

Chapter 1377 Proposal

As Loraine openly shared her experiences, the online comments about her began to shift dramatically.

Then Aldo stepped in, offering strong support for Loraine in front of millions of viewers.

"Whether she's Lorrie or Alice, she is always my beloved granddaughter, Loraine. If I catch anyone slandering her again, the Torres family won't let it slide."

Vincent chimed in, "Loraine is my niece, and if anyone dares to bully her, the Wilson family will back her up too."

"Those trolls must be regretting their words now. Lorrie is just so impressive!"

"My heart hurts. I can't believe what she has gone through."

"It's so sad, but Loraine is really strong and doesn't seek sympathy from her past. I'm a fan now!"

"Lorrie is the best! I will always support her!"

The trolls and hired critics quickly disappeared, leaving the screen filled with praise and admiration for Loraine.

After all, no amount of money would be worth risking their safety against the influential Torres and Wilson families, as they could end up in serious trouble.

Loraine, seeing the outcome she expected, felt little emotional stir. She instinctively looked into the audience for a familiar face.

However, all she spotted were media personnel and some old fans of the Shepherd.

Though frustrated, Loraine quickly gathered herself and announced, "Next up is our Shepherd's final concert. It's free and will be live-streamed for those who can't attend in person. Thank you all for your support."

Once she finished her words, the staff quickly transformed the press conference setup into a stage.

Loraine invited the other Shepherd members to join her on stage and retrieved a mask she had found at home. She said, "Today, I'll sing the song I performed on the music show. It perfectly reflects my current feelings and my gratitude for your support!"

The audience erupted in thunderous applause, but as the music started, the venue grew quiet.

Loraine put on her mask and began to sing.

On the lively stage, Loraine radiated brilliance, her angelic voice echoing through the venue. Each note seemed magical, drawing in the audience.

Her high notes soared like a bird in flight, displaying incredible strength, while her low notes flowed as peacefully as a calm lake, rich with emotion.

The audience was captivated by Loraine's performance, and even after the song ended, they remained in a daze.

Suddenly, a spotlight shone on the crowd.

Marco, wearing a tailored suit, stepped into the light like a shining figure from a myth.

Everyone was taken aback, including Loraine.

Seeing Marco brought back memories of their past, and tears began to stream down her face uncontrollably.

They stood apart, one on stage and the other below, locked in each other's gaze.

In that instant, it felt like their souls were intertwined.

Marco approached the stage, knelt before Loraine, and presented a ring.

His voice shook with emotion as he said, "Finally, I've found you, Loraine. Will you marry me again?"

With tears in her eyes, Loraine felt deeply moved. The moment she saw Marco and remembered their past, she knew he was the one for her.

"Yes, I will."

As the audience erupted in cheers, she nodded gently.

Marco stood up, slipped the ring onto Loraine's finger, and wrapped her in a tight embrace.

In that moment, time seemed to stand still, their love shining brightly on the stunning stage.
