"What the hell is going on?! Why do these Imperial soldiers just keep multiplying the longer they fight?!"

"Damn it, here come another several billion Sage Lords! Are these soldiers some kind of mass-produced puppets?!"

"You've got to be kidding me! What is with this army of over a hundred billion?! Somebody tell me!"

"No...!"

On the battlefield, the allied powerhouses grew more and more despairing as the fight continued.

When they looked up, all they could see covering heaven and earth were Sage Lord legions!

Blades of Time, Void Burials, Soul Shocks, Curse Erosion.

Countless allied soldiers were erased without even realizing what had happened.

And it still was not over.

After one wave of four billion came another wave of four billion Imperial troops—just as expected, every one of them a Sage Lord-realm warrior!

The War God of Dark Keep's mouth twitched violently.

This was already approaching two hundred billion, nearly catching up to the total strength of their entire allied army.

And all of them were Sage Lord-realm soldiers!

It was now obvious that the balance of this war had been corrected.

If the top experts could not take down the Emperor of Crossbridge, then the allied forces were certain to lose!

"Damn it, where did the Crossbridge Empire get so many legions?"

"An army on this scale has already far surpassed even the foundations of the Divine Courts! Even in the old era, you couldn't find a power of this level!"

Dreamweaver clicked his tongue in disbelief.

The people around him were already completely stupefied.

They simply could not understand any of this, could not comprehend the scene before their eyes.

And it was not just them—even the ancient overlords hidden in the shadows were alarmed.

"Just what kind of origin does this Aurek have? How much power is hidden inside that secret?"

"By all logic, if such a colossal army were created through the augmentation of some external force, then there should be fluctuations of power, shouldn't there? Why can't we sense anything at all?"

"This Aurek truly is an unbelievable existence. How could a person like this have escaped the perception of the Pantheon?"

The Silver Gentleman was filled with confusion.

The Adjudicator glanced in the direction of the Heaven-Pillar, then said blandly,

"There is no need to doubt. You only need to know that the Celestial Light God Realm enshrines a deity of exalted status. Since even she has said nothing, then all of this is normal."

The Silver Gentleman and the God of Order exchanged a glance, then looked thoughtfully toward the Celestial Light God Realm.

"Against such power, the two Divine Courts and those Star Sea factions are likely stuck in an impossible dilemma now."

Deep within the chaos, an ancient figure let out a soft sigh.

Another overlord beside him spoke.

"You think all of this... came from that secret Aurek carries?"

"What else could it be? Who in the entire Star Sea universe could possibly accumulate foundations on this level?"

The sighing overlord asked in return.

"Still... whether it is or not, one thing is certain—Aurek is carrying an enormous secret."

"Now that the two Divine Courts have already been pushed onto the stage, the surviving clans from past eras are probably preparing as well. More importantly, the fact that he could ascend to the very top of the Tablet of Destiny says enough by itself."

The other overlord nodded silently.

That worked out nicely. Better to wait a little longer.

This time, let the Crossbridge Empire expose all its foundations. Later, when the time came to deal with them, they would know what to expect.

And just as these ancient overlords were all making their own calculations—

"By the gods, look!!"

A cry of alarm rang across the Star Sea.

All the overlords who had been preparing to move stopped in their tracks at the same time and looked over.

Every pair of eyes contracted sharply in that instant.

Celestial Light God Realm.

Within the Primordial World of the Eastern Starfield.

The endless living beings had assumed it was finally over after seeing those one hundred and twenty billion Sage Lord legions emerge.

But inside the Gold Giant Gate, almost in the blink of an eye, still more legions began stepping out.

Life Sorcerers and Elemental Assassins.

All of them were Sage Lord Rank!

Another river-long procession of Sage Lord Rank legions!

Even Imperial ministers such as Winston and Heimerdinger were left staring in utter shock.

More than three billion Sage Masters crossed the Star Sea, passed through the planar gates, and stepped directly onto the battlefield of Styx Sector!

At that moment, the entire universe boiled over!

"By the gods...!"

A Sage Lord-realm expert from the Celestial Light God Realm cried out in disbelief.

"A Sage Lord Rank legion... Am I dreaming?!"

The experts of Styx Sector, the Eastern Starfield, and even figures like Otto from Elysium Starrealm were so stunned they forgot this was a war. Their eyes were completely drawn to those several billion Sage Masters.

Hiss—!

The experts from all the watching powers across the universe sucked in a cold breath.

Across the boundless starry battlefield, the War God of Dark Keep, Star-Orbit God-King, Solstar God King, Darkmoon Hunter, the Star Legion Commander, Arthas, Lord of the Illusory Realm, Slaughter Angel...

Every one of them felt a chill run through them, icy cold from head to toe.

A sense of despair and absurdity spread wildly through their hearts.

This was completely incomparable to merely having over a hundred billion Sage Lords!

These were several billion Sage Lord Rank powerhouses!

Take out any one of them at random, and they could become the strongest being in a great number of worlds.

In fact, many great worlds did not even possess a single Sage Master!

So what exactly was this scene in front of them?

Had every Sage Lord Rank powerhouse in the entire starry cosmos of all races somehow gathered under the Crossbridge Empire?

The elite troops of the allied army were mostly at the Sacred Radiance Rank and Divine Oracle levels. Sage Lords were already considered their core force.

As for Sage Lord Rank?

Those were absolute powerhouses, peak combatants!

Yet the enemy had just produced several billion Sage Lord Rank troops in a single move...

How were they supposed to fight this?

The quasi-Empyrean Sanctum experts were left with nothing but despair.

The pillars of strength in their eyes existed by the billions within the Crossbridge Empire.

The five Supreme Sage Rank experts were once again shaken.

As they stared at those several billion assembled Sage Masters, everything they had known since ancient times was utterly overturned.

Across these long ages, they had never once seen a power that possessed such a terrifying number of Sage Lord Rank experts.

If they did not wipe out these people today, then this battle would become the beginning of the end—not only for the two Divine Courts, but perhaps for the entire Star Sea universe itself!
