

Guardian 71

Chapter 71 No Longer Called Gold Tooth “You knew?” Agnes looked at Kaze.

“Mom, Ren made a love confession to Darcy yesterday afternoon, but Darcy rejected him. After | discovered what happened to you later at night, | knew Ren approached you just to get closer to Darcy.”

Kaze felt relieved now that the misunderstanding had been cleared. “Kaze, you're so smart!” Darcy praised him.

She felt aggrieved when her mother blamed Kaze for everything. Now that Kaze had done something commendable, she wanted him to receive the credit. This way, her mother would take her husband seriously and not dismiss him as a boastful and useless man.

“It's just quick wit, it's nothing special.”

Agnes glared at Kaze coldly and said, “Kaze, how could you be such a coward? You knew the truth but didn't expose that bastard! You just stood there and watched your wife suffer.”

Darcy found Agnes' words to be inappropriate. “Mom, it was you who sided with Ren and made me do it, Kaze had nothing to do with this.”

Agnes was left embarrassed by her daughter's retort and continued to argue with unreasonable excuses. “I was deceived. He knew everything but he kept quiet! | think because | slapped him yesterday, he wanted to see me embarrass myself, that's why he didn't speak up. What a petty coward!”

Kaze was speechless. He wanted Agnes to finish the party on a good note and even satisfy her vanity in front of her friends, so he chose to resolve the matter after the party. Little did he know that she took his

Adal “Don't just stand there, let's go home.”

Agnes went over to Hector and wheeled him out of the hall. She had to shift the blame onto Kaze because as his mother-in-law, her pride prevented her from apologizing to him.

“Let's go Kaze. Don't mind her, she's always like that. Come with me to the site, we are not going home. You'll have to deal with her if you go back,” Darcy said, feeling slightly ashamed.

Kaze received a text from Snow.

“Mr. Chairman, Jack Joestar called me and wanted to give you Lily Garden Hotel as a token of apology.”

Jack was sensible at least.

If he simply assumed that apologizing together with his son would earn him forgiveness, then he would be full of himself. “Alright. Put this hotel under an independent account. For my wife and her family.”

At the same time in another hotel near Lily Garden Hotel, a mob of gangster bosses from all over the city gathered at a banquet hall while being escorted by more than a hundred of their men.

“Gold Tooth, | thought you got the Ocean Hall at Lily Garden, so why change the location at the last minute? | had to make a detour.”

The tallest man of them all voiced his displeasure when he saw Gold

Tooth.

His name was Dan Niner, the boss of a new and rising gang in Lilyrose City, and also one of the strongest among the gang bosses. His status and strength gave him the confidence to disrespect an

“Everyone, | don't think you should call me Gold Tooth anymore. My teeth are extracted...”

All the other gang bosses were in shock when they saw the gap in his teeth.

They knew the gold teeth were Gold Tooth's signature.

"Mr. Gold Tooth, you are our senior, who dares to extract your golden teeth? | didn't hear of any up-and-rising gangs lately," one of the bosses asked.

Even Dan, who considered himself the strongest, expressed his awe." This person is more threatening than me. Too bad, | should have been the one, but someone beat me to it."

Gold Tooth grunted. He knew Dan had always been ambitious and wanted to challenge his place.

"I'll be honest with you guys. It's Master Lee who made me do it but he's not a gangster. Don't underestimate him. He's someone even | could not afford to offend."

Chapter 72 Trouble at the Construction Site

Gold Tooth was honest about who made him extract his own gola teeth.

It was not embarrassing if it was Kaze, he even felt proud about it.

"Master Lee? Who is this Master Lee? I'd like to meet him." Dan was intrigued.

Gold Tooth recalled the terrifying encounter and said, "Dan, if you don't want to get yourself killed, don't even go near him." Dan's expression shifted and grunted unwillingly.

He used his vicious fists to rise in the ranks and made himself known in Lilyrose City.

He was not afraid of anyone when it came to being ruthless.

“Gold Tooth, | think you overestimated that son-in-law of the Quint family. Master Lee? | think he’s just a useless garbage who loves to brag,” Roger said as he walked into the room with several of his men.

“Mr. Hilfinger? You know Master Lee as well?” Dan and the others were intrigued by Roger’s words. Gold Tooth grunted and sneered, “Not only that, his son went after Master Lee’s wife and got castrated!”

Roger was infuriated when Gold Tooth talked about his son’s tragedy. He said coldly, “Kaze Lee won't be living and kicking for long. The Lee family from Sunrise City is already on to him.

“Everyone, the Lee family has agreed to support me in rebuilding the Construction and Material Society and we are going after Perfect World Group, which backs Kaze Lee, If you guys join me now, you will

That was the main reason he gathered all the gang bosses in one. place. Everyone voiced their desire to join as they wanted to curry favor with the Lees, except Gold Tooth.

They all looked at Gold Tooth because he was the only one who did not express his intention. “Hmph. Roger Hilfinger, you are playing with fire here!”

Gold Tooth grunted and then walked out of the door. He did not know the gathering was to oppose Kaze, or else he would never have joined. even if it would cost him his life.

“Coward. He’s afraid.” Roger grunted and then looked at the others.

“Welcome, everyone. | believe you know Perfect World Group used to be the Construction and Material Society and they monopolized the construction industry in the city.

“Your mission is to visit all the construction sites in the city and force them to stop using the materials from Perfect World Group. We will then supply them with our material so that it will cut off Perfect World Group’s sales.

“The Lee family is targeting Kaze Lee, so the first thing we have to do is to attack Quintessential Group. Who's up for the task?” he asked as he looked at them.

“I'll do it!” Dan stood up and responded.

He wanted a chance to perform so he could win the Lee family's praises. Roger nodded satisfyingly and then left.

With the gangsters on his side, Quintessential Group would fall

He had to go back to plan in rebuilding the Construction and Material Society.

Dan called his man, Manny Mare, and told him to send some men over to the construction site belonging to Quintessential Group.

Manny got the order and quickly gathered fifty men before they headed to Passion Fragrance District.

The gangsters were good at causing trouble. They found several relocated households who used to live there, spent some money to hire some actors, and contacted the local media and journalists.

The group of fifty men instantly grew to an army of more than two hundred.

“Quintessential Group is an unscrupulous property developer, maliciously withholding compensation for demolition and relocation.”

“Forcing relocated households to sign contracts, heartless developers deserve no good end.”

The fifty gangsters were hiding in the crowd, raising banners as they marched toward Passion Fragrance District. They blocked the front gate and stopped the material from moving in or out of the site.

The construction was halted. Darcy and Kaze received the news from Andy Lowder while they were on the way back.

“Ms. Quint, some gangsters have gathered at the relocated households and are causing issues at our construction site. The entrance is blocked, and work has come to a halt,” Andy said with concern. He was a specialist in the industry but he could not do anything about Darcy's heart sank.

Passion Fragrance District's pre-sale was around the corner. If could not solve the problem with the gangsters and relocated households, then they would not be able to sell the properties.

“I'll be right there. Calm the workers down and don't let them act recklessly.”

Chapter 73 Blackmail

After giving her order calmly, Darcy closed her eyes and leaned back on the chair. She rubbed her swelling temples. Having no idea what the protestors wanted yet, she was anxious.

Kaze frowned while driving.

Soon, they arrived at the construction site of Passion Fragrance District. The main entrance was blocked and the car could not go in.

Kaze was forced to stop the car.

“I’ll go have a look.”

Darcy got out of the car.

Kaze shot a glance at the two Tiger Fangs soldiers, signaling them to temporarily stop following her. He then called Draco.

“Bring the Tiger Fangs to Passion Fragrance District construction site,” he said as he stared at the protestors at the main entrance.

“I am the COO of Quintessential Group, Darcy Quint. I am in charge of this site, let me go in and talk to my employees. I will come out with a satisfying answer,” Darcy shouted when she arrived before the protestors.

The protestors immediately surrounded her when they heard her.

“Let her in, she can’t run anyway.”

Manny, who orchestrated the entire protest, was in the car further away and he gave the order through a walkie-talkie. The protestors made way for Darcy.

When they saw Darcy entering through the main gate, Andy and the other employees approached her.

“Ms. Quint, the gangsters gathered the relocated households to cause trouble. They are trying to blackmail us. We must solve problem as soon as possible, or our properties won't sell!”

Darcy nodded with a grim look.

She had a quick observation on her way in. Many gangsters tried to make things worse and only a few relocated households among the protestors.

The protestors were also surrounded by a bunch of reporters, and they were already taking pictures and recording. Once the news got out, it would make headlines; once the rumors spread, the whole project would be doomed. "Who is the leader of the gangsters? What are their terms?" Darcy asked.

Andy had contacted the leader and he said, "The leader is Manny Mare, Dan Niners' man, who is a new mob boss in the city. They are requesting us to buy construction materials from them, the Construction and Material Society, or else they will continue causing trouble and force us to stop work." Darcy was baffled.

The Construction and Material Society?

As far as she knew, the society was dissolved some time ago.

How did it come back to life?

However, it was not the right time to answer that question.

"Then we'll buy from them, even if it's a little more expensive."

Darcy knew tangling with the gangsters would only hurt them, so she a swift decision.

Ma

Be it the Construction and Material Society or Perfect World Group the battle of a higher caliber was not something she could participate in.

Even though she leaned toward Perfect World Group, who had helped them a lot, she had to prioritize the project and the construction site.

Andy smiled bitterly, "But the quotation is three times higher than the market price. It's exorbitant. Our funds are limited unless we get a loan from the bank."

"Three times? Are they robbing us?"

Darcy bit her lips. "Tell him we will only offer 1.5 times the market price, nothing more!"

Someone made a call and returned while shaking his head. The offer was rejected.

Just when Darcy was considering increasing her offer, Manny called his man over and said, "Ben, go do something." Ben nodded and went off to think of a solution.

"Mommy, Mommy! Where is my mommy?"

All little girl's sobbing echoed in the crowd of clamoring protestors.

The girl looked about six years old and an old lady was holding her.

She was crying for her mother.

The construction security guards formed a human wall and stopped the protestors from barging in.

Due to the instigation, the tension between both sides got higher and a fuse was all it needed for the situation to be blown out of control.

What if the little girl was trampled by the stampede and got hurt, or even killed?

The consequences were self-explanatory.

Chapter 74 What Are You Doing?

Ben got an idea.

He grinned as he made his way to the old lady and the girl.

He seized the moment and kicked the girl to the ground before shouting, "They hit us! The security guards kicked the girl!" The agitated crowd got tumultuous upon hearing his shout and started to push forward.

Right before the stampede crushed the little girl, someone shouted, " MOVE!"

The thunderous roar stunned everyone on the spot.

Kaze saw the frightening scene right as he came down from the car earlier.

He shuttled across the crowd to carry the crying little girl up.

"You are the girl's grandmother? Don't bring children to a protest. What if something happens to her?" he said coldly to the old lady.

The girl cried louder. "She's not my grandmother, she's fake! | want my real grandmother!"

“You little wrench! Are you trying to get me in trouble!?”

The old lady was startled and quickly scuttled away from the crowd.

Kaze was surprised. A human trafficker was among the protesters?

“It's okay now, don't cry. I'll bring you to find your real grandmother.”

Kaze comforted the girl. The girl stared at him calmly and stopped crying. She nodded at him obediently.

Ben, who kicked the little girl earlier, turned around and glared at Kaze menacingly.

“You little piece of shit! How dare you ruin my plan?”

He panicked and threw a punch at Kaze.

“You asked for it!”

Kaze grunted and kicked him in the stomach, sending him flying with blood spewing from his mouth.

He crashed several meters away. His body was shaking as he tried to get up on his feet.

“He hit me! Someone from Quintessential Group hit me!”

There were too many protestors at the scene and only a few of them saw Kaze save the little girl.

The crowd grew tumultuous again as the gangsters instigated them.

Kaze became their common enemy and was surrounded by the protestors.

“Calm down everyone! I am the COO of Quintessential Group, Darcy Quint. I will do my best to resolve the situation!” Darcy and a group of employees came over, trying to calm the uproar.

“What are you doing? Why did you hit that man?”

Darcy pulled Kaze back and glared at him.

She was furious. Kaze was not helping at all.

“That guy kicked the girl and wanted to exacerbate the situation. I saved her and...”

“Enough! Stop talking!” Darcy shouted. She did not care about his

Then, Manny came over with a grin. “Ms. Quint, am I right? If you don’t agree with our terms, the protest continues. We outnumber you easily, so if you want to stall, we'll play along.”

Darcy felt helpless as she had fallen into a defensive stance.

Before she could say a word, Kaze suddenly said coldly, “Get out of here immediately, or else you won't be able to leave later.” Manny was stunned. He did not expect to see such a stubborn.

person.

He grinned and said, "Punk, do you know who I work for? How dare you speak to me like that?"

"I don't care who your boss is. I am telling you there is still time for you to run," Kaze said coldly.

Manny's grin remained plastered on his face. He looked at Darcy and said, "Ms. Quint, I've changed my mind. The price is no longer three times the market price, it's ten times!"

Darcy's expression turned pale. She was already considering a loan when the offered price was three times higher. With tenfold now, how could they profit from the project?

"Kaze, stop causing more problems for me! Go home right now!" she shouted and stomped her foot angrily. Vrooom...

The ground trembled and rumbling growls came from afar, away from the crowd.

Chapter 75 Practise

The crowd thought it was the end of the world with the noise and tremors. They all turned around to see what was happening. A dozen armed vehicles appeared and were approaching them. The rumbling growls were from the tracks moving across the asphalt road.

They were like iron waves crashing forward with indomitable might.

The grand and majestic scene was indescribable by words.

The arrogant Manny and his men were frightened and speechless.

The armed vehicles stopped right in front of the protestors.

Everything went silent as if the world stopped spinning.

The hatch opened and soldiers armed with loaded guns came out.

A formation of a thousand soldiers immediately took place and their camouflage outfit painted the area in the same color. "W-Who called them?"

"Are they here for us?"

Manny and his men were mortified. They stared at the scene blankly and dared not move a muscle.

Then, a man emerged from the formation.

The military uniform bestowed him a sense of dignity.

"It's Shin Scarlet, Commander of the Tiger Fangs!"

Many of them recognized the man as Shin was a well-known figure in Lilyrose City.

He came from a poor family yet he was promoted to commander at a

Your age.

He saved his men multiple times from countless disasters and battles. He was fearless and his wits led his men to save many families in the city.

He was the rising star of the military world in Lilyrose City.

“The Tiger Fangs are having our routine practice and this path is part of our planned route. Fellows, seize the troublemakers and stop them. from disrupting peace and order!”

“Aye, aye, sir!”

Two hundred soldiers marched out of formation and went after

Manny and his men.

“We surrender! We surrender!”

The gangsters dared not defy the soldiers and immediately prostrated on the ground.

The soldiers did not care about the gangsters surrendering. They raised the stock of their rifles and hit the gangsters mercilessly. The gangsters were beaten up and dragged away by the feet as if they were ragdolls.

“Great!”

The others cheered and applauded.

Shin was the embodiment of justice in the city and if he said those gangsters were troublemakers, then no one would question him.

“Tell the reporters to delete what they’ve captured.”

Upon hearing this, the reporters Manny hired immediately deleted any images or footage from their cameras.

Even without his order, they dared not keep the digital assets.

If they accidentally captured some highly confidential secret, they would be arrested.

“The Tiger Fangs are having a routine practice?”

Darcy breathed a sigh of relief.

A dozen trucks carrying materials to the construction site were parked down the road.

She was afraid they would obstruct the Tiger Fangs, so she contacted the person in charge and arranged for the truck to drive inside the construction site.

Shin then went up to Kaze.

“Sir!”

Following Shin’s salutation, the other soldiers followed suit. Even the drivers of the armed vehicles honked their horns out of respect while remaining in their seats.

The unified salutation and horns were so loud that they almost split the sky. The leftover crowd looked at Kaze curiously, wondering who he was. Why would the Commander and soldiers of Tiger Fangs salute him?

Kaze saluted back and then said, "Teach those gangsters a lesson. I want them to work as construction workers here starting tomorrow."

He would never spare the troublemakers that easily. They would have to work at the construction site for a month at least. "Yes, sir! I will teach them a lesson that they will never forget!".

Shin saluted again before bringing his men and the gangsters away.

"Bye-bye, Mr. Soldier!"

The girl in Kaze's arms waved and then saluted at the soldiers.

Kaze smiled and picked her soft cheek.

"I'm Kaze. What is your name, little girl?"

Chapter 76 A Savior Turned Human Trafficker

"My name is Brenda White."

The girl showed no fear of Kaze as she looked at him with her crystal clear eyes.

After the trucks carrying the construction materials entered the site, the Tiger Fangs retreated.

Darcy finally felt relieved.

"Ms. Quint, I got a video of what happened just now. Your husband really did save the girl." The project manager, Andy, came over with a tablet.

Darcy had a look at the security footage and was silenced.

Kaze then came over with Brenda.

"I'm sorry, Kaze. I misunderstood you. If not for you, something terrible might happen to the girl and we would be in deep trouble."

Darcy apologized to Kaze. She could not even imagine how dire it would be if the girl were hurt or killed. The gangsters were ruthless. They went after a six-year-old without any qualms.

"Miss, you are beautiful. Are you Kaze's girlfriend?" Brenda asked.

"She's my wife," Kaze said with a smile.

Darcy felt better knowing that Kaze did not mind what happened.

"Brenda, where are your parents?" Darcy pinched the little girl's cheek as she asked. She grew fond of the girl.

Kaze said, "The old lady who was with her just now was a human trafficker. That was why she was crying for her mother and grandmother."

Darcy asked where Brenda stayed, but it was too much for a toddler who barely recognized the roads.

She said her mother's name was Winnie White, and she also remembered her grandparents' name. However, Darcy did not find any contact number on Brenda, so she said to Kaze

“You better bring her to the nearest police station. Her parents must be worried sick.”

“Okay. After I drop Brenda, I'll come back to pick you up. Brenda, say bye-bye to Darcy.”

“Bye-bye, Darcy.”

Kaze brought the girl to the car and they headed to the police station. Once they arrived, Kaze exited the car with Brenda and they went to get her a lollipop at a convenience store next to the station.

He liked the obedient little girl. Even though they had just met today, it must be fate that brought them together.”

“Thank you, Kaze.”

Brenda kissed him on the cheek and then took the lollipop. She ripped the plastic open and licked it.

Kaze then brought the girl to the police station. Before he walked inside, a BMW X6 screeched to a stop in front of the station. “Brenda? Is that Brenda? Zenny, stop the car!”

A woman's cry came from the passenger's seat. Her cry was clear because of the wound-down window.

“Mommy! Mommy!”

Brenda was stunned for a moment before she cried and called for her mother.

It seemed like the woman was Brenda's mother, Winnie.

Winnie came out of the car and took Brenda away from Kaze. "Brenda! It's really you! Thank God! Thank God you are fine..." She hugged Brenda tightly in her arms while crying as she had finally found her daughter.

The young man named Zenny came out of the car. He glanced at the mother and daughter before he looked at Kaze with a grim look.

"You shameless human trafficker! You kidnapped Brenda!"

Zenny walked around the car and strode toward Kaze to slap him. Judging from his swift action, it was not his first time slapping someone.

Slap!

Kaze blocked him and countered with a slap. When dealing with individuals who unjustly accuse innocent people without any consideration, he would never be polite.

Zenny cried as he faltered backward. He covered his face and stared at Kaze in shock. He clenched his teeth and shouted, "How dare you slap me? Do you know who | am?"

Chapter 77 Catch Him! "| don't care who you are. | just know that | saved your daughter from the human trafficker," Kaze said coldly.

Brenda was kidnapped and nearly crushed in a stampede. He saved Brenda, yet Zenny did not bother to find the truth and accused him of being a human trafficker. The young man even tried to slap him.

The mother and daughter were frightened. They stopped crying.

Brenda looked at Zenny with a hint of fright. She said meekly, "Zenny, why did you try to slap Kaze? He is a good person! He bought a lollipop for me!"

"Shut up, you little girl!"

Zenny shouted and made her cry.

"Zenny, why did you shout at Brenda?!" Winne hugged her daughter to console her.

Zenny was irritated by Brenda's crying. In addition to Kaze's slap, he was furious. No one had ever slapped him, only the other way around.

"You human trafficker! You are dead for slapping me! You have no idea how powerful | am!"

Zenny pointed at Kaze and shouted his lungs out.

Kaze scoffed. "We are in front of the police station. What are your going to do? Call some gangsters and beat me up?"

He categorized Zenny to the likes of Henry and Ren. The best they could do was hire a bunch of gangsters and beat him up. "Hmph! Police station? Fine, I'll make the police take care of you!"

Zenny pulled his phone out and dialed a number. "Hello, Captain Lambda? I'm Zenny Ningle from the Traffic Department! | am outside. of your station, and the girl is found. The human trafficker is here too!

|

Iran into him on the way in. Hurry up and bring your men out to arrest him!”

After the call, he glared at Kaze.

“Damn trafficker, you are dead!”

The conflict soon attracted the attention of passersby and a crowd gathered.

When the people heard Kaze was a human trafficker, they started to condemn him for his actions.

“Shameless bastard! You are still so young, yet you're kidnapping kids? You're able but you choose to commit a crime?” “Useless trash! You can't earn money doesn't mean you can commit a crime!”

“You got caught and slapped the girl's father? How arrogant are you? Arrest him and shoot him!” Kaze glanced at the crowd coldly. He did not bother explaining himself and wanted to leave. “Hey, where do you think you are going? You can't leave!”

The crowd surrounded him. Some even started to take videos of him to post on social media, exposing him to the entire nation.

“Boohoo. Kaze isn't a human trafficker. He's a good man...”

Brenda cried and tried to explain the situation.

The crowd hesitated, but Zenny shouted, “She's just a stupid girl. She can't tell right from wrong!”

Zenny glared at Brenda before roaring at the crowd, "Get him! Don't let him leave!"

The crowd surrounded Kaze. Some tried to apprehend him but failed.

Right then, the sliding door to the police station opened. A squad of officers rushed out and among them was Captain Tony Lambda.

"Captain Lambda, that's the human trafficker!" Zenny pointed at Kaze. Tony glared at Kaze and then signaled his men.

"Arrest him!"

Chapter 78 Don's Phone Call Two police officers approached Kaze to arrest him.

The mere thought of Kaze as a human trafficker repulsed them. They wanted nothing but to teach him a lesson, so they exchanged a tacit gaze before they coordinated attacks against Kaze, aiming for his abdomen and legs.

Kaze saw through their little tricks at first glance. His eyes narrowed.

Before their attacks could reach him, he twisted his body in a strange way and evaded the punch and kick. The officers ended up hitting each other with their leg and fist.

Smack! Thump!

Two heavy thumps later, the two officers fell to the ground.

'Why did you punch me?'

'Why did you kick me?!'

They got up and glared at each other.

"Useless!" Tony grunted angrily. He knew his subordinates enough to see through their thoughts and did not expect them to fail horribly in front of a crowd.

How embarrassing!

He waved angrily and said, "Take him in!"

"Captain Lambda, are you sure you want to arrest me?" Kaze asked coldly.

Tony shouted, "How dare you speak like that, you filthy human trafficker! Who else if not you?"

"I said I'm not a human trafficker," Kaze explained.

"Mr. Police, Kaze isn't a human trafficker! He's a good person, he bought me a lollipop!" Brenda spoke adorably again, trying to defend Kaze for the third time. "Winnie, can you watch your daughter?"

Zenny shot a warning glare at Winnie before looking at Tony and said, "Captain Lambda, this filthy human trafficker tricked the girl with a lollipop. It's a common trick they use to fool the kids!"

"You are right."

Tony nodded and looked at Kaze coldly. "You don't have to say anything else." "I have a dash cam in my car that can prove I saved Brenda from the real human trafficker."

Kaze pointed at his car and explained patiently. However, with Zenny urging him, Tony ignored Kaze's explanation and instructed his men to arrest him. "How could a captain like you protect the people from harm?" Kaze had sentenced Tony to death inwardly.

He pulled his phone out and called Snow. "Call Don Braders and tell him to come to the Southern Branch Police Station, His men are being stupid. I am waiting for him here."

Don Braders? The chief of police?

Tony was slightly startled when Kaze mentioned his boss' name.

However, Zenny scoffed and said, "You filthy trafficker, you can really put up a show! You are driving a cheap Audi A4 and you claim to know the chief of police? Even me with my BMW X6 dared not make

He glanced at Kaze's car when Kaze pointed at it. It fueled his confidence in teaching Kaze a lesson.

"That's right. The chief of police is the mayor's right-hand man. Not everyone can have the honor to make his acquaintance."

Tony nodded and said angrily, "Now I will have to charge you for another offense. Why are you people standing there? Arrest him! Are you trying to embarrass us all for letting a human trafficker outsmart us?"

His righteous speech won cheers from the crowd.

“Captain Lambda! Nicely done! You must teach the human trafficker a lesson!” “Shoot him! He's too arrogant!”

Tony felt proud with the crowd cheering on him.

“Captain Lambda!”

Then, one of the officers pushed himself through the crowd and went up to Tony.

“Chief Braders wants you to call him right away!”