

Hail the King 951

Chapter 951: Sealed Space (Part One)

Through the information that Dark Demonic Armor Basturk revealed, Chambord learned that it was using the fake Holy Code of Hell to trade for the 19 Sun-Class Lords and the three peak Moon-Class Elites from the Holy Church. The purpose of this was that it wanted to use the soul energy and core energy of these masters to power a secret array of Hell, trying to release the 72 demons who were sealed in the space under the Royal Palace of Anji.

It didn't try to use zombie emperors since the zombies were undead creatures without souls or intelligence, so they didn't fit the requirement for the secret array.

While Fei and Basturk discussed this, the king murmured and reminded himself that it was about time to check out the sealed space mentioned in the journal.

The situation inside the Royal Palace of Anji finally came to an end.

On the 100th day, [Black Pearl] returned from Chambord City.

On the way back, Captain Sparrow even took his crew members to plunder the Sea of Fragrance, obtaining quite a few resources from the Leon Empire. He finally got to experience the life of a hyperspace pirate, and it was a little addicting.

During the afternoon of that day, Cain, Akara, and their dozens of talented apprentices moved all the experimental equipment and the fruits of their labor onto the barge, starting the long journey home.

The temporary laboratory had limited capabilities. The next step in this research project was to create mystical gold war machines, and it had to be done back at the laboratory in Chambord City. Besides, the runes and magic arrays had to be created by the busty Blacksmith Charsi and her apprentices, so returning to Chambord was the only option right now.

As the most valuable resource and material in this research project, Dark Demonic Armor Basturk was taken as well.

Fei planted seeds of light power and spirit energy into this demon. If it wanted to rebel, Fei would instantly notice it, and he could make this spineless demon beg for death to end its suffering. After all, Basturk had experienced the excruciating pain several times, and this biggest traitor of Hell in the last thousands of years already submitted to Fei. It expressed its 100 percent loyalty and was willing to listen to all of Fei's commands; it didn't dare to bear any evil thoughts.

However, Fei didn't plan on ditching the Capital of Anji.

This majestic and ancient city was managed and strengthened by the Anji Empire for many years. The Undead Creature Catastrophe had killed all the residents of the city, but this resulted in minimal damage to the infrastructure such as magic defensive arrays, buildings, defense work, shops, worship palaces, houses, markets, and sewage system. It would take hundreds of years to build another city like this. Therefore, why shouldn't Chambord take over this deserted city?

Fei already decided to turn the Capital of Anji into a hidden military base of Chambord.

In the last half a month, Fei spent a lot of time and energy on engraving many light magic arrays on the defense walls of the city; it was so dense that people would feel dizzy just looking at the engravings.

Fei's Paladin character purified every single inch of land in the city, and the death energy of Hell was nowhere to be found. Right now, the Capital of Anji was suitable for humans to live in, and people in the city didn't need to worry about the city being attacked by zombies and monsters; this was like a paradise during the end of the world.

Now, Fei planned to start to move people to this place.

However, many zombies, advanced zombies, and mutated demon beasts were still wandering on the plain in the region that was hundreds of kilometers around the city.

Chapter 951: Sealed Space (Part Two)

After this long period, high-level monsters started to emerge and appear, and their overall strength significantly increased. In fact, several zombie emperors had appeared from leveling up, and they dominated over small regions in the area.

Now, these monsters created an unbreakable natural barrier.

Since Fei already set up sizeable light magic arrays around the borders of the Anji Empire, these zombies and monsters were sandwiched between the giant magic arrays on the borders and the smaller magic arrays around the Capital of Anji. In a sense, they were being captured by Fei, and they could only live on this land. They could become more vicious and evolve, but they couldn't move to another place to spread death and the power of Hell.

Therefore, unless real masters came, this large number of monsters blocked off other people such as spies and troops. Now, entering the territory of the former Anji Empire was close to impossible; it was impossible for ordinary people or warrior and mages with weak strength.

Now, Chambord could run some forbidden experiments in this place in peace.

Besides, with the strengthened super-long-distance magic teleportation arrays, it wasn't a problem to transport people and resources to this place.

After seeing off [Black Pearl], Fei and Undead Mage Hazel Bank stayed behind.

According to the information in the journal, Fei released his spirit energy and used some techniques, finally discovering the mysterious sealed space; it was indeed about 2,000 meters underground.

From the information that Fei learned from the feedback of the spirit energy, that space should be a small world that existed on its own in the void, completely separated off from the outside world. To be honest, if it weren't for the directions and hints given in the journal of the New Emperor of Anji, as well as Fei's radar-like spirit energy scanning, other people wouldn't even be able to find this place. Looking through another lens, the entrance to this space was only a light sphere about the size of a fist, and it was inside layers of rocks.

"This silver light sphere should be the entrance to that mysterious sealed space."

Since both Fei and Hazel Bank reached high-level of strength, it was easy to move through soil and get deep into the ground. Soon, they broke through the land and entered the mysterious space through the light sphere entrance.

“This is... a real vacuum?”

“Are we teleported into the cosmos?”

As soon as these two entered the strange, new space, they were startled; they were completely shocked by what they saw.

This was a vast, black space, and it looked like the real cosmos. Faint and weak star lights could be seen from afar, and they were fascinating and brilliant. An ancient, profound, and mysterious sensation permeated the air, making people feel like it was the beginning of the universe as vicissitude permeated the air. The turbid yet majestic pressure was so grand that Fei and Hazel Bank both had a hard time breathing properly.

In the middle of this brilliant, star-filled space, 72 giant ‘stone eggs’ floated in the air.

These ‘stone eggs’ were of various sizes, but even the smallest had a diameter of more than ten kilometers, looking like a small meteorite. Right now, they were moving in mysterious patterns while being positioned in various places in the ‘cosmos’, and they slowly rotated and revolved.

If one paid closer attention, they could see that each ‘stone egg’ had a rough surface, and dust layered on top of them for many years. Through the dust, streaks of red, lava-like flames could be seen all around them like the spider-web, and they would flash every ten seconds as if they were beating hearts, emitting streaks of terrifying death energy through the cracks. The roars and screams could be vaguely heard from the ‘stone eggs’, and it seemed like they were imprisoning terrifying beasts that were trying to escape.

Chapter 952: Godly Blood (Part One)

“Are these 72 giant stone eggs containing the 72 sealed demons of Hell?”

Fei and Hazel Bank felt like they were as tiny as ants in front of these giant ‘stone eggs’. When they looked up and observed, they were shocked, and their lips and throats became dry. Now, words couldn’t even describe the emotions and thoughts that they had.

The two finally woke up from the shock after a long while.

“Let’s split up and look around. If any one of us discovers anything, don’t move alone; we have to notify the other person and move together.”

After quickly making the decision, they decided to split up and move on their own.

Fei dashed forward and slowly approached the center of the mysterious sealed space.

The closer he was to these ‘stone eggs’, the more majestic and terrifying Fei found them to be.

These giant stone pieces weren’t born in nature. Fei could tell that on their surface, two kinds of powers, both holy and evil, were fighting with each other and intertwined. Both sensations contained fragments of godly laws. Even a bit of leaked energy could wipe out a powerful Sun-Class Lord.

“Such a terrifying place!”

Fei had been through hundreds of battles and had an iron-like will that was trained in the Hell-like Diablo World. However, when he passed by the giant ‘stone eggs’ one by one, the horrifying auras of these ‘eggs’ shocked the king and made him feel a strong sense of fear. It felt like the demons imprisoned inside the ‘stone eggs’ could break out and devour him at any time.

With his guard up, Fei traveled in between the ‘stone eggs’ with caution.

-Suddenly-

“Oh god! This is...”

In the center of all the ‘stone eggs’, there was a giant ‘stone egg’ that was way larger than its peers. It was still slowly spinning, but Fei didn’t notice it since other things blocked his vision.

If the other ‘stone eggs’ were like subordinates, this enormous ‘stone egg’ would be like the unreachable emperor. All other ‘stone eggs’ spun themselves and circled this giant ‘strong egg’ like loyal guards protecting their lord.

Also, different from other 'stone eggs', its surface wasn't grey and rough. Instead, it was smooth like a mirror, and black and white flames burned on it in alternating patterns. Also, life energy could be clearly sensed from it, making it seem like an egg that was nurturing something inside. When Fei got closer to this 'stone egg' in shock, he was stunned that strands of red chains that were the thickness of wine barrels wrapped around the surface of this 'stone egg'. Since the size of this 'stone egg' was so large, the red chains looked like thin hair strands from afar. Therefore, the king didn't notice it prior.

"These are... godly runes? Ancient godly runes?"

Fei carefully got close and was stunned to find golden images that were the size of a palm blinking on the red chains. These godly runes connected densely. With the godly light flashing on them, the limitless-looking red chains also started to move. Infused with godly power, the red chains wrapped around the giant 'stone egg' layer by layer. However, they were still moving around as if they had minds of their own.

"Strange chain. Red color... what material is it made of? It can tie down this bright sphere, so it shouldn't be ordinary."

Chapter 952: Godly Blood (Part Two)

Fei couldn't help himself; he wanted to reach out his hand and touch this mystical chain. He wanted to start with the material and discover more clues.

Now, Fei was knowledgeable in terms of alchemy and materials; he had been learning from Cain and Akara. Since the king was semi-professional, the ancient materials could be recognized by him. Then, from its material and make, he could potentially figure out which race and elemental energy the many blinking godly runes belonged to.

However, when his hands were about to touch the chain, he suddenly discovered something and froze.

"This... isn't solid! It is... liquid... red liquid... could it be... blood?!"

Fei was stunned.

He suddenly discovered that the red chains where golden runes flashed on weren't made by a talented craftsman; they were made from pure blood! The drips of blood tightly connected and looked like metal chains, and they let out a series of metal-colliding noises. Every single bit of blood contained unimaginable power and fragments of godly laws, and it was unparalleled in terms of sealing abilities. Right now, the entire 'stone egg' was directly sealed.

"This blood... could it be godly blood?" Fei was so shocked that he became numb.

In the legends, godly blood contained unimaginable power. Since these red chains were made from blood, it wasn't strange that they could also deal with demons. What shocked Fei was that based on the observations of the surroundings, it seemed like this place had been around for tens of thousands of years. Therefore, the blood should have been around for that long as well. After the passage of time, the blood was still full and bright; it didn't disintegrate over the years.

"Where did this blood come from? How powerful must that person be."

Fei flew around this giant 'stone egg' and took a better look. From the size of it, hundreds of tons of blood were required to seal this demon. Also, since the blood wouldn't rot and disappear after so long, it was shocking and a little unbelievable.

If Fei weren't worried about damaging the seal and accidentally releasing the demons, he would have taken some blood to go back and research.

This was godly blood!

Godly blood was several times more valuable than all the treasures that were found in the Royal Palace of Anji. Since it contained godly power, fragmented laws of nature, and the secret of becoming a god, there were a lot of things to study. With the terrifying research ability of the Mad Scientists Laboratory, perhaps it would break the code of becoming a real-world god, making Fei more powerful like a god who was looking down on Earth.

"These 72 giant eggs should contain the 72 demons of Hell, and the largest one in the center should be the lord of the 72 demons. This demon lord must be terrifying, and doomsday would occur on the Azeroth Continent if they break out..."

This situation was insane and alluring as well. No one knew which god sealed these demons here for thousands of years. If this news got out, the entire continent would go insane and fight over it.

After closing his eyes, Fei seemed to have heard loud roars in his ears and thought back in history; he was sure that this battle was insane.

At the same time, a shriek sounded by Fei's ear.

Fei's heart lurched, and he thought, "This is the gasp of the Undead Mage; could it be that he is in danger?"

Chapter 953: One Day in Heaven, One Year on Land (Part One)

Fei didn't dare to hesitate at all. Like a flash of lightning, he dashed toward the direction that the noise had come from.

After quickly passing more than 20 giant stone eggs, Fei finally saw the Undead Mage, and his heart that was in his throat went back down into his chest. Nothing terrifying happened; the Undead Mage only gasped since he made a discovery.

"Quickly look at this..." The Undead Mage beckoned at Fei and pointed at a giant stone egg that had a diameter of about 26 kilometers.

Fei looked in the direction that Hazel Bank was pointing at, and his pupils instantly contracted in the next moment.

"The seal is broken..."

This giant stone egg looked to be intact, but a crack that was more than one kilometer long and 100 meters wide appeared on the bottom. The black crack looked like a giant mouth that had a mocking smile, and a dark-red gale was blowing out of it, creating loud whistling noises. On the edge of the crack, pieces of broken strands of red chains fluttered in the wind.

Different from other stone eggs that had life energy emitting from them, this giant stone egg was silent and dead without any movement inside. Like an egg that already gave birth to a chicken, it looked complete but only had a shell on the outside.

Fei and Hazel Bank looked at each other, and their hearts sunk.

Without question, the demon of Hell that was sealed inside this giant stone egg already escaped.

It meant that a terrifying demon from the Mythical Era had now escaped to the Azeroth Continent, and no one knew where it was hiding. Now, it must be spectating the situation with humans while trying to recover its strength. Once the opportunity appeared, it was going to create a limitless blood storm on the continent.

The tragedy of humans could be predicted by now.

Fei thought back to the combat between him and Dark Demonic Armor Basturk. The terrifying force that dashed out of the Death God Sickle and that streak of black flame might be this demon that had escaped. Unfortunately, Fei wasn't able to eliminate it before it recovered its strength.

"Hazel, you can guard the outside; I will go inside and take a look." Fei thought for a bit and made the decision.

"This..." The Undead Mage looked hesitant, and he said worryingly, "Don't do that. This place looks evil and extremely dangerous. Once inside, if there..."

This man didn't finish his words, but Fei already knew what he wanted to say.

"That is fine." Fei emitted his spirit energy and scanned inside. After not detecting any danger, he smiled and said, "I'm confident in this."

"Ok then, but just be careful. If there is anything wrong, get out of it right away."

Fei lightly nodded and instantly dashed into the giant stone egg through the sizeable black crack.

"Terrifying! The pressure inside this stone egg is thousands of times stronger compared to the mysterious sealed space!"

As soon as Fei entered, he sensed the thick darkness that couldn't be diluted rushing toward him. Then, as if his body were pressed down by a massive rock that weighed more than a million kilograms, his body turned stiff. If he didn't instantly use the Barbarian's Anti-Mage Realm, he could have been severely injured by this pressure.

Chapter 953: One Day in Heaven, One Year on Land (Part Two)

Before he could get a good look at the structure of the inside of the stone egg, he suddenly felt like he was passing through a spatial and temporal portal. Then, the space around him brightened, and he was inside another mysterious space. The darkness and stone walls that he was expecting didn't appear. When he looked up, he saw the bright sun and beautiful clouds, and the wind was fluttering his hair. Then, he looked down and glanced around, seeing that he was now inside a boundless white desert.

"This is... a mystical small world?" Fei frowned and thought to himself.

It turned out that this stone egg wasn't as simple as it looked from the outside. On the inside, there was a mysterious space; it was probably created by a powerful master using a supreme secret technique.

However, this world wasn't that complete; it was more like a low-quality knockoff product.

Except for the boundless desert, Fei couldn't see anything else; there was no plants or other lifeforms.

The good thing was that Fei was now a demi-god, and he had his own realm. Therefore, even though the laws inside this small world was completely different from the outside world, and natural elements didn't exist here, Fei could still use the power of his realm to fly around.

After half an hour of searching, Fei finally decided to give up after he got nothing out of the search.

This was a very basic world, and it was like a realistic illusion array. Whenever Fei flew out more than one kilometer, he would be teleported back to the original spot. In a sense, this small world was only about one kilometer around where Fei first appeared. When Fei passed this limit, he got teleported back to the original spot by the laws of this place.

“This is indeed a natural prison; all the laws in this world are designed for imprisoning someone here. Also, since there are no natural elements in this place, anyone living here couldn’t cultivate at all. Even if a genius cultivated in this space for millions of years, no progression would be gained.”

The simple scene of the white desert was the only thing that a person could see in here. If a person stayed here long enough, they would experience mental breakdowns.

Fei looked up at the sky and noticed that there was a black crack which was about 1,000 meters long; it should be the crack that he saw from the outside and the only exit of this world.

After searching around once more and obtaining nothing, Fei dashed toward the sky.

Then, he experienced the same sensation of passing through a spatial and temporal portal, and the terrifying pressure persisted. Then, the scene before him flashed, and he finally went out.

Hazel Bank, who had been guarding this place, was elated when he saw Fei, and he rushed over before carefully observing the king. After seeing that everything was fine, he said worryingly, “You finally came out. If you had stayed in there a bit longer, I would have entered to find you. I was anxious.”

Fei was confused. “I only stayed there for about one hour; why are you so anxious?”

The smile on Hazel Bank’s face froze, and he asked, “What did you say? How long?”

“Only one hour.” Fei was confused, but his intuition told him that something was off as well.

“However, I have waited for you out here for a day.” Hazel Bank’s expression told Fei that the Undead Mage wasn’t joking.

“One day?” Fei was shocked. “Could it be... the speed of time is different in the small world inside the stone egg compared to the outside world?”

This was just like the famous Chinese saying of ‘one day in Heaven is one year on land’.

Chapter 954: Five Broken Stone Eggs (Part One)

Fei told Hazel Bank about his experience inside the giant stone egg, and the Undead Mage pondered.

“If that is the case, these 72 giant stone eggs all have different independent spaces inside. These spaces were created by powerful techniques to seal these demons of Hell. Such a terrifying power! Even if we are back at the Mythical Era where masters were everywhere, only the godly-king-level masters could have this power.”

“Being able to seal 72 demons of Hell is already terrifying enough; they are like gods in Hell. However, we can’t ignore one possibility; perhaps it was a group of people instead of one person who sealed the demons...”

Fei suddenly thought of something while he stared at this giant broken stone egg, and he smiled and said, “However, it isn’t important to figure out who created this place. More importantly... don’t you think that this interesting difference in the speed of time is very beneficial to us?”

“You mean?” The Undead Mage’s eyes lit up.

However, he quickly shook his head and said, “Time passes faster inside that space, so it is meaningless for us. In addition, you mentioned that there are no natural elements inside the space, so no warriors or mages could cultivate in there. Except for imprisoning people, I can’t think of another use.”

Fei laughed out loud.

“That is a bit off. Haha! We have a powerful research institute, [Mad Scientists Laboratory]. Those two mad scientists have taught a group of little mad scientists, and nothing could stop this bunch of people. I only need to provide this small world to them, and I’m sure that they could figure out the Law of Time of this space. Besides, I’m not hoping that they could create another world. All that they have to do is to alter the Law of Time and make it go slower inside this space compared to the outside world; that will be more than enough. If that happens, this small world will be beneficial to us.”

The Undead Mage’s eyes lit up, and he said, “That is right; this is a great idea. Chambord has a weaker foundation and lacks accumulation. In this chaotic world, time is the most valuable resource. If the Law of Time inside this small world can be altered to the degree where one day in there equals one minute out here, it will be insane! One year in there will only be 365 minutes out here! Haha! Even if people can't cultivate in there, we can do other things. For example, if we put the mystical gold armor manufacturing plant in there, a ton of war machines can be built in a short time. Also, we can make all kinds of magic scrolls... It is perfect since it is a natural magic energy vacuum!"

Fei nodded and said, "That is right. However, everything that you said can only be done if one condition is met."

"Yeah. We have to make sure that this sealed space and this giant stone egg are completely safe; there can't be any hidden danger."

"That is right." Fei nodded and said, "Since this is the case, let's do what we did before and look around individually. We have to count how many demons of Hell actually escaped. Also, we need to inspect the sealed eggs and estimate how long they can last. Then, we need to figure out if there is a way to strengthen the seals on these stone eggs. We will plan the rest once these are figured out."

The Undead Mage nodded, and he dashed to the right to search.

Fei paused for a second before dashing to the left.

This sealed space was as grand as the cosmos, and it was boundless. It required a lot of energy and time to search around completely. Even though Fei and Hazel Bank were powerful, rare masters, they only finished searching after a full day.

Chapter 954: Five Broken Stone Eggs (Part Two)

One day later, the two met up at the location from before.

"You can go first." Fei's expression showed that he wasn't in a good mood.

"The situation is worse than I thought," the Undead Mage said in all seriousness, "Not counting the one that we discovered, I saw that two giant stone eggs have cracks on them on this side, and the demons who were supposed to be sealed inside them are gone. Also, the power of the seals on three giant stone eggs weakened, and the godly blood chains disconnected at several places. Perhaps the demons in these three eggs will break out in a short time."

“The situation on my side is similar. There are two stone eggs with cracks on them, and six are about to be corroded by the power of Hell and break,” Fei reported the numbers that he got.

After confirming the situation, both sensed a chill in their minds.

Now, it was confirmed that five out of the 72 demons of Hell had escaped.

This was a terrifying number. No one knew when they escaped, where they were hiding, and how much strength they had recovered. Thinking back, it seemed like one out of the five demons caused the terrifying Undead Creature Catastrophe that almost turned the entire Northern Region of Azeroth into a paradise for undead creatures. If these five demons of Hell gathered and coordinated, who could stop them since all the gods were rumored to be in a deep sleep?

Could Maradona, the most powerful human on the continent, stop them? Fei couldn't be sure that this man was powerful enough to really kill gods and demons.

It seemed like tragedies were about to hit the continent, but no one noticed this urgent issue.

“Whatever; let's not think about that yet. Let's go and see if the seals that are about to break can be strengthened!”

After Fei and Hazel Bank chatted for a while, it seemed like there was no better way.

They started the research from the broken stone egg.

The two took off the stone-like surface of the giant egg and revealed the godly blood chains underneath. Most of the chains already broke, and the golden godly runes were too vague to see. Also, the godly laws and power started to disperse into the area, and most of the essence leaked out.

Most of the blood had solidified and turned into fist-sized spheres, looking like gems that were inlaid on the surface of the giant egg under the stone-like surface.

Just as Fei expected, the stone-like surface was created by the dust that accumulated around the eggs for a long time. All the giant eggs should look like the unimaginably giant egg in the center of this space; they should be bright and eye-catching. However, the other giant eggs were covered by stone now for some reason, but the emperor-like giant egg in the center was still clean and bright, emitting powerful life energy.

After they studied all five broken eggs, they only obtained limited information.

Fei was half an expert in godly runes, and he had some knowledge in secret techniques focused on sealing. However, he could only vaguely see some clues. After all, based on their initial assumption, a godly-king-level master placed these seals. It would be strange if Fei and Hazel Bank who weren't that knowledgeable in this subject saw through them.

After not getting enough useful information, they didn't dare to do anything, just in case that they worsened the situation.

The two wandered around in the sealed space and observed more, and then they decided to leave.

Chapter 955: The Frantic Holy Church (Part One)

Since such a terrifying sealed space was under the Capital of Anji, Chambord slowed down the modification speed of this empty city. In fact, Akara and Cain temporarily stopped the plan of creating more mystical gold war machines, and they rushed back to the Anji Empire without hesitation. Under the protection of masters such as Hazel Bank, Torres, Drogba, and Pierce, they started to research the secrets and mysteries of the godly blood chains in hopes that they could get some useful information to strengthen the seals on the giant eggs that were about to break.

On the other hand, Fei got the chance to return to Chambord and spend five days of alone time with his two beautiful queens. Then, he rushed back to the Anji Empire to kill the powerful monsters to obtain more mystical energy to increase his strength.

The king's focus was still on the Paladin character and the Barbarian character. Fortunately, there were hundreds of millions of zombies and mutated demon beasts inside the territory of Anji, and it was difficult to kill them all. As time passed by, many of them evolved and leveled up. With the increase in strength, the mystical energy inside their bodies also grew greater. For now, these monsters could support Fei's killing speed and allow him to level up for a while.

At the same time, it seemed like the situation on the Azeroth Continent got even more chaotic. Based on the information delivered to Fei via the [Letter Office], the king learned that massive changes took place!

In less than half a year, thousands of empires in all five regions on the Azeroth Continent collapsed and turned into dust in the flames of war, and many living beings died in the chaos. Many famous masters had fallen in the wars, many large and ancient cities were razed to the ground, and many civilizations were wiped out completely!

The Chaos Era had arrived on the continent in full force, and the empires were fighting with each other for the sake of battling. All the heroes and schemers became frantic and lost their cool.

[Support the translators and read on Noodletown Translations for free.]

No one knew if someone were trying to send the information or what, a prophecy started to spread around the continent like the plague.

“The gods in Heaven and demons in Hell have woken up from their long sleep, and the war between gods and demons that had stopped for many years is about to restart. Also, the affiliated races of the two clans are waking up from their sleep as well, and they are going to join the war. Before the real arrival of the Chaos Era, only the true emperors who can unite their regions can be blessed by both the God Clan and the Demon Clan and receive eternal life!”

This ridiculous rumor was quite popular, and it quickly found a market for itself.

In a short time, almost all the traveling poets promoted this prophecy around the world.

When more people talk about a rumor, this rumor will become the truth in many people’s minds.

In the end, most people believed this rumor, and the atmosphere of doomsday and destruction of the world enveloped the entire continent.

Of course, this wasn’t the most shocking news.

In the last while, the most shocking event took place on the Holy Mountain of the Holy Church that was situated on Sicily Island. For some reason, the most powerful and influential figure, Pope Blatter, issued many orders. No one knew if this man’s head were malfunctioning, but he took away Holy Church’s recognition of the three emperors of the three level 9 empires, AC Milan, Inter Milan, and Juventus, and he also excommunicated them. In addition, he declared that the evil power controlled the royal families of the three empires, and he summoned believers, priests, and holy knights to crusade against these three empires!

Now, the situation went from bad to worse.

Almost in one moment, the Central Region of Azeroth, which was the most peaceful, was instantly engulfed by the terrifying flames of war.

A wise man who once lived on this continent said that even the purest religion could turn into something more terrifying than demons.

Chapter 955: The Frantic Holy Church (Part Two)

Right now, this quote of his was the perfect phrase to describe all this.

The Holy Church had grown on the continent for thousands of years without anyone holding them in check, and they had brainwashed a large group of people. Even though many people knew that the Holy Church was powerful, they still underestimated this organization.

Out of all the regions, the Holy Church had the highest number of fanatic believers in the Central Region where the Holy Mountain was located, and there were at least hundreds of millions of them. These people treated the orders of the Pope as the messages from the gods, and they could even abandon and kill their parents, significant others, and loved ones.

As a result of Pope Blatter's orders, many families were tragically destroyed, and many societies fell into chaos and destruction. Many people robbed others and committed crimes in the name of the gods, and whines and cries resonated in the sky above the entire Central Region as corpses filled the land.

The wars in the Central Region were so intense that it was beyond the limit of all the major wars in recent years, far surpassing other regions.

Even though the three level 9 empires that the Holy Church pointed out were powerful and deeply rooted to the ground, they were in terrible situations when facing the Holy Church. The two sides had taken off all disguises, and they officially waged wars against each other.

Unfortunately, during the battle at the Corsica Peninsula, the [Judgment Sword Legion] of the Holy Church severely damaged the united troops of the three level 9 empires. The No.1 Master of Inter Milan Empire, Demi-God Ibrahimović, who had the nickname of [Holy Tower], was surrounded and attacked by hundreds of masters of the Holy Church. He was badly injured, and no one knew where he went. The two young lords of AC Milan Empire, [Little Pharaoh] Shaarawy and [Son of God] Pato, were hunted by two execution oracles, Henning and Collina, for tens of thousands of kilometers. Those two young lords were devastated, and it was rumored that these two young men had died at the hands of the Holy Church.

The emperors of the three empires also weren't living good lives. The [Holy Alliance] that they created was on the verge of collapse, and they could barely stay alive; they didn't even need to think about getting revenge. In fact, it was heard that the Juventus Empire was planning to submit to the Holy Church, and the members of the royal families of AC Milan and Inter Milan were preparing to flee to other regions.

The changes at the Central Region of Azeroth came unexpectedly, and it shocked the entire world.

Like a provoked mad dog, the Holy Church severely punished anyone they could. The genial and hypocritical mask that the Holy Church had been wearing for thousands of years was torn off, and it became aggressive and short-tempered.

Also, the Holy Church's army was expanding with insane speed. In just a short time, it had more than five million soldiers. The Holy Church had been inviting famous masters in private, asking them to join the Holy Church's army. The ones who declined the offers were said to be colluding with demons and devils and were hunted down.

Every day, many civilians who were atheists were accused of being pagans, and they were all burned on crosses of fire.

An unprecedented storm was wiping though the entire continent.

It seemed like dark clouds had covered the sky, making everything seem depressing and spiritless.

While blood showers and storms landed on the ground, all the giant empires were in danger. For example, the Barcelona Empire and the Madrid Empire had been fighting with each other for thousands of years, but they stopped the conflict and war momentarily. People were all worried that the frantic Holy Church would flip out and kill them.

Then, the big empires in each region started to vaguely form an alliance with the help of a mysterious man, and it seemed like they wanted to fight the Holy Church together.

The situation on the Azeroth Continent changed so fast that it was unprecedented. No one could guess what was going to happen next.

What exactly stimulated the Holy Church and caused their sudden transformation?

Chapter 956: Go Looking for A Person (Part One)

Many intelligence networks worked overtime and overcapacity, trying to figure out the secret behind all this. However, even though many rumors were being passed around, almost none of them were validated.

There was only one thing that many people agreed on.

After thousands of years of growth and expansion, this religious force's ambition got out of hand and had to be vented. The hypocritical priests finally couldn't be satisfied by the power of being above the mortal world, and they were very interested in the luxurious lives filled with lust and desire. In almost everyone's mind, the Holy Church wanted to modify the world and make it have one church but no state; they wanted to take out all empires and be the only force. As a result, the Central Region of Azeroth, where the conflict between the Church and the States was the most intense, became Pope Blatter's test field.

At the same time, a lot of bad news came from other regions.

Evil God Kluivert that was rumored to have appeared about a year ago finally showed itself again on the continent. This terrifying demonic god of the Sea Tribe seemed to have recovered a portion of its strength, and it destroyed a level 1 empire in the Southern Region and devoured tens of millions of creatures. Finally, it enraged a young lord in the Southern Region. The two battle fiercely, and this demonic god disappeared again.

However, with its appearance, the Sea Tribe that had disappeared for thousands of years came back in a dominating fashion. Like big groups of bees and big herds of army ants, they appeared in the Aegean Sea in the Southern Region, and they blocked and killed all the military and merchant ships. For a while, they even went on land and destroyed hundreds of cities around the Aegean Sea and killed many humans. In the end, the human masters and the human empires couldn't hold back their anger, and a war between the two races began.

The worst news so far was that other rare races which had disappeared for a long time also showed their faces on this continent.

Some people claimed that they saw elf masters in the forests, and some people said that they saw dwarf masters buying iron ores and that they seemed to be making military arms. More shocking was that some people stated that they saw giant dragons flying in the air above the Mystery Sea by the edge of the Eastern Region!

All kinds of rumors flowed on the continent; it seemed like all races except for Orcs had appeared.

The changes on the continent made people feel anxious.

For most people, they were willing to be dogs during peace instead of humans during the chaos. Most of the ordinary people felt this way at this moment. Chaotic times were the best for heroes, giving them great opportunities. However, for ordinary people, they desired peace and survival.

In comparison, the weakest Northern Region was the most peaceful currently.

After Emperor Yassin became a demi-god, almost no war broke out in the Northern Region. The Leon Empire and the Zenit Empire kept peace with logic. Of course, the Anji Empire that was still experiencing the Undead Creature Catastrophe was an exception; people's faces would change color when talking about it as if it were a poisonous snake or scorpion.

Human Emperor Alexander of the North also got famous along with the Anji Empire. This powerful young lord who could counter the undead energy got famous after defeating Young Lord Reus of Ormond. He became a powerhouse who could rival people like Emperor Yassin of Zenit and Emperor Juninho of Leon, and many people looked up to him.

Chaos!

Chaos! Chaos! Chaos!

...

Chapter 956: Go Looking for A Person (Part Two)

All kinds of information were passed back to Fei and Chambord City.

For the last while, Chambord's intelligence group led by Head Minister Bast and Military Leader Brook worked during the night and operated in overtime, trying to create all kinds of hypotheses and scenarios from the information that the [Letter Office] provided to them. They wanted to capture the truth from the ocean of information and predict the future a little to provide the king with action plans that could be executed well. These loyal subjects were all trying their best to safeguard the kingdom in their own ways.

Even the ordinary Chambordians felt the gloominess of wars as if dark clouds were hanging above their heads.

While they were worried, they also felt lucky. If it weren't for their genius King Alexander who suddenly appeared in Chambord, the weak strength of the former Chambord Kingdom would be a joke in this chaotic world, and it would be more than likely that the kingdom had been conquered. The fates of these Chambordians would also be tragic, and they wouldn't be doing any better than the current refugees who got their homelands and families destroyed and had to wander around for survival.

A truly powerful lord could protect a piece of land and the people living in it, shielding them from the tragedy of wars.

What confused and scared Fei was that the Holy Church had revealed its explosive strength when dealing with the level 9 empires in the Central Region, but it showed nothing toward the Undead Creature Catastrophe that was still happening inside the Anji Empire. The priests always preached that they couldn't co-exist with evil, but they were cold toward this incident; it was very confusing. Although many fanatic believers were displeased by the Holy Church's action that was against the Holy Doctrine, the headquarters of the Holy Church on the Holy Mountain of Sicily Island didn't directly respond and kept silent.

Fei wasn't sure what the Holy Church was up to.

Although he was now the bishop of the [Black-Cloth Shrine], and he was technically a member of the Holy Church, he knew little to nothing about what was happening on the Holy Mountain at Sicily Island. In fact, Fei didn't feel like he was on the same boat as this mammoth of a force. From all his dealings, he felt like he was an enemy of the Holy Church.

“Could it be that the two sly foxes, Blatter and Platini, are waiting for a good opportunity to take down the undead creatures and me?” Fei felt a little uneasy.

At the same time, all the rumors about the appearance of other races on the continent also attracted Fei’s attention.

The king had witnessed the awakening of the Sea Tribe with his own eyes, and the re-emergence of the Elf Clan was also within his expectations. However, the rumors about the Dwarf Clan, the Goblin Clan, and the Dragon Clan shocked him. Although many people believed that these were nothing but rumors and stories, when there was smoke, there was typically a fire. Fei sieved through the rumors and captured some truths.

In the Mythical Era, humans’ relationships with other races weren’t friendly. To be honest, they were hostile toward each other. If these other races re-emerged, what would be their attitude toward humans? Cooperation? Or war?

Fei felt a headache just thinking about it.

Right now, the Azeroth Continent was like a hornets’ nest that got poked by someone. It was already messy and disordered on the inside, and no one knew when this nest would fall to the ground and smash into pieces. If that happened, all the forces would become violent and hot-headed.

After thinking for a long time, Fei decided to go and find one person.

Perhaps the king could get some useful information from him.

Chapter 957: Touring an Old Place (Part One)

Three days later, Fei appeared in Dual-Flag City, the biggest city by the border between the Zenit Empire and the Jax Empire.

This was the place where the king led troops to for the first time.

About a year had passed since then, and the Zenit Empire and the Jax Empire were now at peace. As a result, the border was calm, and Dual-Flag City got the rest it needed, looking fresher and more vibrant compared to a year ago.

Although Fei hadn't been here for a long time, his stories were still being passed around. It felt like he had retired, yet his legends were still being recited.

"You guys didn't know! When Prince Fairenton of Jax surrounded the city with tens of thousands of soldiers, Dual-Flag City was in dire danger! The dumb mayor and the nobles couldn't do anything and were useless! General Ribry dashed into the enemies and tried to kill their commander without worrying about his own safety. Alone, he killed his way through the enemies, but he got knocked back by that Fairenton and was severely injured; he was about to be killed! In fact, the enemy soldiers already shouted that they were going to conquer the city and kill all the living creatures inside. At that critical moment, the King of Chambord finally arrived. The King of Chambord... tsk! He was fearless and invincible! His magnificence stunned the enemies! Just himself, he was unstoppable and ran loose in the formations of close to 100,000 enemies, and he killed hundreds of commanders. Blood formed rivers wherever he went. Then, on the hill outside the city, he knocked away and injured Prince Fairenton, whose nickname was [Star on the Cultivation Path], with three strikes, saving Ribry from the hands of the enemies. Hehe, I was fortunate enough to witness that battle with my own eyes on the defense wall. That day, King Alexander of Chambord terrified the enemies! In front of close to 100,000 enemies, he asked the question 'Who dares to stop me?' three times, and no one dared to respond. Then, His Majesty laughed three times and left slowly and steadily! He can be called an invincible god!"

-Dual-Flag City-

When Fei, Angela, and Elena walked past a little tavern, they heard a traveling poet telling the story of that battle in a resonating tone. Clearly, the story was modified and artistically exaggerated, and the people listening to the story in the shop were thrilled. Even the street vendors and pedestrians stood by the entrance and listened attentively.

"Hehe, there was such an incident, but this is a bit too exaggerated."

Seeing the teasing smiles on his two queens' faces, Fei's vanity was greatly satisfied, and he acted humble, which was rare to see.

However, what he said caused trouble. The people who were listening to the story all turned around and stared at him, and anger could be seen in their eyes.

A hot-blooded young man clenched his fists, making a series of cracking noises. He looked at Fei up and down and said in anger, “You don’t look like a local. What do you know? The King of Chambord is powerful and invincible! Everyone knows it in Dual-Flag City. What is there to exaggerate? Hmph! I advise you to be careful in the city. If you run into someone who has a short temper, the ignorant things that you said would have earned you a beating!”

What this young man said resonated with others in the area.

“Yeah! King of Chambord His Majesty is the savior of the hundreds of thousands of people in Dual-Flag City. You are still young, and all your pubic hair hasn’t grown out yet. What do you know? Stop saying nonsense!”

Chapter 957: Touring an Old Place (Part Two)

“Nevermind! Let’s ignore him. This guy is clearly a useless young nobleman! He is just wandering around with his two pretty maids. Hmph! King of Chambord His Majesty hates this kind of people! That day, many wastrels like him were killed, and blood formed rivers. How dare he say bad things about the King of Chambord? He is tired of living!”

“Yeah! You are from another city! What do you know? Even His Majesty’s former enemy, Prince Fairenton of Jax, had sighed and said that he will never invade Dual-Flag City as long as His Majesty is still a member of the Zenit Empire. Who could rival such a hero?”

Facing the stirred-up crowd, Fei dragged his two queens and fled.

After coming to the Azeroth Continent, the king had never been in such an awkward situation. He was cussed at and pointed at, but he couldn’t really refute. While they ran, his two gorgeous queens laughed and teased him.

Fei came to Dual-Flag City to find one person.

By using this opportunity, he took his two queens on this field trip to spend more time with them and relax.

The three of them didn’t want to alert too many people, so they didn’t bring any guards. Besides, Fei and Elena’s strength were high enough that they didn’t need guards.

They came to the city riding on Blacky, and the three hooligan-like dragons followed along. When they were close, they descended near a forest. The four demon beasts went to wander around, and the three of them walked into the city.

When they arrived, Fei didn't hurry and find that person. Instead, he wandered around with his two queens, and that happened.

It was an interesting incident, and it made them want to look around more.

Dual-Flag City was a giant city on the border. Although it wasn't as fancy and prosperous as St. Petersburg and Chambord City, it had unique customs and traditions. Places like the free-trade market in the center of the city and the random items from various empires were all quite interesting.

The three walked on the streets and merged into the crowd. They looked around and threw all the worries to the back of their minds. They were having a lot of fun.

Right now, Dual-Flag City was well managed by Scar-faced General Ribry; the military was well trained, the economy was booming, and the safety was high. The residents enjoyed their lives, and they attributed 80 percent of this onto Fei. That was why the residents and merchants in the city always thought back to the King of Chambord and his kind help.

Inside Dual-Flag City, the name 'King of Chambord' was treated like the name of a god. As a result, even Chambordians had higher-status in this place, more welcomed than others.

Fei, Angela, and Elena wandered around and enjoyed this time from the morning to the afternoon. Since they got married, the king had been busy. This was rare that they got the chance to spend time with each other, so Elena and Angela were pleased.

After sunset, the three went to the night market. Instead of troubling Ribry and other officials, they found a good hotel in the city and rested.

When it was deep into the night, Fei got out alone and dashed toward the water well area in the northern region of the city.

Although more than a year had passed, Fei was still familiar with everything here.

He easily dodged the patrolling soldiers and entered the mysterious and chilly underground ocean through a water well.

More than a year ago, Fei met Emperor Yassin who was traveling in disguise in the Mythical Palace at the bottom of this ocean, and he obtained the [Sky Castle] and the [Throne of Chaos]. Also, he found the [Mythical Altar] in the core, level 36 region and purified the Worldstone, finally able to save fainted Angela and Elena.

Now touring this old place again, Fei was a little sentimental.

Chapter 958: Golden Elf King Bloodline (Part One)

In the blink of an eye, the Mythical Palace at the bottom of the underground ocean was visible.

It was hard to tell which god created the white energy barrier outside the Mythical Palace. Now, Fei could easily break it with his strength, but he didn't want to damage this place.

Although the Mythical Gates weren't opening yet, it wasn't a problem to bypass this energy barrier with the [Throne of Chaos] in hand.

An energy flame flashed by, and Fei and the throne appeared inside the energy barrier.

When Fei first came here and entered the Mythical Palace, he was only a little Nine-Star Warrior, and he had to be cautious and calculative, taking each step in a bit of fear. Now, he was in the Demi-God Realm. With one foot already in the realm of gods, the danger in this place could no longer threaten him, and the natural pressure could do little to him.

The king marched forward using big steps, and each step covered several kilometers. Soon, he had already appeared in the level 35 region and arrived at the teleportation array platform.

Since the time wasn't right, this platform couldn't be used.

Fei used the same trick and entered the core region using the space-traveling ability of the [Throne of Chaos].

This core region was a small world on its own. It was a mysterious space, and the natural elements were abundant inside. Also, the laws of nature were clear, and it essentially kept and maintained the laws of nature from the Mythical Era. Any warriors cultivating here could achieve double the results in half the time. Greeneries could be seen everywhere as primitive forest and grassland filled the ground, and the air was refreshing, making this place seem like a paradise.

Many godly herbs that had gone extinct in the outside world were growing on the fertile soil; they were precious and couldn't even be bought outside.

This was like the garden of the gods.

Those masters who were fortunate enough to come here with Fei received a lot of benefits, getting their hands on many super potent godly herbs.

The person who Fei was looking for was inside this small world; Fei took him here half a year ago.

After looking at the sky and confirming the direction, Fei dashed toward the north like a flash of lightning, tearing the space apart.

This place was vast and was a world on its own.

About half an hour later, Fei arrived at a mountain range. The mountains were tall and steep, and the forests on them were vibrant and green. Finally, a streak of powerful yet strange energy appeared in front of the king, and two strong green energy flames accompanied it.

Fei smiled and lightly altered his aura before dashing forward.

Whoosh!

As it someone detected the invasion, an energy fluctuation appeared, and a green light dashed across the sky and aimed at Fei like a bolt of lightning. At the same time, loud whistling noises sounded.

This green light contained a streak of powerful life energy. It was as vast as the plain and as aggressive as the ocean during a tsunami. Also, it was sharp and persistent like the roots of plants, able to penetrate everything it wanted in an unstoppable fashion.

“Hahaha! Such a sharp strike! However, is this how you greet an old friend?”

Fei waved his hand and easily caught the green light. It was an arrow created by pure wood-elemental warrior energy, and it had a metallic luster. Right now, the fletching on the arrow was still vibrating, and the power inside it was strong. With Fei’s strength, his wrist was still numbed by it.

The power of this arrow wasn’t weak.

At this moment, a beam of green light soared into the sky.

Chapter 958: Golden Elf King Bloodline (Part Two)

In the next moment, a streak of high-level and lord-like majestic green energy flames appeared within 100 meters of Fei. Then, a figure flashed, and a blond young man showed himself in front of the king. This young man was tall, and his blond hair reflected the sunshine. He looked clever and high-spirited, and his handsome face was out of this world; it seemed like the creator gave all the best features to him.

He was Akinfeev who had the Elf King Bloodline.

“It is... it is... Greetings, Your Majesty!” Akinfeev was surprised at first, but he quickly realized what was going on. Right now, his face was in a healthy red color, and he was about to single-kneel toward Fei.

Since Akinfeev had the Elf King Bloodline, he was rejected by the laws of nature in the outside world. As his bloodline gradually awakened, his body became weaker and weaker. Even though his bloodline was activated, and he obtained the powerful techniques of the Elf Clan, he was too fragile and was always in life-threatening danger. In order to find the ancient path that existed in legends, he went to Chambord and tried to find the secrets regarding the limitless forests and mountains behind Chambord City. However, he wasn't able to find anything useful, and he stayed inside the city as a hermit, using the life energy from the vibrant forests around Chambord City to suppress the injuries in his body. Afterward, he became friends with Fei, and he risked worsening his injuries and helped during Fei's wedding. Although he never swore loyalty, he was one of the knights who followed Fei.

Half a year ago, the power of the bloodline inside Akinfeev's body exploded again, and his injuries couldn't be suppressed any longer.

Fei suddenly got an idea and used the power of the [Throne of Chaos] to take Akinfeev and his two half-elf maids to the core region in the Mythical Palace. The laws of nature and the natural elements were still identical to the Mystical Era thousands of years ago, and the limitless life energy from plants couldn't just help Akinfeev suppress the injuries; it also completely unlocked the Elf King Bloodline and solved the issue of natural elements' backlash. As a result, Akinfeev's cultivation speed skyrocketed.

"Hahaha! It seems like you got a lot out of the last six months. You... you have already become a Sun-Class Lord?"

Fei was shocked; the increase in Akinfeev's strength far surpassed his prior estimate! This young man jumped dozens of levels, and the growing speed of his strength was faster than what Fei had ever seen. Even though Fei had the golden finger of Diablo, he still felt like his 'cheat code' was inferior.

"Could it be that the ancient Elf King Bloodline is so powerful?"

Hearing Fei's praise, Akinfeev said respectfully with a thankful expression, "All of this is gifted to me by Your Majesty. If it weren't for your kindness, my bloodline power would have collided with the laws of nature and caused my body to explode. As to the speed of my growth... I only discovered it not too long ago as well. It turns out that I didn't only have the Elf King Bloodline; it is the even rarer Golden Elf King Bloodline which is one of a kind. Once this bloodline power is activated, I would be able to obtain the power and abilities of my ancient ancestors. Perhaps it is because that this bloodline is too insane that the laws of nature in the outside world reject it."

"Greetings, Your Majesty!" While Fei and Akinfeev spoke, two more green light beams flashed; they were the two cute half-elf maids. With smiles on their faces, they greeted Fei respectfully.

These two half-elf girls were hostile toward Fei in the beginning, but they were now very intimate toward him. Their direct and straightforward personality was similar to the elves in legends.

Fei sharply detected that these two cute maids got a lot stronger as well. They had reached Nine-Star, and green life energy flowed in their bodies like the waves of an ocean. It seemed like the environment inside this small world was perfect for elves to live in.

Chapter 959: I Have an Interesting Idea (Part One)

While chatting and laughing, they arrived at a green and quiet mountain; this was where Akinfeev had been living in the last while.

There was a simple straw house at the peak of the mountain, and the mountain spring flowed down from the summit until it reached the foot. Greeneries grew everywhere, and veins intertwined and grew delicately. The plants were vibrant and crystal-like, making this place seem beautiful and dreamy.

“Your Majesty, you are here to ask me some questions, right?” Akinfeev was clever. After learning the situation on the continent from Fei’s brief descriptions, he guessed Fei’s intention of coming here, so he opened the topic actively.

“That is right.” Fei didn’t try to hide anything. He asked directly, “I want to know more about the Elf Clan. Right now, there are many rumors about other races appearing on the continent, including the elf troops. It doesn’t seem like these rumors are all fake. How come these ancient races are all appearing after disappearing for so long? Where did they come from? Perhaps you can give me some clues.”

Fei didn’t come here for no reason.

Akinfeev had the Elf King Bloodline, and his father was mysterious and quite powerful. It was clear that Akinfeev’s family was connected to the ancient Elf Clan, so this young man must know something.

After a moment of silence, Akinfeev waved his hand and signaled the two half-elf maids to leave.

Then, he turned around and said to Fei earnestly, “These things are secretive. To put it more seriously, it concerns the fate of the Elf Clan. Theoretically, I should keep it as a top-secret, and I shouldn’t tell anyone. However, when my father planned for my trip, he told me that I no longer have to bear the so-called mission as an elf, and I’m no longer a part of the Elf Clan. If I can meet a lord that deserves my loyalty, I should focus on it and live on. Hehe, I don’t mind you laughing, but

I have already treated myself as a Chambordian since a year ago. Therefore, since Your Majesty is here to ask me these questions personally, I will tell you everything that I know.

Fei nodded and said, "I already thought of you as a Chambordian since a while ago. We are friends, right?"

Akinfeev laughed and nodded, and he said, "It is my honor. That is right, I know a few things about the Elf Clan. When I was home, I came into contact with some ancient documents, recording what happened near the end of the Mythical Era. At that time, nature changed drastically, and one kind of terrifying enemies appeared. Even both gods and demons couldn't do anything. The affiliated races all suffered heavy losses, and they almost went extinct. However, the clans and races that were powerful still reacted in time. The masters in these clans had godly powers, and they all created contingency plans for their races. Some of them created small worlds and opened independent spaces in the void. Then, the most talented descendants were meticulously picked to survive. The Elf Clan was no different. In legends, the 36 Guardian Gods of the Queen of Moon Godly Palace sacrificed themselves and burned their godly core energies, creating the mysterious Elf Realm. Then, all the members of the Elf Clan who survived to that point were all transferred into this realm to avoid the tragedy. Therefore, if these documents about my clan are correct, the Elf Clan wasn't exterminated like most people believe. They have been living and reproducing inside the Elf Realm, and perhaps they have grown powerful as well. Therefore, it isn't strange that they walked out of the Elf Realm and reappeared on the Azeroth Continent."

Chapter 959: I Have an Interesting Idea (Part Two)

"What about the so-called legendary ancient path at Chambord?" Fei thought of something and asked, "Since you already know about the Elf Realm, why did you still want to find the legendary ancient path?"

"I only found some clues in the ancient documents in my family about the Elf Realm, so I don't know where the entrance to this realm is and how to get there. Therefore, I wanted to find the legendary ancient path by using my luck. If I could enter the Elf Realm, it would have alleviated my injuries. Unfortunately, I didn't find anything. Also, it seemed like my father was wary of my actions, so he instantly scheduled my leave from the family. I'm still confused; it seemed like he was worried about my safety."

"Oh, I see." This was Fei's first time listening to this, and he pondered. After a while, he asked, "Huh, about the Elf Realm... it is similar to this small world, right? It is an independent space parallel to the Azeroth Continent. Just like hibernating bears, the Elf Clan has been resting and recovering in the Elf Realm?"

Akinfeev nodded and added, “Perhaps they already started to move around the continent long ago. It is just that most people don’t know. For example, my family, my bloodline...” While he said that, he pointed at the two cute half-elf maids. “For example, them.”

“The ancient races have already appeared on the continent, and they have been growing their forces in secret? Penetrating human society?” Fei was shocked by this hypothesis, and he thought to himself, “This is terrifying! It is like a spy movie! However, the appearance of Akinfeev’s father’s family itself says a lot.”

“The Elf Clan wasn’t the most powerful race in the Mythical Era. Since they used this method to avoid the tragedy and pass on the bloodline, other races such as dragon, goblin, and orc must have used their own methods of escaping all that.” Akinfeev thought for a moment and said, “Therefore, the rumors about people seeing these races on the continent might not be false.”

“What you said is interesting.” Fei rubbed his chin and said while pondering, “They haven’t appeared for thousands of years, so why did they all come out recently? Do you know why?”

“This... there are many reasons. For example, I have heard people say that the laws of nature on the Azeroth Continent are slowly changing, gradually shifting back to how it was during the Mythical Era. Perhaps, the small worlds that the masters created thousands of years ago are coming to an end, so they are forced to come back.”

“Yeah, it seems like what you said make sense.” Fei instantly thought of another question, and he asked, “Since the various ancient races used these methods to help their descendants live on, I guess the legend about the ancient path at Chambord is nothing but a rumor? How come out of all the rumors right now, there is no information on the Orc Clan? Could it be that this powerful and war-loving race in the Mythical Era went extinct?”

“This is strange. Perhaps the orcs had bad luck and were wiped out. After all, in the legends, the Orc Race didn’t excel in magic, so perhaps they weren’t able to create their small world.” Akinfeev didn’t overthink about it.

“Now that you have advanced into the Sun-Class Realm, you aren’t afraid of the pressure of nature in the outside world, and you can return now. With your strength, you are a master who can dominate over a region. Do you have any plans?” Fei suddenly changed the topic.

Akinfeev smiled and said, “I already said that I’m a Chambordian. I will do whatever Your Majesty wishes.”

“I have an interesting idea.” Fei’s smile was strange.

Chapter 960: Heading to the West (Part One)

About an hour later, Fei exited from the water well area of Dual-Flag City with Akinfeev and his two cute half-elf maids.

According to the plan that they made already, the three elves didn’t go to the hotel where Fei was staying. Instead, they said farewells and turned into three beams of light, disappearing into the darkness.

After a slight pause, Fei went straight back to the hotel. His goal of this trip was accomplished, so he relaxed a little.

It was deep into the night, and his two queens were sleeping well.

Although Elena didn’t feel much fatigue after wandering the city for a while day, Angela was weaker and felt exhausted. When Fei returned, she was having a sweet dream.

Seeing the sweet smiles on the two beauties’ faces, Fei’s heart was about to melt.

Fei sat by the bed and lightly kissed his lovers’ cheeks before carefully observing their faces, and a gentle smile gradually appeared on his face.

While recalling all the things that had happened between them, either big or small, this supreme lord who was decisive and murderous gradually turned into a normal man who had a deep love for his wives.

After quietly sitting there for a while, Fei entered Diablo World and started to level up.

Right now, Fei had passed Hell Mode Diablo World with his Barbarian, Paladin, Assassin, Druid, and Necromancer. Fei was playing his Sorceress character, and this character was quite powerful already. Only the Amazon wasn’t that important to Fei, so it was placed at the last spot, and the Amazon character was still at Nightmare Mode level 14.

In the last few days, the rumors about the appearance of other races spread around, causing many discussions. Also, the Holy Church was behaving strangely, making Fei feel an even stronger sense of danger. Therefore, he had to quickly pass Hell Mode Diablo World with all seven of his characters, and he hoped that he could get some useful rewards to improve his strength even further.

-In the sky-

While engulfed in green energy flames, Akinfeev and his two cute half-elf maids were flying toward the Western Region of Azeroth.

Akinfeev was wearing a set of golden armor, and it was appearing and disappearing as his mind commanded while a pleasantly surprised expression stayed on his face.

Every time the golden armor flashed, a brilliant star power would appear in the sky and correspond with it. The profound and deep energy was sharp and full of vicissitude, and it was terrifying. Although it wasn't vast in volume, it was a type of high-level energy.

It was a Star Saint Set; it seemed like he and Fei reached some agreements.

"Master, have you really decided to serve for the King of Chambord?"

One of the half-elf maids with the long green hair asked, "Master, you have merged the Golden Elf King Bloodline into your body and activated the power and strength of the ancient Elf God. In a short time, almost no one on the continent will be able to rival you. Even when you find the Elf Clan, you will be the unique and unparalleled lord, and you will have the strength to battle other forces."

"I don't want to battle other forces even if I become the ruler of the Elf Clan." Akinfeev shook his head and said, "In terms of competition, perhaps there will be people who could fight with the King of Chambord, but it wouldn't be me. Right now, the demons are making chaos, and the gods are showing themselves as well. The Azeroth Continent is no longer the same land that had been dominated by humans for thousands of years. As the laws of nature restore, the schemes and plans created during the Mythical Era will be set in operation. Only those with great fortune and power can try to fight for the only godly throne. This battle is determined to be bloody and tragic, and I can't bear it. What can I do even though I have the Golden Elf King Bloodline? If this bloodline is truly unrivaled, how come six Golden Elf Kings fell in the godly battle in the ancient times?"

Chapter 960: Heading to the West (Part Two)

The other half-elf maid nodded and said with a little bit of understanding, "Master, you are right. I also feel like the King of Chambord is a terrifying person; it seems like there is nothing that he can't do. It isn't unacceptable to serve a person like him. Besides, we owe him a lot. If it weren't for him, Master would..."

"Eh, perhaps I would have been killed by the conflict between the laws of nature and my bloodline; how could I achieve this height?" Akinfeev smiled and said, "Also, if it weren't for Alexander His Majesty, how could you two reach Nine-Star? You two should try to drop the haughtiness of elves and be more respectfully in front of His Majesty. Now, King Alexander is also your master!"

"We understand, Master!" the two maids answered and nodded.

"I hope this trip will be smooth. If we can find them, we could potentially eliminate a war." Akinfeev looked at the distance west, looking a bit worried.

-Morning of the Second Day-

Fei, Elena, and Angela wanted to leave Dual-Flag City and keep the low-profile.

However, Ribry and other officials had been managing Dual-Flag City for a while, so they had many scouts; these scouts discovered the arrival of the king and two queens.

Ribry didn't dare to bother Fei at night, so he and the various officials and nobles respectfully waited at the gate of the hotel on the second day morning.

The owner of the hotel and other customers were shocked by this setup.

Ribry and others had high-level prestige in the city, and almost everyone, from street vendors to wealthy nobles, knew about this just and kind mayor.

Seeing this scene, many people thought to themselves, “Who could it be? So many high-level figures are here. Mr. Mayor came here in person. Could it be...”

When they learned the answer, the entire Dual-Flag City was moved.

Almost everyone rushed toward the hotel.

After this incident, this hotel also got famous in the city. Many people wanted to stay in the room that the King of Chambord rested in, and they treated it as an honor.

Fei didn't expect that he would cause such a scene.

However, it would be a little disrespectful if he snuck out now. Therefore, he arrived downstairs and went to the Mayoral Mansion with Ribry, and he and his queens stayed in Dual-Flag City for another day to participate in some parties and events.

Of course, he also took some time and tutored Ribry and other military commanders in terms of cultivation. Ribry was a Five-Star Warrior about a year ago, and the commanders under him were all talented. After about a year's worth of hard work, Dual-Flag City now had three Moon-Class Elites and six masters above Seven-Star. This city was now quite powerful in comparison to other border cities.

Dual-Flag City was seen as Fei's force by many people in Zenit, and it wasn't far from the truth. Therefore, Fei was pleased that Ribry and others were getting stronger.

After a day, the three left Dual-Flag City and returned to Chambord.

Chambord City changed a lot during this past year.

The immigration plan that was set up half a year ago was almost finished, and 99% of Chambord's elite force and the population have moved to Sky City. Chambord City was modified into a terrifying and vicious military fortress, and the New City of Trade outside Chambord City now had a population of more than 100,000; it was still expanding by the day. The grass plain on the south bank of Zuli River was completely covered by buildings and tents.
