

Hammer God 584

Chapter 584 Karmic Blessings

From what Kyle could tell, Swamp Dragon already had a Minor Hero Aura, which was the positive Karmic Luck equivalent of a Minor Sin Aura.

Naturally, Kyle had also learned what kind of benefits came with increased Karmic Luck.

The first Blessing of Karmic Luck was an increase in overall luck, which was self-explanatory.

The second Blessing of Karmic Luck was an increase in inner calm and focus. This made it much easier to comprehend Laws and to make correct decisions.

A Minor Hero Aura gave people around the person a better impression of the person. They just seemed trustworthy and nice. Additionally, beasts were less likely to attack such a person.

Of course, if the person still felt like an adequate True Battle to the beast, it would still attack them. However, if it didn't feel like a good True Battle, a beast might just ignore the person instead of attacking them because the person was in their territory.

Kyle was quite certain that Swamp Dragon had a Minor Hero Aura, but he wasn't sure if he had more Karmic Blessing.

He almost definitely didn't have a Major Hero Aura, which was the equivalent of a True Sin Aura.

First of all, it was extremely difficult to get so much Karmic Luck as a mere Transcendent.

One would need to save the lives of thousands upon thousands of people.

One would literally have to be a hero.

Kyle also believed that Swamp Dragon didn't have the Fifth Blessing of Karmic Luck, which was called the Energy Spring.

This blessing pulled Energy closer to the person, increasing the Energy density around the person.

Naturally, the more Energy one had around oneself, the easier everything was.

Energy recovery was faster.

One's senses became stronger.

Comprehending Laws was easier.

Launching attacks became easier.

From what Kyle could tell, Swamp Dragon didn't have that blessing since the Energy around him seemed normal.

However, Kyle wasn't sure if Swamp Dragon had the Fourth Blessing of Karmic Luck or not.

The Fourth Blessing of Karmic Luck had the grand name of Visions of Destiny.

From time to time, people with this Karmic Blessing received information from the world, which took on different forms.

Some of these people suddenly got ideas, which would almost always turn out to be very fruitful.

Some of them got visions of some kind of treasure or opportunity.

Some of them only got a certain feeling. It was like something inside of them was telling them to do something. Kyle wasn't sure if Swamp Dragon's suspicions regarding Warp Space came from his Second Blessing or his Fourth.

If it came from his Second Blessing, it would mean that he had simply noticed it himself, but if it had come from his Fourth Blessing, it was possible that this went much deeper.

Oftentimes, visions associated with the Fourth Blessing were related to big matters. Small matters were rarely involved.

Luckily, Kyle wasn't planning on going against Swamp Dragon or the Array of Stars. Sure, he was part of the Cult, but if he got accepted by the Array of Stars, he would probably support and help them for thousands of years until it was finally time to betray them.

This was so far in the future that Swamp Dragon would most likely not be involved anymore.

Because of that, Kyle's allegiance was not something that involved him.

"So, where do we go?" Kyle asked, looking around the planets. "There are so many planets everywhere, and I've got no idea where we should go."

"We should search for my planet first," Swamp Dragon said. "You can easily enter the atmosphere, while I can't."

"Sure," Kyle said. "Go take your pick. Your guess is as good as mine. Although, considering our Karmic Luck, it's probably better."

Swamp Dragon furrowed his brows. "I don't like relying too much on Karmic Luck. It's an external power, and you can always lose external power. Only your internal power will stay with you."

Kyle shrugged. "Yeah, but you have it right now. Might as well make use of it."

Swamp Dragon silently looked around the space between planets.

Their senses were much more powerful than the senses of a Mortal, but finding a blue flame from hundreds of thousands or millions of kilometers away was still too hard.

In a way, they had to guess to a certain degree.

Swamp Dragon focused on a barren planet in the distance.

It was closer than most planets, but there were still around ten planets that were closer.

Planets in the Supreme World rarely orbited. Most of them were just stationary in space, which created interesting constellations.

If one imagined Earth's solar system, one would notice that the planets all orbited the sun on the same plane. They all circled the sun as if it were a two-dimensional plane.

If one looked at the solar system from "the top," one could see the planets and their orbits.

Yet, space was three-dimensional. The reason why the planets all orbited "on the same plane" was related to astrophysics and not related to the Supreme World.

What was important was that the Supreme World was not like this.

Planets were actually pretty close, and they were basically everywhere.

They were "above", "below," "diagonally above", "diagonally below", and so on.

It was almost like the planets were different atoms. There was still a lot of space between them, but they were packed relatively tightly from all directions.

Because of that, Swamp Dragon and Kyle had so many planets to choose from, which were all not that far away.

"Let's try that one," Swamp Dragon said, pointing at the barren planet.

"Sure thing," Kyle said as he pulled Swamp Dragon forward.

The two of them flew through the emptiness of space.

During their entire journey, they didn't see a single other contestant, but that was to be expected.

Contestants generally weren't bigger than normal humans, and spotting a normal person from thousands of kilometers away was not easy.

It took several hours, but eventually, the two of them reached the planet, and Kyle noticed something almost immediately.

'This feels like the planet belonging to Wolfmistress.'

'That probably means it has Yin-Wind, which means we can also make Yin-Fire.'

'It's perfect. It's a planet that both of us can use.'

Kyle glanced at Swamp Dragon, who didn't seem surprised.

'Sure enough, having Karmic Luck is quite useful.'