

The Guardian's Sword #Chapter 1651 - Read The Guardian's Sword Chapter 1651

Chapter 1651

All this showed that the private room was not for ordinary people.

After Quentin, Shania, Sean, Ronald, and Lillian sat on the brown couch, the female attendant who followed them inside smiled and said, "Mayor Lewis, there are staff outside who can help you if you need anything, or you can just contact me. If there's nothing else, I'll leave first..."

"Okay, I'll leave you to your work." Quentin nodded with a smile.

After the female attendant left, Ronald asked curiously, "Mayor Lewis, the woman earlier..."

"She's Celine James, the owner of New Era Cinema," Quentin replied.

Ronald was immediately impressed!

Sean was a little surprised. He thought the woman was an attendant. He did not expect her to be the owner of the cinema.

It was not easy for a woman to own such a grand cinema. It was because this was not Dragon Kingdom but the City-State Union.

In the chaotic City-State Union, the idea that women were inferior to men was deeply rooted in the people's minds. It was difficult for women to make it here.

The female owner named Celine looked like she was in her late 20s, but she had already such an accomplishment. She was indeed tough.

The movie began to play.

However, the only people interested in the movie were the two girls, Lillian and Shania.

Neither Quentin, Ronald, nor Sean had any interest in what was going on in the movie. They were not there to watch the movie.

"Commander Lennon and Mr. Townsend, I'm sorry for what the captain of my personal guard, Tobias, did earlier..." Quentin spoke first.

"It's alright. It's in the past. Besides, you didn't order him to do such a thing." Ronald's face was full of smiles.

"But it's still my responsibility. I didn't control my people well."

Ronald was flattered by Quentin's attitude. However, Ronald knew why Quentin was apologizing in front of him. It was all because of Sean!

If it were not for Sean, Quentin would never have invited him and his daughter to a private meeting at New Era Cinema, much less to apologize in person. After all, the difference in their status was obvious. It was not something you could erase easily.

Sean asked faintly, "So, how did you take care of Tobias?"

"Tobias has been tried by an emergency court and is now imprisoned for life," Quentin said solemnly.

Hearing this, Sean nodded with satisfaction.

The City-State Union's life imprisonment was indeed for life.

One would be locked up until death. Besides that, it was not just ordinary detention. One had to do manual labor every day!

It was unlike Dragon Kingdom, where it was only life imprisonment in name, but was actually only 25 years, and one could get a reduced sentence for good behavior. At least the City-State Union's punishment was far more severe than Dragon Kingdom.

Ronald was pleased with the result, of course.

He nodded and said, "Thank you, Mayor Lewis. Frederic has told me that he has retrieved the antiques Tobias took. Besides that, he also got a nice compensation. Mayor Lewis, this is all thanks to you. Here's a toast to you!"

With that said, Ronald picked up the coffee cup in front of him.

After picking up the coffee cup, Ronald realized this was not a restaurant and what he picked up was not wine, so he quickly corrected himself. "Let's use coffee instead of wine. Hahaha..."

Quentin nodded before taking a sip of his coffee.

Chapter 1652

Sean looked calm.

Tobias' incident was no big deal. He did not take it to heart. He was concerned about the ancient bronze sword fragments. After all, the ancient bronze sword fragments hid important information about a secret warehouse in Silver City, which involved hundreds of tons of gold!

With that in mind, Sean turned to look at Ronald and asked, "Mr. Townsend, where did you buy the ancient bronze sword?"

Hearing Sean's question, Ronald immediately replied, "It's from Crosac... I bought them at an antique market in Crosac."

"Really?" Sean asked.

It was important, so he had to confirm it.

"Of course. I dare not hide such a thing from you," Ronald said with a wry smile.

"Was the ancient bronze sword already shattered when you bought it?" Sean asked again.

"Yes, I just found the fragments interesting. So I bought them as a lark," Ronald said with a nod.

Quentin was curious as he heard Ronald and Sean's conversation.

He looked at Sean and asked, "Commander Lennon, I did n't know you were interested in antiques. I happen to be a little interested in antiques. If we have the opportunity, why don't we..."

"We'll see when we get a chance..." Sean interrupted Quentin before adding, "The ancient bronze sword isn't simple. It's related to a secret, but for some reason, I can't tell you what it is now. But you'll learn about it later."

He explained to give Quentin some face.

Quentin nodded with a knowing look.

"I see... I thought you just liked antiques, Commander Lennon. I misunderstood..."

Just then, Sean's phone vibrated suddenly.

He pulled out his phone to find a text message from Zander.

Zander had contacted the two cities, Dorandue and Bittan, and he had received an important piece of information from Dorandue.

Darren Beckett, the son of Silver City's mayor, was not dead. Darren was currently in Dorandue's prison, and Darren had confirmed that Silver City had a secret warehouse. However, due to the loss of the ancient bronze sword, Darren did not know where the secret warehouse was as well as the password to open it.

Sean was pleasantly surprised by the news.

Regardless of anything else, Darren's very existence had already made him righteous.

Darren was the son of Silver City's mayor, and Silver City's mayor had contacted Dragon Kingdom before the city had fallen. Therefore, Sean could borrow Darren and attack Silver City in the name of helping Darren recover Silver City. In this way, he could also get help from Dorandue and Bittan.

Having a righteous reason was far better than striking for no reason.

"You can chat while I go to the washroom," Sean said as he got up.

"Alright..." Quentin nodded.

Sean left the private room and headed for the washroom on the first floor.

New Era Cinema was indeed the most luxurious cinema in Dorodo.

As soon as he entered the washroom, the row of marble sinks and gold-plated faucets caught Sean's attention.

Looking at the gold faucet and the fine marble sinks, Sean could not help saying emotionally, "How lavish.."

Chapter 1653

However, Sean was not here to use the toilet. He was only here to excuse himself from the private room and reply to Zander's text message.

Just as Sean sent the edited text message, a sound came from the cubicle inside.

"Sir, don't..."

"This is the men's room. What if someone comes in..."

"Don't mess around. It's inappropriate if someone sees us..." The woman sounded so reluctant that Sean frowned.

Then came another man's voice. "What's the matter? Are you disobeying me? I'm the department manager. I'll fire you if you disobey me! Believe It or not. I can fire you with one word."

The woman instantly fell silent when she heard the threat.

In the cubicle, the young man in a designer suit leaned his face into the fair neck of a beautiful young female attendant.

When the forceful kiss was imminent, the cubicle door was suddenly pushed open.

Standing at the cubicle door was none other than Sean!

The male manager and the female attendant were shocked, and they scrambled to fix their clothes. However, the expression on the female attendant's face soon turned to relief, while the male manager showed indescribable anger.

"Who the h*ll are you? Don't you see that there are people in here?!"

Sean glanced indifferently at the two and said, "This is a public place, not your home. Please do that kind of thing at home."

With that said, Sean was about to leave.

He did not intend to get involved in the matter, but sensing that the female attendant was being forced, he came to warn the male manager to behave himself.

Sean had just turned around and taken two steps outside when the male manager ran after him and yelled, "Stop!"

"What do you want?" Sean turned around and calmly looked at the arrogant male manager as he asked.

"What do I want? It's what you want! How dare you sabotage my business? Are you itching for trouble?!"

The male manager shouted as he spat. He even planned to roll up his sleeves to fight.

"Itching for trouble? Are you talking about me?" Sean could not help laughing.

"Nonsense! Who else is here other than you? B*stard, why are you laughing? Are you looking down on me?" The male manager yelled, seemingly trying to intimidate Sean.

However, there was no way Sean would be intimidated by him.

As a nine-star commander of Dragon Kingdom and the Guardian God of war, who managed Dorodo's city defense army of 3,000 men, he might as well kill himself by running into a tree if he was frightened by the department manager of a small cinema.

"Do you know who I am?" Sean asked indifferently.

"I don't care who you are! How dare you walk away after spoiling my fun?!"

"What do you want?" Sean asked in reply.

"What do I want? I want to beat you up!"

As soon as he finished speaking, the male manager rushed toward Sean, raised his fist, and punched at Sean hard at the face.

One could tell that the male manager was trained. He moved much faster than ordinary people.

However, what did it matter?

Chapter 1654

Could someone who had worked out in the gym for a few years be a match for a soldier who had fought on the battlefield even if he was physically strong?

Sean lifted his foot and kicked the male manager in the stomach, sending him flying far away. He had already gone easy on him with the kick.

If he did not hold back, he could make the male manager bleed internally or even die.

"F*ck you..."

Clutching his stomach, the male manager got up from the floor and glared at Sean with a sullen look.

Terrified, the female attendant ran over, grabbed his arm, and advised, "Sir, stop it... It would be troublesome if it becomes a big deal..."

"F*ck off!" The male manager pushed the female attendant away, pulled out his phone, and walked toward Sean.

How could he endure being humiliated in front of a woman?

He must defeat this punk today!

"Punk, you're a good fighter! I'm no match for you, but I have men!" With that said, the male manager dialed a number.

"Captain Warber, bring the security team here. Someone caused a disturbance in the toilet and sexually harassed our female attendant. Yes, yes, yes, bring a couple of guys. Bring weapons too..."

Sean was annoyed by what the male manager said.

How dare the male manager hurl mud at him and say he harassed the female attendant?

He was the one harassing the female attendant!

"Do you think calling someone is a big deal?" Sean said and took out his phone.

"Everyone can do that. I can do that too!" Sean said and called Quentin.

The male manager continued sneering. "Okay, call them. Let's see who can get more people!"

Once he finished speaking, a dozen security guards burst into the men's room with self-defense batons and surrounded Sean.

"Captain Warber, that's him! That's the punk! He dragged our female attendant into the men's room with bad intentions. He attacked me when I found out! Teach him a lesson. Beat him half to death and send him to the sheriff's department!"

As soon as the male manager finished speaking, the security team captain, Captain Warber, raised his baton.

"Punk, how dare you make trouble here? You have a f*cking death wish!"

With that said, Captain Warber and the other security guards prepared to attack Sean.

Just then, a shout came from outside the washroom.

"Stop!" It was the cinema owner, Celine's voice!

Once the security guards heard Celine's shouting, they stopped immediately. Even Captain Warber was no exception. Then Celine strode in, followed by Mayor Quentin and Ronald!

"Commander Lennon, what on earth is going on here?" Quentin asked, coming up to Sean.

Sean smiled faintly.

Then he pointed to the male manager, who was stunned and could not come back to his senses. "I just came to the washroom and found him sexually harassing and threatening the female attendant in the washroom cubicle, so I warned him... Then he blamed it on me and called the security team."

Hearing this, Quentin flew into a rage.

The cinema owner Celine glared coldly at the male manager and asked angrily, "Mr. Lorren, what do you have to say?"

Chapter 1655

Mr. Lorren's face instantly went pale as his body trembled.

However, he soon stubbornly said, "Don't believe him. He's making it up! Boss, I'm innocent! You have to believe me! I'm a department manager after all. I have no lack of women. How could I do that to a female attendant?"

Unexpectedly, Mr. Lorren chose to not keep his mouth shut in this situation.

The female owner, Celine, glanced at Mr. Lorren before looking sternly at the submissive female attendant, who was afraid to speak.

"Tell me what's going on here!"

The female attendant winched but did not speak.

The female owner Celine said, "Don't be afraid. This is the mayor of Dorodo, Quentin Lewis. He won't blame the innocent. And this is the commander-in-chief of Dorodo's city defense army, Mr. Sean Lennon"

Mayor of Dorodo, Quentin Lewis!

Commander-in-chief of Dorodo's city defense army, Sean Lennon!

The security guards present looked at Quentin and Sean in shock, their faces full of astonishment.

Mr. Lorren was too scared to stand still.

Recalling how he had just Insulted and attacked the commander-in-chief of Dorodo's city defense army and summoned so many security guards to attack him, Mr. Lorren felt deep fear and intense regret!

He would not have been so reckless if he had known that the man was the commander-in-chief of Dorodo's city defense army!

The female attendant was pleasantly surprised.

She was afraid to tell the truth because she was afraid of Mr. Lorren taking revenge. However, with two of Dorodo's top big shots-Quentin and Sean on her side, she had nothing to fear.

With that in mind, the female attendant said without hesitation, "Boss, Mr. Lorren was forcing me! He pulled me into the men's room and tried to take advantage of me. Fortunately, the commander-in-chief came just in time to stop him. Otherwise, I might have been... Besides that, Mr. Lorren spoke rudely and even physically assaulted the commander-in-chief. Then Mr. Lorren summoned Captain Warber and the security guards!"

As soon as she said that, everyone looked at Mr. Lorren.

Mr. Lorren instantly fell on his knees with a thump, grabbed the female owner Celine's leg, and begged for mercy.

"Boss, I'm sorry. I lost my head for a moment! I won't do it again. I really won't..."

"F*ck off!" The female owner, Celine, decisively kicked Mr. Lorren away before yelling.

"I didn't expect this, and I certainly didn't expect you to be such a sleaze! You're no longer the department manager of New Era Cinema. Pack up and f*ck off!"

The female owner, Celine, fired Mr. Lorren in front of everyone. She did not give him any respect.

However, the female owner's prompt decision excluded Mr. Lorren from New Era Cinema. In other words, what happened tonight was the responsibility of Mr. Lorren alone. New Era Cinema had nothing to do with it.

Celine was indeed clever.

Mr. Lorren's face instantly turned pale as he fell to his knees like he had lost his soul.

Quentin took out his phone and said, "Either way, this is attempted rape. I'll call the sheriff's department to arrest him."

"Do as you please...." Celine said with a nod.

It only took five minutes for the sheriff's department to arrive at New Era Cinema.

With his hands in handcuffs, Mr. Lorren was led downstairs by two deputies.

Chapter 1656

However, as he passed by Sean, Sean smiled at him and said, "Do you understand it now? It's not about who can get the most men, but who can call someone better."

It was a simple truth to choose quality over quantity.

Of course, Sean was capable of handling Mr. Lorren himself, even without summoning Quentin and the rest.

However, it was a normal dispute after all. It was under the sheriff's department's jurisdiction, so it was better to let the mayor, Quentin, handle it than the city defense army's commander-in-chief.

The movie had not finished, but several people were already planning to leave.

The female owner Celine followed Quentin and Sean downstairs.

"I'm so sorry. I didn't expect anything like this to happen," Celine bowed and said regretfully.

"It's alright. It's alright. It was just a small incident. No one will mind," Quentin said flatly.

Then the female owner, Celine, walked up to Sean again.

She bent over slightly and said, "Commander Lennon, I'm sorry you had to experience that... If you ever need any help, please feel free to contact me. I will do my best to help you. Here's my business card. The female owner Celine said and handed over an exquisite business card with both hands.

Sean nodded and accepted it.

There was nothing else going on. Quentin exchanged a few pleasantries with them and left in the car with his daughter, Shania.

The female owner, Celine, also returned to the cinema with her staff. Therefore, only Sean, Ronald, and Lillian were left there.

It was already about 10 pm, and Ronald looked into the dark sky and asked, "Mr. Lennon, would you like a ride back to the army camp?"

Ronald remembered Sean walking there.

Sean waved his hand and said, "No thanks. I can walk back."

"How is that..."

Ronald was halfway through his sentence when Sean interrupted and said, "I'm used to it."

"Alright then..." Ronald could only nod and agree.

Just then, a woman's scream came from an alley not far away!

Ronald and Lillian's expressions changed slightly, but Sean had already run over.

In the dark alley, a woman sat slumped on the ground with a frightened expression.

The body of a man was in front of her. The bright red blood covered most of the alley, and the pungent smell of blood made people want to vomit.

Sean, who reached the entrance of the alley, frowned after taking a glance.

Ronald and Lillian, who followed, turned ghastly pale and panicked.

"Well..." Ronald hesitantly looked at Sean.

Sean glanced at Ronald and said, "Why are you still standing there? Call the sheriff's department and tell them there's been a murder."

***

A week passed quickly.

This week, Sean did not forget to send someone to Crosac to investigate the whereabouts of the ancient bronze sword fragment.

There were three ancient bronze sword fragments in total, and Sean had obtained two of them, piecing together the incomplete map of Silver City's secret warehouse and incomplete numerical code.

He could get the complete map and password if he could find the third fragment.

When that happened, it would be time to unite Dorandue and Bittan's armed forces to attack Silver City, take over it, and find the secret warehouse.

Of course, they could not rush the matter and had to give it further thought

Chapter 1657

Sean was currently in the commander-in-chief's office, looking over the details of the recent serial murders.

Two weeks ago, one or a gang of killers appeared to have infiltrated Dorodo. The sheriff's department called them Killer X.

Killer X could be a single person or a group of people committing crimes after entering Dorodo. There had been a total of 11 murders in just two weeks.

11 Dorodo residents had been killed. All the victims had no connection to each other, which meant they had nothing in common. In other words, Killer X chose their targets randomly.

It made it extremely difficult to solve the case.

The murder scene that Sean, Ronald, and Lillian witnessed in the alley near the cinema was the fourth.

The first three murders did not attract the attention of the sheriff's department, but because Sean discovered the fourth, the sheriff's department finally noticed it and linked it to the first three murders. There had been seven more cases after that.

The mysterious Killer X had not been caught so far. The sheriff's department did not even have any clues about them.

"This would be easier if it was in Dragon Kingdom."

Sean was overwhelmed with emotion.

The City-State Union was no match for Dragon Kingdom, and Dorodo was no match for the Dragon Kingdom's mainland cities. Although Dorodo was financially doing pretty well, it was a far cry from Dragon Kingdom's mainland cities.

For example, road surveillance and CCTVs.

If it had been in Dragon Kingdom, the killer would surely have been caught after blatantly killing 11 people in a row in just two weeks. However, they were in Dorodo. The flaws of its security made it impossible for them to have a lead on the killer.

"Commander, the mayor-Quentin just called and asked the city defense army to back up the sheriff's department," Zander said from the side.

"Get back to him that we at the city defense army will do everything we can to support the sheriff's department. We won't go easy on Killer X," Sean said solemnly.

Whatever the reason or purpose of Killer X committing crimes in Dorodo, it had caused panic in Dorodo.

The name Killer X had been in the newspapers and even on television news these days. Dorodo's residents were afraid to go out at night. They even tried not to go out during the day.

It seriously affected Dorodo and disrupted its social order!

Therefore, even though the matter was under the sheriff's department's jurisdiction, the city defense army had to step in. Besides, Quentin had reached out for help.

"Yes, I'll deploy five battalions to guard Dorodo's every entrance and exit. There's no way we'll let Killer X get away unharmed," Zander said and went out to execute the order.

Sean did not stay in the army camp. He prepared to go out to have a look. Maybe he would get lucky and meet Killer X.

***

Downtown Dorodo.

Standing in front of the fountain, Sean looked around and quickly realized that the downtown area was much more isolated than it used to be.

He meant fewer people were on the road when he described it as isolated.

Downtown Dorodo used to have many pedestrians, whether day or night. Only in the late hours of the night did pedestrians disappear. Therefore, Dorodo's downtown area had always been bustling. Even though it was daytime, there were few people on the road. Hence, it felt desolate.

Killer X really took a toll on Dorodo.

Chapter 1658

Just then, a red Bentley sped over and stopped in front of Sean.

"Mr. Lennon, you wanted to see me?" a girl lower the car window and asked Sean.

The person in the car was none other than Quentin's daughter, Shania.

"Yes..." Sean nodded.

Hearing this, Shania quickly parked her car nearby and ran up to Sean.

Looking at Sean, who was in front of her, Shania was slightly anxious. She did not why the other party had asked to meet her.

"Did you tell your father that you are out?" Sean asked.

"Of course, I did. My father is relieved to know I came out to meet you," Shania said with a smile.

Sean was the commander-in-chief of the city defense army and the strongest person in Dorodo. Quentin was relieved to know that Shania was meeting Sean. It was because Sean was practically a free bodyguard. Even though he did not know what Sean's purpose was in asking to meet his daughter, but he trusted Sean to take care of Shania.

Killer X was still out there. As the mayor, he was afraid to do anything, let alone leave the mayor's residence, lest Killer X found a chance to assassinate him. However, with Sean protecting Shania, she did not have to fear the so-called Killer X.

Sean laughed when he heard that.

"If your father knew the reason I asked you out, he might jump up in anger."

"Reason?" Shania looked curiously at Sean.

"Yeah, reason... I brought you out to make you bait," Sean explained.

The word "bait" instantly made Shania's pretty face pale. Her cheeks, which had been blushing, were now pale.

"No one knows who Killer X's real target is. It could be your father, Quentin. It could also be me. Of course, the chances of it being me aren't high. And you're your father's daughter. By leaving the mayor's mansion, you've given Killer X a chance. Maybe Killer X will try to assassinate you."

Shania's face grew paler at the sound of Sean's words. She thought Sean asked her out to go shopping and bond. However, she never expected Sean to ask her out so that she could be bait for Killer X!

It was too much!

"You... You'll protect me, won't you?" Shania asked in fear, looking around as if she was looking for Killer X.

"I will catch the killer," Sean replied.

Catching the killer was not the same as protecting Shania.

With that in mind, Shania was instantly more scared. She even wanted to run back to the car and quickly go home to hide in her warm bed. However, she eventually did not do so after some hesitation.

She looked up, straightened her somewhat flat chest, and mustered the courage, saying, "I'm the mayor's daughter, and I have to do my part to protect Dorodo. If the killer tries to assassinate me, please catch them, Mr. Lennon!"

Sean nodded approvingly after glancing at Shania.

Although Shania was only 18 years old and delicate, she was quite brave.

Chapter 1659

"As you wish..." Sean nodded with a smile.

Next, Sean took Shania to the mall nearby.

Not many pedestrians were on the way, and there were fewer people in the mall than usual. If it were in the past, the major shopping malls downtown would be full of people. However, though there were people in the mall, it was not as many as usual.

Shania, who was closely following Sean, carefully followed his pace and constantly looked around.

Shania was wary of those around her. After all, no one knew if Killer X was hiding in the crowd. As the mayor- Quentin's daughter, she was Killer X's potential target, so she was afraid that a killer would come out of the crowd and assassinate her.

"Mr. Lennon, do you think that serial killer would actually kill me?" Shania asked in a hushed voice.

"I don't know." Sean shook his head.

Sean had no idea. He just thought it was possible, and he had nothing to do in the army camp, so he asked Shania out as an experiment.

There was nothing to lose by trying anyway. It would not hurt to give it a try.

Hearing Sean's words, Shania felt slightly disappointed and annoyed.

She was the mayor Quentin's daughter. People greeted her with smiles and tried to make her happy wherever she went. However, her identity was meaningless in front of Sean.

Fortunately, Shania was not a stubborn girl, and she quickly came to terms with the situation.

Of course she understood, the man in front of her was young, but his status was no worse than his father's. Even her father was a little afraid of him. In that case, he would not ingratiate her, she should ingratiate him instead.

With that in mind, Shania had a strange feeling as if she had lost something. She felt empty.

Just then, a shiny necklace caught her eye.

It was a beautiful necklace on the counter. It was set with a large diamond and was beautiful.

Under the store light, the necklace emitted a dazzling glow, which was enchanting from any angle. It was jewelry most women liked.

Shania ran toward the counter without a warning, leaving Sean behind.

Sean shook his head slightly at the sight of this.

She was the mayor's daughter, but she was still a young girl after all. She was not that vigilant.

She knew she might be targeted by the killer, but she let her guard down when she saw something she liked. She would have been in immediate danger if she did not have him to protect her.

"Miss, do you like this necklace? This necklace is the most premium jewelry in our store." The sales assistant behind the counter asked with a smile.

"It's a beautiful necklace. Can I try it on?" Shania asked.

"Of course..."

Then Shania carefully picked up the necklace, wore it on her neck, and put the diamond pendant on her chest.

The sales assistant was helpful as she brought over a mirror.

After looking left and right in front of the mirror, Shania was satisfied. She even blushed from happiness.

"How much is the necklace?" Shania asked immediately.

"800 thousand Dragon dollars, Miss."

Chapter 1660

However, 800 thousand dollars was nothing to Shania. She only winced slightly after hearing the amount rather than turning away immediately like the average person.

Sean also walked over, glanced at the necklace, and said, "It's beautiful..."

"Will you buy it for me?" Shania immediately looked at Sean with a smile.

Sean was silent for a second before asking seriously, "What gave you the idea that I would buy you this necklace?"

The woman was a little too naive. Shania instantly froze in place, unable to recover her senses after a long time.

Yeah... Why would Sean buy me this necklace?

The necklace cost 800 thousand dollars. It was not an average gift you would buy for others. Besides, she was not that close to Sean yet.

It would be strange that Sean was willing to buy it for her.

Shania touched her purse. She only had 500 thousand dollars in it. It was not enough to buy this necklace.

She had a credit card. However, if she spent all her money, she would get a lecture from her father when she got home.

With that in mind, Shania could only sigh and remove the necklace from her neck.

The sales assistant quickly said, "Miss, this necklace suits you. You look beautiful after wearing it!"

Silly, no need to state the obvious....

Shania helplessly thought to herself.

"You can ask your boyfriend to buy it for you. We have an installment plan if you don't have enough money."

The thing is he isn't my boyfriend...

Shania felt even more helpless.

After taking off the necklace, Shania put it in the jewelry box.

Just then, a hand suddenly reached for the jewelry box and took out the necklace worth 800 thousand dollars.

Shania had not planned to buy it, but she was offended when someone snatched it in front of her as soon as she put it down.

Therefore, she turned to look at the person who had taken the necklace and snapped, "What are you doing... It's you."

Shania was only halfway through her sentence when a look of shock appeared on her face. It was because she found a distinctly foreign woman with blond wavy hair standing before her.

"Aria, what are you doing here?"

The woman named Aria Crosac glanced disdainfully at Shania and said exaggeratingly, "Oh, the daughter of the mayor of Dorodo can't even afford a necklace. How sad! Would your father cry if he knew about this?"

The dramatic woman made Sean frown. However, Sean did not say anything more. He was still observing because this woman gave him a familiar feeling.

Thinking back, Sean could not remember where he had seen her before. Besides, Aria was not alone. A tall man was standing next to her.

The man was handsome. His pale yellow pupils made him look very foreign.

"Who is she?" Sean asked.

Shania turned to look at Sean and said after exhaling, "Her name is Aria. She's the second daughter of the mayor of Crosac. Her full name is Aria Crosac."

Aria Crosac?

Sean found her a lot more familiar now.

