

Guardian 241

Chapter 241 Do Me a Favor

The voice was icy.

Tension rose in the showroom.

Everybody looked up in shock.

Slender man with menacing eyes turned up at the door. His face bore a faint bruise.

Kaze was not surprised to see the man. He said indifferently, "If you were late another minute, I would've trashed Taurus Automobiles, Hunter."

Hunter was speechless, remembering the event that took place last night.

He nodded at Kaze to express his apology before taking large strides over.

"Is this your backup, Kaze?"

Samus and the others smirked at Kaze, not taking Hunter seriously.

An ingratiating voice came from behind.

"Oh, Mr. Hunter, sir. What brings you here?"

Shuddering at the sight of Hunter, William rushed to greet him.

Hunter, the general manager of Taurus Automobiles, held a higher post than a showroom manager.

William was more terrified that Hunter worked for Cronus. A man of his stature had only heard rumors of Cronus, the big boss of Taurus Automobiles.

As Hunter approached William, the latter sucked up to Hunter with his head down.

Samus and his party were surprised.

“Who is he? Do you know him, Vincent?” Deborah asked.

“I do. He’s the GM of Taurus Automobiles and one of Cronus’ men,” Vincent said with a solemn look.

Samus and Deborah were filled with glee because they had nothing to worry about, seeing that Vincent knew Hunter too. Vincent had a higher social standing than Kaze. Even if Hunter knew Kaze, he would not make things difficult for them. Smack!

The loud slap startled the group to look over.

“Argh...”

William lay on the ground with his hand over his cheek, screaming in pain.

Hunter flicked his wrist nonchalantly. "You don't know who you were talking to. Are you liable if the dealership is wrecked? Get lost. Don't ever step foot into Taurus Automobiles, or I'll kill your family."

He threatened to kill William's family in front of many.

The people stared at Hunter in terror. That was arrogant of him.

ng, William scrambled to his feet and fled. His job n was the last thing on his mind because Hunter might just amily if he did not get out of there in time.

shop attendant and security guards sank to the floor in fear. They pologized to Kaze and took off, knowing that they had lost their jobs.

Hunter approached Kaze and said, "I'm sorry, K. These ignorant idiots ruined your fun." Kaze frowned at the way Hunter addressed him. Hunter was a little too friendly with him.

Nevertheless, Kaze did not make a fuss about it. He pointed at Sky." My brother-in-law here fancies a Ferrari 488. He wants to get one, but there's only one available at the store now."

"No problem. The car is his."

Hunter beckoned a staff member over. "Bring the car around."

"Hey, | reserved that car-

Samus protested angrily, only to be silenced by Hunter's intimidating gaze.

Deborah tugged on Vincent's sleeve.

"Say something, Vincent. Who does Kaze think he is? How dare he take my brother's car!"

"Fine." Vincent drew close to Hunter

"I am Vincent Hanser, sir. My grandfather is Liam Hanser."

Hunter checked him out and nodded. "Oh, I've met Liam."

Vincent was overjoyed.

The Hansers were a respected family with a strong presence in the city's social and business circles. Vincent cleared his throat and said, "We have paid for the Ferrari 488 in full, sir. We came to collect the car today." "Oh, I see. So, you reserved the car."

It dawned on Hunter.

Samus and Deborah gave Kaze smug looks.

Kaze was in over his head to steal their cars.

He could dream on.

Vincent uttered, "I hope you can do me a favor, sir, and-"

Smack!

Hunter slapped him.

Chapter 242 Do You Have a Problem?

The slap left Vincent dumbfounded.

The others were stunned too.

Vincent introduced himself, saying that he was a member of the Hansers, a prestigious family. Why did Hunter hit him? “| don’t think | have offended you, sir. Why did you attack me?”

Dumbstruck, Hunter covered his face and glared at Hunter angrily.

Hunter scoffed. “You didn’t offend me, but you crossed K.”

“Kaze?”

Vincent stared at Kaze in disbelief. Hunter humiliated him in public with a slap for dissing Kaze. It did not make sense.

It was no secret that Kaze was a dimwit and a liar.

Vincent grimaced and asked angrily, “Are you fooled by the idiot, sir?”

“That’s right, sir. The dummy is the son-in-law of our family. He loves to impersonate important people to scam others. Don’t be fooled by him!”

“He pretended to be a military commander, but we saw through him.” Deborah, Samus, and Celine backed Vincent up. They taunted Kaze moments ago.

A heavyweight like Hunter arrived on the scene and took Kaze’s side right away. It was a twist of events that they could not fathom.

Hunter took one good look at Kaze before giving Vincent another

“Did you say your name was Vincent? Even if the old fart, Liam, was here, he wouldn’t say anything if I hit him.” Hunter’s piercing gaze sent chills down Vincent’s spine.

“I’m sorry, sir. I’m sorry...”

He bent over and apologized profusely.

Cronus’ ruthless reputation had gone around, and Hunter was his subordinate. For Hunter to make such a claim, it was true that he did not find the Hansers a threat.

“Why are you apologizing to me? Apologize to K.”

Hunter kicked Vincent and pointed at Samus, Deborah, and Celine.” You bad-mouthed K. You should apologize too.” The lot was stunned. They would rather die than apologize to Kaze, the dimwit.

However, they could not defy Hunter, especially when he looked like he was going to rip them apart.

“I was wrong, Kaze. I shouldn’t have mocked you.”

With his hand over his cheek, Vincent hissed through clenched teeth.

Samus, Deborah, and Celine hung their heads low and apologized reluctantly.

“Kaze?”

Sky stared at Kaze with his jaw dropped.

He thought he had the wrong idea about Kaze. Kaze was just an ordinary man who was mocked by many. Nevertheless, Kaze was still an amazing brother-in-law.

A prominent figure like Hunter wanted to curry his favor, making Vincent and the others apologize to him.

Kaze watched as Vincent and the others kept their heads down.

He knew the apologies were not sincere. These people were probably cursing him in their minds... Still, Kaze could care less.

Besides, he had his ways of getting back at them, and they would be defenseless to fight back. The roaring engine of a sports car thundered outside.

A fiery red Ferrari 488 made its entrance.

Kaze patted Sky's shoulder. “The car is yours.”

Sky swallowed hard. It was the sports car of his dreams, and it now belonged to him.

Sky turned to Hunter in disbelief.

Hunter nodded and uttered with a smile, “K is right, Sky. The car is yours.”

“Fuck. That car belongs to me,” livid Samus blurted.

Kaze cocked his head back and glanced at Samus. “What? Do you have a problem with it?” Hunter stared at Samus menacingly.

Chapter 243 Karma’s a Bitch

“No, no. No problem at all. The car belongs to Sky.”

Samus’ heart ached when he said that.

Kaze said, “I want to buy my wife a Maserati Quattroporte.”

“No problem.”

Hunter pulled out his phone to call the manager of the Maserati showroom next door.

Stuart the manager rushed over and was in a dilemma by the request. “We only have one Maserati Quattroporte available for collection now, and Ms. Deborah Quint has reserved it. She will be collecting the car today. Oh, there you are, Ms. Quint.”

He spotted Deborah in the crowd.

Deborah was about to speak when Kaze cut her off.

"I don't care who reserved the car, but it is now mine. I'm taking it with me," Kaze said sternly.

"I can't believe you're taking my car, Kaze," Deborah yelled angrily.

Kaze smiled. "That's right. I'm taking your car. What are you going to do about it?"

"Uh, you. Don't push it, Kaze!"

Deborah was livid.

Hunter flicked his arm at Stuart. "The car is now Ms. Quint's, but I'm talking about Darcy Quint, not Deborah what's-her-name." Samus and Deborah were not having it. The sports cars they reserved were stolen right under their nose.

The most infuriating part was the snatcher was Kaze whom they looked down on.

Alas, they could not do anything about the situation. The feeling of grasping at straws nearly drove the siblings nuts. Samus shot an angry look at Kaze. It was not over between them.

He told Hunter, "Since we're not taking the cars, we should be refunded. My sister and I reserved the two cars for 10 million dollars."

Hunter turned to Kaze.

Kaze said with a smile, "If I remember correctly, the old man gave you 10 million dollars for trying to sell my house. I'm sorry. But you can't refund the money, Hunter. The money should cover my purchases."

Samus and Deborah looked at Kaze in surprise. "How did you know, Kaze?" "So, you were the reason why our property was nearly sold, Samus and Deborah!" Sky said angrily.

Samus and Deborah nearly made them homeless. Sky could not see his cousins in a good light anymore. He did not sympathize with them at all. "Your actions have consequences."

Faced with Deborah's and Samus' furious gazes, Kaze smiled indifferently. "I know that you encouraged the old man to sell my house, but I also know that you idiots shot yourselves in the foot by selling your house and cars. How does it feel to live in the family home now?"

It happened two weeks ago.

Rudy's family lived in a huge villa and drove fancy cars. That side of the family held sway over Quintessential Group.

Darcy's family, on the other hand, lived in a run-down and tiny home.

They owned a 300-thousand-dollar Audi A4. When the whole family went out together, they had to pack Hector's wheelchair in the boot and carry him into the backseat.

Darcy acted as the doormat and scapegoat in the family business.

Now, the roles were reversed between the two families.

Darcy's family lived in a mansion, drove sports cars, and held authority over Quintessential Group.

"Karma is a bitch. You got what you deserved for kicking my wife around." Kaze's verbal attacks infuriated Samus and Deborah.

Samus and Deborah flipped their tops.

“Ah! Bastard! I’m going to get you, Kaze!”

Deborah shrieked and clawed at Kaze.

Smack!

Kaze slapped her back and said curtly, “Don’t embarrass yourself.”

Chapter 244 My Brother-In-Law’s the Best

Kaze’s slap snapped Deborah out of an angry trance.

She covered her face and glared at Kaze with gritted teeth. “Don’t celebrate too soon, Kaze. Your wife is about to get it-” “Shut up, Deborah!”

Vincent scowled and interrupted her

Not too long ago, Vincent and Rudy’s family conspired with Liam to oust Darcy from Quintessential Group.

After days of searching, the Hansers finally located Jean’s hiding place. They had sent men to fetch the woman.

With Jean back, Darcy would be kicked out of Quintessential Group. The Hansers would take over the group through Rudy’s family.

Deborah was an idiot to nearly let slip this crucial information.

Their efforts would be for nothing if Darcy braced herself for the takeover.

“What are you plotting against my wife again?”

Although Deborah did not reveal much, Kaze could tell something was amiss from Vincent's reaction.

Flustered, Deborah said angrily, “What are you talking about? I’m saying that your wife will get what’s coming after what she did.” It was clear that Deborah was covering up.

Kaze grinned without a word, but the words coming out of his mouth were harsh. “I could care less about your dirty scheming against my

In fact, these people were not worth his time.

They had tried to best Darcy multiple times, but they always ended up shooting themselves in the foot.

Kaze was lenient with them because they were still Darcy’s family.

If they were not related to Darcy, Kaze would have made them disappear from the face of the earth a long time ago. Vincent and the others scoffed in disdain. They did not take Kaze seriously.

What did the dummy know? He had the nerve to threaten them.

Kaze did not want to waste any more time with them, so he glanced at Hunter. “Tell them to leave. They are an annoyance.” “Get lost!”

Hunter's eerie gaze gave Vincent and his party goosebumps.

It was a blatant insult.

They tried to make Kaze leave with his tails tucked between his legs. Now they were the ones forced to leave.

"Just you wait, Kaze!"

They said and took off exasperatedly. They could do nothing but be angry with Kaze.

"Why aren't you leaving, Celine?"

Once at the door, Samus realized Celine did not come along. He turned back and asked.

Filled with rage, he wanted to release his pent-up emotions with the girl. Although he was humiliated in front of Kaze, Samus was still the

At the curl of his finger, a gold digger such as Celine would come crawling into his bed.

However, Samus had overestimated himself.

Celine gave him a chilling look. "I was wrong about you, Samus.

You're a bully to Sky even though you're cousins, and you mock Kaze. You look like a clown. I'm deleting your number." She dangled her phone and dumped Samus for Sky.

“Congrats, Sky. You’re the first in our class to own a sports car. You're amazing,” Celine said coyly. “I'm not amazing. My brother-in-law is.”

Sky chuckled, lost in the excitement of owning the sports car of his dreams.

Celine glanced at Kaze, batting her eyelashes.

“You're the best, Kaze. Even a big shot like Mr. Hunter takes orders from you.”

Furrowing his brows, Kaze uttered, “Beat it.”

Chapter 245 A Veteran in the Business. Kaze was not keen on associating with Celine. Despite her age, she was rather manipulative. As color drained from her face, Celine walked away grimacingly.

Kaze looked at Celine’s back and said indifferently, “You should stay away from Celine, Sky. You're a simple guy. You might get taken advantage of without knowing it.”

“Oh. Got it, Kaze.”

Sky nodded cluelessly. He had utmost trust in Kaze, so he would do no wrong by taking his advice. Celine’s eyes flickered with menace when she heard the comment. Kaze wanted to drive away with Sky without any intention of paying. Hunter promised to compensate him last night.

“Someone would like to see you for a talk, K. Can you come with me?” Hunter asked.

Kaze was not in a hurry to give his word. He asked, “Who is it?”

“Just a veteran in the business. He’s waiting for you.”

Kaze eyed Hunter, who seemed suspicious. He wanted to see what the man was up to.

“Alright. I'll meet him.”

Kaze patted Sky's shoulder. “Go and take your new ride for a spin. See if there are any problems. You should check out your sister's car too.”

“Alright, Kaze. I'll wait for you.”

Sky ran out gleefully.

“Come with me, K.”

Hunter led Kaze into a room.

Meanwhile, Samus, Deborah, and Vincent stormed out of Taurus Automobiles and noticed a convoy of luxury cars.

The front of the convoy was a 200-million-dollar Koenigsegg. The high -performance sports car was worth more than the Ferrari 488.

The fleet of high-end vehicles pulled up in front of them, and men in suits and earpieces got out. They encircled the Koenigsegg in protection.

Samus and the others were shocked and looked at the Koenigsegg enviously.

Acouple were in the Koenigsegg.

The man, in his twenties, was handsome and poised.

Deborah glanced at Vincent. Her boyfriend, who she once thought was handsome and wealthy, seemed dull and ordinary compared to the young man.

She saw the woman in the front passenger seat who looked to be in her twenties too.

Deborah realized that she was an ugly duckling next to her.

The young man pointed at Deborah's party, and a bodyguard approached them.

"You must be Samus, Deborah, and Vincent."

Samus and the others were surprised as their names were read out. How did they know them?

Samus said ingratiatingly, "That's us."

"We wish to ask you about a person.

"Ask away," Deborah uttered eagerly.

The member of the security team said indifferently, "Have you seen Kaze Lee? We managed to locate him at Taurus Automobiles."

Oh, they were here for Kaze.

Even Vincent was stunned. He asked probingly, "Why are you looking for Kaze?"

“Don’t poke your nose in our business.”

Vincent felt uncomfortable, feeling the piercing gaze of the bodyguard through his sunglasses. “Did Kaze cross someone?” Deborah whispered to Samus.

Samus gave it a thought before nodding. “He probably did. We have never met this couple, so they must not be from around here. They made it such a huge event to find Kaze, so I doubt they have come in peace.”

Deborah's eyes lit up. Here came their opportunity for revenge.

She said excitedly, “We know where Kaze is. We'll take you there.”

“Please lead the way.”

The security team got into their cars, and the convoy cruised into Taurus Automobiles.

Chapter 246 Angel White Samus, Deborah, and Vincent led the way on foot. Despite their frustration, they were thrilled. Judging by the security team’s aloof and distant attitudes, they believed that these people came to mess Kaze up. Meanwhile, Hunter led Kaze outside a VIP lounge. “Wait here, K. I'll tell them you’re here.” Hunter knocked on the door and entered the room. The lounge was spacious and luxurious. Arosy-cheeked man in his fifties sat on the leather couch, a tunic draped his frame. “I brought Kaze here, Mr. White.” Hunter nodded at the bodyguards standing by the old man before approaching with respect. It was Angel White, the Angel of Death. Anybody with association to Lilyrose underworld would know his name. Angel was the brains behind Cronus rise in the underworld. Two decades ago, Angel’s strategic brilliance drove Cronus to power, challenging Alan’s dominance in the underworld. Ignoring Hunter, Angel fixated his gaze on the TV screen. The video of Kaze knocking Tim over at Hades’ casino played on the screen. Angel replayed the clip over and over again. He raised his arm while watching the clip. Hunter bent over to grab the trimmed cigar on the coffee table and lit it. Angel smoked the cigar and asked without looking back, “What do you think about the Quints’ son-in-law?” Hunter knew he was not asking him, so he kept quiet. The two bodyguards exchanged glances and saw the disdain in each other’s eyes. “He is strong and strikes fast,” one of the bodyguards commented. They both agreed on that. Angel said nothing. He believed his haughty bodyguards had underestimated Kaze. a He glanced at Hunter and asked aloofly, "Does Miru really look down on Kaze?" "It's not just Miru who looks down on him, Mr. White."

Hunter added with a smile, "The Quints, including Darcy's younger brother, holds him in contempt. If | hadn't shown up, he would have been thrown out." He was at the Ferrari showroom right from the start. Under Angel's orders, he waited for a while before making himself known.

Angel nodded. "He's been locked up in a mental institution for years. I'm sure he picked up a few skills there. No one will think much of him he took the Quints' family name.

e must resent Miru for looking down on him. Most importantly, he suffers from a mental illness. He's just the person I'm looking for. Angel chuckled grimly.

Hunter's heart sank. He knew Angel must be scheming by the way he laughed.

"| have a question, Mr. White."

Hunter looked at Angel. Seeing that Angel did not stop him, he asked, " What do you want to do with a dimwit?"

Angel responded offhandedly, "The king has gotten the support of the three major families, and he wants to end Alan. | intended to send the dummy to assassinate him."

The king was referring to Cronus.

Oof.

Even though Hunter had seen a lot in his life, he gasped sharply at the news.

Lilyrose underworld was about to change hands.

Hunter soon found out why Angel picked Kaze.

Alan was the former godfather of Lilyrose underworld, and his connections ran deep.

His people would retaliate if they killed Alan.

Cronus had the means and power to deal with the fallout. However, the constant vengeance would bring quite a hassle. Cronus wanted to rule Lilyrose underworld instead of wasting time on the drawback.

Kaze made the perfect pawn in the plan. In other words, he was the scapegoat.

Once Kaze killed Alan, his people would go after Kaze instead.

Chapter 247 You Don't Deserve Me

It did not matter whether Kaze would kill Alan.

Hunter could imagine the devastating end to Kaze.

The dummy was not the only one caught in the crossfire. His wife's family, probably the entire Quint family, would be ruined. "Bring him in."

Angel grabbed the remote control and turned off the screen.

Hunter turned around, opened the door, and led Kaze into the room.

'Kaze, this is Mr. White. Mr. White is a respectable man in Lilyrose.'

Hunter quit the term of endearment.

Kaze was a dead man in his eyes.

"Mr. White."

Kaze checked Angel out and chuckled. He was about to sit his ass in front of Angel. "How dare you! Who are you to sit in front of Mr. White?"

The bodyguard on the left of Angel criticized Kaze angrily.

Kaze turned to Angel who carried a blank expression. "Didn't you invite me for a talk, Mr. White? Why don't | get to sit down? I'm sure there isn't a rule about it.

"Hmph! Don't flatter yourself, dimwit. Mr. White summoned you. He did not invite you. | doubt you deserve an invitation." The bodyguard scoffed furiously and approached Kaze aggressively from behind Angel.

Angel sat there, sipping on his tea. He was oblivious to everything happening around him. Angel wanted his bodyguard to intimidate and send a strong message to the boy before they were to talk. "I'll teach you a lesson, you ignorant kid."

With his bulging arm, the bodyguard aimed for Kaze's shoulder with a powerful grip.

It happened so quickly.

The bodyguard's grip could crush Kaze's shoulder blade.

Faced with the assertive bodyguard, Kaze was unfazed.

The bodyguard's fingers were about to dig into Kaze's flesh when Kaze disappeared out of sight. Standing there, the bodyguard was taken aback by Kaze's speed.

"Watch out!"

The other bodyguard gave the heads-up.

Startled, the bodyguard tried to dodge.

It was too late.

Bang!

Kaze appeared on his left and sent him flying with a kick. The bodyguard crashed onto a wall. The bodyguard groaned in pain and sank against the wall.

He had broken a few bones. It would take some time before he could get up.

The other bodyguard took a gulp and looked up angrily at Kaze. "Why

"Enough!"

Angel slammed the teacup on the table and said curtly, "Don't blame it on Kaze when he started the fight and lost anyway."

"I'm sorry, Mr. White."

The bodyguard shuddered and apologized.

"Take the trash out."

Angel waved them away before turning to Kaze with a smile. "I apologize for my men's disrespect, Kaze. Come, let's sit and talk."

Kaze let the old man's scheming slide and took a seat with a grin.

"Just cut to the chase why you need me here."

Crossing his leg, Kaze got to Angel's eye level.

Angel scowled but quickly pulled a straight face.

Hiding behind a smile, Angel said, "I'll get straight to the point since you are blunt. To be honest, I want you to work for me." "You want me to work for you?"

Kaze gave Angel a strange look.

Even he did not expect that to be the reason Angel wanted to meet him. Now that was something he would not see every day.

Angel nodded. "I watched the video of you taking Tim down. I'm impressed with your fighting. I think your skills shouldn't go to waste, so I want to have a talk with you.

"Don't worry. You won't work for nothing."

With Kaze falling silent, Angel waved his arm, wanting to show how Wigi 8: you thear" Angel

Keaned back again the dretentious smile. You don't matte gate with a

seem to week for were at White

Chapter 248 Kneel? Says Who?

Angel pulled a long face. He looked at Kaze emotionlessly without a word. Tension rose in the VIP lounge.

"How dare you, Kaze!"

Hunter walked over and lectured Kaze with his finger up his nose. "It's your honor that Mr. White wants you to work for him. Don't be ungrateful."

Kaze glanced at Hunter.

He thought Hunter was acting strange when they were at the Ferrari showroom. Sure enough, Hunter was only pretending to be respectful toward him.

"I guess you didn't learn from your mistake, Hunter."

Kaze scowled. "You didn't act tough when you kneeled before me, slapping yourself last night."

Hunter grimaced, remembering last night's insulting incident.

"I gave in to you last night because the situation called for it, Kaze. Do you really think I'm scared of you?"

Hunter looked at him in disdain. "All you are is a worthless son-in-law of the Quints. Oh, so you can fight. But you were only able to walk out of the casino alive because of Dan's six men. Do you think I will always grovel to you?"

While talking, he revealed the truth behind his respectful behavior toward Kaze with a smirk.

"Do you know why I have shown you courtesy, given you sports cars,

“Mr. White gave the word to treat you nice. Otherwise, we would have kicked you out a long time ago.”

Despite the incident at the casino last night, Hunter did not see Kaze as a worthy opponent. The way he saw it, Kaze was lucky to have Jackal and his party to save his ass.

If Angel did not need Kaze to take the fall and kill Alan, Hunter and Hades would have gone to Cronus for backup to kill Kaze. “So, you're saying that I should thank Mr. White?”

Kaze smiled pretentiously at Angel, who put on airs without a word.

His patience had run thin.

“A thank-you won't be enough.”

Unaware of what was to come, Hunter looked cockily at Kaze. “You should get down on your knees and thank Mr. White for the glorious opportunity.

“Mr. White played a crucial role in Cronus' rise to power. He can influence your fate. Even though many want to work for him, he won't give them the time of the day.

“You should thank your lucky stars that Mr. White admires your talent.”

Angel said nothing and simply enjoyed his tea. He was sure that Kaze would submit to him.

Kaze's patience was out the window.

He stood up and walked around the coffee table to get to Angel.

“Are you kneeling now? You should’ve done it in the first place. | would have spared you the tongue-lashing.”

Thinking that Kaze had finally relented, Hunter smiled in delight.

Angel put down the teacup and sat there, waiting for Kaze to get on his knees.

“Kneel? Says who?”

Kaze smiled in contempt.

With that, he struck Angel in the face.

Smack!

Angel was knocked off the couch. He somehow landed in a kneeling position.

Angel's long face swelled.

As his knees dug into the ground, Angel stared blankly at Kaze. He was caught off guard by Kaze’s slap. Kaze turned to look at the stunned Hunter.

“Open your eyes and watch. This is Mr. White, the guy everyone should be grateful to. Yet, | smacked him to his senses just like | did to you last night.”

Chapter 249 Here Comes Trouble Kaze struck quickly. It all happened in a flash.

The whole thing was over before Angel knew it. By the time his mind caught up with what had happened, he realized he was on his knees.

The crippling pain in his cheek was a humiliation he could not swallow.

Angel was a long-time buddy of Cronus, helping him establish an -empire in the underworld and legitimate businesses. He was one of the few elites who could stand alongside the heads of the three major families.

He was a figure who commanded respect.

Yet, Kaze smacked him to the ground, making him kneel. If word were to get out, Angel could never show his face. "How dare you hit me, Kaze! How dare you!"

Angel yelled at Kaze furiously, his voice filled with resentment.

Kaze side-eyed him and said indifferently, "Just because you are a little experienced, you think you're better than everyone else and treat others like dirt. Don't be surprised by others whipping some shame back in you."

He then walked out. "Get lost!"

Hunter shuddered and stepped aside to get out of Kaze's way. He looked at Kaze in reverence, losing the cocky attitude from before.

Kaze waltzed right out of the VIP lounge. "Are you alright, Mr. White?"

Hunter went to help Angel up.

Smack!

Angel slapped Hunter in the face.

“Get a taste of that. Did you lose your spine, loser? Why did you get out of the way when he asked you to? Why did you even let him go?”

Angel held his burning cheek and shouted exasperatedly, “Tell your people to stop him. I want to finish him off today. I have never been insulted. I will never live this down if I don’t kill him.”

“But your bodyguards are no match for him either,” Hunter said in distress.

Angel narrowed his eyes at Hunter. “Just stop him for now. We have numerous men at Taurus Automobiles. We can wear him down if we keep sending our men after him. At the worst, we can just run him over with a car.”

Hunter shuddered without a word.

He pulled out his phone to stop Kaze from leaving.

The other bodyguard returned from helping the bodyguard out. The palm print on Angel's face gave him a shock. "Mr. White, um..."

Since he did not see Kaze around, he connected the dots that the dimwit laid his hands on Angel.

Angel said coldly, "Get the king's best men on the job. I want blood to shed today."

Sensing the hostility in Angel's voice, the bodyguard gave a nod.

Here came trouble. The dummy was dead meat.

"Drive the car back, Sky. We're going home."

Outside the Ferrari showroom, Kaze thought nothing of the earlier matter.

He called Sky, who was taking the car out for a spin. Kaze was going to drive Darcy's new Quattroporte home. "There isn't much boot space in both sports cars. It will be a hassle to take Hector out. I should go for an MPV which offers more space."

Kaze was deep in his thoughts.

Rumble!

A group of at least a hundred came from all directions and had Kaze surrounded.

They glared at him menacingly.

Dozens of sports cars, luxury SUVs, and seven-seater MPVs patrolled the perimeter, preventing Kaze from driving away. "What? Are you stopping me from leaving?"

Kaze looked around. Not in a hurry to leave, he leaned his back against the hood and looked at the group.

"You saw it. This person tries to steal our cars in broad daylight. Mr. White has given word to catch the thief by any means. Don't worry. He has you covered if you incapacitate or kill him."

emerged from the showroom and stared at Kaze grimly. "When did he become a car thief?"

Chapter 250 Thousands of Riff-Raffs

Kaze had no worries about his safety.

Even if everyone at Taurus Automobiles were to gang up on him, Kaze still would not consider them to be a risk. Still, the excuse irked him.

Kaze was labeled a car thief. He would never stoop so low as to steal a car.

Hunter laughed out loud. "Oh, Kaze. Why are you so stupid? Mr. White can get you killed at the snap of his fingers. We're taking a life after all, so we need a sound excuse.

“The dealership employee killed you by accident when trying to apprehend you for stealing our vehicles. It makes a good story.”

He stared at Kaze smugly. “Thousands of Taurus Automobiles’ employees are after your life. You can forget walking out of here alive.”

“Thousands of riff-rafs?”

Kaze scoffed in contempt. He could not be bothered to get blood on his hands. He took out his phone, intending to show Angel that he could outnumber him.

The Koenigsegg sports car leading the fleet of fancy cars stopped right outside the dealership. Samus, Deborah, and Vincent ran over.

“Please give way. Please give way. | want to see Mr. Hunter.”

They elbowed their way through the crowd and saw Kaze who was stuck in the middle.

The trio was surprised.

It was then they noticed that the surrounding crowd did not look at Kaze kindly. They realized that Kaze had possibly gotten himself into trouble again.

Hunter was courteous to Kaze before to the point of giving him two sports cars. “What happened, sir?” Vincent asked curiously.

Hunter replied curtly, “The idiot stole our cars, and Mr. White is furious and wants him dead. Mind your own business if you don’t want to get dragged into it.”

So, Kaze stole cars?

Samus and Deborah were taken aback at first, but they soon reveled in Kaze's misfortune.

They saw Hunter offering the two sports cars to Kaze with their own eyes.

Now, Kaze was named a car thief.

It was clear that Kaze barked up the wrong tree.

"Who is Mr. White, Vincent?"

Deborah asked Vincent.

Vincent murmured, "I don't know what to say about the dummy. How does he get himself into such situations? He even messed with Angel White. That's Cronus' buddy and ally. He's a respectable figure in the business world. Even Gold Tooth and Dan Niner had to humble themselves in Mr. White's presence.

"By the looks of things, the idiot must have angered Mr. White. He's done for."

Deborah and Samus looked at Kaze like he was a dead man.

"Didn't you steal our cars and kick us out, Kaze? How did you become a car thief?"

"Dance, monkey, dance. Why did you stop dancing?"

The siblings took turns taunting him

Kaze eyed them, refusing to give them the time of the day.

“That reminds me. We can’t keep the important man who isn’t from here waiting. He must be here for Kaze,” Deborah said excitedly.

Kaze stepped on the toes of two heavy hitters, and his actions had now come back to bite him. Deborah, Samus, and Vincent could not be happier. “They're here.”

Samus spotted the young man and woman getting out of the car.

They approached with their security team by their side.

“Who are they?”

Hunter noticed the incoming group and frowned. He sent one of his men to check it out.

Soon, the subordinate walked back.

“The young man and woman don’t sound like they're from around here, sir. But they must come from power and money. Their bodyguards are highly trained like Mr. White's.” Hunter was shocked.

The young man and woman were accompanied by a dozen bodyguards. The security officers could rival Angel's bodyguards.

Angel would only take two bodyguards with him when he was out and about.

“Surround the dummy. Don’t let him leave. I’ll go and see what’s going on.”

Before Hunter could pry into the identities of the young man and woman, the group had made their way over. The young man and woman carried an air of grace.

The woman spotted Kaze and tugged on the man’s sleeve with a thrill. “That’s him, Matthias!”