

Guardian gods 143

Chapter 143:

Down in the harpie people kingdom, everywhere and every one was in distress as with the disaster of the gods awakening and after it was done.

It came to the knowledge of the top leaders in the kingdom that they were missing an important member of theirs and with the disappearance came with it the disappearance of other harpies whose family are now contacting the authorities to know what was going on.

Ursula meanwhile was at the office of the youngest elder in the kingdom "Felix" Walking into the secret room in the office.

Ursula was met with a sight of gore, an operation table, the potent smell of blood filling her nose "So you are the demon huh?" Yes thought to herself, perplexed.

She, Like other demigods, when they heard from Ikem on the demon's capabilities to take over someone's body, she carried her own search in her own way.

The elders were also informed of this when she found out she couldn't pinpoint the possessed herself so she informed them in hope to gain their help.

The elders were certainly helpful as some new ways were thought up on finding the demon, the demon wasn't found even with this new way but people who have been in contact with the demon were easily found and kept under watch.

Now with Felix missing with her father's awakening, the first thing that came to her mind was that Felix was the demon, now it made even more sense as she went through Felix's book and journal he left behind in his hurry to escape.

"No wonder, we never found out about the demon. He was right in the same room as us learning and adjusting his own plans from our discussion.

Thinking of that, flames began leaking off of Ursula's body as the temperature increased soon with a cry of a bird she went to the sky, melting the ceiling tops on her way easily till she was out in the blue sky.

She remembered his escape route and locked on to his residual energy, a sonic boom can be heard as she flew into the distance leaving behind her a trail of fire.

The elders heard the booming sound as they also took to the sky watching their queen fly away, Bernard the elder in charge of security quickly spoke to the other elders "She is going after him, we don't know if he has possible allies alongside him. Suit up and meet back here"

"The queen is going to need her help if my guess is right in Felix's escape route" Bernard said as he looked off into the distance.

Ursula's blood was boiling, she was filled with rage at the thought of how her and her children were played by the demon. To think she saw him as her grandchild and never held back in rewarding him when he did something great was something Ursula now found repulsive.

In her speed, Ursula was closing in on the energy but when she looked around her face changed " I should have known that the bastard will flee here"

Right under Ursula from the sky was the ever extending polluted land which has grown since the last time.

Ursula was so filled with rage, that she ignored going after Felix's energy signature as she took it again with a boom heading to the center of the polluted land.

She quickly reached the main center as she called out the full power of her fifth realm, a huge flaming egg structure appeared behind her.

Since she broke through to the fifth realm, her guardian phoenix has been inside of the egg, as she advanced more in the realm the bigger the egg got. As the egg appeared it began cracking soon from inside the egg, a huge flaming bird came out while screeching out loud to the sky.

The appearance of the bird came with a huge increase in the temperature within a certain area which was inside the domain of Ursula. Pointing down into the ground where she felt eyes looking at her "Burn it" She said with rage evident in her voice.

The phoenix behind her opened its mouth open as a huge wave of golden flame left its mouth heading down into the forest, before the flame got close to the forest it already caught on fire turning into ash as it headed undisturbed to its location.

Down at the center of the polluted land was the huge demonized jaguar looking angrily at Felix who brought problems to his land. They both felt the huge increase in temperature and the bird screeching sound and the huge wave of flame heading towards them right now.

The jaguar looked at Felix with anger clear in its eyes "You better come up with a reasonable price for your action else your head will do best in consoling me of the damage my land is going to take"

Saying that the Jaguar connected with the heart at the center of the lake, soon the purple water in the lake began rising as it quickly headed from the golden flame about to them. The sound of water and flame meeting together could be heard as both flame and water wore each other raising with it a wave of hot steam.

The jaguar frowned as it roared out loud before Running up in the air towards Ursula who had a golden light in her eyes as the Phoenix turned into a spear in her hands, which she quickly threw as it headed for the jaguar's huge figure.

The Jaguar dodged to the sky to dodge the spear, but the spar turned into a huge phoenix which dug its hot flaming claws into its back at the same time a golden light passed the two creatures quickly heading for the figure still at the center of the lake.

Felix, who had a plan in his mind was taken back when he saw a hot flaming spear about to hit him. A red flame similar to the one Ikem's hand bloomed across the wing behind Felix as the wings turned into a demon-like hand that caught the spear.

A loud searing sound can be heard as Felix held on to the spear. Ursula on the sky frowned watching the hands that caught her spear but with a will of own the spearing suddenly blew up sending a loud explosion sound and wav of golden flame across the lake.

The jaguar heard the explosion while entangled with the phoenix roared out loud with anger "What do you plan on doing Felix" Saying that Purple water appeared from the body of the Jaguar which it used to push away the phoenix.

At the same time the Jaguar turned into a drop of purple water which quickly fell from the sky, the drop of water fell on the small island on the lake while turning into a huge wave of water that spread across the lake burning out the flames from the explosion.

At the same time, the Jaguar reformed back to its form but it was no longer four legged this time instead it stood humanoid as it looked at Felix who flew out from the lake water

"Why aren't you helping?" The jaguar asked Felix who was now busy looking up to the sky where an angry Ursula was forming another flame spear in her hand.

"Grandma, I have to take you for all these years and the resources you have diverted from my growth, it pains me that those times will be a thing of the past" Felix said half seriously/ half mockingly to Ursula.

The flame spear in Ursula had disappeared, the next time it appeared was at the Felix of Felix whose eyes widened as he did his best to dodge, a loud sound of pain can be heard as Felix was missing an arm left.

"Don't ever refer to me as such a demon" Ursula said from the sky where she was floating but her voice could be clearly heard.

"Now do you want to work together" The Jaguar said to Felix who was now regenerating a new arm.

Nodding, Felix's form also changed as his harpie form grew two large horns and a flaming tail with red fire at its end.

With a fan of his wing, Felix went to the sky after Ursula who responded by sending her phoenix to half him, at the same time the jaguar at the center of the lake conjured a purple bow in his hand, purple water around the lake moved by themselves turning into arrows.

Felix was able to evade the oncoming attacks from Ursula's phoenix with graceful maneuvers, Meanwhile, the Jaguar, now in humanoid form, already formed an arrow and began to draw the arrow with deadly precision. The tension on the string of the bow grew as the Jaguar took aim at Ursula, who was still floating in the air.

With a swift release, the arrow soared through the air, trailing a streak of purple energy behind it. Ursula's senses tingled with danger as she swiftly conjured a barrier of golden flame to intercept the projectile. The arrow collided with the barrier, causing a burst of sparks and energy to erupt in the sky.