

HEAVEN, EARTH, ME

Chapter 1

Within the vast Heaven and Earth, in the sky above a snow-filled continent, a battle of titanic proportions was happening. The space bent because of physical clashes, and energy attacks were enough to completely destroy mountain ranges. The male and female who were battling were once lovers. However, now they were fighting to the death.

The female had an aloof and murderous aura, making all living beings kneel to plead for mercy. Her hair was as dark as a Moonless night and straight like a waterfall. Her eyes had a silver luster that could charm someone with one look and freeze them with the next. She also had a beautiful and sleek black scaled tail behind her.

She controlled the moon in the sky, creating attacks that could eternally freeze even the hottest fires, and half of the stars obeyed her commands, attacking the man before her like shooting stars.

The male had an imposing and otherworldly aura, making all living beings kneel in awe and reverence. He was tall and handsome, with a head full of raven black wavy hair. His eyes had a golden luster that could brighten your day with one look and make you feel safe with the next. Behind him was an imposing yet charming long golden tail.

He controlled the Sun in the sky, resisting the chilling attacks of his opponent. The other half of the stars listened to his pleas, defending against her continuous attacks against him.

The man shouted, "I've already told you that I didn't betray you! It was the Supreme Elder that leaked the location of our family!"

The female sneered and calmly answered, "So what, if it was not for you telling others about our most precious secret and cultivation techniques, would they have any drive to attack? They wouldn't!"

The man couldn't help but flinch. The woman didn't miss that chance, and while he was distracted, she fired a giant moonbeam at him. *BOOOM!* He barely managed to defend himself, but the mountain-destroying explosion sent him flying hundreds of kilometers away!

When he managed to stop the momentum, the male's face couldn't help but distort in pain, not physical, but pain that his lover could deliver an attack like that to him. He desperately tried to convince her, "Even if it was like that, haven't we taken our revenge!? We-"

The female instantly appeared before him and cut his speech right there with a powerful tail lash to his face. The space around trembled, and the man was sent spinning with blood leaking from his mouth through a whole mountain. The woman screamed at him, her voice moving the clouds away. "WE!? HOW DARE YOU INCLUDE YOURSELF! If it was not for me charging straight in, would you have done anything!? YOU WOULDN'T! Even if I were to die against them, I would have been happy to take my revenge, but you had to intervene, making some of them escape and stopping my self-explosion! BASTARD!"

An endless amount of moon energy and falling stars started gathering in a whirlpool around her! When the man got out of the mountain and saw this, his eyes opened wildly. He hastily started to charge his own attack gathering the rest of the stars and combining them with the sun energy to defend himself.

However, even while preparing to defend against her attack, he couldn't help but frantically shout. "You, you, you! Change'er do you want to destroy this whole continent!? Stop this madness! Why don't you understand that I did everything because of my love for you! We can always rebuild our family!"

Change'er couldn't help but feel pain in her heart, "Tai Yang... Even if that is true... We can't continue to live the same way after everything we have done. Our family is gone. Our powers are only half of what they were used to be. This attack will certainly cripple me after I use it."

"Since you claim to love me... Do not block this attack, and I won't block yours. We shall meet in our next reincarnation" Then, she showed her first smile since the beginning of their battle. It was a smile with infinite gentleness, like the moon that guards you at night.

Tai Yang continued to gather energy while closing his eyes in pain. Instead of retorting, he also smiled. It gave a gentle feeling, like the setting sun. However, this also meant the end of the day. "Sure, love. Let us meet in the next reincarnation."

Both of them compressed their attack to a single point, which made the space around them shatter, and they released it at each other. The two attacks crossed each other with a hairbreadth of difference and hit the other party in the chest. This was followed by an explosion that seemed to reverse Heaven and Earth.

Eons passed since that cataclysmic battle, the continents shifted, and the eras passed. Exactly 999 910 years later, a miracle happened in the corner of the world.

A peal of extremely happy laughter was resounding all around. The person laughing was an extremely beautiful woman. Her raven black straight hair reached below her soft and perky butt, and her red eyes radiate an imposing red light. Her 173cm of height and slender body gave her an elegant disposition.

Right now, she was naked on the top of one mountain with a complicated formation below her. The formation absorbed energy and sent it to the female into what seems to be her uterus.

With the ancient text she found inside this secret and ancient tomb and her own horrific comprehension talent, she created a one-time use technique that would let her be pregnant if she bathed in sunlight, moonlight, and starlight.

Although her elemental attributes didn't match, a miracle happened! When she was about to give up, two formless energies entered the absorbing array and combined into one absorbing all the Sun, Moon, and star energy. This created a little life inside her!

"Finally! According to the text, I have to meditate while absorbing these energies and sending them to the fetus... How much time must one do this? I hope I don't have to stay here for 100 years. Just joking, hahaha."

She looked on the horizon as an army flag raised thousands of kilometers away. Her profound cultivation made it possible for her to see that far.

"Hmm... it must be those tireless people of the Moon Empire; can't they even stop warring against the Sun empire even for a year? Well, let's meditate. I have to rise my little lover nicely fufufufu."

Yes, this madwoman was trying to give birth to a child without using her energy or blood and raise them (she didn't really care about gender) as her future lover.

While Tatyana was preparing to enter selfless cultivation, a human soul of another dimension appeared with a mission, to change the soul of the male baby with his and reincarnate.

It seems to be their reward for the excellent karma accumulated when they were alive. Without giving it much thought, it dove straight into the pregnant woman's belly!... Only to be caught by a beautiful and fair hand.

The beautiful red eyes of the woman were now glowing ominously while looking at the otherworldly soul, "Say little soul, how dare try to overtake my baby, hmm?"

The soul tried to struggle with the help of the power given by that mysterious god. However, that woman used her spiritual pressure and oppressed the soul so powerfully that they were suffocating even in their soul form! "Seems that you have a lot of energy... Perfect, you will serve as nourishment for my baby."

She then destroyed the memories and sense of self of the soul, ripped it into little chunks, and fed it little by little to her baby with a smile. But she didn't know that this action would make the would-be two babies become one, and the resulting baby somewhat different from the rest...

"How should I name them... Yally? Bagoga?"

She couldn't help but frown. She has never been good with names... "I have some years to think, so there isn't any problem!"

And so, after setting up a concealing formation around the area, she entered into a selfless cultivation state so that time passed faster. "Let's put an alert that will wake me up one year before I have to give birth."

89 years later...

She looked at the time that passed and blinked, then blinked again. "I, Tatyana, was joking about the hundred years. Who would have thought...."

She looked down at her inflated belly and couldn't help but caress it with a gentle and expectant smile. "Since there is only one year left, let's step up a house for the baby to be born. Where should I go... Let's go to the Moon Empire. Any of the Empires is good. They should have ended that war, right?"

With a destination locked, she took the formation back to her spatial ring and took a boat-like device. She mounted in it and disappeared from there.